There is perhaps no more wideawake business institution in the world than the Salvation Army. As soon as it was discovered at local headquarters that "Salvation Nell," the drama so finely produced and acted by Mrs. Fiske in Toronto the other week, contained a definite appeal to the religious susceptibilities of the public, a corps of lassies was detailed to appear in the lobby of the Royal Alexandra Theatre nightly as the audience was coming out, and to present their tambourines just as Nell does in the play. After the matinee on Saturday, Mrs. Fiske was waited upon by a captain from the headquarters' staff, who thanked her for the beautiful performance she had given and asked her permission to insert in the program at the evening performance an appeal in behalf of the work of the organization. The celebrated actress at once gave her consent, but added, 'How will you get them printed in time?"

"Oh, we have them printed already; we were sure you would consent," was the response.

As they say in London: "The Salvation Army never overlooks a bet."

The first Winnipeg city directory was published in 1876, and gave the population of Winnipeg, at that time as about 3,000. A comparison of the directories of 1876 and 1909 shows the development along commercial lines. In the former year there were two architects, as compared with 34 at present, and other comparisons are: Banks, 2-43; barristers, 10-100; boot and shoe merchants, 3-64; dry goods, 6-52; grain dealers, 12-73; grocers, 11-277; hotels, 9-80; newspapers and periodicals, 4-51; physicians, 5-150, and real estate agents, 6-352. Of all the names that appeared in the 1876 directory there are only 63 that show in the 1909 edition.

Notices of Births, Marriages and Deaths, 25 cents each insertion in either the Daily or Weekly Examiner.

His many friends congratulate him on his safe recovery from such a dangerous position.

Special Easter Services were held in the Methodist Church here on Easter Sunday. In the morning the Sunday School and Mission Band took charge, and in the evening the service was in the hands of the W.M.S., who had secured the services of Mrs. Hammond, of Campbellford, as speaker for the occasion. Special music was rendered by the choir, solos being given by Mrs. L. F. Clarry and Miss Lily Tate. The collection was the annual Easter thank offering, was very liberal. A large crowd was in attendance.

A social, under the auspices of the Presbyterian Sunday School was held in the basement of the Church on Friday evening last, when the children, whose names appeared on the programme, took their parts very creditably.

The chimney of the Church, which was blown down during the recent storm, is being speedily re-built.

Mr. H. G. Buck, of Norwood, has retired from the business formerly known as the Buck, Buck & McCarthy firm.

Mr. J. M. Howard has added to his undertaking business, a handsome new hearse, one which would do credit to a much larger and more pretentious town than Hastings.

How A Woman's Face Enables One To Read Her Character

The face, as everybody knows, is the finest index to character.

How often does one hear the remark, "I don't like that man. Something in his face tells me he is not a desirable acquaintance," or "There is something about his eyes which I dont' like."

It is perhaps just as well things are so. The face is the most noticeable part of every person, and the fact that nature has endowed us with instinct to diagnose the features of each other must be regarded in the guise of a blessing.

In days gone by, encouraged perhaps by the phantom notions of sensational novelists, we were wont to believe that the deceiver's gaze fell before the poignant eye of the searcher after truth. This illusion, however, no longer exists in the mind of the modern woman—thanks to experience and an enlightened age.

But there are many ways of penetrating the character of persons by following the laws of science. For instance, if you meet a woman with a very pointed chin, you may depend upon it that she is refined in her tastes; that her sensibilities are of the most delicate type; that she is a sceptic, but at the same time a woman with plenty of originality.

The Chin.

Chins having deep clefts show a lovable disposition and a desire to be made a great deal of. Women having this characteristic make good sweethearts and better wives, provided their husbands lavish affection upon them.

The narrow, firm chin evinces a disposition to love fondly. She who possesses it might be described as the "cosy-corner girl," and she will be inclined to flirt very violently, unless chance puts Mr. Right in her way at an early age. The ideal chin is that having a narrow square, ending in a fine point, with a well-defined cleft in it. All this would indicate a refined and talented woman, with a great capacity for, and a wholesome responsiveness to, affection.

What the Nose Indicates.

The nose is another telling feature. The woman whose nostrils are deeply indented will be mean and paltry. Wide nostrils denote the spendthrift—the woman who would ruin a man of small means. The vulgar person is she whose nose has a far-jutting tip; refinement is shown by that which rounds off gently at the end. The aquiline shape means a firm will and a keen sense of justice, while the fastidious person is indicated by the long narrow bridge. Those coming under this category are very tender-hearted as a rule.

The Roman nose indicates passionate temper, power of hatred, jealousy ambition, eagerness and all the active qualities which the human frame is heir to.

The Eyes.

Then we come to the eye, which is the most telling feature of all. The woman whose eyes roll restlessly shows a crafty disposition; that person whose glance roves quickly will be false, designing, and perhaps malicious—but she will be a clever woman, although she is all for self. Women of this type usually do well for themselves.

Hazel eyes are the most beautiful from the scientific point of view. They denote fearlessness, depth of character, a level head, and a big capacity for reciprocating any little kindness shown. Blue eyes reveal a butterfly temperament. They are usually possessed by pretty girls, whose chief aim in life is to be amused and petted—the type of woman who cries on the least provocation, and always fails at a crisis.

Then there is a woman whose eyes are coal black; she may be either a goddess or a termagant. If her eyes slumber beneath droopy lids, and her gaze is soft and inviting, she will be a passionate woman, whose love will be almost idolatrous in its intensity. She will exhibit a dog-like fidelity to the object of her affections.

But if a woman's eyes are large, black and luminous, lighting up, as it were, her entire countenance, she will be a person difficult to please, her vitality will be marvellous, and the business instinct will be strong within her.

She will always succeed by sheer force of personality, and will not hesitate to sink the finer instincts inherent in all women in order that she may achieve that which she has set out to obtain. A dangerous woman at the best of times.

Reading the Lips.

The mouth is the most instructive feature of the face, says an authority on the subject. It reveals not only a person's fundamental and inherited traits, but also her efforts to mould her character in certain directions.

Beware of the woman with the Cupid's bow lips. She is almost sure to be selfish and unsympathetic, and though she may be ardent is temperament, constancy is not her strongest point.

Lips which, when in repose, always curve upwards, according to the same authority, show that the owner takes very optimistic views of things, and has not, as a rule, had any very deep experiences of life.

Full, red lips denote that the owner is fond of ease and pleasure, and thin, bloodless lips indicate the person of narrow and unchangeable views, whose besetting failings are obstinacy and self-righteousness.

The man or woman whose lips, when in repose, naturally curve downwards, though they may not be sharply drawn down, when the owner's face is animated, is almost always an earnest, serious disposition, or else has passed through some great sorrow.

ONE BAD MISTAKE

Is Frequently Made by the Wisest of Peterborough People.

It's a serious mistake to neglect backache. Backache is the first symptom of kidney ills. Fatal complications may follow. Booth's Kidney Pills act quickly to overcome kidney ills, do not delay until too late, it may mean Diabetes, Bright's Disease. Read what a Peterborough resident says.

Mrs. R. Duncan, of No. 115 McDonel street, Peterborough, Ont., says: "Some thirteen years ago I suffered with a severe attack of la grippe that had until this spring left me in a weakened and miserable condition. The kidneys had been disordered through this and became so inactive that doctors had pronounced it Bright's Disease, and termed my case incurable. My back was very weak and the pains across the kidneys were most excruciating. The urine was highly coloured and contained a quantity of whitish sediment. I had become so discouraged through my years of suffering that I had no care for anything. Booth's Kidney Pills were advertised at the Market Drug Store and I tried them. The first box convinced me of their merits. I used five boxes of the remedy and I have been entirely cured. I am like a new person, well and strong and can sleep through the night and awake refreshed and ready for the day."

Sold by dealers. Price 50 cents. The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont., sole Canadian agents.

WINNIPEG MAN CURED OF RHEUMATISM

Remarkable Case of Cure After Specialists Failed.

Winnipeg, Man.—A prominent resident of this City, who for personal reasons does not wish his name mentioned publicly, but who permits us to show his letter to interested enquirers, writes to say that he was suddenly taken with excruciating pains in the back and side, which were pronounced by his physicians as Rheumatism. Hot applications were at once resorted to, the usual medicines administered, supplemented by electrical treatment, but all to no purpose. In his desperation he took Gin Pills on his own account, and in a few hours after taking the first Pill the pains commenced to subside. He continued taking them and in 48 hours he had not an ache or a pain left.

Gin Pills are sold at 50c a box—6 for $2.50. Send to us if your dealer does not handle them.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"PAULINE IN NEW YORK.

The hypnotic exhibition of Pauline at Hammerstein's has provoked discussion among physicians, as well as among the patrons of the two-a-day, who know nothing of the so-called "hypnotic suggestion." On all sides there is a general impression that a part of Pauline's performance is a fake, but there is the widest difference of opinion as to just what is and what is not a fake.

Some persons insist that certain portions of the act are plainly only cleverly staged, while others just as strongly insist that these are solely due to Pauline's hypnotic powers. Pauline himself remarked:

You should be able to see for yourself that there is no deception whatever about what I am now doing. Even if you think that this is a fake, you must at least give me credit for its being a clever one."

There is no question about the truth of Pauline's assertion. What is largely believed to have made Pauline such a big hit is his comic ability and good nature. Also he does not prolong his act to an unusual degree. He gives interesting tests. He has a lot of rapid-fire, bright talk and he provokes laughs from start to finish. He doesn't do anything that makes the audience feel sorry for his subjects.

To this statement there might be one exception. That is in the case of the subject who twice a day is supposed to experience a most terrific toothache. The lay mind rather considers this a fake, for the reason that it is the same subject at every performance that has the toothache.

Those not in the hypnotic know are also inclined to believe that it is a fake where one of the subjects takes hold of a handkerchief and seems to imagine that he is being shocked with electricity.—New York Telegraph.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of the late Master Roland W. Hetherington.

Bright be the place of thy soul,
No lovelier spirit than thine
E'er burst from its mortal control,
In the orbs of the blessed to shine.

On earth thou wert but divine,
As thy soul shall immortally be;
And our sorrow may cease to repine,
When we know that thy God is with thee.

Light be the turf of thy tomb,
May its verdure like emeralds be;
There should not be the shadow of gloom
In aught that reminds us of thee.

Young flowers and an evergreen tree
May spring from the spot of thy rest;
But nor cypress nor yew let us see;
For why should we mourn for the blest?

Violets and Science.

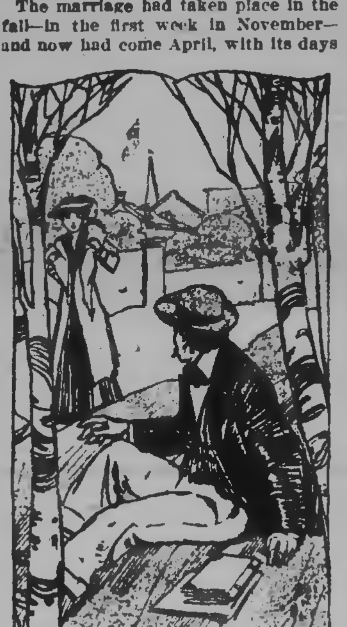
By LUCY M. DELAINE.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

When Mabel Baskerfield married Herbert Ward, scholar, learned professor, twenty years older than herself and apparently as serious minded as Mabel was frivolous, all their mutual friends and acquaintances held up shocked hands, figuratively speaking, at the seemingly ill assorted match.

"How had it ever come about?" one of the many dear friends asked, and "How long will they live together?" asked the more frankly cynical.

One month passed by. "Oh, well, of course, the honeymoon!" doubters laughed, and then another and yet another month passed apparently serenely, and another and yet another, until six months had come and gone without any "drifting apart," as Herbert's literary colleagues had predicted, or any indication on Mabel's part that she had wearied of her staid, scholarly husband.



HE EXCLAIMED, "WHY, MABEL, DID YOU WANT ME?"

The marriage had taken place in the fall—in the first week in November—and now had come April, with its days of sunshine and shadow, its first blooming crocuses and bluebells, its quick coming rains and as quickly dispelling sunshine.

Then gossips began to say that matters were turning out just as was to have been expected. Herbert Ward passed most of his time in his class room or study, and Mabel seemed absorbed in dinner parties, bridge whist and all kinds of amusements, making polite excuses for her husband's absence from functions she attended, saying, "Mr. Ward is so busy he could not accompany me."

She always seemed quite cheerful and contented—just the same merry, pleasure loving creature she had always been—but on one delicious spring day in April Mabel left early a luncheon she had been attending, pleading another engagement.

One of her friends attempted to rally her on leaving the party so early, saying, "Now that you are married, Mabel, we shall soon find you giving us up entirely, and you will be taking up some abstruse study or will become so domestic that we shall lose you completely."

"Am I married?" Mabel retorted, with half laughing question, and then added hastily: "Well, so I am, but it does not seem to make so very much difference after all. Do you think it does?"

Not waiting to hear the replies this query provoked, Mabel, hastily picking up her gloves and the light feather boa she wore with her dainty spring costume, started off briskly.

Out of sight of her friend's house her footsteps lagged, and a serious look came into her large soft brown eyes. As she walked slowly, pensively along her face would have betrayed to any one who might have chanced to see her that some serious matters engrossed her thoughts.

A river flowed through winding, tree lined banks about the little city, and Mabel crossed the bridge and soon found herself gathering handfuls of early violets. A group of white birch trees that grew closely together attracted her gaze, and toward them she made her way.

As she approached the spot she saw lying stretched out upon the grass a man's figure, his arms beneath his head and his face apparently lifted toward the blue of the tender sky.

Some sound of her approach must have reached the ears of the man, who had evidently, like herself, sought a quiet spot for meditation. Turning his gaze toward her, he rose and exclaimed:

"Why, Mabel, did you want me?" And before she had time to reply Herbert Ward, for it was he whom Mabel had roused from his reverie, said, half wistfully, half smilingly: "No; I see you were not looking for me. You were just taking a walk this lovely spring day, and the violets on this river's bank attracted you."

But Mabel gazed silently at her husband. Seeing him so unexpectedly, she had looked at him at first as a stranger might have done, and in her first surprised gaze she had noticed how tired he was looking—so weary or despondent or disappointed, she thought to herself.

Without answering his query Mabel lifted to his face her serious eyes, and, looking at him questioningly, she said:

"Herbert, you are not well. Is anything the matter?"

"Not well! Nonsense!" he replied hastily. "I am perfectly well. What put that idea in your head?"

"I don't know," she answered, "but seeing you just now so unexpectedly and lying down on the ground, as if you were resting, made me think perhaps you were not well."

"No, Mabel," he answered, looking at his wife as she stood before him with her hands filled with the flowers she had gathered. "No, Mabel; I am just growing old, I suppose. That must be what you feel, what you notice about me. Poor child, it is 'May and December,' I fear, with us, Mabel. I am too old for you. I should never have allowed you to become my wife.

"I have noticed for some little time how quiet and changed you are from the happy, light hearted girl I married. It is natural and all my fault, for I was old enough to know better," he ended.

"Nonsense, Herbert. Why do you talk of being old? You are not old," she answered.

But Herbert, taking Mabel's hands, still filled with her flowers, in both of his own, stood tall and straight and broad shouldered before her as he said very seriously:

"Mabel, it is like you in your kind heartedness to try to convince me that you are not well aware of the too great difference between us—between our ages. You have tried to be gay and light hearted as you used to be—that I know well, for I have often seen you rouse yourself from what I knew must be sad thoughts—but the fact remains that you are not happy, and, as I said before, the trouble is that you are in the springtime of life, and I—well, I have passed into the cold and loneliness of winter."

Dropping her flowers unheeded to the ground, Mabel came close to her husband's side, and, putting both hands on his shoulders, she looked up into his eyes as she said:

"My husband, do you not know why I have been more quiet perhaps than I used to be? It was because I thought you found me silly and frivolous and too young to be your companion. I love you as I have always loved you, whether you are forty or sixty or eighty or a hundred. What difference does it make, the years that are past? Come; it is the springtime. We will gather the violets together."

And as Herbert looked searchingly into the face of the now smiling Mabel what he read there convinced him that in true love's season it is always spring.

Sea Water.

Sea water analyses show the presence of about one grain of gold to the ton of water—thousands of millions of tons of yellow wealth in old ocean's keeping, safe doubtless. But should any one desire to know this vast wealth it may be stated that there are 4,205,650,000 tons of cubic water in a cubic mile and 302,000,000 cubic miles in the ocean. There is even more silver than gold in ocean water.

His Opportunity.

A lineup of jurymen appeared before a certain judge one day, and every man explained that it would mean disaster to him to serve at that term of court—all but a little fellow at the tail end of the line. This man was a hunter, and he had lived in a cabin on the creek all his life.

"Have you no excuse to offer?" asked the surprised judge.

"No, sir."

"Haven't you got a sick mother-in-law needing your attention?"

"No, sir; I ain't married."

"What about your crop?"

"Don't raise anything."

"No fence to fix up?"

"Haven't got a fence on the place."

"You think you can spare the time to serve on a jury two weeks?"

"Sure."

The judge sat awhile and meditated. Reaching over, he whispered to the clerk, who shook his head in perplexity. Then the judge's curiosity got the better of him.

"You're the only man who's got the time to serve your country as a juryman," he said. "Would you mind telling me how it happens?"

"Sure not," said the little man promptly. "I heard you was going to try Jake Billings this term. He shot a dog o' mine oncet."

Still In the Business.

Lord Kames, a once famous Scottish judge, on his way southward to Perth from the northern circuit had to spend the night at Dunkeld. Next morning he made for the ferry across the Tay, but, missing the road, asked a passer-by to show him the way.

"With all my heart," said the stranger. "I see your lordship does not know me. My name's John Gow. Don't you remember me? I had the honor to be tried before your lordship for sheep stealing."

"Now I recollect you, John," replied the judge. "And how is your wife? She, too, had the honor to appear before me for receiving the sheep, knowing them to have been stolen."

"Ah, we were very lucky to get off for want of evidence, but I am still in the butchering business."

"Then," quoth Lord Kames as he came in sight of the ferry, "we may have the honor of meeting again."

Keeping In Practice.

"You have broken my heart," sobbed the young wife after their first quarrel.

"I always was a heart breaker," jauntily replied the young husband.

"But you have broken mine for the last time."

"What—going to deprive yourself of so much pleasure?"

Pitiable.

"They are very respectable, though."

"Dear me!"

"What?"

"I did not think that they were that poor."

NEW SPRING HATS.

These new spring hats are frightful things.
They look like washtubs when inverted.
To each a hanging garden clings,
With here and there a twig inserted.
If ever since this world began
More homely headgear was invented,
The poor inventor, whether man
Or woman, must have been demented.

You wonder when you see them in Show windows scattered through the city
How women wearing them may win
Men's love or be considered pretty.
You ask yourself as you behold
Them on the dummies forced to bear them
How lovely women, young or old,
May ever be induced to wear them.

But be of good cheer yet and cling
Unceasingly to hope, O brother!
The maiden will be sweet this spring
And charming still somehow or other.
She never yet has failed to stir
The old, disturbing, heavenly passion,
No matter what the milliner
Decreed to be the latest fashion.

Sure of It.

The irate parent presented himself before the culprits. "Young man," demanded he, with the utmost sternness, "have I caught you kissing my daughter?"

If by this he expected to plunge the young visitor into confusion it must be confessed that the old gentleman was greatly mistaken, inasmuch as the young visitor evinced the greatest calmness.

"I hope, sir," he said, "there is no mistake about it. The lights are none too bright, and I would be much mortified to learn that, after all, I was kissing the housemaid."—New York Herald.

Consideration.

The only true source of politeness is consideration—that vigilant moral sense which never loses sight of the rights, the claims and the sensibilities of others. This is the one quality over all others necessary to make a gentleman.—Simms.

An Old Anthem.

Speaking of national anthems and patriotic hymns, "My Own Canadian Home" has recently received honorable mention again. The verses were written by the late E. G. Nelson, a stationer, of St. John, N.B., who much preferred talking Imperial Federation to selling sealing wax, but somehow managed to keep his business going. It was about twenty ago that a branch of the Imperial Federation League was formed in St. John, and Nelson, in a loyal transport, threw off the verses beginning:

"Though other skies may be as bright,
And other lands as fair."

They were presently set to music by another St. John man, Morley McLaughlin, who fitted them to a melody not greatly more reminiscent than that of "O Canada," and soon the song did duty in other parts of Canada, but never had the vogue in Ontario enjoyed by "The Maple Leaf Forever," which ultimately superseded Nelson's song, even in its own home.

The Good Old School.

PROTECTS YOU FROM COLDS
As the only way to reach catarrh is by inhaling medicated air, it follows that the healing balsams of Catarrhozone can't fail to cure. It is a purely vegetable antiseptic—soothes and heals wherever it goes.
The germ-killing vapor is inhaled at the mouth and instantly spreads through all the breathing organs. Every case of bronchitis and catarrh is rooted out, and such health and strength is imparted that these troubles never again return.
Catarrhozone has cured thousands, and here is quoted the experience of Mrs. James A. Tweedle, of Jay Bridge, Maine, who sent for sixteen outfits of Catarrhozone for friends in her locality. This lady gives very full particulars why she did so. Her daughter, fourteen years old, had doctored for catarrh, obtaining no benefit, tried lots of other remedies, but al failed—recommended by a neighbor to try Catarrhozone. Instead of despairing, as she had good reason for doing, obtained Catarrhozone and before it was done, as she states, she was completely cured. No wonder she recommends it. Child had dropping in the throat, hawking, spitting; father thought she was going into consumption; could not sleep at night, and adds: "I only wish anyone suffering from catarrh to give it a fair trial."
Just Breathe "Catarrhozone" and You're Insured Against Colds, Coughs, Bronchitis and Catarrh.
Not difficult for Catarrhozone to cure, because it contains the essences of pine balsams and other antiseptics that simply mean death to catarrh and colds. Large size, guaranteed, $1; medium size, 50c; small trial size, 25c. All dealers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

GIFT TO MRS. ROOSEVELT.

Ladies of Official Circle Present Diamond Necklace to Her.

Several days before Mrs. Roosevelt left the White House a number of her most intimate friends presented her with a beautiful diamond necklace which was purchased with funds raised by subscription among the ladies who have been most closely associated with her during her residence in the White House.

The collection of the fund, the purchase of the gift and its presentation have all been guarded carefully by those interested in making the present, and it was their intention to have prevented any publicity in connection with it. But it has become known that Miss May Williams, daughter of the late C. A. Williams of New London, Conn., had acted as the treasurer of the fund and that Mrs. L. Z. Leiter had headed the list of subscribers. It is understood that the amount raised for the purchase of the necklace was several thousand dollars.

The first Christmas after Mr. Roosevelt became president the ladies of the cabinet, most of whom had held a similar relation toward Mrs. McKinley, carried out a custom of that time by making a combined Christmas present to the president's wife. After considerable consultation a gold purse was decided upon. Mrs. John Hay was the custodian of the fund on that occasion, and Mrs. Root, Mrs. Gage and Mrs. Hitchcock were among the contributors.

When Mrs. Cleveland was leaving the White House for the second time the ladies of the cabinet presented her with a superb ring in diamonds and sapphires, which has been one of her most prized possessions ever since. Only the ladies of the cabinet were represented in this gift, which was made so quietly that no one but Mrs. Cleveland and her immediate circle knew anything about it.

THE BANNER GIRL.

American Women the Most Charming Creatures In the World.

American girls have won the reputation of being the most charming in the world. This is due not so much to surpassing physical beauty as to manner and expression.

The girl who has learned the art of controlling her features perfectly has gained a great advantage over other members of her sex. As she uses her features, so she may be described as beautiful or plain, interesting or commonplace, refined or otherwise. This art is almost an instinct with American girls.

A perfectly placid countenance, rarely brightened by expression, is too apt to denote insipidity. On the other hand, there are women who glory in the extremes of expression. Between the two there is a happy medium that should be cultivated.

A common error into which many girls fall is that of opening the mouth wide and raising the brows—which, by the way, causes the forehead to wrinkle in a manner that in time scores permanent furrows—in order to express pleasure.

Far more attractive is the woman who smiles with a slight parting of the lips, at the same time raising the brows ever so little.

To knit the brows in marked disapproval is extremely unbecoming, for expressions of anger and scorn do not sit well on a woman's countenance.

That Special Seal.

It used to be that a special seal was reserved for private correspondence or to secure packages among friends. Nowadays boxes come from the florist, wedding gifts of silver or glass come tied up in dainty ribboned boxes, with ends of ribbon sealed to the box with a wax to match, marked with the private seal of the dealer.

This sealing is more than a fad. It insures both dealer and buyer against loss.

If a package on being opened has not its full contents the discrepancy is up to the store that sent it out, with no possibility of shifting the blame to servants or messenger boys.

A Convenient Disinfectant.

A handy disinfectant for household use is made of chlorate of lime moistened with vinegar and water in equal parts. It may be kept in the cellar all the time, and in case of sickness a few drops scattered about will purify the air in the room.

CHINESE METHODS.

A Queer Story About the Death of the Late Emperor.

It is stated on authority by the Revue of Paris that the late emperor and the empress dowager of China did not die within two days of each other by the unaided decree of fate. While the aged aunt had natural reasons for passing away, the demise of the imperial nephew was artificially accelerated. Knowing that she was about to die, the malevolently murderous or highly statesmanlike old woman dragged her unfortunate relative into the grave with her. This left the way open for a three-year-old baby, son of the emperor's younger brother, Chun, to ascend the throne and presumably preserve the peace of China.

Kwang Su had long been suspicious of his wily aunt and had planned to shut her up in a safe place. The empress dowager got ahead of her nephew and made him a prisoner, while she seized the complete reins of government. On her deathbed last November Tsze An caused the grand council to name Chun's infant son as successor to the throne and the father as regent. It remained to dispose of the living emperor. After a conference between the chief eunuch, Prince Tsing, the chief of the imperial family, and Yuan Shi Kai, an implacable enemy of the emperor, it was announced to the world that Kwang Su had a bad case of heart disease and might not survive his venerable aunt.

At 10 o'clock in the morning the captive emperor was visited in his secluded apartments by the chief eunuch and two assistants. The chief eunuch announced to Kwang Su that in view of his aunt's near departure it was not seemly for him to linger on. His glorious presence was desired in heaven by his imperial ancestors. The eunuch laid on a table some opium pills, a package of gold leaf and a silk cord, saying that the emperor could take his choice. If he did not help himself to any of these things within three hours the eunuch said that he and his assistants would be compelled to strangle their beloved and imperial ruler with the silk cord.

The young man did not have to be told how to use any of the articles. In China opium poisoning is common, and it is not rare to produce death by inhaling gold leaf, which seals the glottis and causes speedy suffocation. Kwang Su, watched by the two assistant eunuchs, preferred to swallow the opium pills. When the chief eunuch came back at the appointed time the emperor was unconscious, and he expired at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The infant Pu Yi was immediately proclaimed emperor. The next day Tsze An died, happy in the knowledge that the last act of her long career was a statesmanlike murder of her nephew.

The Newest Dyspepsia.

The latest term given to dyspepsia when it happens to afflict the fashionable woman is "auto poisoning," the doctor explaining carefully that all the patient's food poisons her and prevents digestion. Then she, poor soul, diets in very fear of her life. No end of puns are being made in the wealthy set on the name of the disease, and for the pseudo-invalids to say that they must walk instead of motor invites more cruel jests. But the fact remains that the average case called "auto poisoning" is only the old fashioned dyspepsia, perhaps more virulent because of the rich food that is the everyday fare of those that can afford to poison themselves with the good things of this life.—New York Tribune.

The Attractive Title.

Charles M. Schwab at a dinner in New York denied the claim of London Truth that in the marriage market American men were at a discount.

"It is true," said Mr. Schwab, "that a good many of our heiresses marry foreigners, but they don't marry them as men; they marry them as titles. Once in Monte Carlo a lady said to me: "'It's a pity Sallie Bangs, the New York heiress, doesn't find out the true character of that wicked Prince Champignon she's gone and got engaged to. Sally used to read a man like a book.'

"'Maybe,' said I, 'she's satisfied in this case to read only the title.'"

A Long Drawn Out Name.

Miss Tollemache of London wedded Captain C. Stone on Feb. 4 last. The ceremony took place at the Ham parish church, and the notice in the daily press contained the bride's full name, which occupied three and one-half lines of the newspaper. Very probably Miss Tollemache holds the numerical record for Christian names, for she is the possessor of sixteen. The official list is as follows: Lyona Decima Veronica Esyth Undine Cyssa Hylda Rowena Adela Thyra Ursula Ysabel Blanche Lilias Dysart Plantagenet.—Harper's Weekly.

Life Term For Highwaymen.

Judge Kersten of Chicago recently sentenced three highwaymen to imprisonment in the penitentiary for life. The trio had been arrested for holding up a citizen with revolvers and demanding his money. He allowed them to make a search, and it yielded just 46 cents. The severe sentence was made possible by an act passed two years ago providing life imprisonment for highway robbery whenever deadly weapons are shown to compel the victim to surrender.

Radium.

Even Sir Frederick Treves' lecture has not revealed all the truth about radium. The latest contribution is from a third form boy, who states that "radium is an imaginary line outside which London cabmen charge a shilling extra."—London News.

Equals.

"Dead men tell no tales."

"True, but, more marvelous still, neither do dead women."

WHEN DEPUTATIONS CALL.

How Sir James Whitney Deals With His Visitors.

Once upon a time a strong admirer of Sir James Whitney coined a couple of little phrases in the heat of political enthusiasm, and these little phrases stuck among his friends, and were used extensively throughout the last campaign. They were: "Bold enough to be honest and honest enough to be bold."

True enough, an unsympathetic person to the left of the Speaker twisted that expression around to have an entirely different significance, and used it with some effect, but none the less the Conservatives like to think of their Premier that way.

If you want to see Sir James in all his glory you must see him facing a deputation in the object of which he does not believe; it is then that he shines.

During this present session of the House the Premier has been waited on by a very great many deputations on everything from woman's suffrage to college professors by way of lunatic asylums.

Now, Wednesday is the only day on which Ministers will consent to receive deputations, and the result is that Wednesday is a feverish day, and delegates do not get any more time than they absolutely need to state their demands or make their complaints.

Sir James receives most of the deputations either in his own office or in the council chamber beside it, and one can pass a very amusing hour or so listening to the receptions they get.

Diplomacy can scarcely be called one of the Premier's leading characteristics, and the deputation which wants something that the Government doesn't intend to give finds it out in about five minutes or so.

But while Sir James does not deal noticeably in silky words, neither does he allow his visitors to make any mistakes about his intentions, go away deceived, and afterwards complain that they had expected so and so. If you aren't going to get it you aren't, and that's all there is about it.

The Premier sits in his swivel chair at the head of the council table, sometimes writing busily, sometimes leaning back to fire a rapid question at the speaker, or he leans against the mantelpiece in his office, perhaps drinking a small cup of tea or munching a smaller sandwich—he doesn't stop business for lunch on Wednesdays.

"Thank you for calling. I can see that there is very much to be said on your side of the question, but the Government's policy is so-and-so. We will think it over. Pleased to have met you. Good afternoon, and the next deputation is ushered in.

And there is one other thing about the way Ontario's Premier meets people; he is just as courteous, just as considerate to a delegation of five people asking him to help build a bridge on a side line a thousand miles away as he is to a deputation of five hundred asking him to change the whole course of temperance legislation or give the suffrage to women.

Billiard Champion's End.

William Jex, who was once the champion billiard player of Canada, died suddenly in the Toronto jail a few days ago. He was serving a 30-day sentence for being drunk, and though he had complained of "feeling grippy" and had been under medical treatment for a few days, nothing remarkable was noticed in his condition when he retired at 8 o'clock the night before. At 1 a.m., however, when the watchman was making his rounds, he found Jex dead.

Little is known of Jex's relatives or friends, and little is known as to his family connections in billiard and pool circles, although he himself was known by reputation throughout all parts of Canada. He came from Cobourg. This was the fourth 30-day sentence he served in the Toronto jail in the past year. He came in the last time March 15, claiming no address and no occupation. On Dec. 12 last, however, he had told the authorities he was a bartender from Cobalt. He was 63 years of age

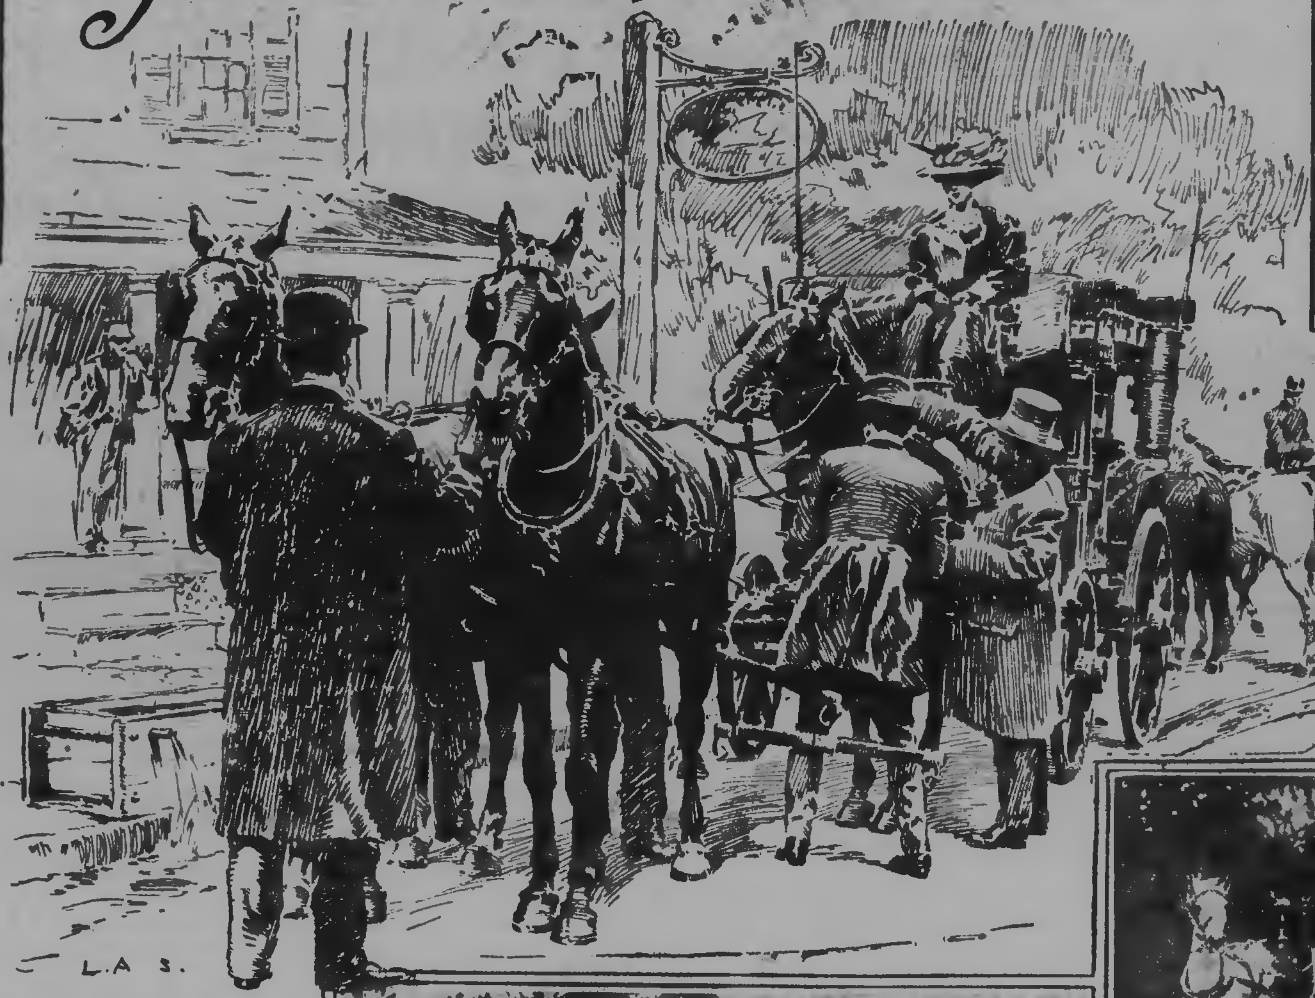
COACHING, A FASHIONABLE SPORT for YOUNG GIRLS

A PAGE FOR MISSES



NEW YORK, Saturday.

THERE is a small circle of girls and women in New York city who never cease to be loyal to the sport of coaching and who keep up the interest in this excellent outdoor exercise by their own enthusiasm. They are experts with the whip, needless to say, and they make many converts to this fashionable pastime among their own set.

At this season of the year they form a striking part of the morning procession on the avenues and in the park, and their spring appearance in public is looked forward to with considerable interest by friends and spectators in general. The annual parades have been abandoned, but those whose loyalty to a coach and four never flags have introduced the idea of country drives, and the scheme promises to meet with great success.

There is no sight more pleasing than a smart coach, four well groomed horses, a scarlet coated guard and the top of the coach filled with daintily gowned girls and trimly clad young men. From the picturesque viewpoint no other type of equipage can present the same attractions. And when the rhythmic gait of the four is controlled by the slim, strong hands of a clever girl whip then the picture is perfect in every detail. It never fails to find favor with the passing throng of pedestrians, some of whom look upon it merely as a charming sight, while others, who are versed in the handling of reins, are even more appreciative of its good points.

SO it is with genuine pleasure that the public looks forward to the morning trips of these coaches driven by young girls and women, though few of the onlookers understand the details of learning to handle four horses or to drive a coach where a change of fours is made. The preliminary lessons are taken first in the park, where the girl is taught to pick up the four reins while she stands at the side of the wheeler; then she is shown the correct way to mount to the box, always starting with her right foot on the first step, then swinging with the left and so on till she is on the box seat. After this part of the lesson is mastered there comes the gathering up of the reins, holding all four in one hand and guiding the horses by using a system of loops, [illegible] made by the free hand—at least it is free except, perhaps, for the whip.

Learning to manage four horses, or even one, is more a matter of temperament than an understanding of loops and signals. Any girl can learn just how many inches to slip the off leader's rein to make a turn, but she may never be able to manage her horses unless she can think of them individually and collectively and keep her own head cool.

"GIRLS seem to understand that four horses have different temperaments, while men can rarely be made to realize the fact," said Mr. Morris Howlett, the well known whip and coaching instructor. Mr. Howlett has taught probably all the New York girls how to handle a four and has been their instructor in the country runs. "For this reason they are easier to teach than men and they make excellent drivers when they get into the swing of it," continued Mr. Howlett. "Among the men I have taught there are not many who like driving down Fifth avenue or through the crowded east side streets. They are a little bit nervous about it. But the girls do not mind the narrowness of the streets in the least, and they are perfectly trustworthy, no matter how congested traffic may be. This I consider a good test of horsemanship, and it is one which every girl pupil is subjected to just as soon as I feel that she has learned how to guide the horses and to keep a clear, cool head.

"The real fun of driving a four-in-hand is not so much to take out a perfectly trained four, one that goes like clockwork, but to see what you can do with different fours, ones that are strange to the driver. This is the best test of good coaching, and it is for the sake of this kind of experience that several young girls and women have undertaken rather long country runs. They want to get out of the beaten tracks, to see unfamiliar roads and to enjoy new coaching conditions. The girl, or the man either, for that matter, who really likes this kind of coaching is genuinely fond of the sport, and there is no reason why he or she should not become an expert whip. Everything is in the girl's favor, and she has only to keep at it long enough to master the art. It means hard work very often, but it is worth while. And it has been my experience that girls keep at it harder than men.

"THE crowded city streets and the park make tame sport compared with what one gets in country runs, especially where the runs are long enough to require a change of horses. We have tried runs of more than forty miles at a time, making nearly eighty-five in the round trip, and in each case the drivers and those on top stood the long strain admirably. You know when girls will start out in the early morning in the face of a steady rain and will drive for hours without hinting at such a thing as deserting the coach or turning back they are thoroughly interested in the sport for itself, and when they prefer these out of town drives to the more showy and entertaining ones in the city this is added proof that they love coaching for itself."

It is a simpler matter to arrange for long coaching trips in Europe than it is here, for in this region there is always the difficulty of getting the extra horses shipped to their destination. The one who plans a single day trip where there are to be two changes of horses each way has a lot to think about in order to avoid hitches in the day's programme. In its ordinary form coaching is really a sport for kings, at least it is one in which only the wealthy can indulge. Lessons are expensive when the dollars alone are taken into account, though, considering all that is included in the lesson, the price seems fair. But for each change of horses it costs about fifty dollars merely for the transferring, not including the services of the men who accompany the four, and two men are needed at each change. Fancy the cost of a coaching tour where one hundred horses are used, the twenty-five fours being placed in charge of half a hundred men. That was a luxurious sport, yet it has not been unknown among famous men whips.

WHERE horses are shipped by railroad it is necessary to confine the route of the coach to the region traversed by the railroad, and while this simplifies matters to some extent it is not always pleasant to have to keep to a certain course. Sometimes the most beautiful scenery lies in another direction, and this must be sacrificed for the sake of keeping near one's horses. Many drivers make this an excuse for using only four horses and limiting their tours to the number of miles a four can cover comfortably.

It is quite possible to send the horses on a day ahead without utilizing the railroad. They can be intrusted to men who drive or ride them to the chosen point, where they wait until the arrival of the coach, when they are hitched up in a trice and ready to dash off in place of the fagged four. The extra horses are brought back the day after the return trip is made if the trip is a long one. Where horses are driven fairly hard they can be counted on to cover about five miles. With easy driving they can do double this distance without showing signs of giving up. But where this phase of the sport is followed drivers are very keen about getting over as much ground as possible and they want fresh horses as soon as the ones in harness begin to show the first signs of fatigue.

Not until this year have girls in this country tried the changing of horses. To be sure, they have little or nothing to do with the actual changing, though they are all interested in the manoeuvre and would assist in the unharnessing and harnessing if they could, just as men do, for it is their one great desire to make the change in the least possible time and to get away inside of sixty seconds. To the lay mind a minute is far too short in which to remove four horses from a coach and substitute four others, yet it can be done even quicker than that when necessity demands. But for average tours a minute is the usual allowance.

COACHING picnics are always more or less in vogue, and the summer promises to add these social and informal affairs to the season's entertainments. A larger party can be accommodated on top of a regular road coach than in an automobile, and while the speed is much slower with the horses, there a better opportunity to see and appr ciate the scenery. Huge hampers can b carried inside the coach or on the ba of the drag, and luncheon can be serve at any hour desired, an impossibilit where schedule time is made and luncheon rendezvous is planned.

Coaching permits of very attracti dressing. The girl who drives usual wears rather simple sailor effects, thoug she need not confine herself to this sty if she prefers something else. Of cours she must be sure to wear a hat th stays where it is fastened and one n large enough to be caught by the wi and blown over her eyes. She must r member that her hands will be occupi practically all the time and she does n want to have to be reminded of any pa of her costume. The only way to absolutely comfortable is to have perf freedom. The others on the coach m look as dainty and feminine as they lik in fact the prettier their dresses and the more attractive the coach, for ev the finest enamelled coach body and t one with the most graceful lines, loo unfinished without smartly dressed pe sons on top. They adorn it in a mann that is appreciated by the driver as w as by the admiring pedestrian.

Making Pique Hand Bags.

GIRLS with clever fingers can eas make for themselves the linen piqué hand bags, which are a sm accessory of the linen or piqué frocks f the coming summer. The bags are ma of white or of a color, being of the sa material as the frock or suit with whi they are worn, and they may be attach to the belt or carried in the hand as o prefers. In size they measure about inches, the lower corners being round The bag is lined with butcher's linen give it stiffening, and both sides ornamented with soutache braid, wh may be put on as simply or as elab ately as one likes, the edge of the b being prettily finished by a loop patte which is put on to come a bit below curve of the linen. The handles may double or single as one fancies, and made by braiding the soutache into stra the length desired, dainty little lo being formed at either end to cover place where the handles are sewed on the bag.

New Fashions in Watches.

GIRLS are in raptures over the n watches, which grow smaller a smaller, being now [illegible] microsco that they are worn like a locket on neck chain. They come in every sort design, from those heavily encrusted w jewels to the metals without ornamen tion, and one that would make the he of any girl glad is of very thin gold, o faced, of course, as all these watches a its encased side, which is the side to sh when wearing it locket fashion, decora by the initial of the wearer done in turquoises. A gold and turquoise ch completes this fascinating bauble.

Craze for Shamrocks.

THERE is a craze ju[illegible] no[illegible] sha rocks, and if you wish to be up date you must have some of plant around either in [illegible] pot or a wind box from which you may transplant later to the garden if you wish. T smart thing is to have it in one of little pots so in vogue, the pot hidden an artistic little jardiniere of just same shade as the shamrock, so that it stands on the table you have a cha ing little composition in green.

PRACTICAL TALKS BY THE APRIL GRANDMOTHER

"MISS SNAPPE is dead," announced the April Grandmother, who had been scanning the obituary columns. "Tender feet spoiled her figure, features and complexion. No doubt they were also the cause of her peculiar disposition, poor dear, for no woman can be amiable and cheerful while her feet hurt.

"Unfortunately, Miss Snappe was just growing up during the generation when every American maiden was expected to acquire small feet if nature had not given them to her. The modern girl is more sensible than were her grandmothers and great-aunts. She realizes that to walk gracefully her boot heels must be in the natural place instead of under the instep, and that to force a three inch high French heel to support the entire weight of the body pushes the toes to the extreme tips of the shoes and produces a limping gait almost as painful to the observer as to the self imposed martyr.

"Broken down foot arches are directly responsible for many cases of utterly broken down physique, for the girl who cannot walk comfortably soon begins to suffer from indigestion due to lack of exercise and fresh air. What is familiarly known as 'flatfoot' is popularly supposed to result from almost constant standing, but it is quite as frequently caused by badly fitting shoes and by improperly placed, shaped and sized heels. A shoe that is shapely and sufficiently large may not be adapted to the [illegible] of the individual wearer, while a heel that is too low in proportion to the [illegible] will sometimes prove as disastrous as one that is too high.

"At [illegible] season under the [illegible] a certain [illegible] that the foot [illegible] to break down, and in order [illegible] the arch [illegible] should be built up and the [illegible] muscles of the feet strengthened by walking about the room on the toes or by rising on the toes and then gradually [illegible] back on the heels.

"If this treatment does not produce the desired result the patient should consult an absolutely reliable specialist, who will probably recommend either the adoption of instep braced boots, adhesive plasters strapped about the feet or some lotion calculated to reduce the swelling as well as to strengthen the muscles of the lower extremities. Such a specialist will be apt to point out the faults of the shoes affected by the patient and tell her precisely why they do not fit her comfortably and whether too wide or narrow, too long or short. He will probably be able to convince her that it is much better to wear very narrow shoes that are several sizes longer than the feet, because they will not cramp or distort the toes, and that short shoes are the greatest of all enemies to the feet, as they produce bunions, which make narrow feet look broad and broad feet resemble the proportions of a ferryboat.

"The girl who tries to economize on shoes makes a fatal mistake. Cheap footgear, never well made or smoothly finished inside, is only shapely while new and is likely to cause callous spots on the soles and heels. Nor is it wise to endeavor to get along with a limited supply of school boots, as one pair should never be worn two days in succession. The stockings should always be changed at midday, and if a sense of fatigue is experienced the feet should be bathed in water mixed with vinegar or sea salt.

"There is only one thing to be said in favor of uncomfortable shoes," concluded the April Grandmother, "and that is that when a girl's feet hurt she instantly forgets all of her other troubles real or imaginary."

NEW COLLARS FOR SHIRT WAISTS

ALTHOUGH there is nothing smarter for school wear than the stiff turned down embroidered linen collar with a plain tailor made shirt waist, still many girls object to the stiff collar on the ground that it feels peculiarly uncomfortable after the transparent bands of lace and net that are now worn so much with every other style of waist than the plain tailor made.

For this reason lace and net collars are now worn almost as much with the severe as with the elaborate bodices. They do not need to bear any special resemblance to the waist itself, and may be made of any lace from heavy Irish to finest Valenciennes insertion.

The first mark of a well dressed girl is her collar. No one could hope to look well dressed whose collar was too loose or too low; on the other hand, a collar too high or too tight is equally bad style, of course.

A collar to fit well requires five bones, and after long experimenting it has been found best to place these bones straight up and down, not slanted, two for the front, about four inches apart, one on each side, about two inches from the back, and these somewhat higher than those in front, and then one at the back. There are kinds innumerable of collar boning, the transparent celluloid [illegible] perhaps best in this collar. This, however, requires to be taken [illegible] each time the collar or waist is washed, so that many girls prefer the kind of [illegible] encased in a [illegible] cover and can be removed when the collar is sent to the laundry and inserted once more when it is to be worn.

[illegible] the simplest kind of collar boning, of course, and can be [illegible] to any height desired. [illegible] generally [illegible] the outside of the collar which [illegible] many girls [illegible] for themselves two [illegible] perfectly fitted [illegible] boned collars [illegible] these the [illegible] is desired. [illegible] fastened [illegible] foundation [illegible] little jewel [illegible] pins at the [illegible] the whole, however, it is a mistake to have every collar finished [illegible] buttons and loops [illegible] necessary, for pins [illegible] can be placed [illegible] will look far more [illegible] end.

One Letter Seals.

THE fashion now in seals is to use one letter only and that the capital letter of one's family name engraved artistically and not exceeding three-quarters of an inch in size. In shape the seal should be oval, measuring an inch altogether. The popular color of the hour in wax is a bright green, suggestive of spring, and if you wish to be very smart you must not seal your letters in a haphazard manner, but adopt the latest vogue. This is to make two impresses of wax on the envelope, one at each corner, and you must not put your seal on up and down, but slant it across the corner, which gives a most artistic touch. The [illegible] of all the fashionable envelopes [illegible] wide now that it gives ample space for this decoration, and, indeed, the ornamentation is practically a [illegible]. Never [illegible] an envelope with the [illegible] provided when you use wax. The modish [illegible] is to [illegible] the [illegible], the pretty wax fastenings at the two [illegible] and [illegible] of the writer.

Leather Belts and Bags.

LEATHER [illegible] held [illegible] in the hand.

HOME MILLINERY FOR YOUNG GIRL

THIS is again a season when the prevailing fashions in millinery make it quite possible for a girl to trim her own hats. There is a certain simplicity about all of this year's hats, save those designed for wear with really elaborate gowns, which gives opportunity for the girl with the least possible talent in this line to save a good penny toward some other part of her outfit.

Apart from the fact that this year's hats are so simple of outline, there is another point this season in favor of the home milliner, namely, the shapes or untrimmed counter hats hold marvellous possibilities for one possessing the milliner's eye, who with an empty shape can form at once a mental picture of a delightfully smart walking hat trimmed with only a broad band of ribbon about the crown and a long stiff quill or soft feather bird at one side.

School hats this year are really the extreme of simplicity, yet even the simplest models call for a certain amount of ingenuity in adding the ribbon so that it will set well and in placing the quill just where the best angle [illegible] shape of the head is given. Perhaps the most attractive of all the school hats this year are the large bowl shapes [illegible] trimmed with only a band of velvet or ribbon about the wide crown, made in front just a little to one side the [illegible] caught up by a large double bow of the ribbon. This sort of shape is comparatively easy to [illegible] and [illegible] to an effective double loop [illegible] knot.

It may require one or two lessons to learn to make one's own straw shape over a wire frame, but once learned this knowledge will be of the greatest service all through life. Often and often there will arise the necessity of having a hat the exact color of a gown of peculiar shade, a shade that can be found only in the most expensive models or perhaps not at all among the made up hats, and must be made with the straw which is purchased by the yard. To cover a good shaped wire frame with this straw is not a difficult task, and after that the addition of the flower and ribbon trimming is not likely to prove difficult.

There are two points which it would be well for the amateur milliner to bear in mind. One of these is not to buy too cheap materials. A poor straw will quickly lose its shape on the first damp day and the cheaper quality of flowers will only make the hat look poor. On the other hand, it is most short sighted to expend upon the materials of a hat the same amount for which a pretty hat all trimmed could be found at any hat shop. With a certain amount of good taste and idea of the style of the moment a girl can trim for herself an extremely pretty school or morning hat, but this hat is necessarily simple in every detail. To trim the style of hat that would be in keeping with an elaborate afternoon frock a certain amount of real millinery skill is required, and no amateur can hope to make a really smart dress hat.

There are many girls, however, who, never having tried to do so, are quite [illegible] that they [illegible] to trim a hat fit to wear. These girls perhaps would be astonished beyond measure at w attractive results they would obtain they would only once try.

Making Pamphlets of Magaz Stories.

IN these days of many magazines t accumulate in large numbers in alm every household, and it is often so thing of a burden to take care of th and eventually dispose of them. Wh there is a young girl in the family will find it a most useful and also interesting work to take charge of magazines when the family have r them and make them into pamphlets the hospitals. If she asks a few fri to come in some afternoon and help she will get a good many of them d in a short time.

The pamphlets are made by cutting magazines apart and fastening the p of each story or article together so t each one is a separate little pamp When people are convalescing from ill ness they often have not strength eno to hold an ordinary magazine, but easily hold a few sheets of paper and the one story.

The pages can be just held together three or four of the little metal clamps t come for such purposes, or they can made into attractive little flat books is done by either sewing or pastin leaves together all along the back covering the pamphlet with some p fancy paper. The most important is to make it so that it will be very to hold open.

ARMY ENTERING CAPITAL

Report That Ruler Has Abdicated Is Denied by Ambassadors, But His Flight Is Momentarily Expected—Constitutional Forces Have Begun to Arrive In Constantinople — Increasing Hourly.

Constantinople, April 20.—The most important feature of the situation in the Turkish capital yesterday was the report that Sultan Abdul-Hamid had abdicated.

It caused the greatest excitement in the lobbies of Parliament and spread with lightning-like rapidity throughout the city.

A rumor of the flight of the Sultan on a warship followed closely on that of his abdication, but neither could be confirmed.

At the embassies all knowledge of the Sultan's movements was denied, and the Foreign Office also gave a strong denial to one and all of these rumors.

The abdication of Abdul-Hamid, however, appears not to be improbable, an it is believed that within a day or two the constitutionalists may accept as his successor Prince Yuss of Izzedin, the eldest son of the late Sultan, who is second in line, as they are strongly displeased with Abdul Hamid's attitude.

The concensus of opinion is that if the abdication of the Sultan is brought about, his overthrow and the proclamation of his successor will be accomplished peacefully. Many Turkish families in the Stamboul quarter are removing to abodes of greater safety, but in general the people, though fearful of coming events, are awaiting them philosophically and with resignation.

It is announced officially that the deaths at Adana during the rioting numbered 400, among the killed being many Turks. The telegraph lines to the provinces, however, are badly interrupted, and details of the massacres at Adana, Tarsus and other places are lacking.

The advance of the constitutional forces began yesterday afternoon. Small parties were sent out to reconnoiter, and at 7 o'clock in the evening they were in sight of the gates of Constantinople. They encountered no resistance, nor does any resistance seem likely, unless at the palace.

The headquarters of the constitutionalists' army are at De'Deagatch and Gen. Husni Pasha's forces, which now number between 20,000 and 30,000, occupy a range of hills about 20 miles from the capital. Every hour reinforcements are adding to their numbers.

Miss Genevieve Duval, daughter of Rev. Dr. Duval of Knox Church, Winnipeg, who five years ago married Rev. H. M. Irwin of Ontario, is in the disturbed section at a place called Caserae, only 100 miles south of Adana, from whence such an earnest appeal has been made for help.

Other Canadians at Adana are: Rev. Wm. Chambers, a native of Oxford County, who went to Turkey in 1879, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. McCallum, known at the various mission headquarters in Toronto, and who are in the service of the American Missionary Board.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The Lady Grey has arrived at Montreal and reports the river free of ice to the sea.

The trial of Capt. Peter Hains, who is accused of murdering W. E. Annis, began at Flushing, L.I., yesterday.

It is proposed at Washington to break the Patten wheat corner by admitting Canadian grain free for a time.

Two hundred lady teachers arrived at Guelph to take a three months' course in the Ontario Agricultural College.

A note found among the papers of John Davidson, the missing Scottish poet, indicates that he has committed suicide.

An unconfirmed report has reached St. Petersburg of the massacre of 2,000 persons by Turcoman tribesmen at Astrabad.

John Neville was committed for trial at Hamilton on the charge of shooting Constable Smith with intent. Smith swore the prisoner was the man who shot him.

James Johnston's allegation at the Fort Frances lumber inquiry that all lumber companies robbed the Government by making false returns of stumpage will be investigated by Hon. Frank Cochrane.

To Face Murder Charge.

Toronto, April 20.—A charge of murder will likely be laid against Gagnon, a French-Canadian, whom Provincial Inspector Greer arrested at North Bay on April 3.

Last fall Gagnon, while under the influence of liquor, entered the house of Ethel Crawford on the outskirts of Cobalt, and brutally beat her and a companion, Mary E. Smith, about the heads with an axe.

The Smith woman is dead in St. Michael's Hospital, as the result of the injuries inflicted by Gagnon. Her jawbone was broken and suppuration set in. A portion of the decayed bone was removed, but owing to an impoverished physical condition, general tuberculosis followed, resulting in death.

Gagnon is now in jail at North Bay, after a long pursuit by Inspector Greer over the northern part of the province.

Ridgetown Man Murdered.

Windsor, April 20.—John Marcon, one of the best-known young men of this city was arrested and locked up in Detroit, charged with having caused the death of Albert Clark, aged 35, of Ridgetown. The men became engaged in an altercation in Elliott's saloon, on Congress street, and Marcon, it is said, struck Clark a heavy blow. When picked up his skull was fractured.

Ferry Adrift.

Buffalo, April 20—The ferryboat Niagara, running between Buffalo and Fort Erie, Ont., was caught in the ice yesterday morning and was carried down the Niagara river to the International Bridge, where its top deck and pilot house were carried off, when it came in contact with the bridge. There were but few passengers on the ferry, and while there was a panic on the boat, no person was injured. The tug International finally got a line to the Niagara and towed her to the Canadian side.

Protest Against Hon. Mr. Fisher.

Montreal, April 20.—The trial of the protest against the election of Hon. Sydney Fisher took place yesterday at Sweetsburg. It was mostly of a technical nature. The plaintiffs charged all the offences under the election law, but the evidence was little and not sensational.

The defence was technical, on the ground that the writs had not been served within the time allowed by the law.

Judge Demers took the case en de libre.

Murder the Verdict.

Moosejaw, Sask., April 20—The adjourned inquest to discover the cause of Mrs. Kent's death opened yesterday morning and after hearing evidence for over two and a half hours, the jury retired to find a verdict. "That Mrs. Kent came to her death by strychnine poisoning given or sent her by some party or parties unknown with intent to kill." Beyond showing almost conclusively that murder had been committed, no new light was thrown on the case.

Drops Dead at Prison Door.

Montreal, April 20—William Larocque, who was released from St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary in 1906 on ticket-of-leave, with eight years of a sentence for robbery yet to run, died on Saturday. He had drifted back into his old ways again and had been arrested at Rimouski and was taken back to the penitentiary to serve out his sentence. When on the threshold he dropped dead.

CONMEE'S BILL IS GIVEN A STOP-OVER

His Power Bill Is Gently Hoisted by the Premier.

MUST CONSIDER PROVINCES

Sir Wilfrid Takes Strong Stand Against Using Brute Strength to Force Objectionable Legislation on the Provinces — Bill Will Have to Be Altered Before It Can Hope to Go On.

Ottawa, April 02.—Mr. Conmee seized the opportunity yesterday in the Commons to proceed with his much-discussed project to incorporate the Ontario & Michigan Power Co., with the result that the intended attack on Hon. Mr. Pugsley was crowded out. Of the proposed piece of legislation the House is heartily tired, and it was with a palpably bored expression that the members listened to the reiteration of the old arguments in favor of a course which public opinion has so unmistakably stamped with its disapproval.

Mr. Aylesworth, speaking for himself alone, expressed his view and at the end of the debate which followed Sir Wilfrid moved that the measure be left with the committee on private bills and that progress be reported pending alterations.

The Prime Minister said in opening that he was disposed to regard favorably the request of Dr. Sproule to have the committee rise. It was very questionable whether Mr. Conmee could have his bill this evening or that he could have it at all, because there seemed to be a wide difference of opinion with regard to it.

"In the meantime," he said, "let me say a word which may possibly contribute to clear the atmosphere. This bill has been carefully considered by the private bills committee. As a rule, so far as I am responsible for the business of the House, I have always deemed it my duty to support, as far as possible, the findings of the private bills committee. Not that it is a law absolutely binding upon us, not that every member of the House must abdicate his judgment when the private bills committee has spoken, but I have always thought that when a matter of importance has been discussed in the private bills committee, or any standing committee, and a conclusion reached, then, unless there is some strong reason to the contrary, the finding of the committee should be followed.

"The real point of the discussion is this: are there provisions in this bill which effect the power of the local Legislature and the local Government? That is the only point which weighs with me.

"If this bill were to be proceeded with it would be necessary to consider the opinion of the Minister of Justice on clause two, which is a clause with which we are familiar, and it was not invented, I may say to my hon. friend from South Simcoe (Mr. Lennox) by the Liberal party; it is a relic of former days, and perhaps in the case of relics we may be wrong in not doing away with them. At all events, the hon. gentleman and I can agree that it ought to be eliminated from the bill.

"But the whole discussion we have heard this afternoon has been directed to one point, and one point alone, and that is that the power of expropriation of water powers belonging to the local Government of Ontario contained in this bill should be eliminated. I think if these two sections were amended there would not be much objection to the bill.

"Did we pass this bill we interfere directly with this principle, and, therefore, under these circumstances, holding as I have held all my life to the sacredness, if the word is not too strong, of provincial rights, while we have the brute power to override those rights, it is a question whether we should do so. And it is a question upon which I would invite the serious consideration of my hon. friend who is promoting this bill.

"But there is a serious conflict of opinion, I am afraid, with regard to the power of expropriation. I think on the whole, seeing that if we proceed with the bill, we shall not be able to get it through to-night. I would move that the committee rise, report progress and ask leave to sit again."

When the bill was brought up in the afternoon, Mr. Lennox asked for a Government announcement as to the bill.

Hon. Mr. Aylesworth said he spoke only for himself. He believed the B.N.A. Act was plain as to the incorporation of companies and as to the line of demarcation between the jurisdiction of the Federal and Provincial authorities. It was plain that no Provincial Legislature had the power to incorporate a company whose work extends beyond the limits of the province.

The purpose of the Ontario & Michigan Power Co. was apparently to carry its work across the boundary into the State of Michigan, and the committee having reported the bill, it must have accepted the intention of the company.

The declaration that the works are to be "for the general advantage of Canada" was one used all too frequently. He could not see why the declaration should be made in this case any more than the establishment of any manufactory would be in a remote way for the general advantage of Canada. There was no need to make the declaration.

Mr. Conmee was willing to amend the clause, declaring the words to be for the general advantage of Canada by inserting the words "in so far as they relate to water powers and electrical transmission."

Mr. Fowke (Liberal, South Ontario,) declared that he was not one of those who were "rounded up" by the Liberal whip. He had supported the bill in committee for the purpose of bringing it before the House. He did not feel inclined to support the bill, for the reason that it proposed to give large powers of expropriation which ought not to be granted, and there was another clause to which he would always be opposed, which proposed to give a franchise in perpetuity in respect to the natural resources of the Dominion. The day was coming, Mr. Fowke declared, when we would require all the water powers.

WOULD SAVE ALDERMEN.

Montreal Citizens Will Appeal to the Quebec Legislature.

Montreal, April 20.—The disqualification of the seven members of the civic finance committee is still the talk of the town.

Yesterday there appeared to be a well-supported movement in favor of applying to the Quebec Legislature now in session, for a relief bill. In fact, such a movement would be popular, as the worst that can be said against the seven aldermen is that theirs was a technical error, and no one appears anxious to see the city deprived of the services of several of the ablest and most disinterested members of the council.

A delegation left last evening for Quebec composed of fifty well-known citizens and they will bring the matter before the Attorney-General today, it being the general opinion that Sir Lomer Gouin would favor a relief bill.

Emigrant Dies on Train.

Windsor, April 20.—Coming out to this country in company with his sister to join their brothers in Salt Lake City, Utah, an emigrant boy of 18 years, William Reynolds, died on an incoming train and awaits funeral here. Deceased left his home in Ireland 13 days ago.

At St. Thomas, Reynolds, along with others, alighted and went up town, as the train was supposed to stop some little time. The boys missed the train and young Reynolds worried considerably over his sister being on the train alone. The boys, however, caught a later train coming to Windsor. While the train was between Tilbury and this city, Reynolds was seized with heart failure and died.

Crop Reports Generally Good.

London, April 20.—The Mark Lane Express, in yesterday's weekly review of the grain trade, says it has received generally good crop reports from Great Britain, France, Italy, Spain, and the countries of Central Europe.

Russia reports a good promise of winter wheat from forty-two out of her fifty-two vast provinces. Ten provinces promise to be below the average. Spring sowings are backward, having been hindered by the rain.

The paper estimates the present reserves of British wheat at only 767,000 quarters, as against 2,431,000 at this time in 1908.

Trouble at Windsor.

Windsor, April 20.—As a result of a fistic encounter yesterday between Chief Murray of Windsor fire department, and Fred Linley, a fireman, a public investigation of conditions now existing in the fire department will likely be held, for Linley will ask that an enquiry be made immediately.

According to Linley's story, he was sweeping the floor when the chief objected to his doing the work at that time. One word brought on another and the men clashed. Murray then and there dismissed Linley from the force.

Mr. Fitzhugh's Fast Trip.

St. Louis, Mo., April 20.—Third Vice-President Fitzhugh of the Grand Trunk made a dash across the country, from Montreal to St. Louis, with two specialists, in order to reach the bedside of his son, who is critically ill with an affection of the throat. The train, consisting of the private car Canada, and a baggage coach, and a party including Mr. Fitzhugh, Dr. Hutchinson of Montreal, and Dr. Drake of London, broke all records between London and Windsor, Ont., Sunday, going 110 miles in two hours.

Bill Should Be Amended.

Ottawa, April 20.—At yesterday's meeting of the banking and commerce committee the chairman, H. Miller, gave the assurance that the insurance bill is to be duly proceeded with this session, and that a sub-committee will soon be appointed to consider the details.

It was agreed to refer the Prudential Trust Co. bill to a sub-committee. Mr. Fitzgerald, superintendent of insurance, thought that the provisions empowering a company to deal in mortgages, lend money, issue securities, arrange with third parties to take over business, and enter into arrangements with governments should all be cut out.

Slap For Joe Martin.

London, April 20.—The writ for the Stratford-on-Avon election will not be issued for some time, as the Liberal headquarters in London wish to give Joe Martin plenty of time to impress the electors. The Conservatives are making use of a letter of I. D. Layland of Montecreek, B.C., who points out, in view of Mr. Martin's declaration that Canada did not want a preference, that one of the planks in Mr. Martin's last election in Canada was reciprocity with the United States. Mr. Layland adds, "There is no place in British politics for Mr. Martin."

A Girl Horse Thief.

London, Ont., April 20.—Nellie Prior, aged 19, horse-thief and bad girl generally, as a result of reading Wild West dime novels, was sentenced to two years in the Mercer yesterday morning for horse-stealing. The girl ran away from home in Galt, and since coming to London has stolen several horses and buggies from local liverymen. She drove all about the country, sleeping outdoors, and trying to emulate the heroes in the novels.

FOUR CATTLEMEN HANGED BY MOB

Mob Lynches Four Prominent Men in Ada, Okla.

HAD KILLED U. S. MARSHAL

Wealthy Ranchers From Texas Are Taken From Jail and Hanged—Some of the Best Citizens of Ada Joined In Lynching—Were Disgusted With Continued Lawlessness In the Community.

Ada, Okla., April 20.—Four prominent cattle men were taken from the city jail here yesterday and lynched by a mob of 100 citizens. The mob is said to have organized in the rooms of a club and then marched to the jail, where they found only one man on guard.

The men were held on a charge of complicity in the murder of former U. S. Marshal A. L. Robbitt, near Ada, last February.

The lynched men were: B. Miller, Fort Worth, Texas; B. B. Burrell, Duncan, Okla.; Jessie West and Joseph Allen of Canadian, Texas.

Shortly after three o'clock yesterday morning the lynchers shut off the electric street lights, cut the telephone communication and gathered near the jail. There they met County Attorney Robert Wimbish, who had received word that the mob was forming. The crowd stopped at his request. Attorney Wimbish said:—"Men of Ada, you are disgracing this community in the eyes of the world. Think this matter over calmly and let the law take its course. I appeal to you as an officer of the law to return to your homes."

"This is no time for speeches," said the leader of the mob, and the men moved silently toward the jail door. Only Guard McCarthy was on duty. He tried to protect his prisoners, but was knocked senseless with a revolver butt. The four prisoners were quickly taken out, although West fought desperately. The mob led the four men to a barn, a few hundred feet away, and stood them in a straight line. They refused to say anything about the murder and were carried to a beam and strung up in a row. Just before the rope was placed about his neck Miller calmly removed a diamond from his shirt front and requested that it be sent to his wife in Fort Worth. From his necktie he drew out a diamond scarf pin, with the request that it be given to Guard McCarthy for his kindness to him. As soon as the men were dead the mob disappeared. At daylight the bodies of the lynched men were cut down.

M.P. Challenged to Resign.

London, April 20.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—A Christchurch, New Zealand, despatch says that the man who tore down the Union Jack at a recent Navy League meeting, explains that the flag in the first instance was taken by Loyalists, who waved it to stimulate patriotism. Some supporters of Mr. Taylor, M.P., the principal opponent of the Government's action in offering a Dreadnought, tried to take the flag from the Loyalist, and in the scuffle the flag was torn in pieces. Mr. Taylor has been challenged by the press to resign his seat and contest another election.

Trying to Save Blythe.

Toronto, April 20.—T. C. Robinette, K.C., who is acting for Walter Blythe, under sentence to be executed May 3 for beating his wife to death at Agincourt, has still hope of saving his client. Yesterday he received from England additional proof of insanity in Blythe's family, but it is rather on the basis of reducing the crime to manslaughter through the fact that there had been a continued fight all the day of the crime that Mr. Robinette hopes to succeed when he goes to Ottawa next week to ask the Minister of Justice for a commutation.

Soft Coal at Duluth.

Duluth, April 20.—It is conservatively estimated that 2,000,000 tons of coal are on the docks here at the present time. Some of the largest coal receivers here do not expect to receive any more soft coal for two months. Tonnage is freely offered here at 1 1-2 cents on wheat to Buffalo.

Abolish General Managership.

Ottawa, April 20.—Hon. George P. Graham has anounced that the position of general manager of the I.C.R. is abolished, and the new board will have full control of the operation of the Government system of railways.

Let There Be Light, Says Listowel.

Listowel, April 20.—Listowel carried the electric light bylaw which was voted on yesterday by 182 majority, 291 votes being polled for the bylaw and 109 against. An incandescent system will be installed.

No Prohibition For Nova Scotia.

Halifax, N.S., April 20.—The resolution introduced in the Assembly three weeks ago, asking for provincial prohibition of the liquor traffic, and which has been debated intermittedly ever since, was defeated in the House yesterday, 22 against, 8 for. The four Conservatives opposed the measure, but three Liberal members voted for prohibition.

Serious Stabbing.

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 20.—A stabbing affray occurred at Montrose yards, Michigan Central. The bunch of Austrian navvies got into a fight and one, Antonio Terjohic, plunged a knife into the back of Nicholesa Kopac and then decamped. Kopac's condition is reported critical.

SIX MONTHS IN CENTRAL

Charlie Beavis Appeared in Police Court This Morning—Pleaded Guilty to Charge of Vagrancy—Will Be Blacklisted.

WAS ARRESTED LAST NIGHT

Charlie Beavis was sentenced to six months in the Central Prison, at the police court this morning. He appeared before the Magistrate charged with vagrancy. He pleaded guilty. He was arrested last night by P. C. Meharry and when taken into custody was in a bad shape. He had come in contact with a number of fellows on Charlotte street, and was apparently badly beaten up by them. His face was cut in several places and his right eye was black and swollen.

Chief Rossel was about to ask to have the prisoner blacklisted, but the Magistrate concluded a term in the Central would do him more good and sent him there.

Mr. Hamill will be greatly missed in more than one circle in the city and he takes with him their best wishes for his success in the West.

A BAD FIRE AT NORWOOD LAST NIGHT RESULTED IN $2000 DAMAGE

Blaze Broke Out in the Stables and Drive Sheds of the King Hotel and the Outbuildings Were Gutted.

A HORSE WAS BURNED.

Examiner Special.

Norwood, April 19th.—What promised to develop into a most serious conflagration broke out here to-night at 11.30 o'clock in the stables and drive sheds of the King Hotel. When discovered the buildings were a mass of flames and had there been a strong wind blowing the fire would undoubterly have spread as the fire protection of the village is limited and it would have been impossible to check the blaze. Fortunately there was but a slight breeze blowing and that from the northeast away from the hotel.

The origin of the fire is a mystery. It was discovered at 11.30 o'clock, and by that time the blaze had made rapid headway. An alarm was sounded and the brigade assisted by a number of citizens, turned out and did all they could to extinguish the flames. The barn was filled with straw, hay, and other inflammable material, which made splendid fuel for the fire, which spread rapidly, destroying the barn and part of the driving sheds before it was extinguished. There were a number of horses in the stable and one belonging to Mr. John Weir was burned, while a number of pigs belonging to Mr. David King were destroyed. The loss also includes a considerable quantity of hay and other feed, and that will amount to between $1,500 and $2,000, of which some $300 will be covered by insurance.

A barn belonging to Mrs. Sam Elliott, which adjoined the hotel sheds, was also destroyed by the blaze.

MAJOR CLEGG
Who Made a Congratulatory Speech in the New Armouries.

Band Sergt. Grange Was Presented With A Long Service Medal

An interesting feature in connection with the "moving in" of the 57th Regiment into the new armouries last evening was the presentation to Sergeant Grange, now the assistant Fire Chief, of a long-service medal.

Major Clegg, who made the presentation, which took place in the new building, referred in glowing and eulogistic terms to the retiring officer's long and faithful service. Mr. Grange had been sergeant of the 57th band for twenty-one years. Previous to that he was six years in the regular service, having been attached to A and B batteries of the Royal Artillery, stationed at Kingston and Quebec. He retired from the regiment last September.

Old Tariff Of Fees For Boxes Again In Force At The Postoffice

The old tariff of fees at the post office which was in force before the mail delivery system was inaugurated has again been put in force, having commenced the first of the month. In order to induce box holders to give them up and that the delivery by the mail carriers might be made as complete as possible, the rental fee was doubled.

It has now been reduced, residents of the city holding boxes paying two dollars per year and non-residents one dollar.

As has been noted before in this paper, the post office will be completely renovated, a number of alterations having to be made in order to give the employees additional room that they might carry out their work more conveniently. Six hundred and thirty boxes are to be removed and a partition will be built from the stamp vendor's to the delivery wicket. Another partition will be constructed from the money order department to the east wall. The money order wicket will then face south, thus considerably increasing the space in this section of the post office.

Farmers Are Already Feeling Glum Over Weather And Crops

The spirit of unrest has returned to the farmers once more. If any one could appreciate the song from the Land of Nod, "Blame the Weather Man," it is the farmer. From the time the robins twitter at the advent of Spring until the first snow flurry in the Fall, the tiller of soil has something to stir up a feeling of discontent, something that remains always close at hand. If it is not material it is immaterial. If the present has nothing real to ruffle his content, there is something in the future. From now on there will be frost, rain, hail, drouth, and a dozen other natural agencies troubling the farmer, and despite everything he generally closes the year with a fair harvest.

This morning a farmer said to a reporter, "Well, you can tell the people that the farmers are feeling blue."

"What is it now?" was asked.

"Oh! The Spring is coming in late, and there is a great deal of rain and we're afraid of the frost. But I tell you what the fall wheat and clover are doing fine."

"Well the farmers, I guess, are merely having a touch of their chronic "grouch," at least the large majority of them. Listen to them and sympathize with them, it will pass over by Christmas."

A KNIFE IN HIS HEART

Woodstock Man Committed Suicide In His Office To-day—Was Found Dead—A Shock To His Friends—Was Well Known.

HE STABBED HIMSELF.

Examiner Special (2:45 p.m.)

Woodstock, April 20.—P. J. E. Dugit, Deputy Registrar, committed suicide in his office to-day. He was found with a slender surgeon's knife in his heart.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE

John R. Payne, of Dummer, appeared before Magistrate Edmison in the county police court to-day, charged with forgery, the complainant in the case being a man by the name of Dunsford. It will be remembered that Payne came and gave himself up, admitting that he had committed the offence. He was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

THE EPWORTH LEAGUE.

"Canada, Its Resources and Its Problems" Discussed at Charlotte St. Church.

The Epworth League, of Charlotte St. Methodist Church, are looking forward to a fine lecture on May 10th. Rev. G. W. Henderson will spear on "Plodders, Loafers and Croakers." Every one is asked to keep the date in mind and be present.

The meeting last evening was devoted to "Canada, Its Resources, and Its Problems," papers being read by Miss G. Christmas and Miss Higgins. Both were attentively listened to. Mr. Fred Skitch sang a song entitled "Roll on Thou Deep Blue Sea," and in response to a hearty encore gave "The Boys of the Old Brigade," in fine voice. Miss Maud Titterson also recited in a pleasing manner. During a ten minute intermission, a candy-booth, prettily decorated with flags, and served by ladies costumed to represent Canada, was well patronized, Miss Higgins and Miss Nettie Dawe, to whom the success of the evening is due are to be congratulated on their efforts in making the event so agreeable to those present.

BUSINESS MAN EXPRESSES HIS OPINION OF COMPULSORY WIRING

LIEUT.-COL STEVENSON
Commanding Officer of the 57th Regiment that Moved into the New Armouries Last Night.

There are over 220 cups of "Salada" Tea to the pound; consequently at 40 cents per pound, the consumer receives tea at the low cost of one-fifth of a cent a cup. There are few other beverages so economical and so healthful as "Salada" Tea. 139

Obeyed Demands of Fire Underwriters' Association and Gets a Little Bill Which Causes Him to Think—Calls it a Hold-Up.

OBJECTIONS ARE NUMEROUS

The remarks the business men are making with regard to the commands of the Fire Underwriters are not very complimentary. One in particular suggested that there semed to be something "strange" in their demands and he looked upon it as a holdup. He had heard other men complaining, but it was not until he received his bill for the work done in his place that he fully realized the situation.

"The Underwriters told me," he explained, "to have certain changes made or my insurance rates would go up and if I remember rightly some particular electrician was named. Well I had the changes made and there they are summed up,' and smiled grimly, as he pointed to the aggregate of the incidental charges. He also remarked: "And there is all there is to show, a few more holes and insulators, white covered wire showing along the walls, and this tidy little bill which 'you are requested to remit, etc.'" Of course, Mr. Business man admitted he had the satisfaction of knowing that his insurance rates wer not going to be increased.

Rev. Dr. Marsh Is To Speak Before Astronomical Society

At the meeting of the Peterborough Centre of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, in the chemical laboratory of the Collegiate Institute this evening the president of the centre, Rev. Dr. Marsh, of Springville, will give an address on the Solar Photesphere that promises to be entertaining as well as instructive. Rev. Dr. Marsh will answer all questions that may be asked of him in regard to the theories of the sun spots, the faculae, the solar prominences, and other similar matters, and will endeavour to make clear these interesting objects to his audience as well as to touch upon the corona and the cause of the aurora borealis or northern lights. No doubt there will be a large attendance of members to welcome the popular president back after his recent illness.

Has Flourishing Mill And Has Good Business At Bridgenorth

Mr. N. G. Bell, of Bridgenorth, was recently in Toronto, where he disposed of 4,000 verandah posts which he had turned out during the winter at his mill adjoining his home. Mr. Bell has had a very busy season and his mill has been one of the "hummers" of the village. He had no difficulty in selling his products and it is learned that he received a substantial sum.

The mill will be refitted soon in order to enlarge its scope and machinery will be installed to turn out wagon wheels and to do work of a similar nature.

This industry is proving a good thing for Bridgenorth. It not only affords some employment in the village but a large number of good logs are required for the manufacture of the posts. Mr. Bell reports that there is going to be extensive building work in Toronto this summer and he will be able to dispose of verandah posts as quickly as he can turn them out.

Mr. Bell is to be congratulated on his progressiveness in enlarging his plant and upon the success he is achieving in his business.

Says Proper Respect Is Not Shown While National Anthem Is Played

Peterborough, April 19, 1909.
To the Editor The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Some time ago I noticed an item in your valuable paper in respect to citizens raising their hats during the rendering of the National Anthem in theatres, etc. Last evening, I happened to be in the drill hall when the 57th Regiment were on the point of vacating the premises for the New Drill Hall.

The regiment were called to attention, and the band played the National Anthem. I had a good view of the whole building and could not see more than about a dozen (shall I call them) "True Britishers" loyal enough to raise their hats, and there were two or three hundred people present. If, some Sunday morning or evening, at some church in the city, while the minister was pronouncing the benediction, half or more than half of the congregation were to get up and walk out, what a sensation it would cause. How disgraceful it would seem. The "National Anthem," even the first line of it, indicates a prayer. "God Save Our Gracious King." Therefore I think we should respect the tune to which the words are sung whenever or wherever we hear it. Thanking you for space in your valuable paper and trusting that Britishers will awaken to their dutq, permit me to remain,

Yours obediently,
ENGLISHMAN.

57th REGIMENT BADE FAREWELL TO THE OLD DRILL SHED LAST NIGHT

The passing away of the old drill shed and the moving into the new armouries by the 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers was attended with ceremony fitting such an event, last evening. Work on tearing down the old headquarters for the local regiment, has commenced and the soldiers of Peterborough have now an adequate and up-to-date home that will accommodate them for many years to come. It was an historic event for this city that took place last evening and will long be remembered by every citizen and more especially by the younger members of the regiment who, no doubt, will be the future officers of the regiment. The formal taking over of the armouries forms a new epoch in militia circles here. A greater interest will be awakened among the young men and the Peterborough rangers will be found among the foremost regiments of the Dominion.

The First March Out

Despite the rather unfavourable weather during the day, the first march out of the fifty-seventh, this season, was held. The citizens turned out in large numbers to witness the parade afterwards assembling at the shed to watch the proceedings. In spite of the fact that the regiment has been handicapped by having few drills, the various companies made an excellent showing last evening.

Shortly after eight o'clock the regiment, 253 strong, formed for parade at the old drill hall and headed by the 57th Regimental Band under the direction of Bandmaster Glidden, with Major Clegg commanding, they marched down George St., to Simcoe St., Simcoe St. to Water St., Water St., to Murray St., to the shed.

Colonel Miller Speaks

On returning to the shed, the regiment and a large gathering of citizens were addressed by Lieut.-Col. Miller, a gentleman who has been connected with the local corps, since its inception. He referred to the time when the old shed was erected in 1864. The soldiers then, he said, were just as proud of it, as the regiment of to-day, was, with the new quarters. It was a pleasure to him to know that they had now the proper place in which to fit men for the service of their country. He had been connected with the fifty-seventh, since 1864, until two years ago, when he retired, after having filled the office of commanding officer. But he was still proud to be identified with those who wore the scarlet jacket. The men of the fifty-seventh had always shown themselves able and ready for duty when the call came. With the splendid equipment the regiment now had, it ought to be second to no other body of soldiers in Canada. Every man ought to realize his responsibility to his country and ought to feel proud to be in his King's service. The government had spent much to provide quarters for them and he hoped every young man would take advantage of the opportunities afforded him.

In conclusion he thanked the officers and men for the splendid support that had always been given him and the commanding officer for his kind permission to parade with them.

To the New Building

The band then played "God Save the King" and "Auld Lang Syne" after which the regiment marched to the new armouries, the band playing the regimental march.

Here they formed into quarter column and Major Clegg and Rev. Canon Davidson, chaplain, made a few brief remarks, the former congratulating the Peterborough Rangers on having such fine quarters and Mr. Davidson stating that he hoped that the moral training of the regiment would be up to the same high standard as that of the physical. After the playing of the "Maple Leaf" and "Rule Britannia" the various companies brought over the remainder of the stores and were assigned to their new apartments.

CONVENTION REPORTS

Park St. B. Y. P. U. Heard from Their Delegates to the Annual Convention.

A most enjoyable evning was spent last night at the Park St. B. Y. P. U. meeting. A goodly number was present to hear the reports of the delegates to the annual B. Y. P. U. convention, held in Stratford Good Friday week.

Miss Bessie Mowry told of the first sessions of the convention, while Miss Edith Gillespie gave an account of the last days' proceedings. Both reports were listened to with pleasure and profit, and the society was glad to have been represented by such able delegates, who brought back with them an inspiration to all.

The delegates were billeted at the residence of one of the pastors who once served Park St. Church so well, Rev. O. C. Elliott, pastor of Stratford Baptist Church.

Mr. G. A. Cornish's Enjoyable Lecture Before the Young People of Knox Church

The Young People's Society, of Knox Church, held a very interesting meeting last evening, when Mr. G. A. Cornish gave an address on "The Depths of the Sea." The speaker referred to the fishing industry in the Maritime Provinces, and the manner in which the mackerel, lobster and cod were caught.

Mr Davenport, in the absence of the president of the society thanked the speaker for his enjoyable and educational address. Miss Ella Warren will speak on "Life Lessons from the Gospel of John" next Monday evening.

THE OLD GUARD.

Ottawa is to have a rather notable "old boys' reunion"—a banquet is to be given to the surviving members of the first parliament of Confederation—which met in the autumn of 1867, forty-two years ago. The secretary of the banquet has unearthed 22 survivors, and of this number only two are real genuine "Fathers of Confederation"; Sir Charles Tupper, and Mr. A. A. McDonald of Prince Edward Island. Sir Charles is on the cemetery side of eighty, but is still vigorous and active in both mind and body. Hon. Edward Blake is an ex-member of the first Confederation parliament, but neither he nor Sir Charles will be present at the banquet. But two other old war horses will be on hand, Sir Richard Cartwright and Sir Mackenzie Bowell, both still in the political ranks militant. Another decade and few, if any, of the old guard will be left but their names will live in the history of Canada.

BRITAIN'S EVERGREEN TRADE.

Great Britain as well as the colonial outposts of the Empire, has a deep interest in the maintenance of her navy, for it is the great instrument of her commercial supremacy. This term is used advisedly for, without doubt Great Britain so far as her world trade is concerned is the greatest commercial power existing. The adverse winds that bring depression to other countries touch Great Britain less harshly than these other countries In times of trade affliction, in times of wealth, Great Britain takes the lead. In 1908, a Board of Trade report informs us, the imports of Great Britain were 2,570 millions, and her exports 1,875 millions. Germany comes next in imports, and third in exports, while the United States is second in imports and third in exports. Nearly all other countries suffered a decline in both imports and exports in 1908, except Canada, when the export figures grew from 244 millions in 1907 to 254 millions in 1908, one of the leanest years of the past decade in regard to general business.

Canada's total trade for the year ending March 31st, 1908, was $650,793,131, the largest in its existence.

LICENSE REDUCTION.

Attention is frequently called to the force of the "temperance wave" now overflowing the continent. The partial-prohibition movement represented by local option is active and spreading, but along with and antecedent to this a rational movement against the intemperate use of strong drink represented by personal conviction and temperance sentiment is, and has for years been gaining ground. Bad as are the drinking habits of the present day, we all know that they are less general than they were a score of years ago. Both public sentiment and commercial and industrial interests fight against the drink habit. Society has a cold welcome for the drunkard, and the habitual user of strong drink is not wanted in places of responsible employment, small or large. So far as license issue is a gauge of improvement in this regard, there has been a large reduction in the number. In 1875, when the present license system came in force the number of licenses issued was 7,000. In ten years the number was nearly cut in half. Year by year the reduction continued till at the present time the number of licenses is down to 2,372. And all this reduction has been in the face of an increase of population from 1,770,000 in 1875 to 2,300,000 in 1908. Of course in the last few years the extensive adoption by municipalities of local option, has been responsible for the wiping out of a large number of licenses However it is to be noted, as worth remarking, that the reduction in the number of licenses for the ten years—1885 to 1895, was 800, while the number of licenses wiped out in the thirteen years—1895 to 1908—was 750. So that the license reduction was proportionately greater in the first period mentioned than in the latter period. Whether this circumstance has any particular significance it may be worth a little thought. However, the fact seems to remain, that license reduction will continue, and so far as that is an indication of the restriction of the drink habit, the cause of temperance will improve, and in spite of the three-fifths clause, the indications are that local option will secure wider adoption, especially in the rural districts, where, however, it will operate less strongly as a license reduction measure on account of the comparatively few licenses to be cut off.

Canada's drink bill is estimated at 60 millions of dollars or $10 per head; while Britain's drink bill is estimated at 800 millions per year or $18.53 per head.

A NORTHERN VIEW OF IT.

The people of New Ontario have a grieveance which will not down; they claim that New Ontario is bled white of the revenue from her resources to build up and enrich older Ontario, while the new section is neglected. Roads and means of communication are denied them and even courts of justice are witheld. The Cobalt "Citizen" is not allowing the wrongs of New Ontario to mildew in seclusion, but keeps them bright. In its last issue it deals especially with the great provincial gift to the Canadian Northern Railway. This article is reproduced below, both as a sample of the grievances which the new country feels that it suffers the possession of, but as a rather illuminating picture of the vastness of the subvention The Citizen under the heading "At Our Expense," says:

The Canadian Northern Railway Company has a line in operation from Toronto to Sudbury. It has also a railway from Fort William to Winnipeg and from the gateway of the West the company has a system of roads spreading like veins through a leaf over the great wheat country.

The Ontario Peninsula, as a manufacturing and distributing centre, is reaching out for Western and Northern trade.

The advantage to Old Ontario, and Toronto in particular, of a connecting link between the Fort William and the Sudbury divisions of the C. N. R. is too obvious to require explanation. It would not only up a new section of country which would be tributary to Toronto, but it would carry through the railway yards of the Hog City a portion of the grain traffic of the West. From a Toronto standpoint the building of the connecting link is a consumation devoutly to be wished. A Transcontinental railway into one's back yard is a convenience worth money to an enterprising merchant, and Toronto and vicinity has shown herself ready to pay the price. There has been nothing stingy about Ontario. With a munificence which has not been equalled since the days of the C. P. R. steal, Ontario is giving of the public domain at the rate of four thousand acres for every mile of railway to be built.

Of the value of the land proposed to be given little is officially known though the report of a Government exploration party goes to show that the country is timbered with pulpwood running on an average from thirty to sixty cords to the acre. Taking the lowest of these figures and applying to it the rate at which the Government has been selling pulp lands and the value of the pulpwood alone on the grant would be computed at twelve dollars per acre, or forty-eight thousand dollars to the mile of road. With the opening of the railway hundred acre farms should be worth at least five hundred dollars each. This gives an additional value of twenty thousand dollars per mile or from these two factors alone a total value in Government grant of sixty-eight thousand dollars per mile.

The T. & N. O. Government railroad was substantially built and it ran in part at least through difficult territory. Money has not been skimped in the building of the Provincial railway, and yet the T. & N. O. has cost only fifty thousand dollars per mile.

Were the Mackenzie and Mann syndicate to sell out the Provincial gift on the day the first train travels from end to end of the now projected line, it seems more than probable that it could clear sufficient to cover the whole cost of the railway and leave from ten to twenty thousand dollars per mile to the good, with the road thrown in.

Yes, Old Ontario is paying the price with a generosity that is not usual to that business community—a generosity which can be understood only when it is appreciated that New Ontario is footing the bill. Old Ontario has a broad conception of a larger Canada for which it is prepared to suffer with the heroic spirit of the patriot who was ready to sacrifice his wife's relations on the altar of his devotion.

Of all the schemes yet devised for turning New Ontario inside out into the lap of the south, the passing of two million dollar acres of our own Clay Belt land into the claws of these notorious election financiers is the most outrageous and the worst

EDITORIAL NOTES.

We enlightened Canadians—some of us—take the slum degenerates of London, who find their way to Canada, as typical examples of Englishmen Why should not the English take Hon Joe Martin as a typical example of Canadian public men?

The ultra loyalists who are clamouring for a direct contribution by Canada to the British navy are at the same time, remarks the Ottawa Free Press, the chief exponents of the policy of "Keep British goods out of Canada." That is Conservative consistency.

As we have mentioned before, Hon. Dr. Pugsley is a bluffer; for evidence of this read the debate on the Mayes affidavit elsewhere in this paper.—Hamilton Spectator.

Well, why, asks the Hamilton Times, do not our neighbour's slanderbund friends "call" his bluff? He promises to welcome investigation of any charges made in parliamentary form, the maker assuming resposibility therefor. That is the rule of the House as to making charges. Why do the "Tories" hesitate? The Liberals have more than once brought charges regularly and "made good."

We Easterners get the idea that our Western fellow citizens are absorbed in the chase for the useful dollar to the exclusion of every other consideration. This, it appears, is not the case. The Lethbridge Daily Herald is appealing for parks for that nascent city. This is a proper spirit and stands for an oasis in the desert of materialism which so widely overspreads the fertility of our fair land and complicates the maintenance or attainment of the highest Christian civilization. Wheat and money are not everything. Man is something more than a mere animal. He has higher faculties to cultivate than those that belong in common to the beasts that perish.

Priest Condemns Bad Literature.

Ottawa, April 20.—Rev. Father Lajune at the Sacred Heart Church delivered a strong sermon in denunciation of some literature circulated from the Carnegie Library. He attacked books printed in both French and English, and said many of them were positively demoralizing to young minds and unfit to enter the homes of self-respecting people. As a result of the sermon, the library authorities will institute an immediate enquiry.

Seeks Lost Son.

Windsor, April 20.—Thomas Kinney, a farmer living near Woodslee, was in Windsor yesterday in search of his son, John, who disappeared over two months ago. Kinney left Woodslee to secure employment at the tunnel, and while here boarded with his uncle. He left the house on Sunday, Feb. 19, to make a call, and never returned, leaving about $11 unclaimed wages. His father has offered a reward of $100 for information.

Made Threats to Get His Money.

Goderich, April 20.—Charles Burling, a young man living near Blyth, was sent up for trial yesterday by Police Magistrate Butler for a "Black hand" threatening letter to the agent at Blyth threatening to blow up the C.P.R. bridge near Blyth if not paid the sum of $83. It appears a subcontractor who had a contract when the C.P.R. was under construction failed, and left owing this young man $83.

Sentenced Woman Suicides.

Atlanta, Ga., April 20.—Dr. Rosa F. Monnish, sentenced to the Federal prison yesterday for sending threatening and improper letters through the mails, drank prussic acid at her home yesterday afternoon and died within a few minutes.

Somewhat Puzzling.

It is not at all surprising that the American vernacular should sometimes prove a little too much for the Englishman. A case in point was that of a visitor from London who came to New York last summer and was taken by his host to see one of the league baseball games at the Polo grounds. The game had progressed as far as the third inning without anything in particular happening, when suddenly one of the Giants pounded out a three bagger that set everybody howling with joy.

"That was a bird!" ejaculated the Englishman's host after the excitement had subsided.

A moment later a foul tip sent the ball flying back to the grand stand.

"And what do you call that?" queried the Englishman.

"That's a foul," said his host.

"Ah," returned the Englishman, "a fowl, eh? Well, it seems to me that the language of baseball is most extraordinary. A fowl is a bird and a bird is a fowl, and yet you use these terms to describe two plays that seem to me to be diametrically opposed to each other. Do you call that logical?"

The Englishman is still trying to think it out.—Harper's Weekly.

England's Generals.

There has not been an English general since Marlborough. Wellington was born at Dangan castle, Meath, of an old Irish family called Wesley and christened in Dublin. Wolfe was born at Terueaux abbey, Kildare, and christened at Westerham—nearly in the same case as the Brontes (Brunty). His grandfather defended Limerick against William III.

Sir John Moore and the Napiers were Scotchmen, and so was Abercrombie (Egypt); so were Napier of Magdala, Crawford and Clyde. Wolseley, Roberts and Kitchener are Irish; so was Gough. The generals and statesmen who saved India to Great Britain were Neill, Nicholson, the two Lawrences (Irish), Edwards (Welsh) and Rose (Scotch).

I know of Wolfe because my great-grandfather served under him at Quebec. His Irish birth was corroborated to me by Captain Dunne, once well known in literary circles of a Queens county family. I don't know whether Scotchmen like to be called English, but certainly Irishmen do not.—London News.

A PLUCKY YOUNG ENGINEER.

How Orillia Came to Employ John M. McRae on Her Dam.

Mr. John M. McRae, who has recently acted as one of the engineers of the big dam built for controlling the flow of the water to the various power users at Ottawa, won his spurs in connection with the third dam built by the town of Orillia at the Ragged Rapids on the Severn River. The Ragged Rapids has proved fatal to more than one reputation, but Mr. McRae has come through with flying colors.

The story of how Orillia came to employ Mr. McRae is rather interesting. The then mayor of the town, Mr. C. J. Miller, consulted an eminent engineer as to making an examination of the existing dam which would involve a descent in a diving suit in thirty feet of water. The man who had made his name was not willing to undertake the feat at his time of life. When asked if he could recommend some one who would be likely to do so, after a moment's thought, he said:

"Yes, I know a young fellow who is absolutely trustworthy, and who is afraid of nothing. I have no doubt he will undertake the job for you."

And he named John M. McRae, who hesitated scarcely a moment. When he reached the Ragged Rapids, it was found, to the disgust of the French-Canadian diver, that Mr. McRae's head was much too large to go into the helmet of the diving suit, and a wait had to be made till another could be secured. On the strength of Mr. McRae's report, the town decided to construct the dam which has just been completed after nearly three years' work, and Mr. McRae was engaged to draw the plans. It has since proved fortunate that the town acted on Mr. McRae's advice, as it was found that the previous dam was resting on very poor foundations. The present dam is one of the finest structures of its kind in the country.

Dr. Bridges of St. John.

Dr. Bridges, school inspector at St. John, N.B., looks askance at Lord Strathcona's offer to train the young Canadian eye, as well as the young Canadian idea, how shoot. Dr. Bridges succeeded George E. Foster as classical professor at the University of New Brunswick when the ex-Finance Minister first entered politics. About ten years ago he became head of the high school and school inspector at St. John. Opposition to the military training idea might have been expected from this quarter, as Dr. Bridges opposes vacation schools, manual training, and all "fads." He lives in a good house on a fashionable street, and his long angular figure is emphasized by a never-forsaken silk hat.

One day he called upon a neighbor to complain of the insulting conduct of her seven year old boy.

"What has the lad done?" his mother enquired; and duty struggled vainly with amusement when the inspector gravely informed her that Malcolm had followed him down the street calling out: "Go on, ye lang-legged dude; go on, ye lang-legged dude."

Showing His Mettle.

A man with a bronze complexion went up to a girl with a silvery voice and had the brass to attempt to kiss her. She resisted and, giving him a steely glance, called loudly for a copper. "One of the finest" quickly arrived on the scene and, with irony in his voice, made the man his prisoner. "Alas," cried the unfortunate, "my happiness is ore!"—Yale Record.

"Which Is For Memory."

By MARION TRAVERS.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

A man and a maid stood on the porch of a little New England farmhouse. The man had barely passed his majority, and the years of the girl numbered less than his by three. The man was going hundreds of miles to the westward, there to find a competence.

When he had succeeded the girl was to come to him for the rest of the happy years. In his hands were two sprigs of rosemary, one of which he gave to the maid.

"It's for remembrance, Betty. Not that we will either of us need it, dear, but I shall carry it with me wherever I go."

"You know you'll always be in my thoughts, Tom. I'll put it under my pillow at night that I may dream of you and wear it next my heart in waking hours that every beat may be for you. Goodby, Tom, and God bless you and send you back to me." And the maid turned her lips upward for her lover's kiss.

"Goodby, Betty! It won't be for long, and then we will be together for the rest of our lives." And he gave her one last caress before he turned and started down the graveled path bound on the outtrail.

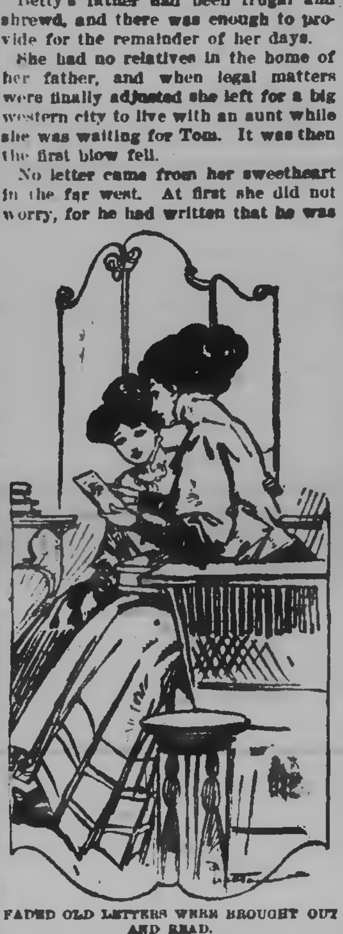
Betty had been motherless since her sixth year, and at the close of a winter's day the soul of her father left its gaunt frame, and she was alone.

Tom wrote a letter full of tender consolation, and it was on the absent sweetheart she leaned during the days and nights of her affliction.

Betty's father had been frugal and shrewd, and there was enough to provide for the remainder of her days.

She had no relatives in the home of her father, and when legal matters were finally adjusted she left for a big western city to live with an aunt while she was waiting for Tom. It was then the first blow fell.

No letter came from her sweetheart in the far west. At first she did not worry, for he had written that he was going on a long prospecting trip and might be weeks, even months, from civilization.



FADED OLD LETTERS WERE BROUGHT OUT AND READ.

But when spring came and in turn gave way to summer, and summer fled before the chilling blasts of autumn, and the weeks dragged drearily by until a year had passed, Betty abandoned hope.

She wrote to the authorities of the frontier town where he usually outfitted, but they could tell her nothing. Tom had left in April. He had not returned. They knew nothing of his fate.

In the passing of the years her grief was softened, but the agony of her loss was there, locked with her love in the innermost recesses of her heart. Suitors came, but were sent away, not hurt, but firmly, gently denied. Her cousins married, little ones came to bless them, and to all she was Aunt Betty.

There was another Betty now, a pretty, graceful maid of seventeen, joying in her first glimpses of social life and rapturously happy because she was just living. They were great cronies, these two Bettys, and it was often remarked that their resemblance extended away and beyond the name.

"Aunt Betty, why didn't you marry?" asked the little Betty one afternoon when the two were having a long, confidential chat.

Then faded old letters were brought out and read, the dimmed tintype of a country boy with a fine featured face was cried over and the withered sprig of rosemary lifted gently from the jewel case, where it had reposed so many years in state.

"And the rosemary, auntie?" queried little Betty.

"Rosemary is for remembrance, dearie. We each had a sprig and were to keep it always, so that whenever we saw it the other's face would appear in our dreams," said auntie.

"And do you dream of him yet?" pursued the younger.

"Bless you, Betty, I'll always dream of him, and I pray now that after death here I may see him."

"And so that's the reason you didn't let Dr. Thornton and the others marry you when they asked?"

"Betty, how did you know?"

"Oh, I heard mamma talking about it. But I won't tell auntie," she promised penitently. "But it's lovely, Aunt Betty. It's perfectly splendid to love so long and so hard when you know he's dead. Would he care, do you think, if you married some one else?"

"He knew I never would," and the older Betty sighed.

After that the little Betty had to go away to school. She was sent to a distant city to be taught all manner of things embraced in that word "finished."

To her romantic soul came many experiences, many temptations to surrender to what she thought was love, but always she measured the depths of her emotions by Aunt Betty's loyalty of a score of years.

"Would I love him like that?" she would ask of herself, and always the suitor failed in the test.

One afternoon she went to a matinee at a downtown theater. As she was leaving the playhouse she was confronted by a stalwart man, whose agitation was greater than her own.

"Betty Randall!" he all but shouted in his excitement.

"Auntie!" gasped Betty.

"Are you Betty Randall?" queried the stranger. "Of course not. You're just a child, and Betty would have been more than twice your age if she were alive," and he apologized for his rudeness as he turned to go.

It flashed over Betty in an instant. Could it be true? She decided to risk it.

"Tom!" she called softly.

The man wheeled at the word and stood staring at the girl.

"Are you Tom Wilson?" she asked. "And did you leave over twenty years ago to go out west, and"— she continued.

"Yes, yes! Why—how—who are you?" he demanded.

"Betty Randall is my aunt," said Betty, "and she has your sprig of rosemary."

"Here's mine!" he cried, and he plunged into his pocket and brought forth a worn wallet.

That night Mr. Wilson had a long talk with Betty at the school. She arranged to go home the next morning, and Tom was to follow the day after. He explained how he had been sick for a year from exposure while lost in the mountains, how he wrote to the old address, but got no reply.

He had gone back to the New Hampshire town, but no one could give him Betty's address. So, with fortune beyond his boyhood dreams, he had rambled up and down the world, hoping, hunting and miserable.

"Aunt Betty," said little Betty two days later, "suppose Tom is alive. Suppose he didn't die, but couldn't find out where you were. Wouldn't that be fine?" And her eyes danced with what the elder took to be girlish enthusiasm for a romance so near to her.

There was a knock at the door, and a maid entered with a card tray.

"There's a gentleman downstairs to see you, Miss Randall. He wouldn't give me his card, but said you'd understand by this." And she held out the tray so that there was disclosed thereon a sprig of rosemary.

"Betty, it's true! He's alive! It's Tom!" And the speed with which she descended played havoc with orthodox ideas of dignity. She fell rather than ran into the sitting room, there to be clasped in two arms, while a man's voice came softly to her:

"At last! Thank God, at last!"

It Had Its Limitations.

"Madam," said the young man who had called at the door, "I have the pleasure of introducing to you our new automatic housecleaning machine—a simple little thing which does the whole work of housecleaning, leaving you merely the general supervision."

"Does it do all, eh?" demanded the woman of the house. "Will it wash the outside of the upstairs windows?"

"Why, no, madam, but"—

"Will it take down, wash, stretch to dry, iron and hang up the parlor curtains?"

"Well, of course, this machine"—

"Will it paint the kitchen and make my daughter help with the dishes?"

"Oh, madam, this machine"—

"Will it wash the winter bedding and put it away, lay down the furs with moth balls, sew on buttons, set three meals a day and pacify the household?"

"No, madam. You have misunderstood the limitations of my machine."

"Limitations! It will be a long time before any man will get up a machine to do all a woman has to do in her house."

The agent silently faded away.

His Turn For Luxury.

It was one of those palpably cold ham and pickle inns, but the motor wouldn't go, so Jones and Jenkins had to make the best of a bad smash and put up there.

"Accommodation, gentlemen? Certainly, gentlemen!" oozed the oleaginous landlord. "Beautiful large feather bed, plenty of room for the two of you and big enough for three. This way, gentlemen!"

They went, they saw, they grunted. It certainly wasn't much of a feather bed. But they agreed to take it and, being fatigued, retired early.

In a few minutes Jones was sound asleep; but, try as he might, Jenkins could not "drop off."

At 2 in the morning Jones was awakened by a violent nudge in the solar plexus.

"What's the matter?" he growled.

"Get up!" was the reply. "It's half time!"

"Half time? What are you talking about? This isn't a cup tie!"

"No, but it's my turn to sleep on that feather!"—London Answers.

Impressed.

"I appear to have made something of an impression on that man over there," remarked a young lady at a wedding party. "He has been looking at me ever since I arrived."

"If you mean that one with the black mustache, he's the detective engaged to look after the presents," said a friend.

AN ETIQUETTE HINT.

How to Present Mutual Friends Who Are Strangers.

Strangers who go to cities where their friends have acquaintances are frequently given cards or letters of introduction. To thus present two friends is one of the most gracious acts that can be performed by a third person and is not one which should be asked save under exceptional conditions. If a person wishes to bring together others who are strangers the suggestion will be made without request from the one who is going away. However simple it may seem to ask for introductions, it is a matter on which none can be too particular. There may be some reasons, unknown to outsiders, which would make it extremely awkward to ask one friend to go to see another, and yet to refuse such a request is almost impossible.

When one woman is being presented by letter to another it is customary for the friend who knows the other two to write the third and tell her that Mrs. or Miss So-and-so will be in town at such a time and will go to see her. She may, if she likes, inclose the stranger's card with the new address on it, that the old resident may know where to go. Then when the stranger arrives in town she sends her own visiting card, with that of the friend who is making the introduction, to the other whom she wishes to know. The first visit should be paid at once by the old resident. If a man is being introduced he follows the same line, sending his visiting card with the address on it to the woman upon whom he has been invited to call. He is not expected, however, to pay his visit until she has written that she would like to have him come. This leaves the woman the option of refusing his acquaintance if she chooses, although such a situation rarely occurs. On receipt of his visiting card the woman writes that she will be happy to see him, and it is rather expected that she will set a time for his call; otherwise he might arrive when she is out. If it should happen that the man cannot go at the time appointed, he should write a note explaining that a previous engagement prevents and that he will give himself the pleasure of going shortly, trusting to find the woman at home. If a man or a girl has a business letter of introduction, it should be sent into the office with the visiting card and not taken in by the person who is being presented. The latter way makes it necessary for the stranger to wait while the letter is being read in his or her presence, while if it precedes it is read before he or she goes in.

RHEUMATIC TWINGES.

Before These Pains Get a Hold Take Precautions.

Rheumatism is now considered by many doctors to be a blood disease and should be treated by rigid dieting. Medicines, at least in the first stages, are less effective than curbing the appetite.

If one is of rheumatic tendency she should eat little or no red meat, cut out sugar, bread, sweets and acid fruits and should drink plenty of water.

This may seem like a severe treatment for a small complaint, at the first only twinges. Neglected, they mean untold suffering, often complete disablement.

It would be a good thing for those of us who are inclined to take rheumatic twinges lightly to recall the definition of the late Dr. Spurgeon, himself a great sufferer from rheumatism and gout, "If you put your hand into a vise and let a man press as hard as he can, that is rheumatism; if he can be got to press a little harder, it is gout."

Before that vise gets such a hold it cannot be loosed, take precautions. Dieting may not be pleasant, but it is pleasanter than being a rheumatic victim with only oneself to blame.

When Sir James Was Young.

In the pioneer community over which the late Sir James Gowan, a young man of 27, was called upon to preside as judge in 1843, every man was very much more disposed to take the law into his own hands than is the case now that the machinery of justice is more highly organized, says The Orillia Packet.

The early settlers used to tell a story which illustrated this. Shortly after he came to the bench, Judge Gowan had a case before him in which the two litigants were a son of a British general and a young man who afterwards became prominent as a clergyman of the Church of England. In the course of the trial the latter intimated that the former had lied. Quick as a flash the soldier's son, a little fellow, laid his big traducer on the broad of his back, causing uproar in the court. The "boy judge," as he was called, found it hard to repress a smile himself, but after a pause said: "Mr. Vincent, I fine you $1 for contempt of court."

"I'll take twenty more at the same price, your honor," was the little fellow's reply as he squared himself into a pugilistic attitude.

"Oh, no!" replied Judge Gowan. "You struck that blow under great provocation. But if you repeat the offence, I'll have to punish you severely."

Taking the Step.

It happened while a marriage was being celebrated. The bridegroom did not have the usual happy, bashful look. Instead he seemed to be profoundly unhappy and fidgeted about, standing first on one foot and then on the other.

So patent was his state of mental unquiet that the "best man" deemed it expedient to elucidate the mystery. "Hae ye lost the ring?" he solicitously inquired.

"No," answered the unhappy one, with a woeful look; "the ring's safe enough, but, man, I've lost my enthusiasm."—London Scrap.

The Best Spring Medicine

That Tired Feeling
Mr. F. H. Leard, Saskatoon, Sask., writes: "I have used Burdock Blood Bitters as a blood builder and think it is an excellent remedy. Everyone should take it in the spring to cure that tired feeling that comes to so many at this time of the year."

Indigestion in Spring
Miss B. Bradley, Hamilton Ont., writes: "Last spring I used three bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters, as I had indigestion and very thin blood, I tried everything before taking the B.B.B. which I think is an excellent spring tonic."

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

Something that should be found in every needlewoman's workbasket is a little contrivance of glass to slip on the finger to protect it in embroidering. It is almost impossible to do embroidery over the finger and not occasionally prick the finger unless one provides herself with some sort of protector.

When sewing a collar to a waist do not allow any fullness to occur across the back of the waist unless the waist is designed for it. If the neck has stretched a little and is too large for the band, let the fullness come from the front of the waist to a little in front of the shoulder seam.

The woman who understands Mexican drawn work, the net stitch, can now make for herself one of the dainty drawn work handkerchiefs with a border six inches deep. They are fashionable at present and will be found among the luxuries displayed in the art stores, and quite expensive are the finest ones.

A girl who is handy with her needle should be ready with collar and cuff accessories in an entirely new effect that will be much worn during the spring season. The collar is a straight band turnover, and the cuffs turn back, slightly pointed on the outer edge. The material employed is a very fine crossbarred muslin, worked with a colored mercerized thread. A row of dots is set on, one dot in each square, alternating with a row left plain, the rows going up and down. Both collar and cuffs are finished with a narrow hem of lawn in the color used for the decoration.

The Original Wire Tapper.

James Anderson, the veteran newspaperman, whose death has just been reported at St. John, N.B., might have been the father of all the "wire tappers," but for defective legislation.

Fifty or sixty years ago he was the St. John correspondent of the original New York Associated Press, whose founder and proprietor was D. H. Craig. There were no cables at that time, and the big weekly stunt of Craig's news agency was to furnish its clients with a summary of European news dropped off the steamer at Halifax and forwarded part way by wire, part way by horse and local steamer express so as to reach New York a day ahead of the liner.

One day while this report was being transmitted from Halifax the wire failed in St. John, and after some search it was discovered it had been maliciously cut. Circumstances pointed strongly to Anderson, who was arrested and put on trial. There was a suspicion, too, that Craig himself was in collusion with the perpetrator of this new crime, as Anderson could have no motive.

But the truth of the matter never came out, for when the case came to trial it was found that under the existing law no offence had been committed. The statute protected the wire from St. John to the United States border, and from St. John to the boundary between Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, but it was the wire running through the town which had been cut, and the Act didn't mention that at all.

A Keen Farmer.

The selection of chairmen of committees of the House of Commons at Ottawa is a process of recognition of merit. It was therefore natural that when the committee on agriculture and colonization found themselves a week or two ago without a presiding officer, they named Mr. Malcolm S. Schell of South Oxford. Mr. Schell is not only a farmer himself, but an instructor of farmers, for he went about the province with Prof. J. W. Robertson addressing dairymen's conventions even before farmers' institutes were inaugurated. In those days Mr. Schell was little more than a boy, and the work he then undertook followed the reading of a paper at the Western Dairymen's Association.

Mr. Schell was born in Oxford, on a farm close to where he now resides, between Woodstock and Ingersoll and now conducts farming operations over several hundred acres of land. He takes a special interest in dairying and keeps a herd of 40 thoroughbred Holsteins. He has long been connected with agricultural exhibitions, and was president of the Woodstock Fair for many years. He entered the House of Commons in 1904, and last year made a distinct impression by his speeches to the budget, and on the transportation of farm products to the British market.

A Queer Battle.

A traveler in South Africa tells of a singular combat that he witnessed. He was musing one morning with his eyes on the ground when he noticed a caterpillar crawling along at a rapid pace, followed by hundreds of small ants. Being quicker in their movements, the ants would catch up with the caterpillar, and one would mount his back and bite him. Pausing, the caterpillar would turn his head and bite the ant and kill his tormentor. After slaughtering a dozen or more of his persecutors the caterpillar showed signs of fatigue. The ants made a combined attack. Betaking himself to a stalk of grass, the caterpillar climbed up tail first, followed by the ants. As one approached he seized it in his jaws and threw it off the stalk. The ants, seeing the caterpillar had too strong a position for them to overcome, resorted to strategy. They began sawing through the grass stalk. In a few moments the stalk fell, and hundreds of ants pounced upon the caterpillar. It was killed at once.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Furnished by J. N. Barber.—

New York, April 20.—Stocks opened strong and higher, being influenced chiefly by higher prices in London and some pool manipulation. Reading was the most active and gained a point over yesterday. Beet Sugar and Locomotive were marked up, and there was some good buying in the Hill stocks. The market flattened out after the first hour however, and then slowly sagged off. Most of the early gains were lost and some stocks sold down below last night's closing. The decline was on light transactions and very quiet. C. P. R. was run up while the others declined and gained two points. There was no news accompanying its rise. London was a good buyer on balance here. After noon the market was disposed to rally again.

MAPLE SUGAR INDUSTRY.

Southeastern Quebec Makes as Much as In All the Rest of Canada.

By an opportune coincidence the report of the Department of Inland Revenue on the adulteration of food came to hand just as the March sunshine was beginning to once more cause the sap in the leafless trees to circulate, and when the corner shop candy man goes home with a dollar's worth of Muscovado sugar and the next day his window is made alluring to school children by piles of little heart-shaped cakes of "maple." In fact, during these mid-March days, when winter has gone but spring still stands aloof, it is no uncommon sight to see in the windows of places more pretentious than the candy shops "new maple sugar" and "fresh maple syrup" days before a farmer anywhere between the St. Lawrence river and the Green Mountains has tapped a tree or gathered a bucket of sap. All of which leads one to take up the report and turn to the section treating of the adulteration of maple products.

According to the report there were examined last year by the Government analyst 257 samples of maple sugar, or in round numbers only on an average 20 for each of the 13 districts into which the Dominion for this purpose is divided. Probably the southeastern counties of Quebec produce about as much sugar as is made in all the rest of Canada. Only 20 samples produced in that section were analyzed, so that it cannot be claimed that the work of detecting adulteration is very thoroughly performed. Four of the leading maple sugar counties are Stanstead, Shefford, Brome and Missisquoi, but of the products of those counties only one sample of sugar and three of syrup were examined. How far the total results of the examinations are an indication of the purity of the maple products placed on the market is a question.

However, here are the results such as they are: Of the 257 samples of sugar examined 5 were found to be mixtures, 57 were adulterated, 10 were doubtful, and 185 were pure; that is, the analyst was able to pronounce pure only 72 per cent. of the sugar examined. If that proportion runs through the trade it is no wonder there is found in the cities so much sugar that is maple to the eye, but anything but maple to the taste.

Only 214 samples of syrup were tested. Of these 185 were found to be genuine, 2 were doubtful, 16 were "maple flavor," 21 were mixtures or compounds," and 20 were adulterated. The mixture or compound when so marked is not a violation of law.

Anyway the public have this consolation — the adulterant in maple products is harmless, in fact, with the exception of the flavor it is as good as the article adulterated, for it is cane sugar — worth, of course, not quite half as much as the price maple is sold at.

The Senator's Mistake.

The recent discussion in the House of Commons over the abuse of the franking privilege as regards campaign literature recalls an incident which took place in a western city in the campaign of 1904. A certain Senator from the West was in the habit of making purchases of domestic supplies in the east and franking them home.

During the course of the campaign the Senator received a request from the Conservative committee in his home town asking for some campaign literature. He wired back that he had mailed a generous supply, and one night the Conservative committee gathered in force to receive the precious literature. The secretary produced the bag, and, with due ceremony, it was opened, but alas! somebody had mixed the labels, and instead of the expected campaign literature, the bag was found to contain a generous supply of toilet materials!

The campaign literature had been delivered to the Senator's office in the same building, and there had to be a transfer of the contents before the election fight could proceed. You don't want to mention franking domestic articles in that Senator's presence nowadays.

The Versatile Growl.

"What's that dog doing, ma?"

"He is eating his dinner, Jimmie."

"What makes him growl that way?"

"He is enjoying his dinner."

"Huh! He's different from pa, isn't he?"—Judge.

FATHER COLLINS PASSED AWAY

Died in Bracebridge Yesterday Morning. Funeral Will Be Held on Thursday.

The news of the death of Rev. Father T. F. Collins, the parish priest of Bracebridge was received in the city yesterday with the profoundest regret. The late Father Collins had been in failing health for some time gradually growing worse until the end came. In his death His Lordship Bishop O'Connor is again called upon to mourn the loss of a zealous priest who practically died in the performance of his duties.

The late Rev. Timothy Francis Collins was born in the township of Cavan, Durham county, in 1855, and was therfore at the time of his death in his fifty-fourth year. He went to Lindsay with his parents when he was two years of age, and pursued his early studies at the separate school, afterwards attending St. Michael's College, Toronto. On finishing his theological course at the Grand Seminary, Montreal, he was afterwards ordained to the priesthood in this city, by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, in September, 1891. He was attached to St. Peter's Cathedral until 1895 when he was appointed to the parish at Wooler, Northumberland County.

In 1897 His Lordship Bishop O'Connor appointed Rev. Father Collins to the extensive parish of Bracebridge

He was well known here and his numerous friends and acquaintances will be grieved to learn of his death. His great work in his parish will stand as a monument to his zeal and seilf-sacrificing labours on behalf of his church

The funeral will take place from Gravenhurst at the conclusion of the celebration of requiem mass on Wednesday, and the remains will be brought to Lindsay by G.T.R., arriving on the 8.05 train that evening. They will remain in St. Mary's Church over night and on Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock solemn requiem mass will be chanted, after which the remains will be interred in the family plot at the cemetery.

THE BOXING BOUT WILL BE FAST

Corney Burns in Good Shape for His Match With the Unknown Next Week.

Great interest has been taken in the announcement that Corney Burns is to box ten rounds next Monday night with an unknown, and there is much speculation as to the identity of the latter. It is said that he is a well-known Toronto boxer, who has a reputation more than local but he will need to be good to bother Burns, who is in fine shape just now and aching for a chance to show what he can do in fast company. Boxing is very popular in Peterborough, but it is a long time since they have had a chance to see a long bout, and no doubt the fight fans will crowd the roller rink next Monday night, when the bout is pulled off. Several fast preliminaries will round out the bill, which will furnish the best night's sport seen here in a long time.

FENBERG STOCK CO.

Made a Big Hit With Patrons of the Grand Opera House Last Night.

The Fenberg Stock Company made their first appearance in Peterborough last night at the Grand Opera House before an audience that was large and enthusiastic, the Company quickly winning a place in the hearts of the theatre-goers present. From the first curtain it was a triumph for the company, who will be prime favourites for the rest of their stay in Peterborough. The company is head and shoulders above the average travelling stock concern, and are well worth seeing. Their cast is without a weak spot, the specialties are above the average and the productions are well mounted and staged. Their opening vehicle was David Higgins' romantic Southern drama, "At Piney Ridge," in which a big hit was scored. Frank Thomas, as Jack Rose, was especially clever. The specialties were high-class throughout, the work of Miss Marie McNeill, cornetist, and Mr Chas. Hammond, hoop roller being as good as anything in this line ever seen here. The Fenberg Stock Company will always be welcome to Peterborough, if all their productions are as good as last night's performance.

COOPER TO ENTER WALKING RACE

Speedy Little Britisher One of the First To Send in His Name for Contest.

Jack Cooper the little English walker, who started in the six day walking match here last spring, and will be remembered as making the fastest mile negotiated during the contest, has written asking to be entered in the six day race which will be pulled off in the Brock St. rink next month. He has been training for some time and will be in much better shape this year than he was on his last appearance and if such proves to be the case he will certainly make Hoagland and Company look to their laurels as the little Britisher has oceans of speed. There will be a record field of entrants in the big event.

WILL BRING DOWN LOGS

Men Left This Morning to Float Winter's Cut.

Thirty-five men left the city this morning to drive back to Eel's Lake where they will commence the work of bringing down the Peterborough Lumber Company's logs. Three or four busses left Gibb's Livery Stables this morning with the men all in good spirits. The drive is about 70 miles. The logs will be floated down into Eel's Creek and on down into the other lakes and brought down the river.

Will Be Held Next Sunday in the Crystal as Usual—Last This Spring.

Several of the societies have already consented to take part in the meeting. There will be special music, and, as it will be the last meeting this spring, a large attendance is requested. The meetings will be resumed in September. The reason no meeting was held last Sunday was because of the mass meeting held at the same hour in the Y. M. C. A.

MAJESTIC'S FIRST TRIP.

Steamer Came Down from the Point to Lakefield To-day.

Mr. Frank Young of Young's Point, was in the city to-day at the Snowden House. The ice has not left the Lakes yet, but has begun to break up. EL REYS ARE SKILFUL

Clever Roller Skating Children Give a Clever Performance at Auditorium

Unfortunately the many counter attractions last night interfered with the attendance at the Auditorium Roller Rink, where the El Rey sisters, the wonderful child skaters, made their debut in Peterborough before a very small audience. The few that were there, however, were most enthusiastic over the performance, and rightly so, for it is safe to say that two more clever roller skaters never appeared in Peterborough. Their act is bright, fascinating and new, and their skating is something that must be seen to be appreciated. They were handicapped last night by the fact that the band was unable to be present, but skating without music their act was a treat, and a visit to the rink this week any night will be amply rewarded. When the age of the performers is considered, their skating is marvellous, and they are certainly well worth seeing. The El Reys will be at the rink for the balance of the week.

THE ANT.

Facts About One of Nature's Most Industrious Creatures.

When Spring comes with all its wealth of opening buds and new flowers, the ant is preparing for a season of profitable industry.

It comes out of its winter quarters and locates a new home where it can store away, during the summer months the sustenance for the long winter days.

Just as industrious as the ant, but in a different way, are the countless infintesmal germs which burrow into the scalp and eat away at the roots of the hair.

As they burrow away Dandruff forms, and if the germs are not all killed, Baldness results.

Newbro's Herpicide is the only known remedy which kills the germs.

THE SONS OF SCOTLAND

Open Meeting Last Night Was a Successful and Enjoyable Affair.

An open meeting of the Sons of Scotland was held last night and was attended by a goodly number of the members and some of their friends. Brother J. Mathieson occupied the chair and a programme of music entertained those present.

The programme was in the hands of Brother Linton, who carried out his duties very acceptably.

Brother Bogue spoke of the work that Grand Organizer had done and asked the members of the order to work for that order as it was one which all Scotsmen should belong to.

Songs were given [illegible] other Weatherson and also violin selections. A recitation by J. Adam, which was given in his usual good and jovial way, most delightful.

After the singing of Auld Lang Syne, the meeting closed with God Save the King.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

SIMPSON WAS STUFFED UP WITH COLD AND NEVER RAN LIKE HE DID AT ROSEDALE, SAYS W. A. HEWITT

Peterborough Indian Was Not in Shape, and Although He Held on Gamely, Tom Eck Took Him Out Rather Than Risk Permanently Injuring Him.

THE SWEDE WAS VERY GOOD.

W. A. Hewitt, Sporting Editor of the Toronto Star, saw the Simpson-Svanberg race, and this is what he says about it :—

New York, April 19.—John Svanberg, of Sweden, defeated Fred Simpson, the Canadian Indian long distance runner, at Celtic Park yesterday before 3,500 spectators in a race over the Marathon distance, the Ojibway thunderbolt, upon the advice of Trainer Tom Eck, leaving the track after 16 1-2 miles had been completed, when his sturdy Swedish opponent had a lead of over half a mile, and was increasing his advantage every turn of the track.

Said Eck after the race: "Simpson simply was not himself to-day. He was all stuffed up with a bad cold, and had not recovered from the ill effects of the race a week ago in Toronto with Appleby. Simpson was all stiffened up with the cold from that icy wind, and simply couldn't strike his stride to-day. When I saw him labouring I decided that it was best for him to quit, as he had no chance to-day with Svanberg, who is a very strong runner, and the equal of the best at the Marathon distance."

Simpson certainly did not run like he did at Rosedale. That free-and-easy action which characterized his running in Toronto was conspicuous by its absence, and it seemed an effort for him to run from the very beginning. Conditions were ideal for the race. The weather was fine and warm, and a cooling breeze tempered the heat of the season. The cinder track was well rolled on the rail where the men ran, and was four laps to the mile. The footing was excellent every inch of the course.

Simpson wore a white Irish-Canadian jersey, with a maple leaf on the breast, and pants of the same colour. Svanberg's costume was black pants with blue stripes, and a combination design on a white jersey, consisting of the colours of the Swedish Athletic Union and the Irish-Americans. Simpson's shoes covered his ankles, while Svanberg wore low shoes and no socks, the insides of his shoes being padded with the soft material used in the manufacture of boxing gloves.

Simpson and Svanberg presented a strange contrast on the starting mark, the Indian, long, lean, black haired, and copper coloured, while the Swede was short, stocky, red faced, and with the straw coloured hair peculiar to his countrymen.

Simpson set the pace for the first eight miles, but could never get very far away from his opponent. Svanberg was running under restraint, with a short but sure stride, and with the greatest confidence in himself. He carried cork grips and a handkerchief in his hands and took no refreshment, while Simpson, who appeared to be doing his best all the time, frequently applied his handkerchief, and several times took refreshment.

Simpson Hung On

Between the eighth and the ninth miles, Svanberg took the lead for the first time, and set a faster pace than the Indian had been hitting up. Simpson seemed to relish the change, and dropped in behind his opponent, holding his own gamely until the last lap of the eleventh mile, when he began to fall off and the little Swede commenced to open up a gap. Once he broke away, Svanberg gained rapidly, and at the twelfth mile could see his opponent losing ground on the opposite side of the track.

Simpson tried hard to prevent the Swede from lapping him, but he simply hadn't it in him, and as the Swede finished the fourteenth mile he gained the covered lap, to the great enjoyment of all present, except a little band of loyal Canadians, who encouraged the Indian with shouts of encouragement from the side-lines.

Simpson held on for another lap, but that was a final effort, and he was a very tired Indian when Svanberg lapped him for the second time at the sixteenth mile. Tom Eck's advice to quit was sound sense, as a continuation meant possible injury to the Indian. He accordingly left the track to the accompaniment of uncomplimentary remarks from the crowd.

Roasted by Crowd

"That's just like an Indian," said one man, "as long as he's in front he's all right, but get ahead of him, and he'll curl up every time."

"Well, there's some excuse for this Indian," said his companion, "he comes from Canada, where the snow is too deep to practise running. You know the trains only run for three months of the year in Canada. The rest of the time the country is all snowed up."

Had No Ginger

Charlie Querrie, of Toronto, who was judge for Simpson, thought that the Indian ran about the same kind of a race he did against Shrubb in the Armouries. He never at any stage displayed the life or ginger he did against Appleby.

Alfred Shrubb got in from Toronto in time to see the race, and though unannounced, received a great hand from the crowd. He looked the runners over before the race, and called Svanberg to win. The Swede, who is shorter even than Shrubb, but is muscular like a gymnast, said he was never in better condition in his life, and was sure of winning and getting recognition from the top-notchers. George Bonhag, the record breaker, was chief timer. Harry Pollok was on hand, and announced a Marathon for the Polo Grounds, New York, Saturday, May 8, in which the winner of the Canadian Derby will be allowed to start. The record for yesterday's race, as far as it was a contest, is appended :—

1—Simpson...40 yards	5.16 4-5

Simpson quit at 16 miles 2 laps, when 2 1-4 laps behind Svanberg.

SIMPSON TO TRAIN FAITHFULLY FOR THE CANADIAN MARATHON

Fred Simpson arrived in the city on the noon C.P.R. train on his way to his home in Hiawatha, after travelling directly from New York, where on Sunday he met Svanberg, the Swede, Simpson referring to the race, stated that he was crippled by a cold and stiffness in one leg, which troubled him before he started to run. After his race at Rosedale, in which he defeated Appleby he did not have a rub down for two hours and the effect of the 25 miles' jaunt tied up his muscles, especially in one leg. Fred is going out after the Canadian Marathon on May 1st and will begin to prepare for it in a few days. He is sanguine of winning it, and at this stage believes that he has as good a chance as the next one in the field of entries. Simpson, speaking of Jackson, or "Red Hawk," as he is known, states he is not afraid of him in spite of what the papers say of his running abilities.

Fred realizes that the winner of this event will have an open door to the fastest company in the world, and will be given a position among the starters in the big Marathon, which the sport promoters in New York are now planning.

HOAGLAND GAINS ON SECOND NIGHT OF THE WALKING MATCH

The Oswego Palladium says of the second night of the walking match, in which Hoagland, Blake and Fenton are taking part :—

A large crowd was present last night at the walking match in the Armoury. The walkers started at 8.20. West set the pace, Brown second and Hoagland third. Brown had seven laps on Hoagland at the start, and it took "Bill" until the sixth mile, the pace was so fast, to gain two laps on Brown, and at the finish had only scored one more.

There were some fast sprints between Hoagland and Brown all during the race, and Fenton, although troubled with cramps, put up a plucky fight and did some fine work, securing three laps on Adie and Howell. Blake, the coloured walker, threatened to quit because his scorer fell asleep and missed giving him eight laps. The matter was adjusted before the end of the race.

The score at last night's finish was :—

	Miles	Laps
Brown	33	8
Hoagland	33	4
West	32	8
Blake	32	3
Fenton	31	14
Adie	31	3
Howell	31	—

Notes of the Contest

All the walkers appear to be in good condition to-day.

Some changes are looked for in the position of the men to-night.

A great race for fourth position is going on.

Brown will make Hoagland hustle to overtake him.

West is walking strong and will make a bid for first place.

MANY TEAMS LIKELY TO HAVE REPRESENTATIVES AT THE MEETING

The annual meeting of the Intermediate City Baseball League will be held to-night at eight o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. Among the new teams that will be on hand, two are expected from East City. The rumour has also been circulated that the Collegiate Institute would be represented. The south ward should have a nine and several of the churches are spoken of as having a team ready. The Strathcona management is determined to be represented, also the West Ends, Y. M. C. A., T. A. S. and probably several other teams. It is assured that the number of entries will be large enough and the main question to be considered is whether an age limit shall be adopted or not.

HASSAN ABDALLAH WAS CANDY KID

Montreal Herald Says He Ran a Store in Montreal and Was Always a Joke in the Wrestling Game.

"Bystander" in the Montreal Herald says :—

There has always been a suspicion that there's a good deal of easy money in Toronto. Never having got any of it myself, I can't say for certain, but judging from the manner in which some of the newspapers of the Queen City talk of the big interchanges of coin of the realm on the wrestling game going on there, one would surmise that it was more or less of a cinch. And what do you think they bet on? Why none others than our old friends Yankee Rogers and Hassan Abdallah. If you are a wrestling fan yourself, you will recognize both of them as discards of the Sohmer Park stable. Hassan Abdallah, the "Terrible Turk," the "subject of the Sultan," and all the other flowery epithets they give him, was just plain Karakanoff in Montreal a couple of years ago, and a good deal of a joke as a wrestler into the bargain. But in Toronto both of them go down as the real goods, and from the blood curdling accounts of their doings you'd think they were a pair of world beaters. Karakanoff ran a candy store on Notre Dame street not so long since.

BICYCLE MARATHON THE LATEST FAD

New York, April 19.—The first bicycle Marathon race ever held in the world and what is likely to prove the greatest handicap road race ever held in America, is on the calendar for Sunday, June 13th. The event was sanctioned by the National Cycling Association more than a month ago, and the preliminary arrangements have been promulgated so successfully that already nearly 100 prizes have been secured. A 1909 motor-cycle will be offered as first prize, and Colonel Albert A. Pope, the father of bicycling in America, has donated a racing bicycle as second prize.

In order to attract riders from all parts of the country and make the first bicycle Marathon the national event of 1909, special prizes will be awarded newsboys, letter carriers, schoolboys, messenger boys, members of the militia, etc., so that it will be possible for one rider to win several prizes. The Roy Wheelmen, of New York, who are promoting the event, have secured Val Valiant to manage the details and entry blanks may be secured by addressing him at No. 1947 Broadway, New York. The race will be open to amateurs throughout the world, and arrangements are being consummated to bring over the champions of Germany, France, Italy, Denmark and Holland.

MARATHON RACING AND SUNDAY DESECRATION

To the Editor The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I am a great admirer of Fred Simpson, the splendid long-distance excursionist and commend him for his good steady habits and his being unspoiled by success. But I, and thousands of other Canadians, condemn him for competing in a race on Sunday in defiance of the universal sentiment of the country he represented, which still, regards Sunday as a holy day and not a holiday. In taking part in this race Simpson alienated the good opinion of thousands of his friends and deprived himself of the sympathy which would have been his if he had failed in contesting a race under the condition of Christian civilization—a decent regard for the sacredness of the Lord's Day. A Marathon race on Sunday would not be allowed in Canada, and a Canadian should not do in another country what the law of the Lord and decent public sentiment will not sanction.

We have in this country commercialized healthy sport to a large enough degree, without adding Sabbath day desecration.

DOINGS IN BIG LEAGUES

The Brooklyn Superbas stopped the victorious career of Boston in the National League yesterday and as a result the Bean eaters dropped to second place in the League race, Cincinnati going to the front. Philadelphia beat the Giants, but the Cubs and Pirates did not play on account of rain.

Broke Even With Brooklyn

Boston had a double-header with Brooklyn, and they broke even, the home team winning in the morning and the Superbas in the afternoon. In the morning game both teams played errorless ball, but Boston collected twelve hits off Bell and won by 3 to 2. In the afternoon, however, McIntyre pitched splendid ball for the Superbas, holding the homesters to four hits, while McCarthy was hit freely, the Brooklynites gathering ten hits and five runs while Boston was blanked.

Phillies Beat Giants

The Phillies with the Giants as their victims won their first game of the season, beating McGraw's bunch by 3 to 2, by bunching hits on Crandall in the third innings. Moren was effective for the Phillies and was saved at critical moments by sensational catches by Osborne and Magee. New York worked three pitchers, Crandall, Durham and "Bugs" Raymond.

Reds Won From Cardinals

Cincinnati with Fromme pitching, cleaned up St. Louis 3 to 2, although the Cardinals made eight hits as compared with four by the Reds. Beebe and Higgenbothom were on the rubber for St. Louis.

American League

In the American League the games at Detroit and St. Louis were called on account of rain and wet grounds, and the Tigers are still well at the head of the heap, being the only team in either of the major Leagues that has not dropped a game.

Taft Saw Senators Lose

Boston beat Washington 8 to 4 in a one-sided game. Gray was wild and ineffective for the Senators, while Cyotto and Steele pitched good ball for Boston and were given good support. President Taft saw the game.

Won in the Seventh

The lucky seventh won for New York against Philadelphia. The Highlanders were shut out until the seventh, when they landed on Vickers for a triple, two singles and two passes, and ran in three runs, winning the game by 4 to 2. Vickers and Dygert pitched for the Phillies and Doyle and Warhop for the Highlanders.

Montreal Gets Winters

George Winters, the hoodoo American League twirler, has been secured by Montreal from Detroit and the Beavers will get another big League flinger. Jimmy Casey was presented with a gold watch at Lawrence, Mass. and responded by making four errors.

RUNNING.

Among those entered in the Canadian Marathon on May 1st is R. J. Hatton, the veteran Toronto runner and walker, who took part in the six day walking match here last spring. It will be remembered that Hatton was obliged to drop out in the middle of the week through illness, and that on the night of the walkers' benefit he hooked up with Davy Hartley in a three mile go-as-you-please contest, in which the local man won handily.

It is hoped that Fred Simpson rounds into shape for the big Marathon. It is imperative that the Mississauga should win that race if he expects to do anything at the running game. His defeat on Sunday by Svanberg has given him rather a black eye in New York, but by winning the Canadian Derby he will have the "Open Sesame" to the American Derby the week after, and other money-making races. He will have some tough opposition, especially if Hans Holmer decides to enter. The Halifax galloper is some runner, and although the full Marathon distance may not be to his liking, he may be able to go the route. He certainly ran a beautiful race in Hamilton last Thanksgiving Day, and will be a formidable factor in the big race. Red Hawk and John D. Marsh are the other bad ones in the heap, and both may be troublesome. If Simpson is right, however, he should clean up, and Tom Eck did well to take him out of Sunday's race as soon as he saw him in distress.

BOWLING.

At a meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Bowling League held last night, it was decided to wind up the League by playing out the games that may affect the standing of the first two teams — the Pacifics and the Examiner A. Each have several games to play, including a series between the two leaders, and these will be played off to decide the championship. The other teams are out of the race, and will only play the games that they may have scheduled with the leaders. There will be prizes for the first and second team, for the best single game, for the best cross alley score and for the high average.

LACROSSE

A meeting of the Lacrosse Club is called for to-night at 7.30, at the Crown Hotel, when matters of importance will be discussed.

UGLY SKIN SORES.

ZAM-BUK REMOVES THEM.

It is just at this season that pimples, blotches, sores, scrofulous ailments, and eruptions generally, make themselves most felt. Zam-Buk will be found of wonderful use wherever there is skin eruption or deep-seated ulceration. Pimples, blotches, and irritating rashes on the face and other parts of the body indicate a disturbance of the functions of the skin. Impure matter, which the blood should discharge by means of the skin, is allowed to remain in the pores, the process of "exhalation" is interrupted, and just where the bad matter collects, there pimples, ulcers, and sores quickly appear, and the skin tissue suffers. To be complete, the treatment must be of two kinds. The sufferer may help to diminish the supply of impurities by taking no rich, greasy and indigestible foods; but, to remove the impurities themselves, the pores must be opened and the skin made healthier by the vigorous application of Zam-Buk, morning and night, and washing frequently with some pure soap. There is none better than the antiseptic Zam-Buk Medicinal and Toilet Soap. Zam-Buk balm stimulates the functions of the skin by the penetration of its refined herbal essences, and thus reaches the root of the disease.

Mr .Arthur B. Griffin, of 191, Picton Street, E. Hamilton, says:—"I was greatly troubled with pimples and blotches breaking out on my face. I tried a number of remedies, and also specially dieted, yet the pimples and blotches remained. Acting on the suggestion of a friend, I began using Zam-Buk, and was much pleased to find an improvement after several applications. The itching was alleviated, and the inflammation seemed less. As I continued the Zam-Buk treatment, the pimples and blotches became less sore, the itching was cured altogether, and inflammation banished. In the course of a short time every blotch and pimple was removed."

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for cuts, lacerations, burns, eczema, ringworm, poisoned wounds, festering sores, bad leg, and all skin injuries and diseases. It is also a cure for piles. Druggists and Stores everywhere sell at 50c. a box, or post-free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, on receipt of price.

Dr. Marsh's Interesting Talk On The Photosphere Of The Sun

Was Given Last Evening Before the Peterborough Astronomical Society in the Collegiate Institute —Illustrated With a Number of Slides.

CAUSE OF THE AURORA.

Although the attendance was only fairly large, the meeting of the Peterborough Royal Astronomical Society last evening in the Collegiate Institute was none the least interesting. Rev. Dr. Marsh, the president, gave a most instructive talk on the Photosphere of the Sun. It was illustrated by a number of slides and certainly must have been exceedingly profitable to those interested in the study of astronomy.

The chairman of the evening, was Mr. T. A. S. Hay. He said that he was sure everyone was delighted to see Rev. Dr. Marsh again at their meetings, after his serious illness. The doctor had been much missed by the society during the winter. The chairman regretted that there were not more present but the Astronomical Society had been unfortunate in always striking an evening for their meetings when there were several counter attractions.

Dr. Marsh in beginning his lecture said that he appreciated very much the kind words of the chairman. He was deeply interested in the society and was glad to be able to be back again. Dr. Marsh compared his observation on his own astronomical transit with the time, Mr. Fiske had received from Montreal and there was no variance.

Speaking of the Solar Photosphere, Dr. Marsh said that there were several methods of observing through the telescope. One of these was by having what is called a solar cap, that is to say a cap containing a piece of glass and the extreme light of the sun was blocked out. Then there was the method of looking through what was known as a Herschel prism. The third means was by the Polarising eye piece This was a combination of prisms which allowed one to observe it without any light whatever. A fourth way was the reflecting or projecting method. Telescopes were now made suitable for photography and a splendid means of examining the sun was by taking photographs of it. During an eclipse when only a portion of it was visible, was a good opportunity to observe it closely.

When the sun was observed by any of the above methods excepting the last one, the Photosphere was only seen. Slides showing the Photosphere were thrown on the canvas. The cromosphere and prominences on the sun were also pointed out. While all the sun was covered with gases, only a portion of them were visible. The sun in its entirety was shown, the speaker dealing instructively with the various limbs, as he termed them. The corona or crown of the sun was only visible at an eclipse. Looking at the photosphere, towards the outer limbs, it was darker and the faculae of torchlights as they were sometimes called, came out more prominently. A slide illustrating the fire on the sun was shown. Sometimes these fires were immense bodies, projecting thousands of miles into space from the edge of the sun.

A great many people wondered what the aurora borealis was. The aurora was caused from the condition of the sun. The earth and the sun were great magnetic powers, one affecting the other. When there were great solar disturbances, the compass needle was of little use. In 1895 when there was a large sun spot on the sun, the telegraph system was disconnected for hours between Chicago and New York. The magnetics of the sun coming in contact with the terrestrial magnetics caused the aurora.

Sometimes the sun appeared very clear. Then in the course of a few days dark spots came on it. Some astronomers have said that, sun spots were caused by foreign matter being attracted by the sun. But if such was the case they would fall on the sun in an instant. Instead they have been seen to develop from little dots to immense masses.

It was thought that sun spots were vent holes from where the gas that was not on fire was shooting forth.

At the conclusion, questions were asked the speaker which were clearly explained by him.

Mr. Hay expressed the thanks of the Society for the excellent lecture he had given them.

THE AMERICAN INVASION OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST

Winnipeg, Man., April 21st.—The American invasion of Western Canada is more pronounced this year than ever before in the history of "the last west". Every north-bound train brings prosperous American farmers, who have sold out "south of the line" to make their home under the British flag. It is not by tens and dozens that they are coming but by hundreds and thousands, and estimates carefully prepared by Government agents show that fully 70,000 Americans will settle in Western Canada this year.

The majority of these homeseekers to various Saskatchewan points where most of them buy land, only a small percentage of them taking up homesteads. Hearing of the large profits made in the past in the new towns, a number of them are locating along the route of the Grand Trunk Pacific R. R.—Canada's new transcontinental. The divisional points along this system are attracting considerable attention on account of the possibilities for them becoming cities within a very few years. However, Melville, which is to be the operating base of some 2,000 miles of the company's system seems to be the favourite of them all. There a town of 1,300 people, mostly Americans, has sprung up within the past eight months. A year ago Melville was nothing but bare prairie; last December it was incorporated as a village and in November of this year it will be incorporated as a town. The statement issued by the assessor places the value of the property in Melville at $724,000, and these figures will be doubled before another month, if only one quarter of the buildings planned for immediate construction are erected.

Rapidly Melville is becoming the American city of Western Canada for it is American capital and American population, to a very large extent, which has built up the prosperous little town during the past nine months.

Says People Of England Are Not As Loyal As Canadians

Editor Daily Examiner.

Sir,—In your issue of yesterday I saw a double-headed column entitled "Says Proper Respect is not Shown While National Anthem is Played." This letter is signed Englishman. Now, Sir, whilst commending the patriotism of "Englishman, let me advise him that there is an "Old Saw" which says: "Charity begins at home." This quotation is somewhat applicable to what this scion of the Mother Country complains of. Some few years ago I spent a few months in Lincoln, England. While in that metropolis I visited most of the leading theatres and music halls. The performances given in the various places of amusement I visited, and they included the best in the world, struck me nightly that something was missing, decidedly missing I left these different places feeling that something was wanting. At last I found what was lacking. This was the National Anthem, God Save the Queen (as it was then). I remember distinctly saying to my friend, a born Londoner: "In Canada we are much more loyal to the Queen than you people right here in London. Any Canadian place of amusement that omitted 'God Save the Queen' would be boycotted at once." His only reply was "Well, the people here are loyal, but don't think of "God Save the Queen." I think in the face of this, Mr. Englishman might better start a patriotic missionary crusade in London before airing his views here and trying to teach patriotism to the people of Canada, the most loyal in the world

THE WOMEN WHOFORGET ARE THE WOMEN WHO NEVER GROW OLD

Nowadays one encounters everywhere women who have reached the highnoon mark of life's dial, and even gone past it, yet whose bloom will defy the touch of a moist towel, and whose smooth, unfurrowed faces have the freshness of youth with the subtle added charm of the expression of experience.

They are the women who have acquired the faculty of forgetting.

Ofttimes they are women whose lives have been a succession of heartbreaking, tear-making tragedies.

A quiet life is not all that is needed to make a woman keep her youth and good looks. The truth is that a quiet life will not keep a woman young.

The woman who would keep her youth, her friends' admiration, must have a change, a variety, a certain amount of excitement, learn to be broad, to keep abreast with the times, to think big, new thoughts, to have fresh emotions, and, above all, to appreciate what a consummate idiot she is making of herself when she sheds a single, solitary, stupid tear over slights that are past.

She teaches herself to clear her mind of every gloomy, selfish, angry or revengeful thought—to allow no resentment or grudge toward man or fate to stay in her heart overnight.

She thinks of the glorious possibilities of this grand old world of ours, how much each day means, and what possibilities of happiness and usefulness it contains if well spent.

That if one dwells on small worries grows angry, resentful, revengeful, what a great and inexcusable folly she is committing. She is wasting life and tottering discontentedly to an unloved old age.

The woman who gets the most out of life, who retains her youth, is the one who has made the development of a noble and harmonious character her business of life.

She accepts her sorrows and disappointments as a means of a greater growth, and finds in them an exaltation of spirit which is closely allied with happiness.

And as she looks back across the wide stretch of years she recognizes that her sorrows, after all, have made her grow in self-control, in charity of judgment, in a sense of justice, in generosity, and in unselfishness.

The woman who never forgets is invariably selfish, and selfishness is very ageing and unattractive. Women rarely think that it is ill-nature that makes them old and lets Father Time wrinkle their faces, showing the failure they have made of life.

These women allow certain things to dominate them. They do not realize that if they would keep young at heart, and that means young outside in spite of years, they must banish petulant moods, combat irritability, and learn how to forget.

That they must cultivate kindness and the habit of courtesy and thoughtfulness until it becomes a part of their character.

For this is the part that tends to the eternal youthful spirit if the cares and troubles of life are met in the right way. It is the part that bids defiance to Father Time and his advancing years, it is the only part really worth while.

Fiction

After Five Years

By FRANCES WILSON.

"We'll have tea, I think," she said in a meditative manner, leaning her cheek against two fingers of her left hand, "and perhaps some of those little cakes, the ones that are so tempting on the outside and all emptiness on the inside."

From her tone Lorrimer understood that she meant to intimate that the artistic unities demanded cakes of this description. He translated the order into man talk for the benefit of the obsequious waiter and then asked with the air of one who was used to being made a confidant of:

"What's the trouble? Because I've noticed that when you order tea it is an infallible sign of a disturbed conscience."

There was a flash of mirth in her eyes as they met his, and she clasped her hands on the edge of the table and leaned toward him, saying in a wheedling way:

"You're the greatest comfort to me. You're the only man I know, ever have known, save one, who always understands! With you it isn't necessary to dot one's i's and cross one's t's."

Having paid him this handsome compliment, she beamed at him across the narrow table and expectantly awaited the question which she knew was sure to follow.

"And the other fellow," he laughed, "the one who shares with me the proud distinction?"

"He's the trouble!" came the answer in a pathetic voice. Then, with sudden vivacity: "Did you ever notice that there's something about the movements of the average waiter that reminds one of Spencerian writing? There's a flowing grace in the way that he removes a dish cover, a flourish in the way that he sets down a plate, which marks him as a human exponent of the Spencerian theory."

Their order had arrived, and it was not until she had poured the tea that she spoke again. Then she burst out indignantly:

"Nobody but a dreamer would think of such a thing as continuing a romance from the point where he left it five years before. It's absurd, you know," she continued candidly. "A person's feelings change from year to year!"

"From season to season would seem to me a more accurate statement," put in her companion, with a suave smile, "unless indeed my experience has been unusual."

"You do understand," she smiled. "You certainly do! Now you would know, wouldn't you, that if a woman were fond of you, say when leg o' mutton sleeves were in fashion, she might—probably would—feel very different by the time that the coat sleeves were de rigueur?"

Her face wore the hopeful expression of a person who has at last found a perfectly rational human being who will see things as they are. Lorrimer drained his cup and set it down deliberately before he replied. Then he said:

"Don't you think you would better begin at the beginning? You're a trifle incoherent, you know."

"That's just it! There wasn't any beginning! And evidently he thinks that there hasn't been any end. It was all so elusive and intangible and so sad! He left so much to the imagination. I think that was a part of his fascination for me. There was a look in his eyes at times that wrung my heart, and from pity I drifted by degrees into something more.

"When we parted I knew that we were sworn to an eternal friendship—sort of ashes of roses affair, you know—and in my own heart I was fully determined never to marry. I was going to be one of those sweet, sad, strong women that you read about."

She screwed her forehead into a knot and looked at him deprecatingly.

"What happened?" he inquired in a sympathetic tone. "You haven't married, it is true, but I have never connected you in my thoughts with a hidden sorrow."

The occupants of an adjoining table rose to go, and her attention was engrossed for a moment by a love of a gown. Then she came back to Lorrimer and her story.

"I suppose that what happened was just—other men!" she said ruefully. "The spirit was willing, but the flesh was weak."

"What in the name of goodness is troubling you then?" asked Lorrimer, thoroughly mystified.

"Why, I had a note from him this morning! He will be in town next Wednesday. His wife is dead."

She composed her face to an expression of perfect propriety before making this announcement, though there was a faint twitching of her lips.

"Ah-h-h! I see. You fear that he is coming to claim his pound of flesh, and you're not of the same mind that you were when it was promised."

She nodded.

"It's not quite nice of me to tell you, but we're very old friends, and I'm really troubled. He's such a nice fellow—just a thoroughgoing idealist—and I know he thinks of me as cherishing his memory, and of course I do," she added quickly, "only not in just the way he thinks. He's had so much sadness in his life that I cannot bear to give him pain. I want him to see for himself that I am different now. I thought of fixing myself up like a perfect frump," she said anxiously, "to receive him and asking you to drop in at ten minutes past 5, not a minute later, so that there won't be any time for"—

"Reminiscences?" prompted Lorrimer, and she assented.

The teapot was empty, and the illusory cakes had vanished. There was a flutter of departing guests all about them, and they rose and made their way homeward.

At precisely 5 o'clock the next day Miss Barry was greeting Mr. Grantham with an expression in her dark eyes which was not well planned, if indeed it was calculated to reconcile him to his fate.

"You've grown, actually grown, since we last met," he said, his handsome, serious face lighting up with pleasure and with a ring of boyish pleasure in his voice which suddenly made her feel very world worn, very callous and very unworthy. "Tell me about yourself—all that you've been doing and thinking," he went on cordially, but with no trace of embarrassment, "and then I'll retaliate in kind."

"I've simply been growing worldly and horrid, and I'm not at all the sort of person that I was five years ago. I've given up my ideals, those exquisite chimeras which seemed so near to us that summer. You see, New York isn't the proper habitat for the soul."

Grantham's deep eyes were bent upon her half in doubt.

"I don't think you are quite fair to yourself," he began gently, and the look in his eyes made her wonder nervously how much longer it would be before Lorrimer appeared.

As if in response to her thought, he was announced at that moment, and the three were soon chatting pleasantly. If Mr. Grantham felt any annoyance at the presence of a third party there was no trace of it in his manner. His eyes rested upon Miss Barry with a look which struck Lorrimer as being of the sort that one gives to an admired but utterly unattainable object. He looked at her as one might look at some beautiful ideal to which he had ceased to aspire.

He also noticed that Miss Barry, with feminine inconsistency, had evidently repented of her determination to "look like a frump." There was something extremely up to date in the way that the dull pink broadcloth swirled around her slender figure, and her dark hair seemed to shine and ripple more exquisitely than usual. Lorrimer decided to seize the first opportunity that presented to him:

And, oh, I am glad that moment sad
Was cheered by sight of me!

It was not until Mr. Grantham rose to go that he said:

"You know perhaps of the death of my twin sister, Mrs. Raymond? She died in Rome six months ago. It was a terrible shock to Mrs. Grantham."

There was a queer little inarticulate exclamation which seemed to come from Miss Barry's lips, while a shade of astonishment flashed across Lorrimer's face. The speaker looked from one to the other in a puzzled way and then continued:

"Mrs. Grantham was with her and will return on the Etruria next week. I want you to meet her, Miss Barry, and see our boys." His face was shining with pride. "I know you will love them."

Miss Barry murmured the usual commonplaces and then added maliciously, with a defiant look straight at Lorrimer:

"I was about to ask for Mrs. Grantham when Mr. Lorrimer joined us. I hope she is very well."

Left alone, she and Lorrimer looked at each other in a nonplused manner for a moment. Then they both burst into peals of laughter.

She finally crossed the room and made a search in the small desk which stood in the alcove and came back, with her eyes bent upon the note in her hand. Sitting down beside Lorrimer, she held it out to him, looking rather foolish.

"It doesn't say that his wife is dead, but wouldn't you think so from the wording and—and from the other circumstances?" she pleaded; then devoutly: "Goodness! I'm glad I wore the pink broadcloth!"

"So am I, dear," replied Lorrimer, and then he went on to say— But it would take too long to tell that.

Influenza Coughs--

Influenza seems to seek out the same victims year after year, and if the disorder is once contracted, one is ever after prone to catch it again. No remedy is so sure to cure, so certain to prevent the dangerous after-effects, as "Nerviline." The germ-killing, soothing, pain-relieving power of Nerviline is the marvel of every doctor. Ten times stronger than ordinary remedies. No wonder it breaks up Coughs, Colds, and Influenza in one day.

Nerviline

"Last Winter," writes J. E. Hemmingway, of Woodstock, "I was stricken down with Influenza. Every bone in my body ached. My chest was tight and sore, breathing was hard, stabbing pains shot through my lungs and made me wince. My head swam with dizziness, and fever and high pulse dragged down my strength. Nothing but Nerviline helped, and it cured me quickly. For all Winter ills I urge every family to use Polson's Nerviline."

All dealers sell Nerviline, large bottles 25 cents.

MILLIONS OF CELLS.

The human body is composed of countless millions of cells. These cells are constantly dying and new ones are being created. Dead cells are removed from the blood by the bowels, kidneys and skin. These great eliminating organs filter this waste matter from the blood, and thus purify the blood.

If there is Constipation, or non-action of the bowels—if the kidneys are strained or weakened—if there is defective skin action—then the dead cells are not removed from the body. The blood thus becomes loaded with impurities, and we suffer for it.

The only way to purify the blood is to cure the skin, bowels and kidneys. When these organs are healthy and doing their work as nature intended them to do it, waste matter is promptly removed and the blood is kept pure and rich. "Fruit-a-tives"—the famous fruit liver tablets—act directly on the skin, the bowels and the kidneys. "Fruit-a-tives" purify the blood because they keep the whole body strong, vigorous and healthy. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Armored Nests.

In the countries where the cactus flourishes it is selected by various birds and other members of the animal kingdom as a place of refuge. There is a special kind of woodpecker in Mexico, a clever bird, which furnishes an illustration of what birds will do.

If the traveler is near a mass of cactus known as the candle cactus he will perceive at some height from the ground a hole in the mass of spiny leaves that appears to be evidence of decay. It was really made by the woodpecker, which pecked away till it made an opening just large enough to get inside the armored tree. It then burrows its way down the middle among the pith till it is right in the center, and there it builds its nest and keeps the eggs from the great heat of the sun and from its enemies.

Rabbits make their homes in the cactus. They burrow under the roots and so keep clear of hunters, who do not appreciate the defensive properties of the plant. If any one attacks a cactus vigorously with a hatchet and manages to clear away some of the protecting spines, he will surprise a whole colony of birds and small animals, the latter on the ground floor and the former in the upper stories.

A Sure Sign.

A Wilmington woman recently reached the conclusion that the attachment of a certain policeman for her cook must be investigated lest it prove disastrous to domestic discipline.

"Do you think he means business, Mary?" she asked.

"I think so, mum," said Mary. "He's begun to complain about my cookin', mum."—Harper's Weekly.

Following Orders.

"Now," said the magistrate, "you must testify only to what you know; no hearsay evidence. Understand?"

"Yes, sir," replied the female witness.

"Your name is Mary Bright, I believe. Now, what's your age?"

"I won't tell you. I have only hearsay evidence on that point."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Then He Shut Up.

"I say, captain," said a smart youth on an ocean vessel, "when you board a vessel, where do you get the timber?"

"From the ship's log, of course," answered the captain.

And the smart youth kept his face closed during the remainder of the voyage.—Detroit Tribune.

Humor

AN ACT OF KINDNESS.

Helped Pay Fares and Handed Out Loose Change In Addition.

Young Mr. Brummagem was riding uptown in the company of nine women. He did not know the women. He simply happened to land in a car in the midst of the bunch. Five of them sat in the front seat of the open car and four in the seat facing it. The tenth passenger was Brummagem. He sat at the end of the seat, and when the conductor came along he obligingly helped to pay the fares—that is, he reached out for the women's money and handed it along—and then when the conductor had counted out the change Brummagem passed it back to his neighbors.

Naturally such a complicated financial arrangement caused some confusion. There were so many fair hands thrust forward at one time that it was hard to keep track of the amount contributed by each, and when the accounts were finally settled possibly no one but the conductor knew just how matters stood. However, he had kept his head level all the way through, so he had no scruples about reaching across toward the woman in the far corner and calling out, "Fare, please!" in very positive tones.

The woman blushed.

"Why, good gracious," she said, "I paid you a long while ago!"

"I didn't get it," said the conductor. "I've got only nine fares."

"But I paid," said the woman. "I gave it to him," and she pointed to Brummagem. "I gave him a quarter. I've been wondering why I didn't get my change back."

Brummagem's face became eloquent with indignation and surprise.

"What!" said he. "You give me a quarter! Well, of all the"—

"Of course I did!" the woman insisted. "Just as if you didn't know it! Conductor, please make him give me the change."

"You'll have to settle that between yourselves," he said. "All I want is the nickel."

And Brummagem, speechless with indignation, gave it to him and handed the woman 20 cents in change.

The conductor grinned. "I guess," said he confidentially, "that after this you had better let folks pay their own fares."

"Thanks," said Brummagem. "I think I shall. It's cheaper."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Effective.

"You are certain it was not your auto that sent this man to the hospital?"

"Sure thing, your honor," replied the chauffeur airily. "If my machine had hit him he'd have gone to the morgue."—Philadelphia Ledger.

WHEN KITTY SINGS.

When Kitty sings, by jings,
'Tis then the welkin rings!
I've never heard it ring, but well I know
'Twould ring if Kitty's voice had half a show.
When Kitty sings, by jocks,
The very woods and rocks
The sounds prolong
And add wild elfin echoes to her song!
When Kitty sings the lark
Stops singing in the park.
Full well he knows no one would hear or care
For him when Kitty's voice is ringing there.
When Kitty sings, you know,
Even the stately crow
Forbears to caw—
Just from respect, the rogue, for harmony's law'
When Kitty sings I swear
And sink down in despair,
For when her voice my heartstrings smite
I sit entranced; I cannot write.
I sometimes wish she'd stop,
But hint I dare not drop
For fear she'll go—
For Kitty is our cook, you know!
—Will S. Gidley in New York Times.

World's Biggest Ferry.

The biggest ferryboat for railroad trains is now in operation on Lake Ontario between Charlotte, N.Y., the port of Rochester and Cobourg, a distance of 62 miles. Boats of the ordinary ferry type could not make the passage of Lake Ontario safely except in fair and favorable weather. The boat which makes this trip, the Ontario No. 1, looks more like an ocean steamship than a ferryboat. It is 317 feet long. It differs from the ordinary steamship in appearance only at the stern, which looks as if a huge bite had been taken out of it. If you view this boat from the stern the purpose of its building is apparent. The entire space of the main deck is a runway for cars. There are four tracks on which trains are run from the yards by means of an adjustable apron. It carries thirty loaded cars. There is room on the upper deck for 1,000 passengers. The Ontario No. 1 is used chiefly to transport carloads of coal from the Buffalo, Rochester, & Pittsburg Railway to the Grand Trunk Railway. A saving of nearly 100 miles of haul is effected and the congestion of traffic on the Niagara-Toronto lines is relieved. The trip of 62 miles is made in about four hours. It is the only boat operating on the Great Lakes continuously throughout the year. It started running in November, 1907, and hasn't missed a trip yet.

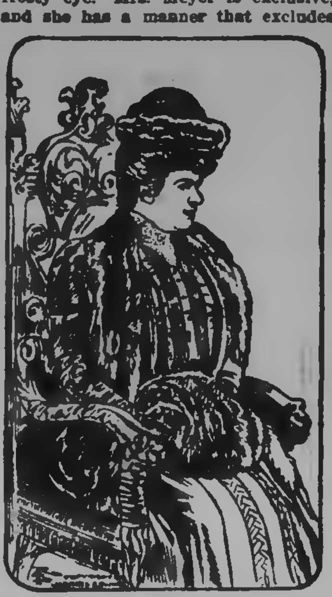
Woman's World

MRS. GEORGE VON L. MEYER.

One of the Best Dressed Women in the New Cabinet.

Among the most imposing figures in official society of the new cabinet will be Mrs. George von L. Meyer, wife of the new secretary of the navy. Before her marriage Mrs. Meyer was a Miss Appleton of Boston and is a strikingly handsome woman of queenly figure and dresses sumptuously. The Meyers entertained delightfully through the Roosevelt administration, and as the wife of the postmaster general Mrs. Meyer, like the other cabinet women, has been in the habit of receiving, "keeping open house" on Wednesday afternoon during the social season, but it cannot be said that these perfunctory receptions have been very popular either with Mrs. Meyer or the misguided persons among the nonelect who had the temerity to attend them. Such persons rarely went a second time, for upon the first occasion they learned that their hostess possessed a frosty eye. Mrs. Meyer is exclusive, and she has a manner that excludes even when she is nominally "keeping open house." To her own set her manner is charming, and in the course of her residence in Washington she has entertained many foreigners of distinction, among them the Duke of the Abruzzi. In Italy, where her husband represented the United States as ambassador, and in Russia, where he held the same post, Mrs. Meyer found plenty of room for exercising her social talents. Her entertainments in Rome were the talk of the diplomatic circle. There are two daughters of the house of Meyer. Both young women are prominent in Washington's most exclusive set and were presented at court both at St. Petersburg and in London. They resemble each other closely, though some persons consider Miss Alice Meyer the better looking. Though not twins, they dress exactly alike down to the smallest detail. They never go anywhere together, but each is clad precisely like the other, whether in the morning, afternoon or evening. Before they go out each has apparently informed the other what she will wear, for the similarity in dress is always maintained.



MRS. MEYER, WIFE OF SECRETARY OF THE NAVY.

The Meyers occupy the house of Commodore Jewett at 8 street and Connecticut avenue. This house is a large and pretentious structure and exhibits many of the appurtenances of great wealth, including a large ballroom. Mr. Meyer was a rich man before he married, and his bride brought with her considerable wealth in her own right, so there are ample means to keep up a fine social appearance.

Mrs. Meyer is a splendid horsewoman and a champion golfer and probably could beat Mr. Bill Taft at his own game out on the Chevy Chase links.

Romance Fades With a Princess.

It is not strange that reports come of the Princess Amelia von Fuerstenberg regretting her runaway marriage with Gustave Kocian, humble automobile demonstrator. The princess is closely related to the German emperor, and her elopement last June raised the ire of William and resulted in a vain attempt on his part to prevent the marriage. The young woman at the time said she had contemplated the elopement for several months and that she was sure she would be happy. Cut off from her family, however, forced to live on a pittance in comparison with her former unlimited purse, she finds love in a cottage a hard bargain. Now, however, her relatives show no willingness to relieve her of the burden of her gay young bridegroom. With her it seems like a case of marry in haste and repent at leisure. Before her elopement she was wooed by half a dozen princes, and it was said she might eventually sit as consort on a throne. She was one of the most lovely princesses among European royalty, yet she sacrificed all her chances of power to become the bride of an impecunious automobile driver. She was carried away by the spell of romance, and now there is nothing left for her but to reflect upon what might have been.

A Home Food Restaurant.

Two women, a mother and young daughter, of good American antecedents and education, recently started a home food restaurant near a large university, says a Boston Magazine. They took what was possible to obtain there for a moderate rental—part of a very old house, now a little below the street level. One-half had been altered into a florist's shop, which made the front pretty. It took plenty of determination, however, plus plenty of soapsuds, paint and paper to make the place fit for occupancy.

When once opened for business it was soon discovered by university law students and instructors. Many others followed and finally some ladies from other educational places, which rather surprised the young men, who had come to think it was solely for them. No smoking is allowed in the dining room, but up a queer old spiral staircase inclosed in the wall is a second story front room set apart for smoking, magazines, papers and letter writing, where the students may stay as long as they choose.

The dining room is set with small tables. The list of edibles for the meal and the prices are posted in plain view. There is a partition at the rear of the room, half glass, where the daughter stands to serve customers as they apply, for each one waits on himself or herself. No checks are issued, for they found they could not do that in the rush hours. So they began trusting patrons to pay honestly for what they took. This has worked well. Put upon their honor, there has been no evasion, no noisy behavior. Such would be frowned down by regular patrons.

Mrs. Taft's Social Plans.

Mrs. Taft has an ambition to inaugurate a movement which will make Washington the social center of the United States.

"New York is looked upon in foreign centers as expressing the best in American social life," said Mrs. Taft, "but there are many delightful, cultivated hostesses—wives of senators, officials and others—who, because of the beauty of Washington, make it their home a great part of the year. These include people from all parts of the west north and south, who are unknown to New York and whose names are not counted among the Four Hundred. New York, in fact, has usurped the social laurels of our country, and Europe has grown into the habit of looking upon the great port of entry of the Atlantic as representing all that there is in America of the highest social life.

"It seems to me that, geographically and logically, Washington should be the representative social city of the land. I hope to see it the recognized social center of the United States."

A Story of Flaxman.

Flaxman, the great sculptor, married quite young, before he had acquired any distinction in his art and was merely a promising pupil.

"Flaxman is ruined as an artist!" said Sir Joshua Reynolds when he heard of the marriage. Some well meaning friend repeated this to the young bride, who at once turned to her husband.

"Let us work together and economize," said she, "for I will never have it said that Ann Wenham ruined John Flaxman as an artist."

So the young couple economized, and Flaxman undertook to add to their income by collecting the local rates, and what with art and industry the thrifty couple after five years of saving set out for Rome together, where Flaxman worked at his art until he acquired the reputation of being the first of English sculptors.

Roumanian Embroidery.

The French dressmakers are doing all sorts of clever things with Roumanian embroideries. These are very brilliant in tone and semibarbaric in design.

They are used on hats, on frocks, on blouses and coat suits. They make very smart waistcoats, revers and pocket flaps on serge and broadcloth coat suits.

They are widely used on evening cloaks. The latter word is now widely revived, and everything that was a wrap is now a cloak.

Cause of Gray Hair.

Nothing will make the hair turn gray so quickly as the absence of oil. Dust will also do it, which means that the hair should be carefully shampooed once a month.

If the dryness is habitual it is easily offset by the weekly use of a good oil rubbed into the scalp.

This nourishes the roots of the hair and keeps the color strong and firm.

Gift For Bryn Mawr.

Bryn Mawr may obtain the general education board's gift of $250,000, which is conditioned upon raising $280,000 by June, 1910. The alumnae have already raised $160,000. The gift is the most liberal given by the board which was no doubt influenced by the fact that money is given more liberally to men's than to women's colleges.

What He Did.

A man, now middle aged, whose boyhood home was in the same fertile region, was wont to recall a very severe freshet that swept the old homestead away. "And the next thing I saw of father," he would say at a thrilling point of the narrative, "he was sailing down stream on the dining room table."

"And what did you do?" would be the invariable query.

"Oh, I accompanied him on the piano.—Woman's Home Journal.

"What is it?"

"If you'll promise not to give it away," replies Grigsby, "I don't mind telling you that when I give my order I pretend to be the owner of a rival restaurant."—Chicago Post.

"No, Sir! I won't take any other kind.

BUDGET SHOWS ANOTHER SURPLUS

Hon. Mr. Fielding Brings Down Dominion Budget.

HAS SURPLUS OF $1,500,000

Despite the Financial Stringency Throughout the World Finance Minister Shows That Canada Has Had a Much Better Year Than Most Nations — Concession to Beet Sugar Industry For 3 Years.

Ottawa, April 21.—A surplus of one and a half million dollars for a year in which, in common with practically every other country, Canada has been confronted with falling revenues and prospects of a deficit, was the gratifying announcement made by Hon. Mr. Fielding in his thirteenth budget speech in the House of Commons. If lacking the buoyancy of previous financial statements, Mr. Fielding's speech, as all his budget pronouncements have been, was compactly framed, lucid and interesting, and it gripped the attention of the House throughout the two hours which it occupied.

The Government has decided to continue for three years the concession to beet sugar manufacturers, by allowing them to import two tons of foreign raw sugar to every ton of Canadian beet sugar manufactured on the preferential tariff basis, and for two years in the proportion of one to one.

It had been represented that the application of the preference had resulted in the creation of a combine in the West Indies and they had been asked to extend the concession to other sugar refiners, in the proportion of one-fifth of the amount of sugar they produced. This country, said Mr. Fielding, will take part in a conference regarding the development of trade with the West Indies, and the existence of the combine will then be discussed, and if found not to exist, the concession will be withdrawn.

The Finance Minister's conclusion was an expression of belief that the tide is turning.

"For the long period of thirteen years," he said, "it has been my good fortune to present to the Parliament of Canada the annual statement of our financial affairs. In almost every one of these speeches I have been able to present a story of expansion of trade, of growing revenue, of satisfactory business, of increased population and of all the things that make for the progress and prosperity of our country.

"During the past year the conditions have been somewhat less favorable. The monetary stringency, almost world wide in its character, which began in the autumn of 1907, created much disturbance of the trade and commerce of all countries. Our neighbor to the south suffered, perhaps more than others. A panic in that country created paralysis of industry, a paralysis of business. It was not to be expected that under such conditions we in Canada could entirely escape, and yet as we look back, we have reason to feel proud of the manner in which Canada passed through that crisis."

Mr Fielding declared that he was able to show a surplus of nearly a million and a half on the past year's operations, while the debt had been increased by $46,000,000.

Next year the country will pay out $111,000,000, but Mr. Fielding was unable to show what the revenues would total. He hoped there would be an increase, but said the figures would not reach the total of 1907.

The most important figures presented were: Revenue, 1908-9, $84,352,581; ordinary expenditure, 1908-9, $83,000,000; surplus, 1908-9, $1,352,581; capital expenses, N.T.R., $25,500,000; Quebec bridge, $6,424,000; special expenditures, $17,300,000; total, $49,224,000.

Deduct surplus and sinking fund, $3,175,000; added to debt, $46,029,000; estimate expenditure for 1909-10 (ordinary), $80,078,624; estimate capital $30,411,150; total, $111,489,774.

Mr Fielding said he would discuss three separate fiscal years, the first one ending March 31, 1908; the second, March 31, 1909, and the current year, ending March 31, 1910. The year before last (ending March 31, 1908) showed a total revenue of $96,054,505, while he had anticipated $96,500,000. The expenditures, however, had amounted to $76,641,451, estimate being 77,500,000, the net result had been very favorable. The customs revenues for the year ending March 31, 1908, were the largest ever, aggregating $57,543,811. The surplus had applied only ordinary expenditures, and there had been expenditures upon capital and special accounts aggregating $35,937,228. The large portion of this had been paid out of ordinary revenue, but for 1907-8 there had been an increase in the net debt of Canada of $14,288,999. Had it not been for $18,900,000 spent on the National Transcontinental Railway, he would have reduced the debt by $4,621,000.

In the fiscal year ending March 31 last, the revenues so far shown amounted to $84,352,581, which further receipts might bring to $84,500,000, a decrease of $11,500,000 from the preceding year. He had feared he would have to announce a deficit for the year ending March 31, 1909, but instead there would be a surplus of $1,500,000.

However, large expenditures would have to be charged against capital and special accounts, substantially as follows: Upon National Transcontinental, $25,500,000; upon Quebec bridge, $6,424,000; other capital and special expenditure, $17,300,000; total, $49,224,000, from which he was entitled to deduct a surplus of $1,500,000, also $1,670,000 paid into the sinking fund, leaving $46,029,000 added to the public debt.

Referring to the surplus of $1,500,000, it was in part arrived at by charging bounties to special expenditure instead of to revenue. If the bounties were deducted from revenue there would be a deficit, he admitted. The poor showing for the past year was in part on account of the world-wide financial panic. Moreover, $32,900,000 had been expended upon the N.T.R. and the Quebec bridge.

Trade statistics, he said, naturally enough, were unfavorable. 1908 had been the banner year, total trade showing an increase of $100,000,000 over 1906. There had been a shrinkage of $33,000,000 in exports and $78,000,000 in imports for the year March 31, 1909. Total trade so far as it could now be estimated was $563,030,000, while for 1908 it had been $650,000,000. The great shrinkage had been in imports and in this respect Canada had come through the panic much better than the United States.

The current year, which began April 1, could not hope to equal the prosperity of 1908 and several years must go before Canadian finances would again reach high water mark. The revenue for year ending March 31, 1909, had been $85,000,000 and he predicted this would be exceeded.

"It is evident," said Mr. Fielding, "that we must materially increase our taxes or materially reduce our expenditures," and the latter course should be followed. The estimates for 1909-10 showed that the Government was trying to economize. The estimates for 1908-09 from the consolidated fund had been $89,412,968; for 1909-10, $80,078,624. As to capital expenditure, estimates for 1908-09 were $43,653,365; for 1909-10, $30,411,150. The Government, therefore, expected to get along with $22,000,000 less. He urged the members not to press for public works. None would be carried unless urgent and important.

Discussing his method of getting at surpluses, he said it was absurd to complain that because expenditures of the Government exceeded the revenue in any given year there was not a surplus in said year. The method of keeping two accounts, one for ordinary expenditure and the other for capital accounts, was a practice established at Confederation and followed by all Finance Ministers.

Mr. Ames—"What is the established practice in Great Britain?"

Mr. Fielding—"We are talking about Canada."

Mr. Borden—"Does any other civilized country keep books like we do?"

Mr. Fielding—"No, but our conditions are different. A new country, especially a colony, must keep their accounts differently from an old settled country like England."

Mr Borden—"How about Australia and New Zealand?"

Mr Fielding—"I don't know and I don't care. I protest emphatically against Conservative newspapers putting all revenue in one column and all expenditures in another column, and calling the excess of expenditure a deficit."

Hon. Geo. E. Foster, erstwhile Finance Minister, replied. The speech of his "ancient friend" had had a remarkably soporific effect. He (Foster) had not quite been able to arouse himself from it. A good deal had been left out. His declaration of a surplus of one and one-half millions looked a cheer but not a hearty one. His "inverted system" of accounting had enabled him to figure out a surplus of a million and a half, whereas if he had taken everything into the account he would have shown a deficit of three-quarters of a million dollars.

When trade was good, it was because of the wisdom of the Government policy, but when bad it was the fault of the world-wide depression. The only gleam of sunshine the Finance Minister could send out was that he hoped there would be a little increase in revenue, nothing as to probable expenditures. Mr Fielding hoped there would be a decrease in expenditure. That was a very good intention. When every third-class man in a bank knew that the financial storm was bursting, he (Fielding) organized and carried out his most lavish, his most wasteful expenditures. Was it because he lacked common sense or because he was making provision for an election. If the Finance Minister had taken precautions a few years ago he would not have strained the credit of the country now. It was never too late to learn, said Mr. Foster in referring to the old practice of keeping separate capital and consolidated fund accounts.

"Pretty late repentance," interjected Sir Wilfrid.

Mr. Foster attacked the figures as to the net debt of Canada per head of the population. If you took into account all that the Government had taken out of the people for all purposes it would show that the amount per head in 1896 was $5.46 and in 1909 $11 per head.

R. F. Sutherland followed Mr. Foster and Mr. Perley moved the adjournment of the debate.

Leaps Eleven Storeys to Death.

New York, April 21.—Opening a window on the eleventh floor of a store at Broadway and Ninth street, a man about 70 years old, stood on the window sill Monday afternoon till the attention of persons in the store and of others on the sidewalks below had been attracted to him, then jumped from the window. He struck in the street ten feet from the curb, and died within a few minutes. More than twenty persons who had witnessed the old man's leap fainted.

Would Abolish Ugly Trousers.

"It has long been admitted by artists that trousers are excessively ugly," says a New Yorker who heads a movement against the wearing of this distinctively male garment. "Many attempts have been made to introduce other garments to take their place, but the conservatism of the male sex has opposed all changes so far as city wear is concerned. Trousers stand condemned on many grounds. From a health point of view they are bad, because they harbor the dirt, and in wet weather are worse than trailing skirts. From an artistic point of view trousers have been compared with elephants' legs, and to get this result we have sacrificed the shapely beauty of the lower limbs, which was such an attraction to the fair sex in the Elizabethan age. Men do not wear trousers when they golf, ride, shoot, fish, or take any exercise in the field. From a utilitarian standpoint, therefore, trousers have to be abandoned. This was proved in the case of soldiers in the Boer war. Men who wore kilts or knickerbockers and puttees were able to march long distances with a minimum of fatigue. They could not have accomplished what they did had their lower limbs been encased in trousers. Trousers were introduced by the French after the revolution, with a view to sweeping away all privileges and demonstrating the equality of man. It would have been far better if they had made knee breeches universal as a distinguishing garment."

Basutos In Review.

Lord Selborne recently held a review of 20,000 Basuto horsemen at Maseru, Basutoland, South Africa. The scene was striking in the extreme. Addressing a pitso subsequently Lord Selborne said that Basutoland ultimately could not remain outside the Union. The Basutos would not feel the change of administration, the principal object of which would be to secure the country for the Basutos, maintain the National Coundrink curse. His excellency said that cil, and take precautions against the drink curse. His excellency said that he was confident that the Union Government would realize its responsibilities toward whites and blacks and would rule the natives wisely and sympathetically. He believed that wars between whites and blacks were things of the past. Letsie, the paramount chief, will confer with the chiefs and people on the subject of entering the Union.

An Impossible Combination.

They were talking of the strange sights to be seen in a great city and one man paid his tribute to New York. "I don't believe one of you could think of any combination of circumstances that hasn't at some time occurred on the streets there," he said.

"I reckon I know of one that's never occurred there," said Hiram Fowle.

"What's that?" asked the other.

"I guess," said Hiram slowly, "that you've never seen nor ever will see a brass band going in one direction an the heft of the folks going the other."

Witchery of Smiles.

The futility of wasting tears on trifles is one of the hardest lessons the average young married woman has to learn. It is one that must be learned, however. Soon or late it is borne in on every bride that the tyranny of tears is nothing like as effective as the witchery of smiles. Often she does not acquire that knowledge until she has committed the dangerous mistake of letting her husband know she thinks he cares less for her than he did. The woman who betrays that fear is likely to suffer still more by seeing it realized. Men dislike teary women almost as much as the sobby kind. Smiles are irresistible if the husband is even a degree above Bill Sikes, and the wife who employs them is pretty sure to get her way in big and little things.

Thoroughly Cooked Food

ALL cereals should be thoroughly cooked to get the best results for food purposes. In our Canadian Ariculturul Colleges they have tested the effect of cooking on the solubility of foods:

Read this table:

ROLLED OATS Time Cooked.	P.C. Solids Soluble in water.	WHEAT FLOUR Time Cooked.	P.C. Solids Soluble in Water.
Uncooked	8.43	Uncooked	6.97
30 minuutes	14.96	20 minutes	37.40
2 hours	18.79	2 hours	37.19
5 hours	29.93	5 hours	38.37
8 hours	34.30	8 hours	39.99

You will notice the gradual rise in percentage due to long cooking. Very few homes are equipped to spend the time or fuel necessary to properly prepare cereals. By a system of steam pressure and heavy machinery the ORANGE MEAT people thoroughly clean and steam cook the wheat, then malt and flake each grain, after which it is dried and toasted. This produces the largest percentage of solubility; a process totally impossible in the ordinary kitchen.

president slipped her arm around for she looked as if she would and turned to the door of the anteroom. "Here, de--" she said; "I will send her to you," and asked one of the ladies to see that Miss Delafield came to them at once.

When the door opened and the young girl entered the president left them. Mrs. St. John reached out her hands to this girl. "Where did you get that old miniature?" asked she. "It is so interesting. Whose picture is it?"

"Oh, the picture was father's! It was so beautiful I offered it to the ladies for the exhibit. I do not know whose it is."

"Tell me of yourself," the worldly woman said as her gaze searched the face of the girl, whom she had drawn beside her on the divan.

"Oh, I have been singing at the clubs this winter—just the smaller ones at first, you know. I was very fortunate to have the opportunity of this afternoon."

"But your childhood," eagerly asked Mrs. St. John—"your father, your mother?"

Bit by bit Mrs. St. John got the whole story. Margaret was the daughter of the lover of her youth, Elwood Delafield, who had married an Italian woman while studying abroad. Both parents were dead. Margaret told her and the friends of her father in the American colony in Rome had advised her to come to America, where there were many opportunities to add to her slender income.

Mrs. St. John said impulsively to Margaret; "Come home with me, dear. I knew your father very well, and I must know his daughter too."

At dinner she watched the girl reflectively. Every tone in her voice was full of memories. Long they talked that evening in Mrs. St. John's luxurious room. "Stay with me, dear. I am a lonely woman. We will see about cultivating that glorious voice." And she held her in her arms and kissed her good night.

Margaret Delafield went away full of delightful dreams of a rosy future. How could people say Mrs. St. John was cold and haughty? Why, she was as sweet and tender as a mother. Far into the night Mrs. St. John mused, looking at the pictured face.

So he had kept it all these years, and the girl was called Margaret. She would keep her for her very own, and every act of kindness would be as a recompense for all she had denied herself. She should have the best masters, but there would be no more singing at the clubs. Margaret was for her.

It was a nine days' wonder. "Just a sudden fancy," said some of her women friends, while others said, "Mrs. St. John looks like a woman who had an interest in life for the first time since I have known her." She had an interest indeed. It was to sit in the dim twilight and listen to Margaret sing. Then she asked always for the old songs, the songs of her girlhood, when Margaret Delafield's father had called to her heart, but fate forbade her answering.

Sydney Smith's Wit.

Sydney Smith was the ministerial wit par excellence, but unhappily his jests were so admirable that they are now twice told tales indeed. However, most of them will bear repetition.

Before the first bishop of New Zealand left England Sydney Smith strove to remind him of the dangers of his mission. "You will find in preaching to cannibals," he said, "that their attention will not be directed to the spirit, but always be concentrated on the flesh, for I am told that they never breakfast without a cold missionary on the sideboard. We shall never meet again, but let us hope that you may thoroughly disagree with the savage who eats you."

"You are afraid of me," said Smith to a young woman who sat beside him at dinner. "You crumble your bread, and that is an undeniable proof of shyness. I do it when I sit by the bishop of London and with both hands when I sit by the archbishop."

"Why are you doing that?" said he to a child who was stroking the shell of a turtle. "Oh, to please the turtle," was the answer. "Why, child, you might as well stroke the dome of St. Paul's to please the dean and chapter." —Boston Post.

Sullivan's Best Compliment.

When Sir Arthur Sullivan of Gilbert and Sullivan fame was traveling in the western states a man rushed up to him and, grasping his hand, said: "Say, by golly, I'm mighty glad to meet you! When I heard you was a-comin' I couldn't wait hardly. But, say, you ain't very big, are you? How much do you weigh?"

"About 150 pounds," answered the astonished composer.

"Then how on earth did you come to knock out Ryan?"

"I' never knocked out any Ryan. What do you mean?"

"Ain't you John L. Sullivan?"

"No, I'm Arthur Sullivan."

The man stood dazed for a few minutes, and then a smile spread over his rough features. "Are you the feller what put 'Pinafore' together? Well, then, I'm mighty glad to meet you just the same."

Sir Arthur counted this as one of his greatest compliments.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Thoughtful.

"I hear you are going to speak in our town next week."

"Yes, I am billed there. I wonder if any preparations are being made to receive me."

"Yes, I understand all of the arrangements have been made. The hens, I am told, began laying eggs six months ago for the event."

Fairly Accurate.

"How much does the baby weigh?"

"Just a ton."

"Impossible."

"Yes, we took it down and weighed it on the coal man's scales."

The Longest Telegrams.

The longest news item ever transmitted by wire was the sending of the entire revised version of the New Testament to a Chicago daily newspaper from New York on May 22, 18[illegible]. The issue of the paper containing that single telegram comprised twenty pages, sixteen of which were taken up with the brand new version of the New Testament, which had been procured previous to its official publication. The New Testament contains 27 books, 260 chapters, 7,959 verses and not far from 190,000 words.

Some years ago the circulation department of a London newspaper offered a prize for the longest sixpenny —twelve word—telegram that could actually be sent to its office. Out of 150 telegrams received this one gained the prize:

"Administrator general's counterrevolutionary intercommunications uncircumstantiated. Quartermaster general's disproportionableness characteristically counterdistinguished unconstitutionalistic incomprehensibilities."

These twelve words contain exactly 200 letters, and the telegram needs two periods, two apostrophes and one hyphen to make it proper English. And it does not contain the longest possibility in the language, "proantitransubstantiationistically," either! —Chicago Record-Herald.

Near, but Not Quite.

Mrs. Fitznoodle had two "stars" at her great social gathering—Herr Schpuntz, the great, if unknown, pianist from the fatherland, and Dr. Bumpfeller, the world famed, if fake, phrenologist.

"Listen," said Mrs. F. just before the latter entered the room. "I am going to let the professor feel Herr Schpuntz's bumps. He is a wonder. I'll wager anything he'll be able to tell that Herr Schpuntz is a musician."

Excitement ran high. Dr. Bumpfeller entered and began playing a five finger exercise that would have done credit to Schpuntz himself on the musician's classic cranium.

"Here," he began, "here—ahem!—is a practical business man, a man of great common sense, with no nonsense about him. No wasteful arts for him! No wonderings in the realms of fancy! No dreamer of"—

He caught the hostess' pleading eye. She was playing scales upon her lap. He winked a blissfully unconscious wink.

But his breathless audience missed it!

"Ah," he concluded, "this gentleman lives by the skill of his hands. I should say that he is one of the most expert typewriters in the kingdom!"—London Express.

Observations of a Man.

Some women never look at anything they buy, while others seem to buy everything they see.

The man who found he could never win a girl's heart has been probably experimenting on ones who haven't any.

No matter how hard a man may work, it is nothing to the labors of his wife if she has tackled the job of keeping up appearances.

The meanest man in the world is continually bobbing up. Now he happens to be one who is trying to invent a combination washboard and piano.

The young lover is very likely to question whether he is going to get a good wife when he sees his girl's brother sewing a button on his coat.

Santa Claus Hospital.

Santa Claus hospital is the name to be given to the hospital for children which the women of Denver are raising money to erect. A good part of the money has been gathered by the children of the city under the leadership of Mrs. T. S. Hayden, president of the association, and Miss Adelaide Raynolds Haldeman, vice president. This children's branch of the Hospital association was named the Legion of Honor, and even babies of two and three years wore its white cross badge and took part in the entertainments employed to get the necessary funds.

Soothing Sewing.

Few "nervy" women realize what a soothing effect sewing has on the nerves. When things go wrong in the home and numerous irritations gather in the mind, an hour's sewing is a wonderful comfort.

George Sand, one of the most neurotic women, was always loud in praise of the soothing effect of sewing a long seam, and every woman who has tried this simple remedy will contribute a similar testimony.

A Safety Holder.

The person who delights in a fountain pen, but is always in fear of the ink spilling out, now finds comfort in a safety holder. This is in nickel and in wood and costs very little.

It can be attached to any fountain pen and keeps it from spilling a drop of ink.

Her Face of Youth.

By WILLIAM STANHOPE

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

"The Dead sea fruit of ashes, that is all life has meant for me. I wonder"—But here Mrs. Ellery St. John drew herself up with a start. "What!" she thought. "Talking to myself like an old woman! Really I must not be so much alone."

Being alone at all was new to Mrs. St. John. She had always been on the qui vive from her brilliant girlhood through the ten years of her married life and nearly ten of her widowhood, and the restlessness told on her.

Fine lines about the eyes and mouth told of the nerve destroying pace of a modern woman of fashion. Margaret St. John seemed possessed with a spirit of unrest and had forgotten how to relax.

This year she seemed too listless to plan her usual spring trip and was staying in town. But she must be amused. She turned from the desk, where a bundle of old letters had given a melancholy drift to her thoughts, and took up one of the club calendars.

Ah, there was miniature day at the Women's club. That looked promising. "An exhibition of old miniatures" would certainly be amusing. These obsolete things would afford more than a passing smile, and there was sure to be good music. Mrs. St. John listened not only with her ears, but with her heart, to a fine voice.

She was followed by envious glances as she entered. Her perfect gown, with the delicate bits of old lace, was worn well. The women of the club thronged about her, each with some special bit of gossip, the ambitious, pushing ones on the edge, glad of a smile or bow that held out hopes for social advancement.

As the president took her place they settled into their seats to listen to the brief program. A brilliant harp, piano and violin trio, the first number, ended with a flourish. Then, following a few sweet bars on the piano, came a voice so pure, so rich, so clear, that an utter quiet settled on the audience. "O del mio dolce ardor!" sang the girl. A critic might have found flaws in the execution, but it was a voice that sank into one's heart.

SHE WAS TO SIT IN THE DIM TWILIGHT AND LISTEN TO MARGARET SING.

Mrs. St. John gave the singer her utmost attention. She had no program—in fact, never cared who these people were who amused her, but some note in that girl's pure voice stirred her profoundly. Once long ago a voice strangely like this had called to her heart, but she was not allowed to respond. Her parents were too worldwise to permit any wandering from prearranged plans.

But in her moments of self communion Margaret St. John always heard that voice call to her out of the silence. Now it seemed to her almost as if this secret of her heart was being proclaimed to all the world.

She looked eagerly at this girl whose voice charmed them, a slender figure in a black gauze gown, dark eyed and foreign looking. "O del mio dolce ardor!" faded into a faint minor, and Mrs. St. John roused herself at the sound of soft clapping of gloved hands. She did not applaud.

Another number or two of instrumental music followed, then a soft hum of conversation everywhere as the teacups were handed about. Mrs. St. John moved with the rest toward the miniature exhibit. Delighted little peals of laughter told of the oddities in these old pictures of the past that the wave of fashion had left stranded.

Mrs. St. John glanced over them in her bored way. Really, except for that solo, it was scarcely worth the trouble of coming, she thought. Then suddenly, face to face, her youth looked at her. It was her own picture. She looked at the card. "Lent by Miss Margaret Delafield," she read.

"Who is Margaret Delafield?" she said aloud.

"Why, our sweet singer, Mrs. St. John. Hasn't she a superb voice?" answered the president. Mrs. St. John put her hand. "Where is she? Take me to her."

The president slipped her arm around her, for she looked as if she would faint, and turned to the door of the anteroom. "Here, dear," she said; "I will send her to you," and asked one of the ladies to see that Miss Delafield came to them at once.

When the door opened and the young girl entered the president left them. Mrs. St. John reached out her hands to this girl. "Where did you get that old miniature?" asked she. "It is so interesting. Whose picture is it?"

"Oh, the picture was father's! It was so beautiful I offered it to the ladies for the exhibit. I do not know whose it is."

"Tell me of yourself," the worldly woman said as her gaze searched the face of the girl, whom she had drawn beside her on the divan.

"Oh, I have been singing at the clubs this winter—just the smaller ones at first, you know. I was very fortunate to have the opportunity of this afternoon."

"But your childhood," eagerly asked Mrs. St. John—"your father, your mother?"

Bit by bit Mrs. St. John got the whole story. Margaret was the daughter of the lover of her youth, Elwood Delafield, who had married an Italian woman while studying abroad. Both parents were dead. Margaret told her, and the friends of her father in the American colony in Rome had advised her to come to America, where there were many opportunities to add to her slender income.

Mrs. St. John said impulsively to Margaret: "Come home with me, dear. I knew your father very well, and I must know his daughter too."

At dinner she watched the girl reflectively. Every tone in her voice was full of memories. Long they talked that evening in Mrs. St. John's luxurious room. "Stay with me, dear. I am a lonely woman. We will see about cultivating that glorious voice." And she held her in her arms and kissed her good night.

Margaret Delafield went away full of delightful dreams of a rosy future. How could people say Mrs. St. John was cold and haughty? Why, she was as sweet and tender as a mother. Far into the night Mrs. St. John mused, looking at the pictured face.

So he had kept it all these years, and the girl was called Margaret. She would keep her for her very own, and every act of kindness would be as a recompense for all she had denied herself. She should have the best masters, but there would be no more singing at the clubs. Margaret was for her.

It was a nine days' wonder. "Just a sudden fancy," said some of her women friends, while others said, "Mrs. St. John looks like a woman who had an interest in life for the first time since I have known her." She had an interest indeed. It was to sit in the dim twilight and listen to Margaret sing. Then she asked always for the old songs, the songs of her girlhood, when Margaret Delafield's father had called to her heart, but fate forbade her answering.

Sydney Smith's Wit.

Sydney Smith was the ministerial wit par excellence, but unhappily his jests were so admirable that they are now twice told tales indeed. However, most of them will bear repetition.

Before the first bishop of New Zealand left England Sydney Smith strove to remind him of the dangers of his mission. "You will find in preaching to cannibals," he said, "that their attention will not be directed to the spirit, but always be concentrated on the flesh, for I am told that they never breakfast without a cold missionary on the sideboard. We shall never meet again, but let us hope that you may thoroughly disagree with the savage who eats you."

"You are afraid of me," said Smith to a young woman who sat beside him at dinner. "You crumble your bread, and that is an undeniable proof of shyness. I do it when I sit by the bishop of London and with both hands when I sit by the archbishop."

"Why are you doing that?" said he to a child who was stroking the shell of a turtle. "Oh, to please the turtle," was the answer. "Why, child, you might as well stroke the dome of St. Paul's to please the dean and chapter."—Boston Post.

Sullivan's Best Compliment.

When Sir Arthur Sullivan of Gilbert and Sullivan fame was traveling in the western states a man rushed up to him and, grasping his hand, said: "Say, by golly, I'm mighty glad to meet you! When I heard you was a-comin' I couldn't wait hardly. But, say, you ain't very big, are you? How much do you weigh?"

"About 150 pounds," answered the astonished composer.

"Then how on earth did you come to knock out Ryan?"

"I never knocked out any Ryan. What do you mean?"

"Ain't you John L. Sullivan?"

"No, I'm Arthur Sullivan."

The man stood dazed for a few minutes, and then a smile spread over his rough features. "Are you the feller what put 'Pinafore' together? Well, then, I'm mighty glad to meet you just the same."

Sir Arthur counted this as one of his greatest compliments.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Thoughtful.

"I hear you are going to speak in our town next week."

"Yes, I am billed there. I wonder if any preparations are being made to receive me."

"Yes, I understand all of the arrangements have been made. The hens, I am told, began laying eggs six months ago for the event."

Fairly Accurate.

"How much does the baby weigh?"

"Just a ton."

"Impossible."

"Yes, we took it down and weighed it on the coal man's scales."

The Longest Telegrams.

The longest news item ever transmitted by wire was the sending of the entire revised version of the New Testament to a Chicago daily newspaper from New York on May 22, 18[illegible]. The issue of the paper containing that single telegram comprised twenty pages, sixteen of which were taken up with the brand new version of the New Testament, which had been procured previous to its official publication. The New Testament contains 27 books, 260 chapters, 7,959 verses and not far from 190,000 words.

Some years ago the circulation department of a London newspaper offered a prize for the longest sixpenny—twelve word—telegram that could actually be sent to its office. Out of 450 telegrams received this one gained the prize:

"Administrator general's counterrevolutionary intercommunications uncircumstantiated. Quartermaster general's disproportionableness characteristically counterdistinguished unconstitutionalistic incomprehensibilities."

These twelve words contain exactly 200 letters, and the telegram needs two periods, two apostrophes and one hyphen to make it proper English. And it does not contain the longest possibility in the language, "proantitransubstantiationistically," either!—Chicago Record-Herald.

Beresford Didn't Say It.

London, April 21.—All of the London papers yesterday published a statement to the effect that a letter from Admiral Lord Charles Beresford was read at a meeting of the Navy League at Bournemouth Monday night, in which the writer said:

Niagara's Swelling Waters Are Threatening Heavy Damage

Niagara-on-the-Lake, April 21.—The situation here is alarming. The entire area around the docks is under water, which is 27 feet above normal.

Another four inches rise and it will commence to run across the sidewalks which lead from the docks to the upper town, and to seek an outlet down by Elliott's boarding-house.

If the same rate of rise of the water keeps on there will be a torrent 200 feet wide following the same channel. If it perseveres till noon to-day the river waters will be practically diverted and the Niagara will be cutting for itself a new outlet over the ruins of the lower end of the town.

The municipal power house is isolated and the Cross, Hilborn and Abbott houses are surrounded. The big factory of the Canadian cannera is engulfed on three sides and the waters are at the doors of the American and Lakeview hotels.

There are sixteen dwelling-houses in this district.

If the worst happens, all these buildings will be destroyed and 75 people rendered homeless. A conservative estimate of the damage would reach perhaps $250,000.

The ice jam has been moving all night, but so slowly that the movement was almost imperceptible, about a foot every six minutes. The east wind was heavy enough to break up the blockade at the river mouth, but has rather conspired to keep the water high. What water is getting through is following a narrow channel along the face of the breakwater of the Queen's Royal Hotel, past which it is rushing like a millrace. The ice opposite the N. C. Co. docks has risen 12 feet since yesterday morning.

Low lying areas along the river between Queenston and Niagara are being swept by the flood. Over at Fort Niagara it is expected that nothing can save the life-saving station.

Lewiston Bridge Endangered.

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 21.—Today promises to be the most destructive in the history of Niagara river, the water is rising steadily and ice from Lake Erie is coming over the falls in large masses.

All property on both sides of the river is in danger and the Lewiston bridge can scarcely escape destruction.

Realizing the danger to life and property along the lower frontier as a result of the ice jam, Customs Controller John A. Merritt communicated with the War Department yesterday with a view of enlisting aid from the Government. Merritt went to Lewiston yesterday to look over the situation there. Lewiston and the surrounding country is threatened with an inundation the like of which has never been experienced.

The river has risen to an alarming height. The basement of Cornell's pavilion at Lewiston is reported flooded with water, and the tide is still rising. No small frame buildings within reach of the shore has escaped unscathed.

At Niagara-on-the-Lake the situation is also said to be serious. The Michigan Central Railway is deserting its station, emptying its storehouse on the dock and placing in safety their records and everything movable in the station. The owners of Lakeview and Ward's Hotels have got everything in readiness to flee at short notice, and the whole town is alarmed. The water has risen 12 feet since yesterday morning.

At Queenston, the ice has risen to within ten feet of the bridge, as the ice rose and snapped several of the guys which held it in position.

T. Eaton Co. Awarded Contract Of Publishing The New Readers

Toronto, April 21.—A brief statement made yesterday by Sir James P. Whitney, Prime Minister of Ontario, that "the lowest tender for printing and publishing the new Ontario school readers was put in by the T. Eaton Co., Limited, to whom the contract has been awarded," follows the Government's persistent efforts to break the "school book ring," and place the cost of text books on a reasonable basis.

The retail price named in the tender is 49 cents for the set of five books. From this there is a discount of 20 per cent., which is available to anyone paying cash, making the net price of the books 39 1-5 cents. The cost of the old readers, when the Whitney Government assumed office in 1905, was $1.15. That contract expired in December, 1906. A short contract for a year and a half was then awarded to the lowest tenderer, at 49 cents for the set. But this was for old books, and the prices secured were ridiculed as bargain rates for old stock and unobtainable later.

The preparation of the new series was then begun, with the result as follows: Price of old readers in 1905—Primer 10 cents, part II. 15 cents, second reader 20 cents, third reader 30 cents, fourth reader 40 cents. Reduced prices. 1905—Primer 5 cents, part II. 7 cents, second reader 9 cents, third reader 13 cents, fourth reader 15 cents. New readers—Primer 4 cents, part II. 6 cents, second reader 9 cents, third reader 14 cents, fourth reader 16 cents. With the 20 per cent. discount for cash, the net price of the new readers will be—Primer 3 1-5 cents, part II. 4 4-5 cents, second reader 7 1-5 cents, third reader 11 1-5 cents, fourth reader 12 4-5 cents, making the total net cost 39 1-5 cents.

The actual saving in cash to the people of the province on the basis of former sales will be half a million dollars for the first year, and $125,000 a year thereafter for the remaining years of the contract. The contract will be current for ten years.

The prices obtained by Ontario, as compared with those under the recent contract made by Saskatchewan and Alberta, are as follows:

	Ontario.		Sask. and Alta.
	Retail.	Net.	Retail.	Net.
Primer	4	3 1-5	20	13.68
Part II.	6	4 4-5	25	16.54
2nd Reader	9	7 1-5	35	18.91
3rd Reader	14	11 1-5	45	23.75
4th Reader	16	12 4-5	50	27.36
Total for set	49	39 1-5	$1.75	$1.02

The new books will not only surpass the old readers in mechanical production, but their literary quality is declared by competent judges to be superior to that of others. SULTAN STICKS TO HIS PALACE

Abdul Is Awaiting Whatever May Befall Him.

Constantinople, April 21.—Sultan Abdul Hamid is waiting in his palace for whatever may befall.

He has not taken flight, and his grand vizier, Tewfik Pasha, has announced that, without fear, the Sultan will remain with his family and accept resignedly the fate which has been prepared for him and his country.

Constantinople last night was gay and animated. All the cafes were brilliant and crowded. Political talk is going on at every table in the most open fashion.

Strange and wild stories are being told, with every indication of being believed, principally about the Sultan, terror of whose spies being raised, all tongues are unloosed. At one of these tables it was related that the Sultan was half unconscious and had been moaning for hours throughout the day. Another tale was that he had implored first one and then another of his palace favorites to devise means to save him.

A newcomer joined the table, with a circumstantial narrative that the ambassadors had waited on the Sultan with the demand that he abdicate; the Sultan had replied that he would not abdicate except by dying, scimiter in hand, with Constantinople in ruins and flames.

Extra newspapers in Turkish, Greek, French and German, are appearing in the various quarters every hour. They are hawked shrilly. Many of these extras are merely handbills sent out by irresponsible persons, but all seemingly find ready market, and are read generally.

Stabs Himself.

Woodstock, April 21.—A tragic event occurred here yesterday morning when P. J. E. Dugit, deputy registrar, stabbed himself in the heart with a surgeon's knife. He was found in the rear apartment of the registry office by Miss McWhinnie, one of the clerks. Life was extinct.

It is presumed he secured the knife some time ago from the hospital during a meeting of the hospital trust, of which he was secretary. Dugit had been in poor headth for some time. He leaves a wife and family of five. Deceased was secretary of the Board of Education, a Mason and a prominent singer. He was about fifty years of age.

Wheat Prices Broke.

Chicago, April 21.—Wheat prices the Board of Trade yesterday broke from 2 1-8 to 4 3-8c. per bushel from the high point of the day and the market closed extremely weak and only a trifle above the low market. Corn closed about steady, oats were easy and provisions were weak.

Almost complete demoralization prevailed in the wheat pit for a brief period late in the session and only the most determined support by bull leaders saved the market.

Campbell, head of the Dominion Forestry branch, told the Commons' committee on forestry and waterways yesterday morning that Canada need have no fear for her timber supply if the present rate of domestic consumption and of export was maintained. LOCAL ARCHITECTS RECEIVE CONTRACT FOR THE PLANS FOR NEW PUBLIC BUILDING

Messrs. Belcher & Blackwell's Plans Approved by the Property Committee at Their Meeting Yesterday—Proceed With Work.

OTHER BUSINESSS DONE.

A busy session of the Property Committee was held yesterday afternoon when it was decided to accept the plans of Belcher & Blackwell for the new public library, and specifications will be prepared at once. The committee also took up several other matters.

Those present were: Alderman Bradburn, chairman; Aldermen Morgan, Duncan, Hicks and McIntyre.

A letter was read from the city solicitor, regarding the authority of the council to contribute money for the purpose of a public library.

Mr. Hall wrote that the council may contribute money for providing a site for library board, or upon a petition being received from the Mechanics Institute, the council may appoint a board of management, which board will have full control of the management of the public library. The library, according to the act, must be a free library. Under these conditions the council may pass a by-law, without the assent of the ratepayers, for the purchase of a site, and to raise money to build a free public library, and may also grant from year to year a sum sufficient to maintain it, providing that sum does not exceed one-half mill.

Public Library Plans

The next question taken up was that of the plans for the new public library. The majority of the committee favoured those of Messrs. Blackwell & Belcher, and the following resolution was passed:

Moved by Alderman Hicks and McIntyre, that this committee recommend that Messrs. Belcher & Blackwell be asked to furnish detailed plans and specifications for a public library building and that their plan for the building be accepted, subject to the details being satisfactory to this committee and subject to the provisions that the building can be erected complete at a cost not exceeding $25.000. Carried.

Refuse Grounds

The committee considered the matter of a refuse grounds for the city. An offer was received from Mr.Stevens to sell four acres of land for $800. The committee drove down and inspected this property. There is a strong feeling in favour of purchasing it, as if it was used for only two years the city would save its price. The matter was left however, in the hands of the chairman.

An offer was received from Mr. Anthony Taylor to pay $375 for the city lot on Aylmer street, between Lake and Romaine streets.

On motion the offer was accepted.

New Roof

A letter was read from Messrs. Maitland & Moore offering to put a five ply felt and gravel roof on the city building on the north side of Simcoe street for $147 or a four ply felt and gravel roof for $125, or to repair, coat and gravel it for $56.

On motion it was decided to accept the offer to put a new four ply felt and gravel roof at the price quoted. They to give a ten-year guarantee. Carried.

A letter was received from John Meharry, asking permission to erect a boat house at the foot of Sherbrooke street. The matter was laid over.

Gun Club Will Not Be Able To Shoot In Park

The Peterborough Gun Club will not likely be able to shoot at Riverdale Park, as desired. Their request was considered by the City Solicitor, who last night reported to the Committee of the Whole Council that it would be impossible to grant the privilege asked for, as it would mean the licensing of a breach of a by-law, which prohibits shooting within the city limits. The Council will look into the matter and if there is any chance of granting the request it will be done, but it is not likely that any way can be found to evade the matter unless the by-law is changed.

Ald. Duffus moved that the matter be gone into again and that if there is any way of giving the privilege it be granted, otherwise that no action be taken.

Ald. Morrow seconded the motion, which was carried.

A SMITH YOUNG COUPLE ELOPE---ALMOST

"Romeo" Reached the Highway Before Thinking of the Necessary Money—Hired Man and Hired Girl Were Going to Get Married—The Barrier to the Romance—The Man Now in Jail.

"NO WEDDING BELLS."

Randolph Pickup made a serious mistake when he started out to elope with the hired girl in the employ of a Smith township household. He arranged everything and had reached the roadway, accompanied by the young woman, when he suddenly realized that his financial condition was not strong enough to meet the expenses of launching into the sea of matrimony. Realizing that he would need money he returned to the house and asked his employer for his wages, the girl waiting at the roadside. Randolph had been engaged for a year, and his employer refused him the money. This was an obstacle which he had thoughtlessly overlooked and left until the last, only to find it a barrier which no power of his could remove. Persuasion, cajolery, demands, all were in vain and Randolph saw that golden band slowly vanishing before his sight as a ring of smoke fades away slowly, making itself a part of the atmosphere.

The spell being thus suddenly broken Pickup was forced against his will to abandon the venture upon which he had entertained serious intentions of entering. The girl went back to the house and the man started to pick up and leave the premises. The place seemingly had lost its interest to him, and after pondering over the circumstances he decided to leave. He was probably influenced by the fact that he was no longer wanted on the premises, having tried to deprive the household of the hired girl and leave it in a very trying predicament.

In Clutches of the Law.

Pickup had begun his elopement on Monday, had been thwarted and defeated, and on Tuesday he was in the clutches of the law. He was wandering around without any home or place of abode, when he was arrested on a charge of vagrancy. He was remanded until Saturday morning, when he will come up for a hearing.

Girl is Only 16.

Further information concerning the affair is to the effect that the 'woman' in the case is only 16 years old. Pickup is only 25 years old and is to-day looking back over his first love affair while resting behind the bars of one of the cages at the gaol. The young girl is still at the farmhouse.

Someone knowing of this made an investigation and got away with such things as meat, butter and cream.

CLASSES WERE CROWDED

Inspector Mowat Opens New Classroom in Old Collegiate for Senior First Book Pupils.

Owing to the crowded condition of the senior first classes in the East City, King Edward, and Queen Alexandra schools, it has been found necessary to open a new class room in the old Collegiate. In the East City class alone, there were over sixty pupils and if the scholars are to be properly taught,there should not be more than thirty-five under one teacher. Similar conditions prevailed at the other schools and this morning a number of children from each was sent to the new class at the old Collegiate. Inspector Mowat found the above change a necessity, in order to relieve the situation.

DEER AT WHITE LAKE.

Warsaw People Saw Two Fine Specimens And Also a Fox.

Examiner Special.

Warsaw, April 21.—An interesting spectacle was witnessed by several members of Mr. Thos Miller's family on Thursday last, while at their sugar camp near White Lake. They were partaking of their mid-day repast when Mr. Wm. Miller, happening to look through a window, saw two deer, browsing and walking about, just outside the shanty. Several members of the party went out to have a look at the graceful animals, which immediately made off for the tall timbers. The party started to follow the deer and had gone but a very short distance when they were arrested in their chase by a fox springing up, quite close to them. It is difficult to say what other wild denizens of the forest might have been seen had the party gone on, but just at this time some one thought of the dinner and they returned to the camp.

VICTORIA PARK WILL NOT BE ENTIRELY CLOSED TO PUBLIC BY CONTEMPLATED REPAIRS

Only One Half of the Upper Part Will be Levelled This Season and Same Course Followed Next Year—Use the Scrapings.

IMPROVE THE APPEARANCE.

It is the intention of the Horticultural Society to conduct extensive improvements in Victoria Park this summer, the chief renovation being the levelling of the upper part of the park cutting down of the steep banks at the top and providing the whole park with a lawn surface as it is at the present time in the lower part. The public will not be barred from the park although this year the south part of the upper end will be closed in order to permit of the work being carried on and next year the same course will be followed with the north half. It will not mean that band concerts in the park will have to be done away with although only half of the upper part of the park will be available. A deputation from the Society consisting of Messrs. H. L. Beale and Frank Wise waited on the Council last night in order to secure some street scrapings for use in the park.

Mr. Beale asked that some scrapings off the streets be given the Society for use in levelling Victoria Park. It was intended to fix the upper part of the park. The county wanted water pipes put in, the park levelled and the grass kept short and green, as in the lower part of the park. It was intended to close up the south half of the upper part of the park this year for improvements, and follow the same course with the other half next year. The county had appropriated $200 for the purpose, and it would be used for laying a water service to the upper park.

Ald. Buller moved, seconded by Ald. Morrow, that the Horticultural Society be given 100 loads of street scrapings for use on Victoria Park if they can be spared.
if they can be spared.—Carried.

Mr. A. H. Webb was heard and asked the Council to do something in connection with the ditch in front of his place on Sherbrooke street. He wanted that part of the ditch filled in. It included 550 feet and would not cost any more than $20. as it could be filled up with street scrapings. That part of the ditch was perfectly dry and there was no trouble from water.

Ald. Bradburn moved, seconded by Ald. Buller, that the City Engineer be asked to make a report to the Mayor and Chairman of the Board of Works, and that they be given authority to act in the matter.

Had Jaw Broken And Badly Hurt About The Head

Charles Beavis, who yesterday at the police court was sentenced to six months in the Central Prison, was somewhat seriously injured in the drunken brawl in which he was the central figure, that took place on the evening previous. Yesterday morning it was not thought that his injuries amounted to anything more than a black eye and a few bruises, but after he had been taken to the gaol, upon examination, it was found that his left jaw was broken.

Dr. Caldwell, the gaol surgeon was called and great difficulty was experienced in getting the jaw properly set. Beavis was also badly hurt on the head. Two teeth were knocked out and several losened. He suffered intense pain yesterday and is in a pretty serious condition.

Assailants Escaped

The names of the young men who made the dastardly assault upon Beavis cannot be ascertained. According to Beavis' story, he was coming along Charlotte street on Monday night when he was accosted by three young men who wanted to know where a certain place in Peterborough was. On not being able to give the necessary information, he states that they went at him nad beat him. He did not know any of them but after they had finished with him, they ran away, leaving him helpless in the gutter. A woman hearing the row ran out on her balcony, just in time to see the three running out of Charlotte street. The prisoner was taken to the police station by P. C. Meharry.

ITALIANS FOR BURKETON

Fifty Leave This Morning in Charge of Mr. Spicer to Work for C.P.R.

About sixty Italians left this morning for Burketon, where they will commence the work of repairing and rebuilding the C. P. R. They were in charge of Mr. Spicer, foreman of the Western section here. It is understood that Mr. W. Vass will act in his place during his absence. The Company is doing extensive work on the line through Peterborough. Men have been at work on the wires making changes there. The switch for the second siding into Matthews Co. has been laid. Other work is being done at present and the yard is apparently in first-class shape. The work in the Burketon district will consist of the laying of new ties, rails and general repairs to the road.

A CLEVER SKATING ACT

El Reys Make Another Hit at the Auditorium Roller Rink.

The El Rey Sisters, fancy roller skaters made another big hit at the Auditorium Roller Rink last night, their clever skating winning them round after round of applause. The El Reys have the prettiest and cleverest little act of its kind that has ever been given at the Auditorium, a feature of their performance being their dancing. Last night they negotiated the waltz, two-step, barn dance clog dance, and other measures in skilful fashion. They were assisted greatly by Mr. Cronk, and his band who rendered splendid music for the skating and are deserving of credit for their accompaniments. The El Reys are well worth seeing.

OCCUPYING NEW STORE.

Mrs. S. H. Mitchell Purchases the Stock and Business of Mr. Bert Hunter, Reid Street.

Mrs. Sid. K. Mitchell, who for the last two and a half years has conducted a successful grocery business on the corner of George and Sherbrooke, has bought the business lately conducted by Mr. Bert Hunter, at the corner of Sherbrooke and Reid streets, and took possession yesterday.

This is one of the most up-to-date groceries in the outlying districts, and will afford additional accommodation for handling the increasing trade which Mrs. Mitchell has acquired by close application and persistent effort to cater to the wants of her friends and patrons, all of whom will find the shelves well stocked with the best and most wholesome food products and household necessities which the markets produce, and by maintaining the finest qualities at the closest prices should merit an increasing patronage.

Mrs. Mitchell intends this season to give an efficient service in ice cream, cool drinks, etc., and will also carry a nice line of confectionery and fruit.

A visit to this establishment will repay the caller.

Mr. Hunter, while in business in Peterborough, made a host of friends for himself by his honest dealing and up-to-date methods, and they will join in wishing him every success in the West for which he left this morning, it being his intention to embark in business in one of the growing towns.

THE BUDGET.

The budget speech of Hon. Mr. Fielding, delivered yesterday, shows that, in spite of business depression creating large deficits in the budgets of other nations, Canada still holds to the Liberal habit of surpluses. There has been a falling off of eleven and a half millions in revenue, still there is a surplus of $1,500,000, much less than in previous years, but much more gratifying than a deficit. When the full returns are in it is estimated that the total revenue for the fiscal year ended March 31, $84,500,000. The expenditure, chargeable to revenue amounting to $83,000,000. leaves the surplus at $1,500,000. While Mr. Fielding expects the revenue to increase the coming year, there will be a reduction of about twenty-two and one half millions in the estimates. As was to be expected, the debt has increased. The expenditure of forty-nine and one-quarter millions on the Transcontinental railway and the Quebec Bridge for the last fiscal year has been reduced by surplus and sinking fund to 46 millions, which represents the addition to the national debt.

The rate of customs taxation has fallen from 19.12 in 1896 to 16.48 in 1908.

THINKING AND DOING.

Dr. Wilfrid Grenfell, of the Medical Mission, Labrador, has the following to say of the motive behind the work he has done among the Labrador fishermen, which, in self-sacrifice, zeal and oneness of aim and purpose, has made him the most outstanding figure, since the days of St. Paul:

> "In 1883, while I was studying medicine at the London Hospital in Whitechapel, I was attracted by a huge crowd going into a large tent in the slums of Stepney. There was singing going on inside, and curiosity led me in. As I left with the crowd I came to the conclusion that my religious life was a humbug. I vowed in future that I would either give it up or make it real."

This is the ringing keynote of a life of usefulness, that should strike responsive chords in every human heart, not only in relation to religious matters, but in all mundane concerns, all vocations to human activity and effort. It indicates that profession alone is vain; vain unless it is translated into the reality of action. We may be unimpeachable in orthodoxy, big in great resolve, full of devotion to the forms of religion, but all is vain unless we order our lives on the one and only perfect Model, whose preaching was the life He lived. In the worldly affairs of human activity, the only true relation to our duties to our employers, to our employees, to all with whom we come into contact, is to make our life, our ideals of duty, real. Paradoxical, as it may seem, the only true spiritual or moral or social life is the real life, in which aspirations become acts, moral theories actual things, and sense of duty, doing.

Though I speak with the tongues of men and angels and have not charity, it profiteth nothing.—St. Paul.

LAW AND LYNCH LAW.

In Oklahoma, four cattle men, accused of murder, were taken from jail by a mob, and hanged without trial; practically murdered. We thus have two sets of murderers, the suspected and the known. The despatch reporting this Oklahoma companion atrocity to the Armenian atrocities—in principle and evidence of lawless lust for blood at least—inform us that the mob was composed of "citizens of the better class." What, in the name of heaven, must the worse class be like? In such a state of society, or rather of social anarchy, if the "better class" would continue hanging the worse class to extinction and then commit "hari-kari" on themselves the world of civilization would be relieved of a deep disgrace and serious danger. There must be something rotten in conditions in the Western and Southern States of the Union, where such disgraceful lynching scenes are so frequent. It is claimed that the Oklahoma case was justified by the failure of the authorities to mete out justice to criminals. This may be an excuse, but it is no justification, and argues a condition that has more than local prevalence. We, in Canada, have reason to complain of the law's delays, and what we consider failures of justice. The Toronto Globe is continually prodding the Attorney-General's department, of Ontario for laxity in enforcing the laws of the land to a degree adequate to the requirements of several situations. The Cobalt Citizen calls strong attention to the lack of courts and the absence of the machinery of justice in the Cobalt and surrounding country. Yet in none of these cases, in none of the cases arising in three great Canadian mining camp regions—British Columbia, the Yukon and the Cobalt—where the machinery of law and order were necessarily primitive, has there been a single case of "lynch law," or ever a thought of employing it. In the far-flung Canadian west, from Winnipeg to the Klondyke, a handful of Mounted Police—it must be confessed the finest body of its kind in existence—enforces law, and maintains order over some two million square miles of country. It is not the force inherent in these gallant fellows that counts most, but it is the force behind, the compelling strength of the flag that flaps to no breeze of bluster, but is the steady, unvarying symbol of right as well as might.

The air of a country under the genius of British institutions is impregnated with the spirit of respect for law and order. It is as much an essence of Canadian citizenship as paying taxes. It seems to be different in many parts of the country to the south of us, where the conventions of society, the obligations of morality and respect for established canons of conduct in line with established conditions of law and order, sit less ligtly upon the public sense of responsibility than they do in this country. If lynch law among our neighbours were merely sporadic or local, the situation would be less serious, than when with all charity, it must be regarded as a local manifestation of an epidemic national or partly national, condition. If the conditions of public sentiment, public modes of thought and public attitude towards established authority, which lead to the commission of the crime called lynching were in existence in Canada, we should have very grave cause for uneasiness, if not alarm for the desirable integrity of national life.

When law ends, then tyranny begins—William Pitt, Earl of Chatham.

A NATIONAL DANGER.

Prof. Robertson, addressing the Canadian Club in Montreal, called the great West a "surface mine." In saying this he expressed a great truth which involves an important warning. The truth lies in the idea that the fertile soil of the great West is a mine of riches, greater in possibilities of wealth production than all our gold and silver and copper and nickel, and iron deposits put together; with proper handling an inexhaustible mine. This is the truth; the danger lies in careless tilth—reckless "mining." The wealth of the West lies in its surface soil. With careful tillage and farming upon right principles this soil is everlasting. But over-cropping, the haste to get rich which haunts the farmer as well as the captain of industry or the man on change, threatens soil exhaustion. All over Ontario we see the results of skin methods of farming. The aim has been, as a rule, to take everything out of the soil as rapidly as possible without putting back anything compensatory. The bank account of a Rothschild would collapse under the application of such a practice. So will a farm as fertile as Eden, as we have abundant evidence in this province. By cropping, cropping, cropping, we exhausted the elementary fertility of our farms. We wanted crops to turn out money to pay the mortgage, or provide for fine "driving rigs" or other forms of luxury, and we gave nothing back " we took fertilizers out of the soil in the form of wheat and oats and we put nothing back. We continued this till the surface, of our farms, like any other over-worked mine "petered out." We had a province of exhausted farms on our hands, and a form of starvation stared us in the face till we took to dairying, and permitted our over-cropped farm rest from the exhausting work of growing grain crops beyond the capacity of their soil fertility, not leaving a nest egg. Prof. Robertson, under the similitude of a "surface mine" issued a warning of a danger that threatens the West. Our western soil seems to be of inexhaustible fertility, but it can be exhausted. We are spending millions in railways and canals to carry it across the seas, we are depositing it in savings banks. Without renewal it will in time be gone, and we shall have repeated in the Canadian West those millions of acres of exhausted prairie lands in the Western United States, which have had the fertility sucked out of them by overcropping and neglect of measures to provide compensatory fertilisation. Having skimmed the cream from the inland continent of their own West, United States farmers are pouring into the Canadian West. Will they and other inrushing farmers repeat the skimming process there? Such methods as described are not farming. There is no cultivation of the soil, it is mere robbery of the soil. This is the danger Prof. Robertson referred to when he spoke of the Canadian West as a "surface mine."

The "surface mines" of Canada, the farms, yielded crops to the value of four hundred and thirty-two and a half millions, last year; more than our mines, manufactures and fisheries put together.

ST. LAWRENCE NAVIGATION

Canada has done a great work in overcoming natural obstacles to free intercourse and facility of transportation. A great work in this respect has been done in improving the St. Lawrence channel and practically bringing the seaboard proper 800 or 900 miles inland. Not only has the channel been deepened, straightened, lighted and buoyed, but the Dominion Department of Marine has extended the season of navigation by means of the ice-breaker Montcalm. The following reference to its operations by the Montreal Herald will be of interest:

> The Department of Marine and Fisheries is to be congratulated on the fact that through the operations of the ice-breaker in the river the ship channel is clear of ice all the way from the Gulf up to Montreal harbour a fortnight earlier than in ordinary circumstances it would have been without this aid. With the advantage of the experience gained this winter, it is believed the St Lawrence will be open for navigation by April 12th next year. It has not been an easy task or a short one, for the steamer Montcalm has been at work since the 12th of January, during all weathers and in all conditions of temperature down to about 20 degrees below zero, for the most part plugging her big nose of solid steel into the ice jam at Cap Rouge, the most troublesome point in the river until the spring waters bear the frazil down to the sea. A solid jam, three miles in length and forty feet deep in part, was shattered like stone from a quarry by the beginning of April. Sometimes the progress was slow—not more than 150 feet for the full channel width of a thousand feet in a day. Other times the progress would be more rapid, but it was considered a remarkably good day when the Montcalm had 400 feet to her credit.
>
> Once Cap Rouge was clear the rest was comparatively easy. Generally speaking the ice up the river was light, not more than two feet thick in parts, and under these conditions the work would be done at a rate of three or four miles a day. Last week the Montcalm reached Lake St. Peter, and there she and the other Government steamer, Lady Grey, were engaged in clearing the lake channel. Sunday saw the channel free from all encumbrance and the ice drifting away down stream. The Montcalm then turned her bows eastward and she will soon be engaged in other duties; but the Lady Grey came forward and yesterday afternoon she smashed the ice jam in the harbour between Victoria pier and the guard pier.
>
> It is gratifying to record the fact that from beginning to end the work has been a complete success, and with the satisfactory results obtained there is little doubt it will be continued every year. In itself, perhaps, the ice-breaking might not be considered a work of the greatest magnitude or importance, but when it is regarded in relation to the other improvements in the channel, the lighting, the deepening and widening, and the work that has been done on the harbour and what will be accomplished in the near future, with the construction of a new dry dock, the building of new wharves and the creation of industries which are encouraged by a liberal and progressive policy to plant themselves on the harbour front, there is no little reason for satisfaction with this link in the chain of achievements.

BUDGET POINTS.

The points of Mr. Fielding's budget speech may be briefly summarized thus.

No additional burden imposed to increase revenue.

Situation met by decreased expenditure.

Revenue for the year ending March 31, 1909—$84,500,000.

Ordinary expenditure — $83,000,000.

Surplus—$1,500,000.

Capital expenditures—$49,224,000, of which $32,000,000 was for the National Transcontinental and Quebec bridge debt.

Added to the debt during the year—$46,029,000

Total net additions to the debt in thirteen years of Liberal rule—$65,463,000.

Money spent on capital acount in twelve years—$212,449,000.

For this money the country has secured great canal improvements, huge harbour works, and almost two thousand miles of a partially-built publicly-owned railway, upon which alone $52,574,000 have been spent.

The population has so increased under Liberal rule that the debt of Canada has shrunk from $50.82 per head in 1896 to $45.72 on March 31.

Estimates for 1909-10 so cut that Mr. Fielding expects a reduction of $22,581,000, as compared with those of 1908-09.

Ladies and Gentlemen who take Miller's Compound Iron Pills always grow younger in appearance and spirits.—Wm. Madill, Druggist.

THE BRITISH SWEATING SYSTEM

(From "John Bull.")

Mr. Churchill is trumping the good cards of his predecessor, Mr. Lloyd George, at the Board of Trade. His Trade Boards Bill is the magna charta of the sweated men, and women, and children of our great cities. It is a good Bill. It means that the sweater has had his day, and that he will soon cease to be. There is to be no more illicit traffic in human lives—or what comes to the same thing, no more starvation wages for the workers in tailoring, in cardboard box-making, in machine-made lace and net-finishing, and in blouse making. That for a start and a test. Where sweating is elsewhere proved, it will also be brought within the net. A minimum wage, fixed by Trade Boards, and made compulsory by the law, the right of legal recovery as a civil debt of the difference between the sweating wage and the minimum wage "in the absence of a contract to the contrary," the application of the law to home industry as to factories—these are the salient provisions. The broad criticism we make for the moment is that contracting out will not do. A contract is no contract unless it is free, and there is not, and cannot be, any freedom of contract between a worker whose first need is bread to live, and an employer whose only object is to grind profits out of human bodies. But this and one or two other details can be put right by Parliamentary discussion. We receive this Bill now as a great effort in the practical statesmanship of humanity, and to Mr. Churchill we say "Well done." But at the same time we do not see why the House should have refused leave to Mr. Marks to bring in a similar measure as applied to imported sweated goods. As it is, Mr. Churchill's Bill may have the effect of transferring much of the work abroad. We must see what can be done to graft something on to the Bill to meet this danger.

THIS MAN ATE ONLY FIFTY-FOUR BANANAS

Would Require a Tropical Orchard to Supply Him.

Metropolis, Ill., April 21. — Metropolis presents the champion banana eater in this part of Illinois. His name is Lewis Nelkamp, his record four and a half dozen bananas.

Nelkamp issued an open challenge that he could eat more bananas than any one else, the loser to pay for the fruit. Huston Gibbs accepted the challenge. Eight dozen bananas were available and these were divided into two piles. In the presence of fifteen spectators the men fell to. Nelkamp ate faster and, finishing his pile first, started in on Gibb's bananas. The score stood 54 to 42.

Both could have eaten more, they said. Neither suffered from the effects.

HOW WHEELBARROW BEAT AUTOMOBILE

Oklahoma Candidate for Mayor Puts Fable of "Hare and Tortoise" to Test.

Mangum, Okla., April 21.— Charles M. Thacker, a former prosecuting attorney of Greer County, and several times an Oklahoma legislator, has won the Democratic nomination for Mayor of Mangum, over W. T. Elsea, by recalling the old fable of the hare and the tortoise.

Elsea used a sixteen passenger automobile to haul voters to the polls.

Shortly after noon on election day a cheering crowd of several hundred persons saw Thacker leisurely propelling a wheelbarrow carrying one man to the voting place.

The "stunt" caught the townspeople and Thacker was nominated.

HOME hunters are active these days.

Others are letting the Want Ads. in the Examiner search for them—either by simply reading them or by inserting Want Ads. themselves.

Want Ads. are effective, they are usually quick and always cheap.

THE INTERMEDIATE BASEBALL LEAGUES' ANNUAL MEETING PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR SEASON

Five Teams Represented and More are Expected — Mr. J. T. C. Lang Re-elected President of the Association.

THE NEW RULES ADOPTED.

Five teams were represented at the annual meeting of the Intermediate City Baseball League last night, and it is understood that several others will be lined up in this league before the season opens. There were present J. McNirn of the West Ends, Bruce Bell of Lillies, P. Gorham of the East Cities, J. Hanrahan of the T.A.B., and J. Mahoney of the Lakeviews. All the representatives are apparently deeply interested in the league and are looking forward to a much better season than last year.

The first business was the reception of reports. The Secretary-Treasurer's report was read by Harry Theobald and adopted on his motion, seconded by J. McNirn.

The President's Report

The President, Mr. Jas. T. C. Lang, read the following report, briefly reviewing last year's proceedings:—

Gentlemen:—

In presenting my annual report to the officers of the Peterborough Intermediate City Baseball League, I consider that out of respect for the Strathcona Baseball Club, I should first congratulate them on their winning the championship last season after a commendable showing in all their games. Glancing back over the year on the whole it was satisfactory. The games were well contested, and almost without exception the teams were well balanced. The schedule was not too long and was concluded just about the time that the teams were beginning to tire of the game. Owing to wet weather it was delayed in starting, but otherwise there was nothing to complain about. The Wellingtons deserved credit for the plucky manner in which they played out their games. The other teams fought hard and the result of the games and the season's championship was not assured until the Strathconas and Lakeviews played off on Riverside Park, when there were only very few games to play.

The only regret I have in looking over all that was done was that the League should have made it possible for any team to take on men after the season had become well advanced. This led to the only difficulty of the year. I pointed out at the meeting that I was not in favour of this measure, but as the majority of officers favoured it, I didn't endeavour to oppose it.

In conclusion I wish to thank the officers of the league and the managers of the teams for the assistance they have rendered, and to express the hope that the league will have a splendid season this summer.

JAS. T. C. LANG.
President (1908).

Peterborough, April 20.

This report was adopted on motion of Messrs. Lang and J. Mahoney.

Officers Elected

The election of officers resulted as follows:—

Patrons and Patronesses: His Worship Mayor Rush and Mrs. Rush, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Kendry, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Stratton and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Howden.

President — Jas. T. C. Lang.

Vice-President — J. Titterson.

Sec.-Treasurer — Jas. D. Clarke.

The executive consists of these three officers instead of a member from each team as last year. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, April 27, when the last chance will be given other teams intending to enter. The deposit fee of two dollars must be handed in at that meeting.

New Rules

Moved by Messrs. McNirn and Gorham that any man that has played in the Midland League shall be ineligible. Carried.

Moved by Messrs. McNirn and Mahoney that any player who plays one game or more in the Senior City League, shall be barred from this league. Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Gorham and Bell that no permits be issued.

TWO TROPHIES FOR BASEBALL LEAGUES

Mr. A. H. Stratton, Representing Spaulding Co., Makes Favourable Offer.

Mr. A. H. Stratton has offered a silver trophy to the Senior City Baseball League and a shield to the Intermediate League if the Spalding Ball is used in all the scheduled games. Last year this ball was used almost entirely but the league did not get the trophy as they did not sign the agreement. The Intermediate League will undoubtedly adopt this ball, being satisfied with the proposition Mr. Stratton presented last night. The Senior League will consider the question at their meeting to-night. The cup is valued at $25.00 and is said to be a handsome trophy. This will add an incentive to the games and if any local citizen wishes to donate to the Senior League, medals will likely be chosen.

LACROSSE GAME HERE ON MAY 24

At a meeting of the Lacrosse Club last evening, it was decided to arrange a game for the 24th May. In the meantime inducements will be offered to Toronto Junction and Brantford for a game on that date. Practice will start as soon as weather is favourable.

CURLERS' BANQUET AT FENELON FALLS

Season's Sport Wound Up by Enjoyable Evening.

As an appropriate wind-up to the curling season a grand banquet was held on Tuesday evening in the McArthur house. About twenty-five curlers sat down to the excellent spread prepared by Mine Host Aldous, and after ample justice had been done the good things the chair was taken by the Preseident, Dr. S. J. Sims.

The first number on the programme was a Scotch song rendered in splendid style, by Skip Cashore. The Brandon Cup was then presented by the President to Skip Robson and his rink, who have won this trophy two years in succession. Mr. Robson replied in his usual genial manner.

Skip Hamilton being absent, the president presented the McLean-Brandon cup to Mr. G. C. Mark, the other member of the rink. George, in acknowledgement, replied in a highly felicitous speech. — Lindsay Post.

VICTORY WAS PROFITABLE ONE FOR GOTCH WHOSE SHARE OF THE GATE AMOUNTED TO OVER $14,000

Chicago, Ill., April 16.—It was good-bye to Mahmout and Pierri this afternoon. The Turk and his manager took a train at 5.30 o'clock for New York, thence to sail at once for England. Both will go to Bulgaria, Mahmout's home.

The wrestler himeslf, defeated by Frank Gotch in the titular match on Wednesday night, is much cast down by his defeat, although he is trying to put a cheerful face on the situation. He will take a large number of good American dollars east with him, and after getting them changed into the native coin of his own realm, doubtless will have enough on which to live comfortably for the remainder of his days. It would be hard to say how much he has accumulated since he has been in this country.

Mahmout has a wife and child in Bulgaria and it is said to be his ambition to buy a farm just like Frank Gotch has done with his winnings. He is telling his friends that he does not care to wrestle any more, but they say that is only the talk of a disheartened man. Pierri is different. He is wilder than ever to get Gotch beaten, and said this afternoon he intended to bring over not one, but two more Turks, bigger and better than Mahmout. He says he will make the necessary arrangements during the summer and land in America not later than September, prepared to wager a good sum that one of his men defeat the Iowa farmer.

Pierri is angry at the Empire Athletic club's position regarding the $500 forfeit. Pierri had to pay the money and now he believes that it is the place of the club to pay this, inasmuch as it was a bad piece of matchmaking that brought up the quarrel about the shoes. He says that if he succeeds in getting on another match with Gotch he will do business with the men who form the Empire club.

One man is deeply disappointed at Mahmout's departure. That man is Dr. B. F. Roller, of Seattle, Wash., the college graduate who is considered among the greatest of American heavy weight athletes. He wanted to get a crack at the Turk, believing that he has a good chance of defeating him. "Never let anybody say that was not a good wrestling match," said Dr. Roller to-day. "There was some of the finest kind of wrestling crowded into those seventeen minutes, and let me say further that the Turk is really a great wrestler. But Gotch sticks out so far and knows so much great wrestling that he can make almost anybody look cheap."

Pierri is determined to find a man abroad who can defeat Gotch, and he says his sole purpose of leaving so soon is to bring Gotch's superior here. That the Turk's manager is anxious to get a grappler to beat our champion is certain, but he is not more anxious to find one than Gotch is to have a new face here—a grappler with a reputation so that he can gather more of the long green. Jack Curley may beat Pierri to it, for Jack is soon to leave for the other side with his wife. It is a pleasure trip and business combined.

Gotch made his farewell appearance in Chicago for a few months to-night in a handicap match at the Empire theatre. The champion leaves on Monday for a tour of the west. He will begin his theatrical work in Iowa and show before his home friends and then continue his tour to the coast, meeting all comers on the stage.

The Empire Athletic Club, which promoted last night's match between Frank Gotch and Yussif Mahmout, this morning issued a statement of the receipts and the earnings of each man. The figures doubtless form new records in wrestling history, as the crowd which packed every seat and available space in the big arena was by all odds the largest that ever saw a similar event in the country. Following are the figures:

Gross receipts, $38,823.00.

Gotch's 35 per cent. as winner of match, $13,588.05.

Totals for Gotch, including Turk's forfeit, $14,088.05.

Turk's 25 per cent, as loser of match, $9,705.75.

Turk's share less his forfeit, $9,205.75.

Gross for Empire Athletic Club, $15,530.00.

Estimated expenses conducting show exclusive of amount paid to principals $5,500.00.

Probable net profits, $10,000.

FRED MEADOWS BEAT MARSH IN RATTLING TWELVE MILE GO

Guelph, April 20 (Special).—Fred Meadows defeated John D. Marsh, of Winnipeg in a twelve-mile race here tonight. The finish was exceptionally close, the local man sprinting across the tape first by a very few feet. Meadows ran a fast and well judged race, and well earned the victory.

The race was run on a quarter-mile track at Exhibition Park. There was a fair sized crowd, although the dampness under foot and the chilly weather interfered with the attendance.

They started off at a good pace, Marsh going into the lead. The little Welshman ran with a short, choppy stride, while Meadows ran a few feet behind with a [illegible] easy gait. For the first two miles they ran in this position. On the second lap of the third mile Meadows sprinted and went ahead. It looked for a few moments as though he would break away, but Marsh stuck to him. The third mile was finished in 17.40. At several stages Meadows lengthened his stride and forged ahead, but his shadow refused to be thrown off. At the end of the sixth mile Marsh went ahead again, and for a lap they alternated, now one in the lead, now another. Finally Meadows let his opponent set the pace, and settled back to trail him. Marsh kept the lead the greater portion of the last four miles, although Meadows went ahead occasionally. On the last lap Meadows made a beautiful finish, taking the lead and pulling ahead a few yards, hard chased by his opponent as he crossed the tape. The crowd gave him a great reception, a large number being present from his native village of Rockwood. The time was 68.09, on a quarter-mile track. Marsh led at the finish of the first, second and sixth to eleventh miles, but Meadows was often ahead for short distances.

FRENCH CANADIAN WINS THE HISTORIC BOSTON MARATHON

Boston, April 19.—Under a burning sun, which sent the mercury up to midsummer figures, Henry Renaud, a French-Canadian weaver of Nashua, N.H., to-day pushed his way through a great field of runners and won the thirteenth annual Patriots' Day Marathon race of the Boston Athletic Association, over a course of about 25 miles, from Ashland to the city.

The Canadian proved his stamina against American, English, Irish, German, Russian, Greek and Indian competitors. From the 25th place at the half-way mark, he gained steadily until two miles from the finish he took first and kept it until the end of the race. The time, 2.53.36 4-5, was the slowest made in this event in ten years. This was undoubtedly due to the unprecedented heat. Second and third places went to H. Jenson, of New York and P. J. Grant, of Brooklyn respectively, while several other runners were closely bunched not far behind.

Renaud had opened up nearly a mile over his competitors at the finish. Jensen beat out Grant for second place by 1 minute and 24 seconds. Behind came Jas. F. Crowley, of New York, a hot favorite in the event, while the fifth man over the line was the veteran Sam Mellor, jun., of Yonkers, the winner seven years ago. Robt. A. Fowler, of Cambridge, another favorite, and third man last year, captured tenth place.

Renaud was so fresh at the finish that he made the last hundred yards like a short-distance runner, and walked jauntily into the clubhouse, where he received a beautiful silver bowl as his emblem of victory.

Renaud is a member of the Montcalm Athletic Club of Nashua, and is 20 years old. He is employed as a weaver at the Nashua M'f'g Co.'s mill, and his first long-distance effort was in a Marathon run at Manchester, N.H., a year ago.

DOINGS IN BIG LEAGUES

Rain and general cold weather cause a postponement of all but one Major League fixture yesterday. The only game that was played was between Detroit and Cleveland, which the Naps won hands down, by 12 runs to 2, thus inflicting on the Tigers their first defeat of the season. Old Cy. Young pitched for Cleveland and held the hard hitting Tigers, while Lajoie and Company collected no less than seventeen off Lafitte, the former Jersey City twirler, who was sent in by Jennings. The weather was very cold and a high wind bothered the fielders. Detroit had no less than six errors.

It rained at Harrisburg, so that the Torontos were not able to hook up with the State Leaguers. The players had a signal practice in the afternoon, however, and are in good shape for the opening game at Newark tomorrow. Rudolph and Mitchell will likely be the battery. Wilbur Goose, the fleet-footed Cleveland outfielder, who was originally a pitcher, is brother of Eugene Goose, Toronto's new gardener.

Louis Bruce, the former Toronto Indian twirler, has built up a lucrative dental practice in St. Louis.

THINGS IN GENERAL IN SPORTING WORLD

The Eastern Leaguers on the Highlanders got busy Monday and won the game from Philadelphia.

• • •

Rube Waddell denies that he was a farmer before breaking into baseball. That lets the farmers out.

• • •

Goode had three hits and was just nosed out of a fourth. Speed and hitting of Goode's kind will do nicely.

• • •

Guelph wants to put two teams in the league with Hamilton and Brantford, but they are not likely to be admitted.

• • •

"Mitch" caught a great game and Houser starred at first for Toronto on Monday. Goode and Houser will be warm favorites.

• • •

New York Telegraph:—O'Hara is beginning to look real charming to the Polo Grounds fans. He is a swatter and a runner for fair.

• • •

The White Sox players, who always have shown enough speed and craftiness to win games without many hits, were unable to steal a base on Stanage, on the former Eastern Leaguer's first appearance in big league company.

• • •

If this sort of thing keeps up they will be reducing the price of beer in Cincinnati, and Manager Griffith may feel safe in his position as pilot of the Reds. Still, the season is yet in its swaddling clothes and thinges may happen at any time.

• • •

Just when baseball fans are beginning to rub their eyes, sit up and take notice, it is amusing to read some of the ludicrous things written by callow youths. One of the latter has just made the startling discovery that it is the start a base-runner gets that counts. Not always the start, young man; frequently the finish cuts a big figure.

• • •

Jersey City is reported to be after Laporte to take the injured Courtney's place at third. It is said that Stallings is about to let Laporte, Austin, Demmitt and two or three pitchers drift back to the minors. It is thought that Gardner will get a chance at second base and that Joe Ward will make a good understudy for Jack Knight at shortstop.

Maanger McGraw of the Giants is quoted as having declared that Harry Steinfeldt is the poorest player on the Chicago National League team. When Harry hears this he is likely to shift that wad of tobacco to the other side of his face and speak a piece or two about the little New Yorker, but it would be a waste of time, dear reader, to look for Harry's criticism in the newspapers.

The British United A. C., of Toronto, will have a dozen entries, one in each class, in the city championship wrestling and boxing tournament to be held in the drill hall on Friday and Saturday under the auspices of the Army Medical corps. The club carried off seven prizes in the recent C. A. A. U. tournament at Toronto, and the members are confident of being able to repeat here. Frank Carroll will also bring up some good boys, so that Toronto will be well represented, especially in the boxing classes. The local clubs will have their candidates in the best of shape, so that it promises to be a hot fight for who will win the club championship. Young Henry, who made such a good showing against Artie Fair at the last tournament, has taken on weight, and will box in the 115-pound class.

Everything points to the tournament being a great success. The officers of the various regiments have promised to give the affair every support, and the drill hall is large enough to give every spectator a clear view, and the air will be fresh for the contestants. The entries will close with Billy Carroll on Wednesday.

R. E. Walker, the South African champion, informs a London Sporting Life correspondent that he will sail for England on the Armadale Castle April 29, and is due to arrive at Southampton on May 22. Walker intends to compete at one or two meetings prior to the A.A.A. championships, but will not be very busy until the championships are over. After then he intends, if he has time to run at one or two continental meetings, and will leave England for Canada about the middle of August.

The Americans are very keen on getting Walker to run Rector in the States, and every inducement has been offered for a match, but all the South African wants to be assured of is a square start. He has been warned a good many times of Yankee cuteness, so states that he will run Rector anywhere with C. L. Lockton or J. Hepplethwaite as starters; but will not risk losing his laurels by trusting his reputation to any but a skilled and thoroughly impartial starter.

Walker considers he has improved fully three yards on his last year's form, and should be equal to tackling the best at the furlong now as well as the shorter sprints.

The track over which John Marsh and Red Hawk Jackson ran at Midland on Friday night was measured by the eye, and the eye must have been half-closed at that. To send out such times as were reported for these second or third rate runners was only making the game ridiculous. The figures reported were far better than anything ever hitherto credited to any human being, and no person is so childish as to believe that Marsh could run twelve miles in less than an hour. The distance was probably about nine miles and a half.

Richard Arnst, of Australia, the world's champion sculler, according to a recent issue of the Sporting Life (London), leaves his native country for Canada shortly. As regards Arnst's trip the Sporting Life says:

"Richard Arnst, of Australia, the world's champion sculler, has just mapped out a trip which begins with a visit to Canada early this summer to row Eddie Durnan on Toronto Bay, as well as any scullers in the United States who may care to make a match.

"Writing from Auckland, N.Z., under date of February 13, to a friend in Toronto, Arnst stated that he had practically completed arrangements for a world tour, and that he would start immediately after Easter Monday. In addition to the professional handicap of £500 in England, assurance of a race with Durnan in Toronto for £500, Arnst being allowed £200 for training expenses, as well as the excellent prospects for a match race in England with Barry, were considerations that entered into his decision.

"It was understood that Arnst's backer while he was away would be Hugh D. McIntosh. At present Arnst is in New Zealand coaching the young professional sculler Fogwell for his match race on Easter Monday. Immediately after that event Arnst planned to leave for the United States, and he expected to take Fogwell with him as a rowing partner. After his races in England Arnst would return direct to Australia."

A Cosmopolitan Race

"This Marathon Derby at Hanlan's Point, May 1, will be a cosmopolitan affair," said Secretary F. H. Elmore to-day. "We now have fifteen entries, and the list includes two Ojibway Indians, two Six Nations Indians, a Mississauga Indian, an Irishman, 2 Scotsmen, two Englishmen and two Italians will be in line by to-morrow. Of native born Canadians we have one, Abbie Wood, of Montreal, whose signed entry came to hand to-day."

Hayes Won a Relay

At Bangor, Me., Johnny Hayes, of New York, the Olympic Marathon winner, ran fifteen miles in the auditorium last night, and won his race against a relay team composed of Patrick Dineen, of Boston, and John H. Neary, of Natick, Mass., who went seven and a half miles each. Hayes won by six laps, all gained against Dineen in the first half of the race. The New York man's time was 1.27.14 1-2.

Appleby's Excuse

Fred Appleby, the phenomenal little English middle distance runner, who holds the world's amateur record of fifteen miles, is hot on the trail of the winner of the Shrubb-St. Yves race at that distance, which is to be held at the American League Park, New York, Saturday night.

Appleby's time for 15 miles is 1 hour 20 minutes and 4 3-5 seconds, which record was established in a race at Stamford Bridge, England, when he showed the way home to Shrubb. This time is 55 2-5 seconds better than the professional mark for the same distance made by J. Howitt, of Islington, March 22, 1852.

Shrubb held the race ably in this famous contest up to twelve miles, but from then on, Appleby, inch by inch forged to the front. Appleby says that his recent defeat by Simpson at Toronto in the 20-mile race was caused by the extreme cold, the thermometer registering 16 degrees below the freezing point.—Newark News.

St. Yves Favourite

St. Yves is already a favourite in the betting in the 15-mile match to be run at the American League Park on Saturday, because of the easy victory he scored over Pat White on Sunday. Shrubb says he will be in better trim than that displayed by him in the Marathon Derby at the Polo Grounds.

St. Yves, who is training at Princeton, N.J., for his race with Alfred Shrubb on April 24, under the direction of Al. Copeland, had a narrow escape from drowning in Carnegie Lake the other afternoon. St. Yves and his French trainer, Adrias Fosset, took liberties with a canoe belonging to a student, and paddled along famously to the centre of the lake where they attempted to change seats and promptly went overboard. Fosset, who is an expert swimmer, went to the rescue of St. Yves, and got him ashore with some difficulty. Neither was much the worse for his ducking, but St. Yves admitted that he had a close call.

Svanberg Was Tired

New York American: Svanberg seldom varied his stride and speed during these six miles, but on the last lap of the twenty-fourth mile he slowed down to a walk. His manager and handler, Ernie Hjertberg, was instantly at his side urging him on, but to no avail. Hjertberg then instructed the band to play a Swedish tune, and Svanberg, hearing his national anthem, started at a rapid gait. He kept this up for a lap, when he again stopped to a walk. Hjertberg then sent one of Svanberg's handlers to pace him for a lap or two, and at the same time encouraging him to stick it out. On nearly every lap after that Svanberg walked for ten or fifteen yards, and while so doing fell behind the record. His time for the twenty-five miles was 2 hours 33 minutes, 5 3-5 seconds, as against St. Yves time of 2 hours [illegible] minutes, 11 2-5 seconds.

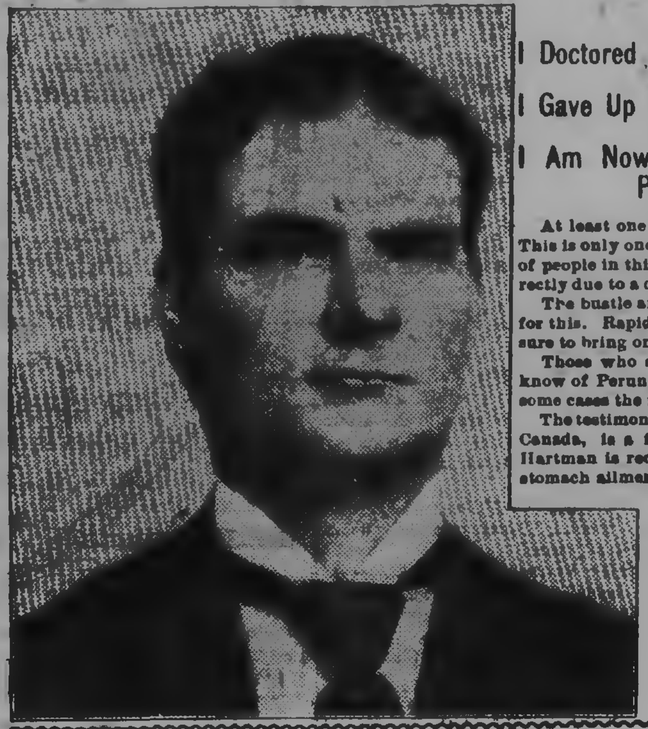
Says He Had Cold Feet

New York Herald: Simpson made all the early running, and looked as though he might furnish a sensational duel with Svanberg. For more than eight miles and a half the copper-hued runner raced along in the lead, maintaining a pace that would have been a record-breaker if continued to the end. The Swede, though, was never distressed by the speedy footing and showed that he was always master of the situation as soon as he cared to be.

Shortly after the eight and a half mile mark had been passed the Swede was no longer content to trail along behind the swarthy Indian, and he let out a link of speed that gave him a lead of 100 yards in less than two laps of the quarter-mile circuit. The Indian made little or no attempt to catch up with the Swede, and apparently lacked the speed to do so had he willed.

Simpson looked anything but tired when he quit. His manager afterward stated that the cold weather which he encountered last week in his race against Appleby in Canada had affected his knees. Others thought that the frigidity had travelled further down in his limbs and settled nearer to the spikes in his shoes. When the Ojibway farmer quit, the Stockholm lacquerer was two and a half laps, or five-eighths of a mile ahead of him.



TROUBLED WITH STOMACH FOR SEVEN YEARS.

I Doctored With Six Different Physicians.

I Gave Up All Hopes of Ever Being Cured.

I Am Now Like a New Man, Thanks to Pe-ru-na and Man-a-lin.

At least one person in ten has some stomach difficulty. This is only one way to say, that there are a vast multitude of people in this country who are suffering from ailments directly due to a deranged stomach.

The bustle and hurry of American life is mainly to blame for this. Rapid eating, worry and anxiety after eating, is sure to bring on stomach difficulty sooner or later.

Those who suffer from stomach derangement ought to know of Peruna. Peruna rarely fails to bring relief, and in some cases the restoration is almost magical.

The testimonial of Mr. George H. Simser, of Grant, Ontario, Canada, is a fair sample of the sort of testimonials Dr. Hartman is receiving concerning Peruna as a remedy for stomach ailments.

Mr. George H. Simser, Grant, Ont., Can., writes:

"I was troubled with my stomach for about seven years.

"I doctored with six different doctors. Some of them seemed to help me at the time, but failed to cure me. Some said it was cancer of the liver, others said it was dyspepsia or indigestion.

"Last fall I suffered so much that I gave up all hopes of ever being cured. I had headache, toothache, and lots of other troubles too numerous to mention.

"At that time, my wife was taking Peruna and Manalin and she urged me to try them. I took them, but without the least faith.

"After a week or so I felt a great deal better, so I continued to use them.

"After I had taken two bottles of Peruna and half a bottle of Manalin, I felt real well.

"I am now like a new man, thanks to Peruna and Manalin."

Dyspepsia for Twenty Years.

Mr. Sidney Wessels, Merritton, Ontario, Canada, writes:

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia and indigestion for twenty years, during which time I tried different doctors, but did not get the desired results.

"I have been compelled for weeks at a time to give up work, being completely prostrated. I had to confine myself to a milk diet, as nothing would remain on my stomach.

"I had about given up, thinking my case incurable, when I heard of Peruna and decided to try it.

"One bottle made a great change and after using another bottle of this wonderful medicine, I had complete freedom from pain, my appetite had returned and I could again enjoy my meals.

"I believe Peruna is the grandest medicine under the sun.

To-day I weigh over two hundred and twenty-five pounds. Is it any wonder that I praise Peruna?"

Catarrh of Stomach.

Rev. J. T. Peeler, Hendersonville, South Carolina, writes:

"I desire to make known for the benefit of suffering humanity my experience with Peruna.

"I was afflicted with catarrh of the stomach, and though I tried several remedies and applied to several doctors, it was all in vain.

"Had it not been for Peruna I believe I would have been in my grave to-day.

"I have every reason to believe that Peruna is the greatest remedy for catarrh known to the world. Therefore I have been, and shall continue to recommend it to those who are unwell."

Tonic Effect of Pe-ru-na.

Mr. J. E. Carson, 218 St. Clarens Ave., Toronto, Canada, Inspector London Life Insurance Co., London, Canada, writes: "I have used the popular remedy known as Peruna, and I can testify as to its merits. I regard it as one of the best tonics now on the market."

Other Cases of Stomach Trouble.

Mr. H. J. Henneman, Oakland, Neb., writes:

"I waited before writing to you about my sickness, catarrh of the stomach, which I had over a year ago.

"There were people who told me it would not stay cured, but I am sure that I am cured, for I do not feel any more ill effects, have a good appetite and am getting fat. So I am, and will say to all, I am cured for good.

"I thank you for your kindness.

"Peruna will be our house medicine hereafter."

Mr. H. W. Nagel, 63 Church St., Meriden, Conn., writes:

"For several years I had been troubled with catarrh of the stomach.

"After trying about everything else, I was advised to try Peruna.

"I could not eat any solid food for some time; now I can eat most anything that comes along.

"I have taken several bottles of Peruna and Manalin and am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Peruna and Manalin to every sufferer of catarrh.

"I thank you for your kind advice."

Mr. Caleb H. Bortell, Police Officer, 212 N. Paca St., Baltimore, Md., writes: "For several years I was troubled with catarrh of the head, throat and stomach. Many times I would vomit before and after eating.

"I took seven bottles of your Peruna, and I am glad to say that it has cured me. I feel more like living and working, and am not bothered at all with my old troubles.

"I take great pleasure in recommending Peruna to all sufferers with catarrh, and I thank you for what you have done for me, for none but those who have suffered as I have can appreciate a great cure as I have found Peruna to be."

WAS MARRIED AT KENTVILLE

Mr. Chester W. Laing, Formerly of This City But Now of Glace Bay, Is Wedded.

The "Daily Echo," of Halifax, contains an interesting acount of the wedding of Mr. William Chester Laing, third son of Mr. Robert Laing, Water street, on Wednesday, April 14th. It is as follows:

Kentville, April 14.—A very quiet marriage was solemnized this afternoon at two o'clock at "Hillside" the residence of Justice and Mrs. J. P. Chipman when their eldest daughter, Alice Kathleen was wedded to Chester William Laing, chief construction engineer of the Dominion Coal Co., Glace Bay.

Rev. George McMillan, of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was the officiating clergyman.

Owing to the prolonged illness of the bride's sister the wedding was very quiet only the nearest relatives being present. The house was prettily decorated with potted plants and cut flowers in profusion.

The bride wore a lovely Directoire gown of white silk batiste, the bridal veil being caught with sprays of lilies of the valley, her bouquet being of the same flowers.

After the ceremony and luncheon, Mr. and Mrs. Laing left for Halifax, where they will stay for a few days before leaving for Cape Breton.

Mrs. Laing travelled in a handsome suit of dark green serge braided with blue soutache. Her hat was in harmony with her dress.

Numbers of beautiful gifts from both home and abroad have been presented to Mr. and Mrs. Laing.

Mrs. Laing has a host of friends, not only in her own town and county, but throughout the Province, and is not a stranger in Cape Breton, having spent the past year in Glace Bay with her brother, Mr. F. B. Chipman.

CURE IT IN ONE DAY

Coughs and Colds Disappear Like Magic When Hyomei is Used.

If the thousands of people who suffer from hacking coughs and agonizing colds would arouse themselves sufficiently to follow this advice, they would cease to complain within 24 hours.

Here is the advice, if you take it and you are afterwards sorry that you did, it won't cost you a penny.

Go to Wm. Madill, the druggist, and purchase from him a Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) outfit. It will only cost you $1.00. Take it home; use it according to directions and if it does not cure your cough or cold, take it back and he will refund the purchase price.

Mrs. I. Coon, of John street, Acton, Ont., says: "I had a swelling come near my eyes which was caused by the catarrhal condition. I had to cough up the bad impurities that dropped into my throat, and it felt as if a hard cold had attacked me, right in my head, nose and glands near. A week's treatment of Hyomei overcame my trouble. I am glad to endorse Hyomei."

When you use Hyomei you don't swallow nauseating drugs. You simply breathe in the soothing, pleasant and antiseptic Hyomei air through the little pocket inhaler that comes with each outfit. As this medicated air passes over the inflamed parts, relief comes almost at once and cure follows.

Hyomei is also guaranteed by Wm. Madill to cure catarrh croup,, grip and asthma.

NOT TRUE.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—The statement which appears in the Times this morning that the Royal Theatre had changed hands is not true. There can be no better authority on this point than myself, and if the editor of the Times had taken the trouble to ask me, as he should have done, he would have known the truth. I have no intention of disposing of The Royal, because it is paying me too good a revenue to part with it; and I know nothing about any "deal" with any person or persons to purchase it. I am the sole and only proprietor of The Royal, and have no desire to sell. The Times should be careful not to print all it hears.

Yours truly,
M. PAPPAS.

Vast Influx Of Germans Into Canada Is Expected Soon

Baron Von Nettelbladt is in Canada With a View to the Introduction of German Capital and Settlers —Expects Many to Come.

MAKE GOOD CITIZENS.

Toronto, April 20.—"No country in the whole world offers possibilities such as Canada does for this century, and no other country has such great resources. I am going to scatter broadcast through my fatherland the opportunities and drawbacks of this Dominion, and in the near future I look for a vast influx of our German citizens, as the population is increasing much too rapidly for Germany to hold them."

Coming from Nicholas Rudolf, Baron Von Nettelbladt, a German who has been administrator of German West Africa and who is in Canada with a view to the introduction of German capital, and of the sturdy Germans themselves as settlers, the above statement carries a peculiar significance. He has been in Canada for some time, making Ottawa his headquarters, and has already gone over the greater part of the land in Ontario which is available for settlement. He has not the slightest doubt that Canada will occupy a great place among the nations. Next month he intends going through to British Columbia, and the entire country will be gone over with a view to German settlement.

"I think," said the Baron, "that much of the land in New Ontario is suitable for mixed farming, and particularly the clay belt. I was all over that country, as far as Elk City. It is a great country. I made that inspection with a view towards bringing out fifty families from the Black Mountain district of my native country to settle there. They are now working under almost precisely similar conditions as far as land is concerned, and they can work that ground to supply the mining and the lumber camps of that great rich country."

"Germany's population is rapidly increasing," he went on. "I feel confident that my book, soon to be published, will turn many of them Canadaward, and next month, too, a new line of steamships will commence a fortnightly service between Hamburg Bremen, Rotterdam, in Germany, to Montreal. That means that my countrymen can come direct and not by way of the United States, where so many remain. The principal difficulty at present against a great influx of Germans is the surtax, and there now seems a likelihood that an understanding can be arrived at in that matter. My countrymen are thrifty and they make good citizens," he concluded.

THE PETER HAMILTON COMPANY READY FOR THE HARVEST OF 1909

The Peter Hamilton Agricultural Works, which have been supplying farm machinery and implements to the farmers of this county, district and Dominion for more than sixty years, are better prepared this year than ever before to meet every demand in their line with the very latest and best in all that is advanced and modern, all that is substantial, proved and improved.

The handsome catalogue of these popular "Makers of Farming Implements," now issued for their sixty-first year presents a splendidly illustrated description of the large and varied lines of agricultural machinery and implements, manufactured for the seeding and harvesting season of 1909.

The output of the company for this year embodies the firm's experience of sixty years and represents the confidence developed in the public mind by the farming experience of three score years. This season's machinery is characterized by the superior workmanship and the latest ideas applied to the most practical designs; in a word the Hamilton standard has been maintained and bettered.

These remarks apply with especial force to Hamilton's New No. 3 Binder, with many attractive features of improvement; Hamilton's well-built No. 5 Front Cut Mower, with especially appealing new features; Hamilton's "Tiger" Sulky Hay Rake; Hamilton's "Leader" seeder; Hamilton's Leader Disc Drill; Hamilton's Elastic Cultivator, and other farm implements, the latest and best in their line. The catalogue of the Hamilton Company for 1909 is full of special interest to the farmers of the district and Dominion.

BOOM IN INDUSTRIAL CIRCLES IN NORTHUMBERLAND DISTRICT

Examiner Special.

Cobourg, April 20.—All signs point to a revival of good times with the industries of Northumberland. Cobourg's new steel works will soon be in full swing, and they have already a number of contracts on hand. Two electric railway companies, the Cobourg, Port Hope and Havelock, which proposes building from Port Hope to Cobourg, thence across country to Havelock, giving Cobourg C.P.R. connection, and the Cobourg Radial, which will build from Cobourg to Peterborough, have received charters and are busily engaged in promoting their enterprises.

West Northumberland Agricultural Society is contemplating pulling down its building and building greater. G. T. R. surveyors are working on the proposed short line to Midland, and there are rumours of extensive improvements to the G. T. R. property here.

The Randolph Macdonald Co. have commenced carrying out their contract at the harbour.

The Marmora Cooperage Company have started their pulp mill there, and have 45 men at work. The Trent Valley Woollen Mills at Campbellford propose to erect another building 190 by 84, and to employ about 70 more hands. The Bowmanville Foundry Company find themselves cramped and plan extensive additions.

Presentation Made To Former Local Man In Schenectady

A Schenectady paper gives the following account of a presentation to Mr. Jas. G. Anglesey, a former resident of Peterborough:

A surprise party was given in the form of a farewell reception in the Knights of Columbus Home last Saturday evening to James G. Anglesey, one of the popular young members of Schenectady Council K. of C. About forty of his friends assembled and paid honour to him by the holding of a banquet at which Joseph J. Burg, grand knight, acted as toastmaster, and after general responses to toasts Mr. Burg in the name of those assembled presented him with a beautiful K. of C. ring. Mr. Anglesey in a short address offered his thanks for same and assured all of the continued and high esteem in which he held them.

Mr. Anglesey has been connected with the General Electric Company for the past three years and during that time has made for himself a host of friends, who wish him success in his new field of labour. The ring was furnished by M. J. Kennedy, the jeweller.

STALLION SHOW DRAWING NEAR

Will be Held on the Market on Saturday Afternoon Next.

The stallion show on the Market Square under the auspices of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition directors promises to be a most successful affair. Great interest is being displayed in the event by the horse breeders of the district and the indications point to a very large attendance and a fine showing of horses. It should be understood that in order to exhibit stallions it is necessary that exhibitors should be members of the association and those who are not members should take out tickets which will give them all the privileges of the association during the fall fair. The exhibition on the Market Square will take place on Saturday, April 24th and the classes will be as follows:

Canadian Bred Clydesdales.
Three-year-old Imported Clydesdales.
Three-year-old Canadian Bred Clydesdales.
Shire.
Percheron.
Coach.
Hackney.
Standard Bred.
Thorough Bred.
Pedigrees must be produced.

Mr. F. J. A. Hall is secretary of the exhibition.

New York, April 21.—Stocks opened a fraction lower with the exception of the Eries, which gained a point or more on the favourable decision in the bond issue matter. Steels and the Harrimans were the weakest and this was reflected later throughout the whole list in declines of a point or more. Union Pac. was under steady pressure, losing nearly two points before any rally set in. There was some pretty fair support tendered at the lower levels which caused some short covering and a consequent rally in which the Rock Islands and Kansas and Texas rose sharply. Professional selling checked the advance and at noon the market had become dull and quiet.

Chicago, April 21.—A strong effort was made to stop the slump in wheat this morning and it looked at 1 o'clock as if it had been successful. While May did not rally July was forced nearly a cent above last night and held there. Liverpool cables were lower and crop news a little more encouraging, but the big bulls still hold the good cards. Corn was extremely 2strong and carried oats up with it.

Montreal—A special despatch to the Star says that crop reports from Southern Alberta are encouraging. Fll wheat has wintered well and gives every appearance of at least equalling the splendid crop of last year. The acreage being prepared for Spring wheat is much in excess of that of last year. General Freight Agent Halstead of the C.P.R. estimates that there will be 30 per cent. more sown this year than last.

Liverpool close: wheat ⅜d. to 1 ½d. lower; corn unchanged to ⅛d higher.

BURNS TRAINING FOR HIS MATCH

Thinks That a Good Man Will be Slipped in on Him and Wants to be Ready for Him.

Corney Burns is working out every afternoon in preparation for his bout at the Auditorium Roller Rink next Monday night with Gene Hurtubise's unknown. He has an inkling that a top notcher is being uncovered on him and is taking no chances of being caught when he is not in shape. A few fast rounds in the afternoon with a run at night have put the local mit wielder in the best of condition and the unknown will have to show class if he expects to stand up ten rounds against Burns. Speculation is rife as to the identity of the unknown, but no information is forthcoming and the fans will have to wait until Monday night to see who is the stranger. It will be a great go and well worth seeing.

WEDDING BELLS

BELL—PICKETT

James R. Bell, of Peterborough, and Miss Louise Pickett, of Buffalo, were united in marriage February 16th, 1909.

McFAUL—ANDERSON.

A very pretty wedding took place on March 24th, 1909, at the residence of Mr. Charles Anderson, Wimbledon, North Dakota, when his sister, Miss Ida Elizabeth Anderson, became the wife of Mr. William J. McFaul, of Hannaford, N.D., formerly of Peterborough.

Promptly at 3 o'clock the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march announced to the assembled guests, (numbering about seventy), the approach of the wedding party. The bridesmaids and groomsmen entered the room as follows: Esther Anderson, James McFaul, Anna Calverude, Oliver Simonson, Mary McFaul, Clyde Golden, followed by the pretty little flower girl, Bertha Kjielson, niece of the groom; then the bride, presented by her brother, Mr. Chas. Anderson, and the groom, by his step-father, Mr. Peter Stewart.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. B. Ludwig, of Wimbledon, N. D., in the drawing room, the bridal party standing beneath an arch of evergreens artistically decorated for the occasion. The bride was handsomely attired in white taffeta silk, and wore a bridal veil, nicely adorned with a wreath of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

The groom was dressed in the conventional black, the bridesmaids and flower girl in white susine silk, carrying pink carnations, and the groomsmen wore the customary black suits.

After the ceremony and congratulations the bride led the way to the dining room, where a sumptuous repast was partaken of.

The evening was spent in different kinds of amusements until after midnight, when the guests departed for their homes, wishing Mr. and Mrs. McFaul a long, happy and prosperous married life.

Mr. McFaul is the eldest son of the late James McFaul, Bethany, and a grandson of Mrs. William Spilsbury, city. A special feature of the event was that it took place on Mrs. Spilsbury's 67th birthday, March 24th, 1909.

OBITUARY.

ALBERT E. LOWES.

The death occurred last evening of Albert Ernest Lowes, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Lowes, concession one, lot two, in the township of Smith. He was 13 years of age and had been ill only a short time. He was a bright boy, and much sympathy is felt for the sorrowing parents.

The funeral will be held on Thursday at 2 o'clock from the family residence to the Emily cemetery.

BASEBALL

There will be a meeting of the Karnote Baseball Club of the Intermediate City Baseball League in the Y.M.C.A. on Friday night at 8 o'clock. A full attendance of members is requested as business of importance will come up for discussion.

• • •

A meeting of the Church Baseball League has been called for Monday night next in the Y.M.C.A. Those intending to enter, either juniors or seniors, are asked to have a representative present.

• • •

Peterborough will be pretty well represented in the Western Canada Baseball League this season, and the Edmonton team will sound very much like the batting order of the team that represented Peterborough in the Midland League the past two seasons. Dinny McGuire, the old St. Mary's short stop, who is managing the Edmonton team this season, saw the Peterboro players in action against the Midland League teams last season, and as a result has signed up most of them. Fred Chements has been selected for the pitching staff, and Connie Murphy and Corney Burns, with the Peterborough outfield last season, and play left and right field respectively for the Westerners. Still another Peterborough man may be seen with Edmonton in the person of Harry Burridge. McGuire wants him to do the back stopping and the local receiver may accept his terms and go West. With Jerry Edmunds catching for Winnipeg in the same League, it will sound very much like Midland League again.

• • •

If you were to ask the esteemed City Editor of the Review to-day his opinion of baseball, you might be sorry that you had not used the long distance phone to make your inquiry, and thereby hangs a tale.

It appears that he, with certain other misguided members of the Review Baseball team were having a work-out on Chambers' street, and the E. C. E. was giving a demonstration of how Mike Donlin lines them into the plate. Unfortunately his aim was not as good as his intentions, and the ball took a Salome twist, ending up by smashing a window in a nearby store and dislocating three keys on a typewriter. The result was that the E. C. E. and fifty cents in coin of the realm parted company, and the former has lost all ambition to be a big leaguer. It is understood that he has no longer any interest, mercenary or otherwise, in the Review team.

MR. HUGH GRAHAM A CLEVER SPEAKER

Speaking of Mr. Graham, says the Montreal Herald, his speech at the Reform Club on Saturday night was a revelation, to those who had not previously heard him, of the strong and genial personality of the Minister of Railways. He captured his audience, who are now quite prepared to believe the stories from Ottawa that Mr. Graham is fast becoming one of the most popular men in the House. He possesses the happy faculty of being a good fighter for his own hand without exciting bitterness on the part of his opponents. That is an important part of the equipment of a public man, but Mr. Graham in addition possesses a convincing power of speech that gives him a clear title to be a leader in any assembly. Sir Wilfrid and the Federal Liberal party were fortunate when Mr. Graham accepted a seat in Parliament.

THE Y. M. C. A. TRACK AND FIELD CLUB WILL HOLD A SEALED FIVE MILE HANDICAP RACE MAY 24

At a meeting of the executive of the Y.M.C.A. Track and Field Club held last night, it was decided to hold a sealed handicap five mile race on the morning of May 24th, finishing at the Y.M.C.A. building. Good prizes will be offered and no doubt there will be a large field of entries as the competition will be open to every one. It was decided that there should be five prizes, in all probability medals for the first, second and third men, a time prize and a novice prize. Generous handicaps will be given to the novice runners and as the handicaps will not be known to the competitors until after the race the contest will be all the more interesting on that account.

The course will not be announced until two days before the race so that the competitors will not have an opportunity of training over it, but the finish will be at the Y. M. C. A., and the start will be made at 9.30 o'clock.

An entrance fee of 25c will be charged to Y.M.C.A. members while non-members will be admitted for 50c. It will be the first race of the spring and will no doubt attract considerable attention. A number of the "Y" gallopers are already in training for the event, and the Victoria Harriers, the new club of distance men, will have several representatives in line.

A cinder track will be laid at Riverside Park this season and the Y.M.C.A. club will do all their training and hold their games there in future. The track will be put into the best shape possible and will be finished shortly after May 24th. The games for the Howden and Eastwood trophies will take place there as soon as the track is ready and the "Y" club is endeavoring to have the Penmen games take place here this year, in which event some of the best athletes in the province will compete.

The Y.M.C.A. Track and Field Club expect to have a banner season this year and are going into the thing with a vim that promises good results later on. One thing is certain, that the colours of the "Y" will be prominently displayed in all the events that may be pulled off here this season.

JEFFRIES ANNOUNCES THAT HE WILL FIGHT JACK JOHNSON

New York, April 20.—"I will fight Jack Johnson. I will defend my title as undefeated heavyweight champion of the world."

Before a great audience which packed the American Music Hall and in which there were as many women as men, James J. Jeffries to-night made this formal announcement.

It was a signal for great joy. Excited men leaped from their seats, shouted and cheered, and the many women in the audience applauded. Their shrill and excited cries of approval, as they stood up and waved their handkerchiefs, and even their peach basket hats, to the ponderous bowing and blushing "undefeated champion," added picturesqueness to a remarkable scene. In the street were hundreds of persons who could not get into the theatre, although high premiums were offered for seats. Early in the day Jeffries had promised to give his decision to-night. These waited for Jeffries and the police had to clear a way for him to his automobile, or he might have been captured and borne off by his admirers.

After his sparring exhibition with Sam Berger, the audience shouted for Jeffries to come out and make the statement he had promised. "The big fellow" soon appeared, his bath robe or dressing gown only revealing his shaggy head and red fists.

The house went wild, literally, and Jeffries stood near the footlights, smiling and bowing and raising his hands for order. After several minutes the audience became reasonably quiet, and Jeffries started off:—

"Ladies and gentlemen——"

"Cut that out, Jeff, come to the point," cried a voice in the gallery.

"I thank you from the bottom of my heart. I——"

"Never mind that—are you going to fight?" came another voice.

"I suppose you want to hear something else," continued Jeffries, only smiling at the interruption.

"You bet we do," yelled a dozen of men.

"Well, I am satisfied, after about seven weeks work——"

"Quit your kidding," came another interruption.

"That I can get in just as good condition as I ever was, and I will fight Jack Johnson."

If Jeffries had had anything more to say he could not have been heard. He ran off the stage while the Auditorium became a Bedlam of noise and joy.

There are several conditions attached to Jeffries' re-entry into the prize ring. First Johnson must defeat Ketchel. Then Jeffries cannot sign articles for possibly ten rounds, and he insists that the fight shall take place in this country, and that it shall be unlimited as to rounds.

REV. A. L. GEGGIE'S LECTURE WAS TREAT TO HIS AUDITORS

Toronto Clergyman Gave an Address at St. Paul's on Interesting Subject—Most Appreciative Audience.

MR. HAZELDINE'S SONGS.

A decided treat was afforded a large audience in St. Paul's Sunday school room last night, when Rev. Mr. Geggie, of Toronto, lectured on "The Rose, the Shamrock, and the Thistle." the room was crowded and everyone present was delighted with what they heard. It was not an ordinary lecture.

At appropriate points during the address, Mr. Hazeldine, of Toronto, who possesses a beautiful tenor voice, gave vocal numbers that fitted in nicely with the speaker's remarks and added greatly to the enjoyment of the audience. Mr. Hazeldine sang two English, two Irish, and two Scotch songs, and at the close of the lecture rendered "The Better Land," in a most pleasing manner. The English songs were, "Good Company" and "The Death of Nelson," the Irish numbers were, "The Dear Little Shamrock," and "Killarney," while the Scotch songs were, "Scotland Yet," and "Mary."

Dr. Geggie was introduced to the audience by Sheriff Hall in a few appropriate remarks. Dr. Geggie is a lecturer of great ability, he has the attention of his auditors all the time. Passing from the grave to the gay, he brings smiles where tears had almost lingered. He told of the characteristics of the English, Irish and Scotchish national life and illustrated many points by anecdotes that kept the audience in laughter. A lot of good advice and interesting information was conveyed in the eloquent address which was given in a pleasing brogue that would at once distinguish the speaker as coming from north of the Tweed.

The lecture was under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's Church, and the committee in charge deserve much credit for bringing Dr. Geggie and Mr. Hazeldine to Peterborough.

The accompaniments for Mr. Hazeldine's songs were played by Mr. Crane.

Northport's Mystery.

By ALEXANDRA DAGMAR

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

She came to Northport alone and unannounced, an entire stranger to everybody. She boarded at Mrs. Polk's, and it was thought that when fall came she would go away, as did the few other city dwellers who were able to get summer accommodations in the conservative old town. But when fall came she bought a pretty cottage on a quiet street.

The first thing Mrs. Wrest did after going into the house was to hire Cornelia Bangs, partly as a servant, partly as companion. Cornelia was a peculiar old soul, but respectable and a good worker, and the position Mrs. Wrest offered must have been a real godsend.

Of course all the ladies in the neighborhood went to call upon the new resident. She received them graciously and served them with tea and cakes made in Cornelia's best style. But she told them nothing that they had come to hear, and they went away with their curiosity completely baffled. Who was Mrs. Wrest? Whence had she come? Was she widow or divorcee? They were at liberty to conjecture what they chose, but they could find out nothing positively.

Cornelia Bangs, being proverbially close mouthed, was as impenetrable as her mistress. She didn't know. That was the answer she made to all queries.

It was evident that Mrs. Wrest meant to live very quietly and cared very little for social doings. Most of her time she passed in reading or playing upon her violin or doing little kindnesses for the sick and needy.

Mrs. Wrest attended all the services of the church, although she had presented no letter for membership. She dressed always very beautifully in black, but she wore no jewelry save a large pearl brooch, which Mrs. Hay, the jeweler's wife, said was the finest of the kind she had ever seen.

MRS. WREST MOVED A LITTLE AND LIFTED HER EYES.

No other woman in Northport had such a way of wearing her clothes, of carrying herself, of tilting her chin.

And no other woman was as beautiful. If she had not been beautiful there would not have been so much said or thought about her.

She had a calm, pale face, surrounded with dark hair as with a frame. Her eyes also were dark, inscrutable in their depth and stillness. Her mouth drooped a little, but then some mouths are not shaped for constant smiling. It was not a sad mouth, and it was not a happy one. It was just still, like the rest of her face.

If she had had a great sorrow she hid it skillfully or else she had no heart. There were a great many women who thought she had no heart. That is often the first accusation brought against a beautiful woman by others who are not so beautiful.

She had lived in Northport two years when something happened. Peter Meredith fell in love with her. Of course there might have been other men than Peter in love with her and probably were, but Peter was the only one that advertised his regard boldly.

All the young unmarried women were simply dying for Peter. In the first place he was rich, and in the next his good looks would have made him eligible without the addition of money.

His married sister took him to task as soon as she suspected his infatuation. She had kept him from marrying a good many years, because she wanted the money for the small Peter, her son, and she did not intend to be outwitted now by a woman who had nothing but her handsome face to recommend her.

"You don't know anything about her," she urged.

"I don't ask to know anything that she does not choose to tell me. I love her well enough to trust her," Peter answered valiantly.

"Good heavens! She may be an adventuress!" cried his sister, losing her temper.

Then Peter lost his and declared that he was going straight to Mrs. Wrest to ask her to marry him. He went. Mrs. Howland, who lived opposite, saw him go to the door, saw Cornelia Bangs admit him and take him into the parlor. Then she flew for the spyglass which had belonged to her father, an old sea captain. But the spyglass was, after all, very inadequate to the occasion. She could not hear what was said, though she drew her own conclusions when Peter came forth, dejected.

Mrs. Wrest had indeed refused him. It was incredible. Peter took it very hard. It was his first experience in not getting what he wanted.

Instead of being grateful to Mrs. Wrest for not accepting him, every unmarried woman was angry with her. It was not long before scarcely a woman save Mrs. Howland visited Mrs. Wrest. She was at liberty now to read and play the violin as much as she chose and to sew for all the poor that needed new garments, all because she had refused Peter Meredith, whom nobody wanted her to have.

Why had she done it? There could be only one reason. She had no business to marry! She had a husband living from whom she had no divorce!

Though Mrs. Wrest was apparently conscious of the increasing feeling against her, she made no sign. She still attended church regularly, wearing black and sitting alone in her pew, apparently unconscious of all who were so fiercely conscious of her. She was sitting thus one morning perfectly still, with her small hands folded and her face lifted to the minister.

The church was unusually well filled, and Mrs. Wrest's pew was the only one where there were vacant sittings. The ushers understood that when there ceased to be room elsewhere strangers might be shown to places beside her, and so now, when a man entered the vestibule very late, he was taken at once to Mrs. Wrest's pew.

He was a tall man, with a pointed blond beard and blond hair just slightly gray, distinguished looking and handsome. Mrs. Wrest moved a little and lifted her eyes. Then her face went suddenly white, and she crumpled forward in a dead faint.

The stranger lifted her up and without noticing any one's interference bore her into the vestibule. Mrs. Howland and a few others rose instantly and followed after the twain.

"This is my wife," the stranger explained tersely. "Is there anything you can do for her?"

She opened her eyes and looked straight into those of her husband, who was holding her as if he would never let go again.

"Gordon!" she said and fainted away again.

Next day Mrs. Wrest had ceased to be a mystery, for Mrs. Howland told all she knew, and she knew a great deal. She had heard the whole story from Editha, while her husband sat by ready to affirm every word.

Gordon Wrest was the heir of an old uncle who had once been in love with Editha's mother. Not feeling able in justice to provide for Editha as he wished, he left his money to Gordon, only on the condition that he marry her. So Gordon carried out the old man's wishes and became possessed both of Editha and the fortune.

All went well till Editha found out the condition of the will, and of course she immediately thought that Gordon had married her for the money's sake alone. She was young and foolish and passionate, and without stopping to ask her husband a question or reason with herself she gathered up what was hers and fled.

She thought she would seek out some little place, make herself a home and settle down to a life of seclusion and good deeds.

Her husband had found her by the merest chance. "I have spent three years of my life looking for you," he said. "When a wreck delayed me here for a few hours and I decided to go to church I had no idea of the consequences. It seems as if a kindly fate must have led me to your very side. Editha, if our long separation has accomplished nothing more it must at least prove to you that I love you."

"And the future," Mrs. Wrest said, looking up into his face with such a smile as her face had never before been seen to wear, "must prove that—I love you."

Long-Lived Fish.

Fishes, especially the large species, live a very long time. According to Bacon, eels live fifty years. Carp have been known to exist at least 150 years, while dolphins, sturgeons and sharks live more than a century and attain huge size. A pike caught at Kaiserslautern, Germany, in 1497 was nineteen feet long and weighed 350 pounds. It bore in its gills a copper ring with an inscription stating that it had been put in the pond of Lauten by order of the Emperor Frederick II.—that is, 261 years before.

THE NURSE.

Self-Sacrifice Is an Obligation That She Cannot Escape.

A great many persons—in fact, it may be said, most persons—labor under the impression that after a few years of service nurses become hardened and have but little feeling for the sufferers under their care. That this is not so, says a writer, is borne out by the unselfish spirit in which nurses labor, unsparing of themselves, seeking solely to save the sick one. If there is one thing a professional nurse dislikes it is to lose a case. When a patient under their care dies they almost feel themselves responsible and it is sometimes days and weeks before they recover from the death. Sometimes they take the death harder than the relatives.

This suggests the assertion of some persons that the nurse become callous and loses human sympathy because of the scientific side of her calling. Quite the contrary is the rule. Constant association between the nurse and her patient is so intimate, so entirely personal, that the nurse becomes interested in the little sidelights she obtains of the life that has been intrusted to her by the physician. Often the mind and the very soul of the patient is opened to her study. The very gratitude that the sick express cannot fail to touch the heart of the nurse, and it will be remembered that she is human, and a woman at that.

The ethics of her profession, which make duty the beacon light and humanity its principle, bring with them self-sacrifice as an obligation that she cannot escape. There may be nurses who shirk their duty and do not realize the greatness of their calling, but observation recounts these makeshifts as few in a profession that has shone gloriously on the battlefield with its stern demands upon the delicate yet almost superhuman strength of woman. A true nurse in times of peace has all of the character and devotion of a Florence Nightingale. She is a Joan of Arc, without reproach. If the battle with death is lost, how often her kindly fingers smooth the last spasm of the dying moments and at last lay the palm upon the nerveless lids as the spirit takes its flight.

A Real Staff of Life.

It is more than a coincidence that the tree which furnishes a greater amount of available material to man than any other in the vast kingdom of vegetables is the first to spring up on the bare rocks of the newly-arisen coral reefs. The cocoanut, so formed that it may have floated across the Pacific, is thus universally distributed throughout tropical islands.

It thrives best near the sea, seldom penetrating far into the interior. Its hard shell is a coat of mail for the embryo plants, says The New Age, enabling it to stand hard usage for a protracted period and locking up securely the precious life in miniature.

The fibrous husk which envelops it, and is seldom seen in the market on account of the greatly-increased bulk, bears the jar which would be inevitable should the hard nut fall unprotected from the tall tree to the ground 60 or 90 feet below.

Such a blow would scarcely fail to break the shell, occasioning the loss of the nourishing milk so necessary to the germ. The outer husk not only breaks the jar of a fall but buoys it up on the water, while the tough outer cuticle is waterproof.

Thus is the tree which offers to man almost in the raw state all his necessities freely scattered where the warm seas and their borders offer a footing; and from it the humble native secures sugar, milk, butter, wine, vinegar, oil, candles, soap, cups, ladles, cordage, matting thatch for roof and material for raiment — combining food, clothing, and shelter in a single gift, continually making waste places habitable.

Breakfast a Characteristic Meal.

It is not only in Scotland that breakfast is the characteristic national meal. Travel where you may, the first meal of the day is the one that strikes the foreign note, luncheon and dinner having gradually absorbed cosmopolitan qualities that are not even confined to hotels. But you never feel so much of an Englishman as when Switzerland gives you rolls and butter and honey, and nothing more, with your coffee; or when France makes this into one exquisite crumbling "croissant," with an inch or two from a yard long loaf, or when Denmark adds cream instead of milk to the coffee and a dangerous piece of pastry to the black bread and round white roll.

Yet our English breakfast became an institution only in the 18th century. Before that only royalty breakfasted off meat, bread and cheese and ale. The commoner took merely a morning draught of buttered ale.

An Irreconcilable.

From Johannesburg comes a report of an extraordinary speech made by Dr. Krause at a meeting at Newtown, which he began with the statement that he was "born a Republican" and was "a Republican at heart still." He ended by declaring that the native vote of the Cape was an inheritance from the British Government and Exeter Hall, with which the constitution gives South Africa power to deal. He added: "And when once we can diddle the British Government to give us that power—by jove, we will use it!"

How Long a Tree Lives.

Inquiry as to the general age of trees being put to an authority of the forestry service at Washington, it was said that the pine tree attained 700 years as a maximum length of life. Four hundred and twenty-five years was the allotted span of the silver fir. The larch lived 275 years, the red beech 245, the aspen 210, the birch 200, the ash 170, the elder 145 and the elm 130. The heart of the oak begins to rot at about the age of 300 years. Of the holly it is said that there is a specimen 410 years old near Aschaffenburg, Germany.

Noble Is Sharpshooter.

In his younger days Lord Waleran, who was sixty the other day, was a crack shot with the rifle, and only by a piece of bad luck missed winning the Queen's Prize. He is also remembered as one of the most energetic Whips the Unionist party ever had.

DOING TRICKS.

Where the Conjurer Learns the Subtle Art of His Trade.

Where does the conjurer learn his work, and who invents his tricks for him?

The first question is easy; the second difficult. The conjurer learns from books and from papers produced specially for conjurers. There are three conjurers' papers published in America, and three in England, and it is generally understood that English conjurers are always hungry for the American papers and the American conjurers for the English. As to the books on conjuring, they are produced by the score, but the majority of them are never heard of by anyone but conjurers.

But the conjurer who always performs old tricks, just as they are described in books, will never acquire a very great reputation from his rivals. It is generally conceded, however, that there are certain tricks—some card tricks and a few others—which will never become old-fashioned; but with some of these exceptions the Christmas conjurer's program must be new each year, and, if possible, his own.

A conjurer who sits down to think out a new trick has several courses open to him. He can take an old trick, and improve it in such a way that it is comparatively a new trick; or he may try and invent a trick to be performed with articles that have never been used in a trick before; or he may employ articles that are the stock-in-trade of every conjurer, and use them in a different way. It is often more difficult to improve an old trick than to think of a new one.

The finest tricks of all are those in which new objects are used, and in which the secrets are new also. The number of such tricks is comparatively small, and in most cases the inventor receives no thanks and no recompense for his trouble. He satisfies his conjurer's conscience when he produces new tricks, but he knows that conjurers cannot deceive conjurers, and that in all probability his ideas will be copied.

Many of the oldest tricks are still very popular. The oldest book on conjuring in existence, published in 1594, contains descriptions of some of the tricks performed this season; but, naturally, the methods of modern conjurers are far more ingenious than those of their ancestors.

Jaffa's Orange Groves.

The world-renowned orange gardens of Jaffa—the Joppa of the Bible—present in the fruiting season an enchanting sight. Surrounded by an impenetrable hedge of thorny cactus, which during their blossoming time must be a gorgeous display of intense and vivid scarlet and green, as far as the eye can reach, the great trees, as large as oaks, extend in long, shady avenues, each one of these lofty, wide-spreading trees loaded with a wild profusion of rich ovoid fruit, almost as large as small footballs, reminding one of the fabled forest whose trees bore a harvest of solid gold, while the few flowers still left perfume the air with their fragrant aroma.

ASSAULT CHARGE WAS DISMISSED BUT COMPLAINANT WAS FINED FOR TRESPASSING AT THE FIRE HALL

Case Resulting From Altercation Between Chief Howard and F. Reynolds on Saturday Night, April 3rd, Was Heard in the Police Court This Morning.

MUCH EVIDENCE WAS TAKEN

Magistrate Ruled That No Unnecessary Violence Was Used On Part of Chief — Reynolds Was Fined.

The two charges resulting from the altercation between Fire Chief Howard and Frank Reynolds, an ex-fireman, at the fire station on Saturday evening, April the third, were heard at the police court this morning. The one against Reynolds for trespassing was heard first, after which the charge against Chief Howard for assaulting Reynolds, was proceeded with. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for Chief Howard, and Mr. R. F. McWilliams for Reynolds. Mr. E. H. D. Hall, City Solicitor, conducted the prosecution in the first case.

Considerable evidence was taken, but after hearing it, his Worship ruled that there had been no assault committed by Chief Howard, no unnecessary violence used to eject Reynolds from the building. Reynolds persisted in going there after having been told in a letter to remain away. He refused to go when told kindly by the Chief, resisting and trying to again enter. In the case of trespassing his Worship found that Reynolds had committed a breach of the bylaw and imposed a fine of five dollars and costs, amounting to $7.60.

Chief Howard's Story.

Chief Howard was called. He knew the defendant, Reynolds. On Saturday night, April 3rd, he came to the fire station. A copy of a letter sent to Reynolds, mailed by register, forbidding him to come to the hall, was produced. Reynolds admitted that he got the letter. On the night in question Chief Howard requested him to leave the hall, and he replied that he got the letter, and registered, too. His language was quite improper. He was told to go and not to come around there when under the influence of liquor. He said that he could clean up anything around the "joint." Reynolds refused to go, but walked over towards the deputy chief. Chief Howard went over and took the defendant by the sleeve and asked him again to go. Reynolds struck at the witness but by putting up his arm he warded off the blow. Chief Howard retaliated by knocking him down. He quickly got up and ran towards the witness, who again knocked him down. He then picked Reynolds up and put him right out of the building. On the sidewalk Reynolds struck again at the Chief.

The defendant had been in the habit of coming into the fire station late at night, and awakening the men. He had been verbally warned twice to remain away from the hall. On February 15th he created such a disturbance that it was necessary to call the police. Chief Howard wrote the letter to Reynolds on the advice of the Chief of Police.

To Mr. McWilliams, witness said that Assistant Chief Grange and Fireman Jobe were playing billiards, and Reynolds was walking around with Fireman Davis.

Witnesses of the Affair.

Fireman Thompson Neill said that he remembered Saturday evening, April 3rd. He was on watch duty. He saw Reynolds pass through the reception room with Fireman Davis. He saw Chief Howard bring Reynolds through the reception room and witness opened the door to allow the Chief to put the defendant out. He tried to get in again three times. He struck at the Chief and Neill put up his hand to save the Chief and received the blow himself.

Fred Davis, another fireman, stated that he took Reynolds through the hall. He never saw the man before. He asked to be taken through. He pretended to be perfectly ignorant of what the various things in the hall were for, but afterwards admitted having worked there. Witness heard Chief Howard tell defendant to leave Reynolds replied that he didn't care for the letter or anyone in the fire hall. Davis was a witness of the fracas between Chief Howard and Reynolds, and corroborated Chief Howard's evidence.

Mr. McWilliams did not put in any evidence for the defence. He argued that the letter did not prevent his client from going into the fire hall as long as he behaved himself and that he went into the station with the Chief's permission.

The Assault Case.

Dr. McClelland was the first witness called in the second case. He attended Frank Reynolds on Saturday evening, April 3rd. There was a wound on the right side of forehead, an abrasion over and below the right eye. He could not tell how he was struck. He did not appear to be under the influence of liquor.

Reynolds, in the witness box, said that he resided near the fire station, and was formerly employed as a fireman. He denied having been in the habit of drinking. On Saturday evening, April 3rd, he went to the hall, having heard that there were some changes made and he wanted to see them. The man at the door showed him in and the Chief saw him enter. Davis and witness were at the head of the stairs when they met the Chief, who said to him: "I thought you were told to stay out of here," Reynolds replied that he thought it was a public building. Reynolds claimed that Chief Howard struck him and used insulting language. He denied grinding his teeth and having made any resistance. He tried to get out of the station as quickly as possible.

Several witnesses were called who swore to having seen Reynolds on Saturday evening, and that he was not the worse of liquor.

Fireman Davis was recalled. He was within four feet of Reynolds and Chief Howard and no such language as mentioned by Reynolds was used by Chief Howard.

Assistant Chief Grange corroborated Fireman Davis in his evidence.

His Worship then gave his verdict, as stated above.

SENSATIONAL EVIDENCE EXPECTED AT HAMILTON

Special to The Examiner.

Hamilton, April 22.—So sensational is the evidence to be brought out at the Kinrade inquest to be held here this evening, that the public has been excluded from the inquest and orders issued that only bona-fide newspaper men, the jurors, witnesses and lawyers shall be admitted to the court room.

The entire Kinrade family will be recalled to the witness stand and taken carefully over the whole story of the crime.

In addition to this, sensational evidence will be given by a Miss Fagen, who lives at 195 Main street, east. Miss Fagen is ready to swear that she had made secret arrangements with the murdered girl, Ethel Kinrade, for her to come and live with Miss Fagen and that on the day of the murder, Ethel was to have met Miss Fagen to complete the arrangements. Miss Fagen will also testify that sometime before the murder she saw three suspicious looking characters looking over a public directory in the public library, picking out names of people good for touches. Miss Fagen rembered the name of T. L. Kinrade, school teacher, being mentioned and she also claims that on the day of the crime she heard the same three men talking in front of the Y. M. C. A. building on James street. One of the men making the remark, "Did you get anything," and another replying, "Yes, I got ten dollars." This sum was the amount that Florence Kinrade claims that she gave to the man who she claims murdered her sister.

Jimmie Baum the Portsmouth, Va., admirer of Florence Kinrade, is in town and he too, will be called to the stand, while the Pinkerton and provincial detectives will give evidence. A rather interesting time is expected and a clearance of the mystery is looked for.

POLLUTION OF THE WATERS OF STONY LAKE MUST BE STOPPED

The Water Commissioners Decide That Septic Tanks Must be Installed by the Hotels and Boarding Houses.

MR. COCHRANE TO ACT.

It is up to the owners of hotels and boarding houses at Stony Lake to see that their places are equipped with septic tanks before the coming tourist season opens. The Water Commissioners have decided to put a stop to the pollution of the waters of Stony Lake from these sources and will insist that septic tanks be installed at once. It is stated that the hotels and boarding houses are the chief offenders in this respect and that little trouble is caused by the average cottager. Mr. Graham, proprieaor of Viamede, has set the example by installing the proper sanitary apparatus and the other resorts are expected to follow suit.

The Water Commissioners have secured the services of Mr. Geo. Cochrane, who knows the lake from one end to the other like an open book to see that their demands in this regard are carried out. Prosecutions will follow unless the owners comply with the wishes of the commissioners.

Normal School Grounds Will Be Laid Out And Beautified

Grading Will be Begun This Summer, Actual Planting Not Until 1910—Prof. Hutt and Mr. Heakes on a Visit to the City To-day Concerning the Work.

WORK TO COMMENCE SOON.

Mr. F. R. Heakes, Provincial Government architect and Mr. H. L. Hutt, B.S.A., Professor of Landscape Gardening at the Guelph Agricultural College, were in the city to-day in connection with the arranging for improvements to the Normal School grounds. To an Examiner representative, Mr. Hutt stated that the work of beautifying the grounds of the school will be begun this summer. The Ontario Government, after spending a large sum of money on the erection of the school intend to give it an appropriate exterior setting.

The grading for the lawns and driveways will be begun this summer, but the planting will not be done until next year. A great amount of earth will have to be drawn to the school grounds in order to get sufficient for the requirements of levelling it with what was done last fall. Trees will be planted, walks and driveways are to be laid out, a tennis court will be prepared, and the whole will be in keeping with the appearance of the building and should greatly enhance its appearance. Mr. Hutt suggested that a decided improvement could be secured if the dwelling to the south of the building were purchased and removed, thus enlarging the lawns and giving the school a more extensive setting and allowing for better improvements.

Mr. Hutt and Mr. Heakes were the guests of Mr. Duncan Walker, while in the city.

PURE WATER

The Peterborough Water Commissioners have done a most commendable act in requiring all Stony Lake boarding houses to equip their premises with septic tanks; and they also did a wise thing in selecting Mr. Geo. Cochrane to superintend the enforcement of the requirement. Under his supervision there will not be any evasion of the regulations, even, if, as is not all probable, there should be any disposition of mind on the part of those concerned to escape responsibility. Whether or not there is danger of serious pollution of our sources of city water supply from the presence of a large summer population at Stony Lake, it is indispensable that every possible precaution be taken to make assurance doubly sure and by taking all possible precautions to avoid the very appearance of evil. The requirement enacted by the Water Commissioner is likely to have excellent preventive results, and the individual cottagers have, it is understood, revised the arrangement of their premises in a way to practically eliminate the danger of contributing in any serious degree to conditions that will adversely affect our source of water supply.

CAPITAL SPENDING AND REVENUE.

The debt of Canada has increased since 1896 by $65,463,000, the advance being chiefly due to the construction of the Transcontinental Railway, which is responsible for $52,574,000. Outside of this the increase since the Liberals came into power has only been at the rate of one million a year; not a bad showing, when we consider the many substantial and needed national improvements we have to show for it. For the past twelve and three quarter years, the total capital expenditure and special outlay have amounted to $212,449,-598. Yet it is a remarkable fact that with all this large expenditure to provide national equipment in the interests of national progress and expansion, and taking out the Transcontinental expenditure, this has been provided out of revenue with the exception of about $14,000,000. This is a tribute to the excellence of the Liberal Government, and to the national prosperity under it.

POPULATION NEEDED

"Bystander," in the Weekly Sun, says that "there is no great hurry in increasing our population; the land will keep." This is not only the counsel of stagnation but the closing of our ears to humanity's cry for bread, increase of the price of the poor man's loaf. The best-informed trade authorities inform us that the demand for wheat is overtaking the supply. The Canadian West is one of the greatest potential wheat fields in the world and upon its population depends the supply. In spite of Mr. Goldwin Smith, the one great need of Canada is population, without which our wheat growing resources cannot be developed. Bystander would seriously combat the proposal to tax food stuffs for the British people, but he advocates it in another form, by proposing to limit the rapidity of peopling our western wheat fields and limiting the supply of wheat which with the increase of demand will tend to increase its price. This would be to the profit of the Canadian farmer in one sense but it not to be held that one section of the Empire should thrive at the expense of the other.

While this country's great need is population there is the correlated need of providing that it shall be of the best quality obtainable. To this end the Government of the day is giving all possible attention. But, aside from the evident and demonstrated degenerate and undesirable, we cannot, shut the dor against any immigrant seeking a home in Canada. And even if the new population of our Great West is of initial good quality, settlement in new regions unprovided with the indespensable adjuncts and equipment of the highest civilization, demands provision for ministering to the educational and moral needs, which are as important to our new population as the bread they grow is to the physical sustenance of those for whom it is grown. The Government is in duty bond to provide educational facilities, but religious privileges,the conditions indispensable to the mantenance of or creation of a high moral standard of citizenship devolves upon the churches, the custodians of the moral welfare of the people. The Laymen's Missionary Movement has assumed large proportions, but it seems that in Canada it lacks the patriotic element. We hear of millions being raised for missions, but we hear of only about twenty-five per cent. of these millions being devoted to home missions. The moral quality of our citizens bears a very direct ratio to their value to the state. It either makes them desirable or undesirable. When we see how in some parts of the United States the growth of undesirable population centres has been more rapid than the process of assimilation with the civilized conditions with which they are environed; when we see disregard for law and order, contempt from authority, anarchy, lynching and violence rampant, we see conditions which effective home mission work on the part of the churches might have prevented. While the churches were spending millions to convert a handful of heathens in their native lands, they permitted the development of home healthenism more menacing to civilization than honest heathenism of the original and out-and-out sort. Let us have more population in Canada, but let it be of the best quality and let us keep it of the best quality, by providing that the indispensable conditions of the highest civilization, Christian and Christianizing influences go hand in hand with home making in our new West and elsewhere in Canada, wherever human enterprise carries the axe and the plough in advance of the Cross and what it stands for.

During the ten years ending March 31, 1908, of the 1,166,126 immigrants entering Canada, two-thirds, or 819,-213 were English speaking.

TRIUMPHS OF SURGICAL RESEARCH

Dr. W. W. Keen thus epitomises the accomplishments in the domain of surgical research in the relief of human suffering:

"(1) It has discovered antiseptic surgery, and so made possible the wonderful results of modern surgery.

"(2) It has made possible practically all modern abdominal surgery, including operations on the stomach, intestines, liver, gall, bladder, pancreas, spleen, kidneys, &c.

"(3) It has made possible all the modern surgery of the brain.

"(4) It has demonstrated how lockjaw spreads from the wound; how sometimes it can be arrested and cured; and, still better, how it can be prevented, so that practically tetanus has been banished from surgical operations.

"(5) It has reduced the death-rate in compound fractures from sixty-five per cent. to less than one per cent

"(6) It has reduced the mortality of ovariotomy from two out of three to two or three out of one hundred.

"(7)- It has abolished yellow fever.

"(8)- It has made possible the cure of nearly all cases of hydrophobia.

"(9) It has cut down the mortality of diphtheria in New York City alone from 158 deaths per 100,000 in 1904, to 38 per 100,000 in 1905, and practically the some story is told all over the world.

"(10-) By the use of the serum recently discovered by Flexner at the Rockefeller Institute science has changed the mortality in cerebro-spinal meningitis from seventy-five per cent., and even ninety per cent., to thirty per cent. or less.

"(11) It has shown the cause of acute tetanus after operation for goitre, so that it now can be prevented.

ON THE LAST LAP

Mr. J. W. Stewart, of Foley, Welch and Stewart, the big railway builders, was in Edmonton the other day. Stewart is famous for what he keeps from newspaper men, but one tireless correspondent gathered frim his silence that the close of the present year will see the Grand Trunk Pacific completed and construction trains running over the line as far west as the McLeod River. The grading of the transcontinental is practically all completed to the Pembina River, and there is only the stretch betwen the Pembina and the McLeod to be completed. The steel head is within less than one hundred miles of Edmonton, and before June will have reached the city and be on its way to the west.

The foundations for the big steel bridges that will carry the transcontinental across the Pembina and McLeod Rivers are already advanced and steel for the structures will be rushed through the moment that trains are able to run through to the Pembina, which should be in July or August.

Preparations for the completion of the last stretch of grading on the Edmonton-McLeod section, from the Pembina to the McLeod, are being made by Foley, Welch & Stewart, who have the contract. J. W. Stewart states that work will commence as soon as the frost is well out of the ground. There is only about two months' work to complete the grading through to the McLeod River.

Asked as to the contract for the Wolf Creek section of the transcontinental, Mr. Stewart said he had heard nothing as yet from the railway company, but was confident that work would be proceeded with on the mountain section within a few months.

THE ANNUITIES ACT.

The Government at Ottawa might well be gratified by the success which has already attended the annuities scheme adopted at the last session of parliament.

The superintendent of annuities is daily in receipt of hundreds of letters of inquiry. He has received not less than $25,000 and expects that money will pour in as the act becomes better understood by those whom it is intended to benefit. Lecturers on the scheme report great public interest. It is too soon yet, of course, to say how far or to what extent the act will be taken advantage of, but Sir Richard Cartwright, the author of the measure, recently expressed the hope tht as it became better known the advantages of it will appeal largely to the public in general. The press of the United States has eulogized the act, some papers urging the state governments to adopt similar legislation.

Of course, in such experimental legislation, defects will manifest themselves, but when these are discovered the Government will endeavour to find remedies. Even now there are before Parliament a few amendments to the act. As it stands it limits the total amount which can be paid to a husband or wife or any other parties to a matter of $600. The Government now proposes to allow preferred annuities to be purchased at a very early age. Take the case of a man who chooses to purchase an annuity for a child of 10 or 15 years of age, but such annuity not to be payable until the age of 55, and suppose this child marries a person who has in the ordinary course contracted for or purchased an annuity: it would be manifestly unfair to prevent the two parties from receiving the annuities which they had respectively purchased. The Government now proposes, as Sir Richard Cartwright explained, in introducing the amendments in the Senate, in the case of husband and wife, when this has been done before marriage, to allow each party to have the annuity up to the extent of $600.

Another proposed change is that where a married man has acquired possession of an annuity he shall be allowed under the restrictions contained in the act, to divide this with his wife if he sees fit. If the division is made with due regard to the difference of age between the parties, there can be no inconvenience to the state or possible risk of loss. Under the act such a man would have a certain sum at his disposal, and what is now proposed is to allow this sum to be divided between the husband and wife, the husband retaining not less than one-half and giving as much of the rest as he pleases to his wife. If the husband chooses to divide it the wife becomes the absolute possessor of the annuity just as if she had purchased it in the first place; if she dies first it would lapse. That, it is explained, would be necessary, more particularly as the chances are that the wife would be much younger than her husband, and would therefore, be in possession of the divided annuity for a considerably longer time. Finally, to meet the views of those having no dependents upon them, it is proposed to enable any parties to contract themselves out of the agreement if they wish to do so.

MR. FIELDING'S SPEECH.

(Montreal Herald.)

Despite much anticipation to the contrary, the long record of the Laurier Government for surpluses was not disturbed by the announcement made by Mr. Fielding yesterday regarding the Dominion income and outgo for the financial year just closed. The marked falling-off in receipts, due to the world-wide business depression, an dthe difficulty of at once accommodating expenditure to revenue, had made it probable that a deficit would raise its ugly head. Such was not, however, the case, a surplus of one and a half million being announced. While not a large sum it is particularly gratifying to find that our national finances have stood so well the brunt of an exceptionally bad business year. The Opposition press are belittling the surplus, as based only on an erroneous system of bookkeping, but this system has prevailed since Confederation, and it sharply divides expenditure on current account from that on capital account. Every business man treats his accounts in the same way. Thus treated the Dominion's accounts show an actual surplus of income over outgo of one and a half million dollars.

On the other hand, there has been a large increase in the capital debt—some $46,000,000 The bulk of this, $25,000,000, was for the cost of the Transcontinental, and upon this the Grand Trunk Pacific will in a few years be paying interest, so that the burden upon the people of last year's addition to the national debt will be represented by the interest on $21,-000,000 only. In considering this phase of the budget, however, it must be borne in mind that while $212,-449,000 has been spent on capital account in thirteen years, only $65,-500,000 has been added to the public debt, the line of splendid surpluses being sufficient to meet the difference.

As to the future, Mr. Fielding sees a steady improvement of business conditions. The Government has faced the depression of the past year without recourse to increased taxation, and has now, by cutting deeply into expenditures, made it unnecessary to anticipate any reason for additional taxation. The estimated expenditure for '09 show a decrease of $30,000,000—a sum sufficient to prove that no timidity has been exercised in attacking the difficult task of retrenchment. Another gratifying feature of the budget is the decision not to interfere with the tariff. Mr. Fielding has won a great reputation by the courage and ability which he has displayed, ever since his acceptance of the portfolio of Finance, in giving the Dominion a stable tariff. Every business feels the direct benefit of such stability, and it speaks volumes for the care with which the present tariff was prepared, and for the equity with which it rests upon all classes, that in the face of universal business depression no pressure for change has had to be brought by suffering industries, and the tariff is permited to stand without amendment.

"UNLIMITED POWER OF RAPINE"

"Bystander"—Mr. Goldwin Smith—in the Weekly Sun moralizes as follows:

In a former constitutional epoch conservative interests had the protection of a Senate. But in this province all interests, according to recent decisions, are absolutely at the mercy of a single Assembly, which, in the chances of the faction fight, may any day be in the hands of demagogic violence and lend itself to the policy of "confiscation without compensation," without regard to "hardship or injustice." It is true we have the veto of the Governor-General and the Lieutenant-Governor. How much is that safeguard worth? The Governor-General lets pass the Cobalt Act in face of the opinion of his Minister of Justice that it is an Act of "confiscation without compensation." The Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario allows himself to be made to congratulate the authors of the Act in a speech which shows that his office is a ventriloquial organ, and, instead of diminishing, increases the dangers. The Bystander of course does not presume to question the decisions of legal authorities on a law point. It is certain that the British Parliament can never, in passing the British North America Act, have intended to confer on a local Legislature unlimited power of rapine.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hon. Mr. Fielding bridges the gap between revenue and expenditure by reduced spending, instead of imposing higher taxation.

The Liberal Governmen has been in power 12 years, and the Liberal Finance Minister, on Tuesday announced the twelfth successive surplus.

Winnipeg boasts of a population of 122,800, and though it is in the iceberg zone, also boasts of the spring straw hat on its streeets. You can't lose Winnipeg.

The telegraphic dispatch agents might be better employed than in sending over the wires such rubbish as the "fake" story of a clairvoyant telling the location of the Kinrade tragedy revolver, which was found at the spot where it had been placed to be found.

Hon. Mr. Foster condemns the Liberal Government for using the public credit to help build railways to carry the fruits of agricultural industry to fill the mouths of our fellow subjects of the Empire, and condemns them also for not spending millions to build Dreadnoughts to strengthen our neighbours and cripple commerce.

A recovering revenue is one of the signs of good times, and the prosperity of our banks is one of the indications of the return of popular and national prosperity. The Government bank statement issued on Tuesday shows that the assets of Canadian banks has passed the thousand million mark, the figures standing at 1,018 millians for March as against 990 millians for February. Increases, with trifling exceptions, are reported all along the line, the most notable increases being in demand and notice deposits. The improvement in current loans indicates expanding business.

Lever Brothers, Toronto, will send you free a cake of their famous Plantol toilet soap, if you mention this paper.

TO INCREASE PENALTIES.

Mr. Aylesworth Seeks to Amend the Criminal Code.

Ottawa, April 22.—Hon. Mr. Aylesworth yesterday afternoon introduced a bill to amend the criminal code.

It makes a corporation, municipality or company liable to be proceeded against by summany process before a justice of the peace. It provides for punishment by imprisonment for carrying an offensive weapon, such a a dagger, knife or dirk. The manufacture and circulation of immoral publications or pictures is aimed at in penalties that shall be extended not only to persons who offend against the present law, but also to those who assist in distribution or circulation or have the offensive publications in their possession for circulation. The provision is also extended to the exhibition or circulation of plates for the manufacture of immoral pictures or literature. The bill increases the penalty for procuring women from two to five years, and the present provision relating to the keeping of a disorderly house, gaming house or betting house extends to an opium joint.

It is made an indictable offence to steal silver or gold bearing quartz and a criminal offence to reproduce or sell pirated musical compositions. A provision is inserted extending the time during which cattle may be confined in railway yards in the course of transportation to 36 hours.

On the suggestion of the Attorney-General of Ontario a provision is inserted of withdrawing cases of homicide from the jurisdiction of the courts of the session.

The budget debate has been fairly launched. After the big guns of yesterday some lighter artillery were fetched up to the battlefield yesterday, and to-day and to-morrow there will be some more. About forty members, mostly new men, want to get at the great financial problems of the country and this is their opportunity.

On the Conservative side Mr. Perley and Mr. Ames spoke, while the Government view of the situation was taken by Lloyd Harris and Dr. Clarke of Red Deer, who only got going when the House adjourned at 6 o'clock, under the Wednesday rule.

Repentance Came Too Late.

Kingston, Ont., April 22.—Death, under very sad circumstances, came to James Currie, 53 years of age, until a short time ago employed as waiter at the Frontenac Club. He was run down and killed by a train near Hudson, N.Y.

On Good Friday he and another Kingston man complained to the police that their wives had eloped. Currie took the affair very much to heart, sold out his household effects and left town, leaving his young son in care of friends.

Tuesday Mrs. Currie returned to the city with the other woman, to find her home broken up. In the afternoon, while endeavoring to get trace of him, she received a telegram of his death.

The women do not admit that any men were concerned in their going away.

Believe In Hains' Deed.

Flushing, N.Y., April 22.—A special panel of 150 talesmen was exhausted yesterday without getting an additional juror in the trial of Capt. Peter C. Hains, jr., for the murder of Wm. E. Annis. Seventy talesmen were examined.

Several of the prospective jurors expressed the opinion that they could not conscientiously vote to convict the defendant, as they believed that he was morally right in killing Annis if the latter had invaded the home of Capt. Hains and had been guilty of wrongful relations with his wife.

A number declared that there was a higher law governing such cases than the state law.

The prisoner continues to maintain the same stolid indifference to his surroundings; he scarcely speaks a word to anyone.

Charivari for Aged Bride and Groom.

St. Catharines, April 22.—Last Thursday at Vineland, Charles Moyer, aged 77, married Mrs. Barbara Rittenhouse, aged 72. They went for a short wedding trip and returned on Tuesday night.

The young people of the neighborhood gathered and gave the aged couple a charivari, which they took very kindly, the groom handing out a good-sized banknote to buy refreshments with.

LONDON, April 21.—London cables for cattle are steady, at 13½c to 13¾c per lb. for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9½c to 9¾c per lb.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, April 21.—(Special.)—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market this morning the offerings were 350 cattle, 150 sheep and lambs, 250 hogs and 2,000 calves. A feature of the trade was the stronger undertone to the market for cattle, owing to the small supplies coming forward and the increasing demand for local consumption, on account of the fact that butchers generally have now worked off their surplus stock, and in addition to this, there is a steady demand for small lots for export account to complete shipments with. The advance in prices was fully ¼c per pound, but there were really no choice steers offered, and for the best on the market 5¾c was paid, while other sales of lower grades were freely made at 5c to 5½c, and 5¼c per pound. Good heavy cows sold at 5c to 5½c, and common at 3½c to 4½c, while good to choice bulls brought 5¼c to 5½c, and inferior grades 3½c to 4½c per pound. Supplies of sheep and lambs were a little larger than usual, for which the demand was active and prices ruled firm. Yearling lambs sold at 6½c to 7c, and old sheep at 5c to 5½c per pound. Spring lambs brought from $3 to $6 each, as to size. There was a glut of calves on the market, of which the bulk was poor in quality, and sellers, in order to make sales, had to accept low prices. The demand was good for picked lots, and such sold at $5 to $7 each, but the common and inferior went at $1.50 to $3 each. In hogs, the feeling was very firm, under a good demand and small supplies, and sales of selected lots were made at $8.25 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars. At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market the supply of live stock consisted of 200 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 1700 calves and 400 hogs. There was a good demand for cattle, and, as there were some choice Ontario stall-fed steers offered, weighing 1300 to 1400 pounds and well finished in every respect, buyers were eager to secure them, and sales were made at 6¼c per pound, while choice stock of lighter weights brought 5¾c to 6c, and good 5c to 5½c. The lower grades of steers, cows and heifers sold at from 3½c to 3¾c per pound. The demand for sheep and lambs was active, and sales of the former were made at 5c to 5½c, and the latter at 6½c to 7c per pound, while spring lambs sold at from $3 to $6 each, as to size. Calves were very plentiful and met with a good demand at prices ranging from $1.50 to $7 each, as to quality. A very firm feeling prevails in the market for hogs, and sales of selected lots were made at $8.25 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

U. S. Steel Corporation Directors.

New York, April 22.—Heads of the various subsidiary companies of the United States Steel Corporation met in this city yesterday for one of the conferences held by them from time to time for discussion of matters connected with the management of their plants. Practically all the subsidiary companies were represented by either their presidents or their managers.

Following the meeting it was stated by the chairman of the steel corporations' board of directors, that neither the question of steel prices nor of employes' wages had been discussed.

Regina, April 22.—It is officially announced that the Provincial Government has acquired the entire plant of the long distance and local exchanges of the Bell Telephone Co. in Saskatchewan.

To Disestablish Church.

London, April 22.—The long promised bill for the disestablishment of the church in Wales, was introduced in the House of Commons yesterday by Premier Asquith.

Professors Resign.

Winnipeg, April 22.—Several important changes in the staff of Manitoba College will become effective at the close of the present term. Rev. Dr. Bryce and Rev. Dr. Hart have resigned and their resignations will be considered by the senate on Monday next.

The retirement of Dr. Bryce from the college which he founded over 30 years ago will be matter of regret among all those interested in the institution. Dr. Bryce was born of Scottish parents at Mount Pleasant, Ont., April 22, 1844, and was educated at the Brantford High School and at the University of Toronto, from which he graduated with honors in 1867.

Cigarette Paper Saves Him.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 22.—Harry Brown, a Reading Railroad brakeman, was saved from death after a fall from a train by means of a tiny torch, made from cigarette paper. Brown fell from his train near this city early yesterday morning and broke his leg. While lying on the track, cold and suffering intense pain, he was unable to attract attention. Finally he found a package of cigarette paper in his pocket, and, twisting the paper into small torches, he lighted several and attracted the attention of some train men. A few minutes after he was rescued from his dangerous place a train passed the track on which he had lain.

Woman Assaulted.

Brockville, April 22.—As Mrs. Lillie, wife of Dr. C. B. Lillie of Athens, was leaving her mother's home at 9 p.m. Tuesday, she was brutally assaulted and gagged. Fortunately Dr. Hart was passing to see a patient and found her semi-conscious by the roadside, in front of her home on Elgin street.

Mrs. Lillie has been the recipient of anonymous letters, and no doubt this is the outcome of it.

The local chief of police is investigating.

Canadian Shipping Unhurt.

Fort William, April 22.—Shipping at the Canadian head of the lakes will not be seriously affected by the strike of the Lake Carriers' Association boats, while on the other hand it will give Canadian lines, all of which are on excellent terms with their employes, a decided advantage.

There are a dozen American boats ready to sail with cargoes from here, and Port Arthur this week for Buffalo. Owners claim to be able to man all of the vessels and to deliver their cargoes at ports well within contract time, but this is doubted here.

Canada's Racial Policy.

London, April 22.—Hon. C. G. Murray, lecturing on the South African Union before the Royal Society of Arts, said he found Canada's racial question, which appeared to exceed anything he had witnessed in South Africa, one which when the racial question of South Africa had become a matter of history, bid fair to be still present.

"SPRING FEVER"

The need of a spring medicine seems to be universal. This is due to the fact that during the winter the blood becomes impure on account of the hearty food eaten. This causes that tired, weary, all-gone, don't-care-to-work feeling which is so prevalent at this time of year.

TORONTO REAL ESTATE MOVING

Business With Commissioners Is Reported Exceedingly Good.

Mr. C. Blewett of Ruth and Blewett, real estate dealers, state that the business boom in Toronto is remarkable. Activity has advanced with rapid strides and changes in property holdings are frequent with the result that the real estate commissioners are doing a big business. Not only houses and building lots but also sections in the down-town district are among those that are moving. Many buildings are going up and a large number of others are proposed, and it is believed that this year's building operations will be exceedingly large.

WHERE DID THEY GET THE BOTTLE?

Three Men on Indian List Had a "Jamboree" on the River Bank.

Three "listed" men had a little family gathering yesterday on the bank of the Otonabee just above the C. P. R. bridge. They had managed to obtain a flask of whisky, a fairly large one, one that would cost about fifty cents, and then proceeded to hold their afternoon reception at the fashionable hour of five o'clock. Safe in the knowledge that the Inspector was not near, the trio had a perfectly delightful time. It was almost worth while being an "Indian"—absence makes the thirst grow stronger—and those three men were about as thirsty as the most confirmed drinker. The bottle went around and around until it was all gone. The question is where did these men get the whisky. It is generally believed that listed men can get drink when ever they want it some of their friends acting as the go-between if they have the wherewithal.

POST CARD COLUMN.

Peterborough, April 22, 1909.

Does it not seem strange that the city, whilst keeping the aged poor in the jail, can afford to spend money needlessly at Victoria Park? A degenerate coming from London, England, is astounded at the fine buildings and want of charity in Peterborough.

A COCKNEY.

FRESHEN UP—AND SAVE YOUR PROPERTY

Spring-time has become the universal paint-time, and especially it is so in Canada, to the country's lasting benefit.

There is a two-fold virtue in paint—good paint. It changes a house that looks dingy, cheerless and generally "down at the heels," into a home of which any man—and his family—may well be proud. At the same time it protects the house from decay, adding years to its life and therefore to its value. What is true of the house is true for anything in wood or unprotected metal which is exposed to the weather. It certainly pays to keep things well painted.

"Well painted," however, does not, as some people suppose, simply mean covered thick with paint. Some points, like the barnacles on a ship's bottom, may be thick enough but a very poor protection. It all depends on the paint and the paint depends largely on the white lead of which it is made.

A house is really well painted when it is covered with "English" Liquid Paint. This paint is 100 per cent pure—70 per cent Brandram's B. B Genuine White Lead and 30 per cent Pure White Zinc. This lead has been made for over a century by Brandram's in London, Eng., and now by Brandram-Henderson, Limited, in Montreal. The Brandram Process is known only by Brandram Bros., in England and Brandram-Henderson, Limited, in Canada. The product has always commanded a higher price than others. It is the Standard.

"English" Liquid Paint forms an elastic and durable film that expands and contracts freely with changes of temperature, and does not crack. It lasts and affords read protection.

MISSIONARY COMMITTEE TO CANVASS THE CONGREGATION

In the Raising of $3000 for Missions This Year — Committee Appointed Last Evening at the Laymen's Banquet Held at Saint Andrew's Church.

THOSE WHO SPOKE.

The men of St. Andrew's Church are rising to their responsibilities in the evangelization of the world, and last evening the first step was made towards doing their share of the work when a laymen's banquet was held in the schoolroom, at which over forty men of the congregation were present. The gathering was a most interesting one, the various speakers imparting a great deal of information upon a question that is foremost in hte minds of ever yChristian man to-day. The delegates to the recent conference in Toronto spoke of their impressions of the immense assembly of men from all parts of the Dominion..

As a result of last night's gathering a committee was appointed to solicit the members of St. Andrew's church in an effort to raise $3,000 annually for the cause of missions.

Those present at the banquet included St. Andrew's hockey team, winners of the church league championship. An excellent supper was provided by the ladies of the church and many complimentary remarks weer expressed regarding the choice menu. The chair was taken by Mr. Andrew McFarlane, who, in a few well-chosen words, expressed the motive of the gathering, and introduced the speakers.

The Speakers.

Mr. R. M. Glover was the first one called upon. He was glad to be present at such an enjoyable function. Gatherings of this kind did a world of good in the church. To those who did not take such an active part in church work as some, it was a splendid way to bring before them their responsibilities. There were many ways in getting a boy interested in the church. One was along athletic lines. To be a good athlete a boy required to live a right and proper life. It trained him to have a good temper.

In this connection Mr. Glover took occasion to congratulate the St. Andrew's hockey team, champions of the Church League, upon their splendid victory during the past season.

Mr. Wm. Langford, in addressing the gathering, said the laymen's missionary movement was one of the largest questions the church had to deal with. All over Canada men were taking up the missionary work and rising to their responsibilities in this respect. More work had been done towards the evangelization of the world within the last one hundred years, he said, than in all the previous generations. If Canada did her work it would be required to send the gospel to forty millions of people, and for the Presbyterian church to be the means of giving it to fourteen millions. When one considered that it only required five dollars per each man, it was not a very large amount to give to this great work.

Speaking of the recent conference held in Massey Hall, Toronto, Mr. Langford said the presence of 4,000 men at it was an evidence of the widespread interest being taken in missions. They were told there by Sir Andrew Fraser of the Missionary work in India, and Bishop Colborne spoke of his labours in that country during the past fifty years. The first years of his work only a few were Christianized, but it was different now. The heathen there were being converted at an average of 86 per day but there was no reason why it should not be one thousand daily. Others told of the great advances being made towards the evangelization of the world. Any church that did not have the missionary spirit was utterly failing in carrying out the command of the Lord. "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel." He concluded by hoping that some action would be taken at this meeting by the men of St. Andrew's church.

Mr. John Hill, who also attended the conference at Massey Hall, spoke of the proceedings at that large gathering. It was certainly an inspiring sight, he said, to see such a concourse of men gathered for such a grand purpose. The results attained there ought to arouse men to their obligations and instil in them a desire to spread the Gospel of Christ among all men.

Mr. Mathieson, another delegate, stated that he was glad of the privilege to have ben present at the meeting in Massey Hall. The only way the work of evangelizing the world would be accomplished was by every Christian doing his duty. He was pleased that there were many speakers there who were representatives of the Presbyterian church, and they told interestingly of their work in the mission field. He hoped that some definite steps would be taken by those present towards doing their share.

Mr. Richard Lees was called upon to speak. He began by congratulating the ladies on the excellent supper provided. One very interesting and pleasing feature of the meeting, he said, was the presence of so many young men. They would be the ones called upon to take up the work of the church when the older members were unable to do so. One speaker at the Laymen's Missionary Conference had said that the church that did not have the missionary spirit was not doing the work of Jesus Christ. It had been said that there had not been a greater event since the day of Pentecost than the conference recently held in Toronto. This work should be taken up a business proposition and he was glad to say that the business men were at the back of this grand movement.

The purpose of the missionary movement was to give every man, woman and child in the world the opportunity to hear the Gospel within the present generation. It was estimated that one missionary could take the Gospel to 25,000 people, and it would therefore require 27,000 missionaries. There had been assigned to Canada 40,000,000 people, and it would require this country to raise annually $3,200,000. Canada also was receiving many thousands of foreigners who are not Christians and there is a big home mission field. In the United States the home missions were not looked after and to-day there were over 4000 towns and villages in that country where the Gospel was not preached.

The Presbyterian church was the pioneer home missionary church in Canada and a great work had been done here.

Now it was possible to evangelize the whole world in one generation. There was a great awakening in the eastern countries and every year thousands of people were coming to the western world to learn western civilization.

The city of Peterborough was pledged at a meeting in the George Street Methodist church to give $6.00 per church member. This was a little better than the estimated amount of $5.00 per member.

There were in St. Andrew's over 500 members so that over $3,000 per year must be raised. He suggested that a canvass be made by a committee and these members should be asked to use the duplex envelopes, both sides of it. They did not sk for a pledge of any stated amount, but merely that the envelopes be used every Sunday.

Alderman Gillespie, in naming the committee to look after the raising of $3,000, first congratulated the ladies on the excellent supper provided. A motion appointing the committee was unanimously carried.

The meeting was then closed with the pronouncing of the benediction by Rev. Mr. Potter.

During the evening vocal solos were rendered by Messrs. Jas. Browne and Mortimer Johnston.

Could Not Live Without Cigars This Man Commits Suicide Strange Case In New York

Examiner Special.

New York, April 21.—Rather than live without smoking, Alexander N. Jacob, cigar salesman, killed himself with a pistol yesterday afternoon at the Park Avenue Hotel. He registered there shortly after noon, asked for a room and bath on the second floor, to which he went immediately after paying in advance. Four hours later another guest on the second floor telephoned to the office he had heard a pistol shot in the room to which Jacob had been assigned. Dr. A. A. Moore, the house physician, found Jacob dead in the bathroom with a bullet through his heart. He had fired one shot.

Jacob left two notes and a memorandum for the hotel office to telephone the fact of his death to "Lehman, 2585 Riverside." An open letter read as follows: "I cannot regain my health. May God always bless my dear wife Retta."

The other note, addressed to the man's wife, informed her she would receive $35,000 insurance on his life.

The Lehmann referred to was Isaac Lehmann, of No. 26 West Eighty-eighth street, an uncle of Mrs. Jacob. He went to the hotel with the suicide's young wife and his brother, Morris Jacob, who is in the theatrical business.

Jacob, according to information his relatives gave to Coroner Harburger, was forty-eight years old, and for many years had been a successful seller of cigars, but had used so many of his own wares he acquired an aggravated case of tobacco heart. All the doctors he consulted told him he ought to stop smoking, but he found that impossible while he was in the cigar business. So he got the New York agency of a woollen manufacturer a year ago and tried to become interested in that.

But My Lady Nicotine was not to be jilted in that way and Jacob went back to the cigar business as salesman for Joseph Berran & Co., First avenue and Forty-second street.

Within a few weeks he was back to his thirty-five and forty cigars a day and the old trouble returned. He was stricken with heart trouble last fall while watching the big Republican parade and again in February, but stuck to his smokes.

Last month Jacob made a business trip through the South, but sales were not as good as on previous trips and that made him despondent. He was married about six years ago in New Orleans to Miss Retta Lehmann, who was about twenty years younger than he. They had no children. Their home in this city was at the Colonial Hotel, Columbus avenue and Eighty-first street.

Ice Jam On The Niagara As Seen Recently By Traveller

"I've seen many wonderful sights in my travels, but I do not think I ever witnessed anything as magnificent and impressing as the ice jam on the Niagara River." An Examiner reporter, in conversation with Mr. J. J. Fitzgerald, who is staying at the Oriental Hotel for a few days, while on a visit to relatives in this vicinty, was casually given a slight idea of the condition of the ice blockade now causing alarm to the residents of the cities that are threatened and concerning which the leading newspapers are endeavouring to keep the public in touch.

The ice has been carried from Lake Erie,and probably from other lakes in this system into the river, and over the Falls. About seven miles down the river, near Niagara on the Canadian side and Lewiston on the American, the ice has become jammed, and has filled up in a mass which baffles description. It is stated that this was first formed by the ice floating down the river to the point where it went under the stationary ice, until it piled downwards to the bottom. Slowly, but surely it formed a barrier, extending across the river. It began to pile up over this foundation, and is now estimated at about 100 feet high. The water finds small sluiceways to trickle through, but for the most part it is being dammed up and as no one seems able to even guess at the result, the people who may be affected are beginning to be alarmed.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, speaking of the probable action of the ice, recalled an incident he had partially seen in the Klondike some years ago. During the Spring freshet on the Yukon river, an island had been swept of its trees and knolls, as if it had been sliced off with a knife. The river was particularly swift, and as the ice passed over the island, which was practically inundated at that time of the year, the surface was left as smooth as a ball field.

It is hoped that the present situation on the Niagara will be speedily and safely relieved before any serious damage is done.

IN OLDEN TIMES.

People Were Content to Take Things Easier Than Now.

If our forefathers could behold the modern locomotives, automobiles and electric cars, they would hold up their hands in astonishment.

The stage-coach was fast enough then — people were more content to take things easy.

They used to be satisfied with any sort of a hair lotion that came along—if it did not prevent Baldness they thought it was because Baldness could not be prevented.

It's different now. People know that germs cause Baldness and that Newbro's Herpicide kills the germ, thus curing Dandruff and preventing Baldness.

ROYAL THEATRE NOT FOR SALE

Mr. M. Pappas Corrects An Erroneous Statement In The Times.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—The statement which appeared in the Times yesterday morning that the Royal Treatre had changed hands is not true. There can be no better authority on this point than myself, and if the editor of the Times had taken the trouble to ask me, as he should have done, he would have known the truth. I have no intention of disposing of The Royal, because it is paying me too good a revenue to part with it; and I know nothing about any "-deal-" with any person or persons to purchase it. I am the sole and only proprietor of The Royal, and have no desire to sell. The Times should be careful not to print all it hears.

Yours truly,
M. PAPPAS.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Furnished by J. N. Barber.—

New York, April 22.—Stocks opened active and higher, being influenced by higher prices from London and some heavy buying orders placed early here. The Harriman issues gained a point at once, this starting the bears to covering in the general list. Amn. Tel. & Tel. and Mackay were strong features with advances of nearly 3 in each. The tractions then came to the front under the lead of B. R. T. and advanced sharply. B. R. T. made a new high record easily and looks like going much higher. We have called attention to this one several times of late. The market now seems to have resumed its upward swing and should work higher. The break in wheat did much to help sentiment.

PETERBOROUGH LADY DONATES $5,000 TOWARDS EDUCATING THE CHILDREN OF CHINA

Generous Gift of Mrs. Mary A. Maxwell of This City and a Member of St. Andrew's Church

MONEY HAS BEEN SENT.

It was announced by Rev. J. G. Potter, at the laymen's missionary banquet at St. Andrew's church last evening that Mrs. Mary A. Maxwell, a member of the congregation, had given five thousand dollars to the cause of missions in China. Mr. Potter stated that Mrs. Maxwell had always said that when she was able to dispose of some of her property she would give the proceeds towards helping to educate the youth of China.

The money was forwarded to Rev. Dr. McKay. Secretary of the Foreign Missions for the Presbyterian church at Toronto this week and yesterday a receipt for the same was received by Mr. Potter. Rev. Dr. McKay, in his letter, expressed his sincere thanks on behalf of the Mission Board, for her generous gift. She would have no small share in the carrying of the Gospel to the children of China. The money would be used in the establishment of a school at Honan, China. It would be known as the "Mary A. Maxwell Home."

Mr. Potter said that he was sure Mrs. Maxwell's generosity was greatly appreciated by all. It ought to be an incentive for others to do their share in the spread of Christ's Kingdom. Mrs. Maxwell has been identified with St. Andrew's church for the past nine years, having come here from Port Hope. She is deeply interested in missionary work.

DETECTIVES EXPLODED THE SENSATION CAUSED BY THE FINDING OF THE REVOLVER

Hamilton, Ont., April 21. — Hamilton was wild with excitement early this morning when newsboys rushed through the streets with extras with startling headlines that a revolver, believed to be the one used by the murderer of Ethel Kinrade, had been found.

The public have followed the case carefully. They realize that the revolver is the missing link, which the Crown authorities have bent every effort to discover to establish their theory. To trace the revolver back to Ethel Kinrade's slayer, once it was found, the detectives did not look upon as a difficult task. So when the news flashed around this morning that the police had the revolver, Hamilton received a genuine thrill. People took it for granted that it was only a matter of hours until an arrest had been made.

Call It a "Plant"

Detectives punctured the sensation within five minutes of the time the report was made to police headquarters. They declare the revolver was a "plant." Eva Fay, thaumaturgist, who is appearing at Bennett's Theatre this week, created a sensation in the packed theatre last night, when she answered a question concerning the whereabouts of the revolver. Calling out the name of the man who had written the question, she said—

"You are asking about a revolver. You want to know if it is hidden in a fruit jar. I seem to see that revolver under a walk on the west side of Herkimer street, between Bay and Caroline streets. I do not know whether the revolver is the one used in the celebrated case you are talking about, but I am sure you will find a revolver hidden where I say."

The emphatic way in which the mysterious lady gave the information impressed the audience, and the silence was so intense, one could hear a pin fall. The detectives last night scoffed at the idea of a revolver being found there. They had been over the ground day after day.

"Why, there is a cement walk there," said Detective Bleakley.

That was the last heard of the incident until D. M. Brown, grocer, corner of Herkimer and Caroline streets, reported that a revolver had been found near the Kinrade house.

An Old-Fashioned One

Detective Sayers was detailed to make an investigation. The story Mr. Brown told him was as follows :—

Shortly after eight o'clock, William Robson, a bricklayer, was walking down Herkimer street, when his attention was attracted by a bright object under a board walk in front of the home of Mrs. Abbott, 111 Herkimer street, three doors west of the Kinrade home. He looked closer and saw it was a revolver. He hurried back to the grocery store and reported his find. Neither Robson nor Brown would touch the weapon, but the latter immediately notified the police. Detective Sayers went to the spot and picked an old-fashioned 32 cal. six-shooter out of the mud. The revolver contained no shells. It was perfectly clean and had no marks of rust on it.

Was Never Fired Off

An examination at the police office showed that it had never been fired off. The police did not hesitate to declare the thing a "fake." The police are trying this morning to find where the revolver was purchased. By this means they hope to discover who has "planted" it.

To make use of the heat, but be unaffected by that heat, means sure service from the oven and long service for the oven.

"Caloric" gas range oven is constructed to perform on this two-fold basis.

The oven walls are coated with anti-rust fused aluminum, which coating reflects the heat back into the oven proper. This coating is never affected by the moisture that always accrues from heat.

The walls are double, likewise the oven bottom, the latter having an air space between, which renders impossible a pan of buns or a roast being burned.

INQUEST TO BE RESUMED TO-NIGHT

Blackstock Will Have Four Witnesses in Kinrade Case.

A SENSATION IS PROMISED

Despite Crown Examiner's Statement That Important Developments Will Come To-night No Sign of Them Can Yet Be Seen — Jimmy Baum Is Coming to Hamilton to Attend the Inquest.

Hamilton, April 22.—Interests is again becoming keen in the Kinrade murder mystery, the inquest into which resumes to-night.

A despatch from Preston yesterday morning stated that Miss Florence Kinrade was seriously ill there at the Hotel Delmonte on account of nervous breakdown, and would not be able to be present to-night, but a reporter who called at the hotel last evening was positively informed that the Kinrades were not there, and never had been. This is in spite of the published reports of the past three weeks or so that they were at Preston. The proprietor said that the arrival of a Mrs. and Miss Kennedy of New York had been garbled into the visit of the Kinrades.

While G. T. Blackstock, K.C., of Toronto, who is representing the crown as special examiner, is quoted as having said yesterday that he expected perhaps the most important evidence yet to be divulged this evening, there doesn't seem to be much appearance of it on the surface. Subpoenas for four witnesses were made out by Coroner Anderson and served yesterday, three for the crown and one at the request of George Lynch-Staunton, K.C., the solicitor for the Kinrade family. The three crown witnesses subpoenaed are Misses Erskine and Wild, milliners, employed by the Stanley Mills Co., who think they saw Miss Florence Kinrade in the store the morning of the murder, although she swore she was not out of the house that morning, and Luke Coppie, a boy who used to deliver groceries at the Kinrade home.

The witness who has been subpoenaed at the request of Mr. Staunton, is Miss Fagan, who lives on Main street, near Ferguson avenue. Her testimony will be that on the afternoon of the murder, while she was standing at the corner of Pearl and King streets, about three-quarters of a mile from the Kinrade residence, she saw three men coming up Pearl street in a great hurry. One of them fitted the first description Miss Kinrade gave of the murderer. He was covered with perspiration and was winded. He was talking in great excitement about the big crowd that had gathered about the Kinrade residence.

These four witnesses are all the local people who will be called so far as the local police know. There was some talk of calling C. S. Wilcox, but as all he is prepared to swear to is that he heard several explosions which he thought were reports of blasting at about 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the murder, it is doubtful if he will be called.

The police say that they made a thorough search of the roof of the Kinrade house and that there was no trace of the revolver. This is in response to a tip that a Toronto young lady has dreamed on three successive nights that the revolver was on the roof of the Kinrade home.

A despatch from Virginia says that Jimmy Baum, the actor-mechanic mentioned by T. I. Kinrade as being a suitor of Miss Florence, had left Norfolk in company with a Pinkerton detective, and would be in Hamilton for the inquest.

We do not know how cheap the seeds of happiness are or we should scatter them oftener.—Lowell.

MEMBERS OF OLD GUARD GATHER

Members of First Parliament Dine at Ottawa.

MANY UNABLE TO ATTEND

Of Twenty-Four Survivors of Dominion's First House of Commons, Only Eight Are Able to Be Present at Banquet — Sir Wilfrid Laurier Toasts Guests and Old Guard Tell of Confederation.

Ottawa, April 22.—A banquet was given by the Canadian Club last evening in honor of the surviving members of the first Parliament of Canada. Eight of the 24 survivors were present. They were Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Hon. Wm. Miller, Hon. Wm. Ross, Sir James Grant, Basile Benoit, Hon. G. B. Baker and Sheriff Hagar of Prescott.

Earl Grey came up from Montreal for the reunion and sat on the right of President Gordon Edwards, while Sir Wilfrid Laurier sat on the left of the chairman.

Letters of regret were read from Hon. Edward Blake, Sir John Carling, Frank Killam of Yarmouth (youngest member of the first Parliament), Senator Macdonald of British Columbia, Sir Alphonse Pelletier, Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec; Dr. Hugh Cameron of Nova Scotia, who also claimed to be the baby member of the first House; Hon. Jas. Young; Judge Savoy of Annapolis; Francis Hurdon of Toronto, and Hon. A. R. McClellan; also from Sir Richard Cartwright, who is ill. Survivors not heard from are Lord Strathcona, Sir Charles Tupper, Hon. W. H. Ray, L. De V. Chipman, H. Nathan.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier proposed the toast to the first Parliament of Canada.

R. L. Borden proposed the eleventh Parliament.

Hon. J. K. Kerr, Speaker of the Senate, and Hon. Charles Marcil, Speaker of the Commons, replied. Hon. R. W. Scott introduced the toast, "The Dominion of Canada."

To Elect New Archbishop.

Toronto, April 22.—A meeting of the House of Bishops of the Anglican Province of Canada will be held at the synod office on Monday, to elect a successor to the late Archbishop Sweatman. The Bishop of Ottawa, as the senior bishop of the province, will, it is expected, be elected to the succession, to the presidency of the provincial House of Bishops and in the position of archbishop.

This will not dispose of the question of the Anglican primacy of Canada, which was also rendered vacant by the death of the late archbishop. That will follow on Monday, or at a subsequent date, at a meeting of the House of Bishops of the general synod of Canada, which includes the bishops of ecclesiastical provinces of Canada and Rupert's Land.

Ireland In the Way.

London, April 22.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The conference between members of the Free Importation of Canadian Cattle Association and M.P.'s, the chairman, ex-Baillie Watson of Glasgow, declared that Irish M.P.'s were the stumbling block. J. W. Cleland, M.P., thought neither the present nor the next Government would take up the question because it was not political. Wm. Henderson declared Ireland's attitude was absurd, Ireland having all the animal diseases possible. It was decided to ask the M.P.'s to form a committee to further the movement.

Ten Million Sour Line.

New York, April 22.—The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul will build a ten-million-dollar spur line into British Columbia's coal fields. The Great Northern will object strongly to the parallel line.

SORE THROAT

Slight colds become more offensive and sickening every day. The inflammation extends further into the head, soon the ears begin to buzz and ring, the head aches, the eyes pain dreadfully, the nose gets plugged up, and this forces the patient to breathe through the mouth. Vile, filthy secretions are forced back into the throat, requiring a great deal of coughing to keep the air passages free. Finally, this foul matter finds its way into the stomach, causing dyspepsia and general ill-health. By this time the patient has SYSTEMIC CATARRH, which saps strength, depletes the vital energies till Consumption is the unhappy result.

It doesn't matter how long you have suffered, or how often you have failed to get relief, even though colds and Catarrh may affect every organ in your body, you can be permanently cured by inhaling the soothing vapor of Catarrhozone.

We are so confident that Catarrhozone will cure your Catarrh that we are willing to refund the money in every case a purchaser is not fully satisfied. Catarrhozone has afforded a lasting benefit. STORM IN OHIO.

Fifteen Are Killed by Terrific Gale at Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., April 22.—A squall which swept along the southern shore of Lake Erie yesterday left death and ruin in its wake.

Six persons were killed, nine fatally hurt and at least 50 injured, and property valued at more than $1,000,000 was destroyed.

Fred Grugel committed suicide during height of the storm because he was afraid he was about to be killed. He rushed into a barn out of the rain and drank carbolic acid. He left a note explaining his action.

The wind reached a velocity of nearly 100 miles an hour for a few minutes. Day was made as dark as night. Trees and frame houses were blown down in all parts of the city. Lightning started many fires.

A young woman was blown into Wade Park Pond and drowned.

The roof was blown from the main building of the Case School of Applied Science and from Adelbert College.

Hail accompanied the high wind, which lasted only five minutes. Immediately after the rain, a score of fires were reported as a result of lightning.

At Wellington, south of here, the wind unroofed the plant of the American Machine Co., partially unroofed the Big Four freight station and damaged about fifty houses.

St. Stanislaus Church, at East 65th street and Foreman avenues, was practically ruined. The damage to the building is estimated at $125,000.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The U.S. schooner Levi Woodbury was captured while poaching in Canadian waters by the cruiser Kestrel and towed into Vancouver.

R. L. Borden will address the Canadian Club at Boston in November next. Earl Grey, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Geo. E. Foster have also been invited.

The Montreal Board of Trade refused the invitation of the Detroit Board to the conference on better trade relations, saying the matter had no interest for them.

The U. S. War Department has authorized Governor Hughes of New York to attack the ice jam at Niagara with dynamite, and the work will start to-morrow morning.

Hon. A. B. Aylesworth and Mr. J. S. Ewart will meet Hon. Mr. Hunt of Newfoundland in London in May to prepare the joint case for submission to The Hague Tribunal regarding fisheries. Mr. Aylesworth will remain and undergo treatment for his hearing.

Wm. Jennings Bryan, at Kansas City yesterday said: "I make the emphatic statement that I have no intention of retiring from politics. I began to fight for Democratic principles long before my party heard of me, and, as I live, I shall continue to do so as long as I have strength."

Sultan Wants to Stay.

Constantinople, April 22.—The conflict between Mussulman piety and the political ideas of the west has brought the Turkish people to the verge of civil war.

The Cabinet debated the situation for four hours yesterday.

The Sultan's primary demand is to remain the constitutional sovereign, with all the spiritual powers of the califate, with liberal allowance for his household, while he also asks for a variety of minor guarantees which it would not be difficult to grant.

The demands of the Committee of Union and Progress, is that the Sultan offer no resistance whatever, and submit unconditionally.

New U.S. Customs Court.

Washington, April 22.—The Senate committee on finance yesterday practically perfected an amendment to the tariff bill, providing for the establishment of a customs court to hear cases appealed from the boards of appraisers.

The court will consist of three members, to receive salaries of $10,000 a year each.

Headquarters of the court will be in the New York district, but the court may sit in any of the other eight districts, when required.

Hungarian Cabinet Resigns.

Budapest, April 22.—The Bulgarian Cabinet resigned yesterday and the Emperor King, Francis Joseph has asked Count Andrasai, Minister of the Interior, to form a new Cabinet. The resignation is due to internal divergencies which have resulted in the breaking up of the coalition of political parties.

Yaks Reach Canada.

St. John, N.B., April 22.—Five yaks sent out by Ernest Seton Thompson, the naturalist, from England, to the Canadian Agricultural Department, to try the experiment of introducing them into Canada, were brought here on Tuesday on the C.P.R. steamship Montezuma, and will be sent west.

Daring Bank Robbery.

Suffolk, Va., April 22.—Tunnelling their way under four other buildings to reach the vaults of a bank, robbers gained admission to the Bank of Suffolk, carried away with them a large amount of loose currency, gold and silver, and succeeded in escaping.

TO FORCE THE PEACE OF NATIONS

Carnegie Says That Is the Only Cure Against War.

STARVATION IS A MENACE

Both Britain and Germany Realize, Declares Steel Magnate In Address Before Peace Society, That the Threatened Struggle Might Mean Cutting Off of Food Supplies of Both Nations.

New York, April 22.—The Peace Society of the City of New York held its annual meeting yesterday at the Hotel Astor.

In his presidential address, Andrew Carnegie pleaded for an international league of peace "prepared, if necessary, to enforce peace among erring nations, as we enforce obedience to law among erring men; this league finally to be perfected by an international supreme court. To this complexion must it come at last."

While the world individually had advanced in every respect, considered nationally, all was reversed. The chief nations of Europe were spending half their revenue for armament, as if mankind were still in a savage state. Never were nations as busy as to-day in the hopeless task of becoming "too powerful to be attacked."

"Europe," said Mr. Carnegie, "has awakened at last to the presence of impending danger. Britain and Germany are the principal contestants. Britain has a strong case. She cannot feed her people if supplies of food be interrupted on the sea. The fear of starvation would instantly create panic and general pillage of food supplies would ensue. She is powerless without open ports and open sea. Hence she claims she must possess overwhelming fleets and must oppose the great advance which the other powers urge, the immunity of commerce upon the sea.

"Germany also has a case, quite strong enough to give her the loyal support of the nation. She also cannot feed her people and has to import food largely. Articles of food were imported in 1906 to the value of over $1,100,000,000. In a contest her danger from lack of food supplies would be serious indeed, were imports by sea prevented. Hence, she also feels that she must possess an all-sufficient navy.

"Europe is at last realizing the danger into which the policy of mutual arming has led, but is slow to see that there is but one mode of escape, and that through concurrent action of some or most of the naval powers.

"Within a small radius the two gigantic fleets of Britain and Germany will operate, often in sight of each other. The topic of constant discussion in every ship will be their relative power and the consequences of battle. The crews of the respective navies will regard each other with suspicion, jealousy and hatred, in this representing only two truly the feelings of their countrymen. Under such strain a mere spark would suffice. A few marines ashore from two of the ships, British and German, would be enough—a few words pass between them, blood is shed, and the pent-up passions of the people of both countries sweep all to the winds. The Governments are too weak to withstand the whirlwind, or, being men of like passions with their fellows, probably are in part swept away themselves after years of jealous rivalry into thirst for revenge. Such the probable result — given national jealousy and hatred, any trifle suffices to produce war.

"We have no right to assume that either Germany or Britain would decline a conference or refuse to consider a league of peace proposed by the late Prime Minister of Britain, but whatever might be the result we should be able to fix the responsibility for consequences upon the real disturber of the world's peace. The peaceful nations have a right to know the guilty nation or nations, whether one or both—heavy, indeed, will be its or their responsibility."

IN THE WORLDOF SPORT

THE EASTERN BASEBALL EAGUE OPENS TO-DAY.

Some Timely Information as to the Line-Ups of the Eight Teams of the Circuit—Maple Leafs Open at Newark With Rudolph Pitching Against McGinnity—Many Former Major Leaguers are Found in the Different Rosters—The Prospects for the Season

KELLY THINKS HIS TEAM LOIKS GOOD

The Eastern League opens to-day with the following games:—

Toronto at Newark.
Buffalo at Jersey City.
Montreal at Providence.
Rochester at Baltimore.

Peterborough fans are naturally interested in the fate of Joe Kelley's Towatch with interest their appearance watch with interest their appearance against Newark to-day.

The Torontos will carry sixteen men for the present, as follows:—

Pitchers: McGinley, Rudolph, Moffitt, Kellog and Hickey.
Catchers: Starnagle, Mitchell, Vandergrift.
First Base: Houser.
Second Base: Mullen.
Short Stop: Mahling.
Third Base: Phyle, Frick.
Out Field: Manager Kelley, Weidensaul and Goode.

The batting order for to-day's game at Newark will be as follows:—

Goode, Mahling, elley, Houser, Mullen, Phyle, Weidy, Mitchel, and Rudolph.

Following is some information about the other teams:—

The Iron Man's Selection

Newark, April 22.—The Newark team appears the strongest in the history of the city. McGinnity and Wolverton, former National League stars, give it a major league aspect.

Then Larry Schafly, Bill Loudon and Jake Gettman, former Toronto and Montreal players, are valuable acquisitions, as are Pitcher Si Parkins, purchased from the Highlanders, and Outfielder Benny Myers, came from the Giants. McGinnity will pitch the opening game.

The batting order will likely be as follows:—

Left Field: Kelly.
Second Base: Schafly.
Centre Field: Gettman.
Third Base: Wolverton.
First Base: Sharpe.
Short Stop: Louden.
Right Field: Meyers.
Catcher: Krichell.
Pitcher: McGinnity.

The Skeeters' Prospects

Jersey City, April 22.—Charlie Hanford, last year with the Jerseys, has been released by Billy Murray, of the Phillies, to the Skeeters, and has also turned over Jack Hanifan to the local team for second base, but both are opposed to playing here and have not reported. They may show up in time for the opening. A third baseman is also needed in place of Ernest Courtney, who broke an ankle in practice, but the right man is still missing. At present Sundheim, last year with Johnstown, in the Tri-State League, is filling in, but is not heavy enough for the job. The only regulars in sight for the infield are Ed. Foster, at short, last year with Lancaster, and Calhoun, at first, formerly with Harrisburg.

Gap at Centre

In the outfield, with Hanford in left and Frank 'Eley, with Scranton last year, at right, McCann is still shy a centre. An offer has been made to New York Americans for McIlvon, last year with Newark, and if accepted he will fit in at centre. If not the Jerseys will start with Zimmerman, an Atlanta leaguer, in the mid-field.

Jersey City is shy on pitchers. George Merritt and De' Mason are the only seasoned twirlers in sight. "Chubby" Mansel, with the team last year, is again in service, but is not to be relied upon. Goettel, of the South Atlantic League; Ohl, a southpaw, just turned over by Philadelphia; Taggart and John Foxen complete the pitching department. The veteran, Pat McCauley; Crist, Tate, with the Phillies, and Spahar are the catchers. From the above material Jersey City must form its defence against Buffalo on Thursday, and it is none too promising.

Manager Dunn's Bunch

Baltimore, April 22.—The roster of the club is:—

Catchers: Byers, Hearne and Check.
Pitchers: Adkins, Dessau, Pearson, McCloskey, Stanley, Russell and Maroney.
Infielders: Cassidy, Dunn, Hall, Lewis and Catiz.
Outfielders: Conn, Jackson, Poland, Pfeffer, Slagle and Strang.

The Broncho's Team

Rochester, April 22.—Although no definite lineup has been given out, it is expected that the regular team will be made up as follows: Ganzel, first; Pattee, second; McDonald, third; Holly, shortstop; Anderson, centre field; Flanagan, right field; Maloney, left field. The utility men are McAvoy and Barrow. The pitchers are Beecher, Mour, Barger, Henley, Minnehan and Snyder. The receiving end will be taken care of by Erwin, Butler and Beville.

Providence Players

Providence, April 22.—Manager Duffy now has the following men under contract, all of who are here with the exception of Barry:—

Pitchers: Cronin, Harris, Hardy, Silae, Barry, Lavend and Barberich.
Catchers: Peterse Fitzgerald and Eaton.
First Base: Arndt.
Second Base: Shaw.
Third Base: Rock.
Shortstop: Blackburn.
Left Field: Moran.
Centre Field: Phelan.
Right Field: Hoffman.

The leavers' hy

Montreal, Apri 22.—Maner Casey says the Beavers' play haseen very consistent up ill now, andlthough it is difficult at the start of t season to beat one's opponents on the atter's own grounds, he has great hes of doing well in Providence. He as to be well pleased with having otten hold of George Winters, but wi in all probability not play him in the first few games.

The men who will play in the opening games of the season will be Joyce, Cockhill, Yeager, O'Neil, Jones, Corcoran, Buelow, Doyle Clarke, Smith and Casey himself.

The Bisons Roster

Buffalo, April 22.—Never before has the ante-season excitment been so intense as at present. The Buffaloes will line-up in to-day's game in the following batting order:

These, with Wowinkle, Malarkey, Knapp, pitchers; McAllister, catcher, and Durmeyer, utility, complete the roster of the team in which Buffalo fans ely this season for the pennant.

The season of mmer sports is almost at hand and lacrosse teams, football and basell clubs, and other athletic organizations are making their plans fthe season. A GOOD BALL PLAYR GONE WHEN URNS LEAVES CITY

Peterborough is losing a good athlete and Edmonton is gaining a clever baseball player when Corney Burns packs his trunk and hies himself in the direction of the western wheat fields. No better all-round ball player has ever worn the blue and white of Peterborough, and he should make good with an emphatic biff bang. He has a great eye, hits the ball on the nose, runs the bases like Ty Cobb. All the catchers in the Western League will have to be Klings and all the second basemen Johnny Evers, if they want to keep Corney anchored to the first sack. Besides he covers lots of ground in the outfield and can whip them in on a li while in a pinch he can do his tu n the box. ROLLER SKATERS HAVE THE MARATHON "BUG" ISE DAYS

The Marathon craze has struck the roller skaters now!

Manager Genno, of the Auditorium, is seriously considering a proposition to hold a race on roller skates for the full Marathon distance, and it may come off in the near future.

Some of the speedy skaters who frequent the rink have got the bug and they do a trainingt every night. Tuesday afternoon youngsters — Smith and Kenneal went the ful 26 miles 385 yards, hey glided at around the polished in pretty lively fashion. The saght a number of other skaters dinlies.

DOINGS IN BIG LEAGUES

Rain played havoc in the Big League schedule yesterday, and only one game was played in each of the major organizations. This was enough, however, to allow Boston to climb back into the leadership of the National, which they did through St. Louis cleaning up Cincinnati handily. The Reds, although they used four pitchers and two catchers, and got 11 hits to 7, and only had one error as against three, were beaten 9 to 5. Rhodes and Beebe pitched for St. Louis, while the Reds had Karger, Dubuc, Ragon and Gasper on the slab, and Roth and McLean behind the bat.

In the opening game of the American League season at Boston, the Bean Eaters won from the Phillies by 6-2. Philadelphia couldn't hit Check when there were men on bases, and they fielded poorly, having no less than eleven misplays to their credit. The feature of the game was a triple steal by Lord, Speaker and Gessler, Lord scoring. The playing of Speaker, Boston's centre fielder, was sensational throughout.

Toronto did not play at Trenton yesterday owing to wet grounds.

Double headers will be played in the National League to make up for the postponed games of the last few days.

Johnny Evers, the great second baseman of the Chicago Cubs, has wired Manager Chance that he will rejoin the world's champions on April 30 — there is great joy in Cubland.

The Washington club has shipped pitchers Jesse Tannehill and Bert Keeley, and outfielder Wm. Shipke back to the minor leagues. Tannehill has pitched in major league company for many years, having been with the Pittsburg Nationals and the New York and Boston Americans.

DUBBIE SHEA HAS GONE TO BRANTFORD

The Speedy Local Player Has Cast in His Lot With Goold, Shapley and Muir Team

Still another Peterborough ball player has shaken the dust of this city from off his feet, and hit the trail for faster company—as far as baseball is concerned. The latest to take his departure is Dubbie Shea, one of the most popular players who ever donned a Peterborough uniform, and who, last year, was a prominent figure with the Athletics' Midland League team. He left yesterday for Brantford where he will catch for the Goold, Shapley & Muir team of the Inter-City Baseball League. Dubbie is a clever catcher with a fine whip, as well as having a good eye at the bat and being fast on the bases. In addition, Dubbie is a good utility man who can fill up in almost every position on the diamond, and his work will, no doubt, make a hit in Brantford. He will return to Peterborough next fall.

DAVE ("DUBBY") SHEA
Well-Known Local Ball Player, Who Left Yesterday to Report to the Gould, Shapley and Muir Team of Brantford in the Inter-City League.

THE MEET NG WAS CALLED OFF

Senior City League Executive Did Not Put in an Appearance.

The meeting of the Senior City League called for last night did not materialize, owing to the fact that three of the teams were not represented. The season is drawing near opening games and it is up to the teams to get into shape. There is no business method in leaving matters until the last moment, and then making a rush to get a team together. The managers should realize that the league will undoubtedly be fast, and it will be necessary to have good men.

WITH THE RUNNERS

The Y.M.C.A. Track and Field Club will hold its semi-weekly run to-night at 8.30 o'clock, starting from the "Y." All members, and those who would like to become members, are invited to turn out.

* * *

The Victoria Harriers will hold a meeting to-night at which the members are requested to be present. The Vics have a number of good men in their membership, and will be heard from this season. At present they are training for the "Y" handicap and the Turf Club's race on Victoria Day. The Vics will have starters in both events.

* * *

Charlie Thorpe and George Fowler are members of the Victoria Harriers.

* * *

It would be a big boost for athletics if the Penmen games are held here this season, and the Y.M.C.A. Track and Field Club are going to make strenuous efforts to have the big event pulled off in Peterborough.

* * *

A large number of runners are already in training for the "Y" handicap on Victoria Day and a big field will start. It promises to be a most interesting event. Entries must be in the hands of Secretary Ernie Wilson on or before May 21st, in order to give the handicappers a chance to perform their work.

Fred Simpson is running up at Hiawatha in order to be in shape for the Canadian Derby on May 1st.

THINGS IN GENERAL IN SPORTING WORLD

SHOULD RULE BE MADE SO STRINGENT?

Writer Thinks Intermediate Ball League Should Take in More Players.

To the Sporting Editor.

Dear Sir,—In reading over the report of the Intermediate City League meeting I was surprised to raed that rule which deprives a fellow from playing in this league if he plays even one game in the Senior League. As one of last year's players I was much surprised at this and I think that a mistake has been made. Why not give the younger players a chance to step up and see if they can make good with the seniors. It would surely do no harm. Then, if they cannot hold down the job let them go gack to the intermediate ranks, as if nothing had happened. Some fellows will likely try to make the senior league and will fall down. Are they going to be frozen out by the Intermediates because of this? It may be that the rule is all right and will protect the younger players and let them fight against one another without the seniors stepping in, but I am inclined to think that some latitude should have been given.

Youprs, etc.,

WILL BE AT S. A. BARRACKS TO-NIGHT

Major and Mrs. Blount Will Give a Programme There This Evening

Major and Mrs. Blount, who, it will be remembered, gave a very enjoyable musical programme at the Salvation Army Barracks some weeks ago, will be in the city to-night and will be present at the meeting at the barracks. This will be welcome news to the Peterboro people who heard these talented officers during their last appearance in Peterborough. The local officers, learning that they were passing through Peterborough this evening on their way to Toronto, have persuaded them to remain over until to-morrow, and no doubt there will be a large attendance to hear them this evening.

'ROUND THE STORES.

So far this week, business in most of the stores has been rather slow. Up until the end of last week, April's business was considered better than April of last year. But this week the cold wet weather has had a tendency to hold business back. Storekeepers, however, are not wearing that solemn feeling or buying "Billiken" for good luck — things-as-they-ought-to-be are coming their way.

Many of the store windows continue to give indications of special efforts to stimulate trade by the aid of unusual offerings for bargain seekers and to help to put more briskness into business. Adams' store for women makes a leader of wall skirts at $2.98, made of homespr ad tweed, the regular price being $5 to $7. It's worth while now the store windows.

Englishmen Twenty Times as Loyal, Claims A Citizen

Peterborough April 21st, 1909.
To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Seeing in your Examiner of yesterday a letter from a Canadian saying "-People of England are not as Loyal as Canadians." Now I am a Canadian and should like to say that I have travelled London and a good many of the provinces and what places of amusements I went to I always had occasioned to se them respect the National Anthem, and what's more the gentlemen folks raise their hats till it is finished. I was in Woolwick the time of the Boer war. I had the extreme pleasure of seeing our late Queen Victoria visiting the wounded soldiers at the hospital. Now, I, as a Canadian, did not know enough to raise my hat when the postillions was announcing her arrival, but just as her carriage drove past I was kindly asked to raise my hat. Well all I can say to C. H. C.'s letter is that if he has travelled more in England he would have found Englishmen twenty times more loyal than Canadians. Thanking you for this space, I am,

Yours truly
A PETERBOROUGH CITIZEN.

"A Peterborough Citizen" is contributing to a controversy that is founded upon misaprehension. Flag-wagging and patriotic genuflexions are not always signs of loyalty. A man is not always pposed to wear his heart on his sive, to perpetually make visible donstration of his feelings of loyal honesty, charity, or what not. My things become matters of habit. A lady in church may reverently kel and apparently observe all the fo alities of deep devotion. Yet she ca tell you when she gets home, of eve kink and crimp, of every detail of lour of the "horrid hat" of the lad who sat in front of her. Charles Lab in his Essays of Elia, tells of a man who, while saying grace—as a atter of habit—would keep his eye lued on the succulent roast for whi the real longing of his soul existed. man may practise most punctilioly all the outward forms of poliness and be at heart the veriest ca and lacking in all the elements th constitute the real gentleman. A an at the end of a boring entertainme, opera or play, may be slipping him f into his overcoat while the orchera is perfunctorily loafing through a few bars of the National Anthem and be a better citizen, a more loyal bject, capable of more real patriot devotion and service than the man who stands all attentive and listens affects to listen with rapt reveren to the patriotic music. Our neigbours are perpetually waving "th flag," yet we often see "Old Glory cast its shadow over the new glory ca lynching. The best loyalty, the be politeness, is the genuine article. Y outward forms of reverence and p teness are not to be disparaged, they are only of value, however, when th real thing is behind them.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

The season of summer sports is almost at hand and lacrosse teams, football and baseball clubs, and other athletic organizations are making their plans for the season. It is just such news as that that the Examiner wants for its sporting page. Anything in the line of local sport is of interest and the Examiner is only too glad to be able to assist the clubs in any way. Secretaries of the different organizations should make it a point to send in anything of interest concerning their clubs to The Examiner. Scores of the games, the election of officers, the plans for the season, and any gossip about the club's doings will be appreciated and they will find that it will help to boom their team as well as to stimulate the interest of the public. Remember nothing in the line of sporting news is considered unimportant by The Examiner, and news of junior players will be as gladly published as the information of senior clubs. Send it in, call, or telephone 234.—Sporting Editor.

THE EASTERN BASEBALL LEAGUE OPENS TO-DAY.

Some Timely Information as to the Line-Ups of the Eight Teams of the Circuit—Maple Leafs Open at Newark With Rudolph Pitching Against McGinnity—Many Former Major Leaguers are Found in the Different Rosters—The Prospects for the Season

KELLY THINKS HIS TEAM LOOKS GOOD

The Eastern League opens to-day with the following games:—

Toronto at Newark.
Buffalo at Jersey City.
Montreal at Providence.
Rochester at Baltimore.

Peterborough fans are naturally interested in the fate of Joe Kelley's To-watch with interest their appearance watch with interest their appearance against Newark to-day.

The Torontos will carry sixteen men for the present, as follows:—

Pitchers: McGinley, Rudolph, Moffitt, Kellog and Hickey.

Catchers: Starnagle, Mitchell, Vandergrift.

First Base: Houser.
Second Base: Mullen.
Short Stop: Mahling.
Third Base: Phyle, Frick.
Out Field: Manager Kelley, Weidensaul and Goode.

The batting order for to-day's game at Newark will be as follows:—

Goode, Mahling, elley, Houser, Mullen, Phyle, Weldy, Mitchel, and Rudolph.

Following is some information about the other teams:—

The Iron Man's Selection

Newark, April 22.—The Newark team appears the strongest in the history of the city. McGinnity and Wolverton, former National League stars, give it a major league aspect.

Then Larry Schafly, Bill Loudon and Jake Gettman, former Toronto and Montreal players, are valuable acquisitions, as are Pitcher Si Parkins, purchased from the Highlanders, and Outfielder Benny Myers, came from the Giants. McGinnity will pitch the opening game.

The batting order will likely be as follows:—

Left Field: Kelly.
Second Base: Schafly.
Centre Field: Gettman.
Third Base: Wolverton.
First Base: Sharpe.
Short Stop: Louden.
Right Field: Meyers.
Catcher: Krichell.
Pitcher: McGinnity.

The Skeeters' Prospects

Jersey City, April 22.—Charlie Hanford, last year with the Jerseys, has been released by Billy Murray, of the Phillies, to the Skeeters, and has also turned over Jack Hanifan to the local team for second base, but both are opposed to playing here and have not reported. They may show up in time for the opening. A third baseman is also needed in place of Ernest Courtney, who broke an ankle in practice, but the right man is still missing. At present Sundheim, last year with Johnstown, in the Tri-State League, is filling in, but is not heavy enough for the job. The only regulars in sight for the infield are Ed. Foster, at short, last year with Lancaster, and Calhoun, at first, formerly with Harrisburg.

Gap at Centre

In the outfield, with Hanford in left and Frank 'Eley, with Scranton last year, at right, McCann is still shy a centre. An offer has been made to New York Americans for McIlvon, last year with Newark, and if accepted he will fit in at centre. If not the Jerseys will start with Zimmerman, an Atlanta leaguer, in the mid-field.

Jersey City is shy on pitchers. George Merritt and De' Mason are the only seasoned twirlers in sight. "Chubby" Manser, with the team last year, is again in service, but is not to be relied upon. Goettel, of the South Atlantic League, Ohl, a southpaw, just turned over by Philadelphia; Taggart and John Foxen complete the pitching department. The veteran, Pat McCauley; Crist, Tate, with the Phillies, and Spaher are the catchers. From the above material Jersey City must form its defence against Buffalo on Thursday, and it is none too promising.

Manager Dunn's Bunch

Baltimore, April 22.—The roster of the club is:—

Catchers: Byers, Hearne and Check.

Pitchers: Adkins, Dessau, Pearson, McCloskey, Stanley, Russell and Maroney.

Infielders: Cassidy, Dunn, Hall, Lewis and Catz.

Outfielders: Conn, Jackson, Poland, Pfeffer, Slagle and Strang.

The Broncho's Team

Rochester, April 22.—Although no definite line-up has been given out, it is expected that the regular team will be made up as follows: Ganzel, first; Pattee, second; MacDonald, third; Holly, shortstop; Anderson, centre field; Flanagan, right field; Malone, left field. The utility men are McAvoy and Batch. The pitchers are [illegible], [illegible], Barger, Henley, Minnehan and Snyder. The receiving end will be taken care of by Erwin, Butler and Beville.

Providence Players

Providence, April 22.—Manager [illegible] now has the following men under contract, all of whom are here with the exception of Barry:—

Pitchers: Cronin, Harris, Hardy, Sline, Barry, Lavender and Barberich.

Catchers: Petersen, Fitzgerald and Eaton.

First Base: Arndt.
Second Base: Shaw.
Third Base: Rock.
Shortstop: Blackburn.
Left Field: Moran.
Centre Field: Phelan.
Right Field: Hoffman.

The Beavers' Play

Montreal, April 22.—Manager Casey says the Beavers' play has been very consistent up till now, and although it is difficult at the start of the season to beat one's opponents on the latter's own grounds, he has great hopes of doing well in Providence. He seems to be well pleased with having gotten hold of George Winters, but will in all probability not play him in the first few games.

The men who will play in the opening games of the season will be Joyce, Cockhill, Yeager, O'Neill, Jones, Corcoran, Buelow, Doyle Clarke, Smith and Casey himself.

The Bisons Roster

Buffalo, April 22.—Never before has the ante-season excitement been so intense as at present. The Buffaloes will line-up in to-day's game in the following batting order:

These, with Wowinkle, Malarkey, Knapp, pitchers; McAllister, catcher, and Durmeyer, utility, complete the roster of the team in which Buffalo fans rely this season for the pennant.

A GOOD BALL PLAYER GONE WHEN BURNS LEAVES CITY

Peterborough is losing a good athlete and Edmonton is gaining a clever baseball player when Corney Burns packs his trunk and hies himself in the direction of the western wheat fields. No better all-round ball player has ever worn the blue and white of Peterborough, and he should make good with an emphatic biff bang. He has a great eye, hits the ball on the nose, runs the bases like Ty Cobb. All the catchers in the Western League will have to be Klings and all the second basemen Johnny Evers, if they want to keep Corney anchored to the first sack. Besides he covers lots of ground in the outfield and can whip them in on a line, while in a pinch he can do his turn in the box. He has batted around the 400 mark for the past two years in the Midland League and you know, Clarice, that they rang in some pretty classy box artists into that organization, including the celebrated and accomplished Mr. Barry, of the Providence Grays. The fans still remember the occasion two years ago, when Corney, leading off against the Eastern Leaguer, smashed the first ball on a line to centre for a two bagger, and the big one donned a disgusted look, which did not evaporate much when Burns stole third on Johnny Tott, of the Torontos, who was the receiving end of the battery that day. Barry immediately did a Wright Brothers, and had to be yanked out in the fifth chapter.

ROLLER SKATERS HAVE THE MARATHON "BUG" THESE DAYS

The Marathon craze has struck the roller skaters now!

Manager Genno, of the Auditorium, is seriously considering a proposition to hold a race on roller skates for the full Marathon distance, and it may come off in the near future.

Some of the speedy skaters who frequent the rink have got the bug and they do a training stunt every night. Tuesday afternoon two youngsters — Smith and Kenneally — went the full 26 miles 385 yards, and they glided all around the polished floor in pretty lively fashion. The same night a number of other skaters did 20 miles.

It is a certainty that if the match comes off, and it in all probability will, it will be a corker.

DOINGS IN BIG LEAGUES

Rain played havoc in the Big League schedule yesterday, and only one game was played in each of the major organizations. This was enough, however, to allow Boston to climb back into the leadership of the National, which they did through St. Louis cleaning up Cincinnati handily. The Reds, although they used four pitchers and two catchers, and got 11 hits to 7, and only had one error as against three, were beaten 9 to 5. Rhodes and Beebe pitched for St. Louis, while the Reds had Karger, Dubuc, Ragon and Gasper on the slab, and Roth and McLean behind the bat.

In the opening game of the American League season at Boston, the Bean Eaters won from the Phillies by 6-2. Philadelphia couldn't hit Check when there were men on bases, and they fielded poorly, having no less than seven misplays to their credit. The feature of the game was a triple steal by Lord, Speaker and Gessler, Lord scoring. The playing of Speaker, Boston's centre fielder, was sensational throughout.

Toronto did not play at Trenton yesterday owing to wet grounds.

Double headers will be played in the National League to make up for the postponed games of the last few days.

Johnny Evers, the great second baseman of the Chicago Cubs, has wired Manager Chance that he will rejoin the world's champions on April 30 — there is great joy in Cubland.

The Washington club has shipped pitchers Jesse Tannehill and Bert Keeley and outfielder Wm. Shipke back to the minor leagues. Tannehill has pitched in major league company for many years, having been with the Pittsburg Nationals and the New York and Boston Americans.

The monument to the late Henry Chadwick, the father of baseball, was unveiled at Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, yesterday. The monument was erected by subscriptions from many players and fans.

Jersey City has secured Esmond, a Pittsburg infielder, and pitcher Ohl, from the Phillies, as well as pitcher Earl Gardner, of the New York Americans.

Newark has landed Parkins of the New York Americans, and outfielder Mayers of the Giants.

Jas. F. Slagle, the well known ex-Cub outfielder, has been gobbled up by Baltimore. Slagle was secured by Boston last week from Chicago, and has now been turned over to Dunn.

KICKERS' COLUMN

There will be a meeting of the Midland Football League on Saturday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock, for the purpose of drawing up the schedule for the season. All clubs intending to play are invited to have representatives present.

The Havelock Club are very anxious to see a Junior Section of the Midland League formed, and are making arrangements to have Hastings, Campbellford and Norwood come in with them. Any other club that would like to play junior, is invited to send a representative to the meeting on Saturday.

The Midland League promises to boom as it has not done for several years, this season. The clubs are very enthusiastic and the officers have caught the contagion and are working energetically for the League.

With the Brintons and Y.M.C.A. teams in the Midland League, "soccer" should share a large measure of approval locally this season. Both teams will be strong, and some interesting games may be looked for.

The Y.M.C.A. will practise at Riverside Park, while the Brintons will work out at the Driving Park. The Britishers have a large number of players who played the game in the Old Country and they will be formidable opponents.

* * *

A general meeting of the Brinton Carpet Company Football Club was held last night at the Grand Hotel, with Mr. M. J. Pierce as chairman.

Mr. H. Rew was appointed chairman of committee, and Mr. C. Skelding selected as the club's representative on the Midland League board of referees.

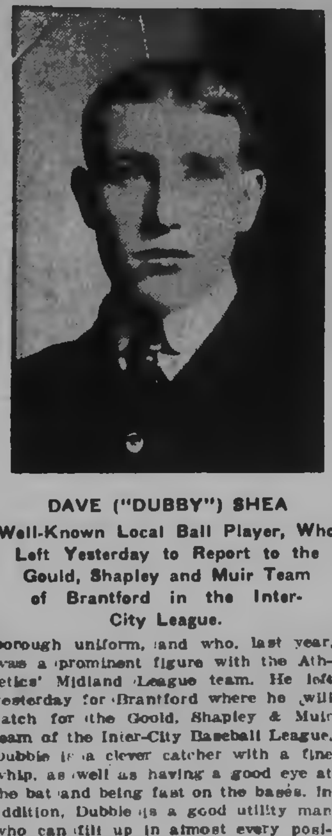
A trial game will be played on Saturday afternoon.

Any person wishing to become a member of the Brinton's Football Club may do so by sending his name and address to the secretary: Mr. C. Mortimer Downes, Brinton Carpet Company.

DUBBIE SHEA HAS GONE TO BRANTFORD

The Speedy Local Player Has Cast in His Lot With Goold, Shapley and Muir Team

Still another Peterborough ball player has shaken the dust of this city from off his feet, and hit the trail for faster company—as far as baseball is concerned. The latest to take his departure is Dubbie Shea, one of the most popular players who ever donned a Peterborough uniform, and who, last year, was a prominent figure with the Athletics' Midland League team. He left yesterday for Brantford where he will catch for the Goold, Shapley & Muir team of the Inter-City Baseball League. Dubbie is a clever catcher with a fine whip, as well as having a good eye at the bat and being fast on the bases. In addition, Dubbie is a good utility man who can fill up in almost every position on the diamond, and his work will, no doubt, make a hit in Brantford. He will return to Peterborough next fall.



DAVE ("DUBBY") SHEA

Well-Known Local Ball Player, Who Left Yesterday to Report to the Gould, Shapley and Muir Team of Brantford in the Inter-City League.

THE MEETING WAS CALLED OFF

Senior City League Executive Did Not Put in an Appearance.

The meeting of the Senior City League called for last night did not materialize, owing to the fact that three of the teams were not represented. The season is drawing near opening games and it is up to the teams to get into shape. There is no business method in leaving matters until the last moment, and then making a rush to get a team together. The managers should realize that the league will undoubtedly be fast, and it will be necessary to have good men.

WITH THE RUNNERS

The Y.M.C.A. Track and Field Club will hold its semi-weekly run to-night at 8.30 o'clock, starting from the "Y." All members, and those who would like to become members, are invited to turn out.

* * *

The Victoria Harriers will hold a meeting to-night at which the members are requested to be present. The Vics have a number of good men in their membership, and will be heard from this season. At present they are training for the "Y" handicap and the Turf Club's race on Victoria Day. The Vics will have starters in both events.

* * *

Charlie Thorpe and George Fowler are members of the Victoria Harriers.

* * *

It would be a big boost for athletics if the Penmen games are held here this season, and the Y.M.C.A. Track and Field Club are going to make strenuous efforts to have the big event pulled off in Peterborough.

* * *

A large number of runners are already in training for the "Y" handicap on Victoria Day and a big field will start. It promises to be a most interesting event. Entries must be in the hands of Secretary Ernie Wilson on or before May 21st, in order to give the handicappers a chance to perform their work.

* * *

Fred Simpson is running up at Hiawatha in order to be in shape for the Canadian Derby on May 1st.

THINGS IN GENERAL IN SPORTING WORLD

There will be a meeting of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club in the Dominion Bank Chambers on Thursday, April 29, for the selection of skips and attending to other business in connection with the opening of the season. A full attendance of members is expected.

SHOULD RULE BE MADE SO STRINGENT?

Writer Thinks Intermediate Ball League Should Take in More Players.

To the Sporting Editor.

Dear Sir,—In reading over the report of the Intermediate City League meeting I was surprised to read that rule which deprives a fellow from playing in this league if he plays even one game in the Senior League. As one of last year's players I was much surprised at this and I think that a mistake has been made. Why not give the younger players a chance to step up and see if they can make good with the seniors. It would surely do no harm. Then, if they cannot hold down the job let them go back to the intermediate ranks, as if nothing had happened. Some fellows will likely try to make the senior league and will fall down. Are they going to be frozen out by the Intermediates because of this? It may be that the rule is all right and will protect the younger players and let them fight against one another without the seniors stepping in, but I am inclined to think that some latitude should have been given.

Youprs, etc.,

LAMENTED DEATH OF MR. LORNE BROOKS

Was a Prominent Member of Quaker Football Club in Its Prime

A particularly sad death was that of Mr Lorne Campbell Brooks, a popular young man well known in athletic circles, who passed away yesterday in his 29th year. Several years ago when the Quaker Football Club was it its strongest, the deceased was playing on the line. Besides being a valuable member in the team play he won many friends by his genial and gentlemanly characteristics.

WILL BE AT S. A. BARRACKS TO-NIGHT

Major and Mrs. Blount Will Give a Programme There This Evening

Major and Mrs. Blount, who, it will be remembered, gave a very enjoyable musical programme at the Salvation Army Barracks some weeks ago, will be in the city to-night and will be present at the meeting at the barracks. This will be welcome news to the Peterboro people who heard these talented officers during their last appearance in Peterborough. The local officers, learning that they were passing through Peterborough this evening on their way to Toronto, have persuaded them to remain over until to-morrow, and no doubt there will be a large attendance to hear them this evening.

THE TWO TENTS AMALGAMATED

At a joint meeting of Peterborough Tent, No. 69, and Liftlock Tent, No. 16, Knights of the Maccabees, held last night in the Knights of Pythias Hall, the two tents were amalgamated and the new lodge formed will go under the name of Peterborough Tent, No. 69.

'ROUND THE STORES.

So far this week, business in most of the stores has been rather slow. Up until the end of last week, April's business was considered better than April of last year. But this week the cold wet weather has had a tendency to hold business back. Storekeepers, however, are not wearing that solemn feeling or buying "Billiken" for good luck — things-as-they-ought-to-be are coming their way.

Many of the store windows continue to give indications of special efforts to stimulate trade by the aid of unusual offerings for bargain seekers and to help to put more briskness into business. Adams' store for women makes a leader of walking skirts at $2.98, made of homespun and tweed, the regular price being from $5 to $7. It's worth while noticing the store windows.

The ladies especially should come out to the electrical "demonstration" which is to be held in the store of Messrs F. R. J. MacPherson & Co., Limited, on Saturday. As the warm weather approaches, when cooking with electricity and gas will be under discussion by housekeepers, this demonstration should prove of special interest. The electric toasters, stoves, radiators and smoothing irons, manufactured by the Collier-Cunningham Co., Limited, of this city, are fast coming into general use. The cost of electricity for these handy devices is much less than the cost of ordinary fuel, besides the greater comfort, cleanliness and labour-saving advantages are assisting in recommending them to the public. Let the women who manage the house come out on Saturday and see how practical these electrical devices are. See advertisement elsewhere.

Most Peterborough people would rather deal at home than send out of town for what they require. In the matter of Kodaks, the city is well provided with instruments and supplies. A look through the stock of the Tate-Taylor Optical Co., 412 George street, should satisfy any amateur. Films, film packs, plates, papers, post cards, developers, trays, are shown in good assortment.

"It's time to brighten your home"—and Messrs. Richard Hall & Son also add, what is equally as interesting, that "It's time to secure extra values in Carpets, Rugs and Draperies. This firm's annual spring house replenishing sale has been bulletined, and is among the important sales talked of by shoppers. Everything needful for the new householder, hotel and boarding house keepers awaits lookers and buyers. Shrewd shoppers who have learned to await this annual event, will find this year's offering of a meritorious character. No other store makes such a display of high-class Carpets and luxurious Rugs. The exposition on the second floor is simply the expression of the store's steady growth in floor coverings. A glance at the spacious show windows will not fail to influence and interest all who contemplate buying. The variety and excellence of these stocks have been elaborately displayed with especial good taste by the skilful window trimmer.

There couldn't be a better chance to pick up enough new wall paper to cover small rooms than is offered by the remnant sale now going on at the Peterborough Bookstore These remnants contain from four to fourteen rolls, and have been done up in separate parcels of odd lots, with borders and ceilings to match, in some cases They have been priced at only a few cents per roll in order to clear them out of the way during the busy selling season

People in search of a bargain in a good, second-hand piano will be interested in the advertisement of the City Music Company, 326 George St. which appears in another part of the Examiner Two bargains are open for choice. One a Concert Grand Evans Bros. piano the other a Parlor Grand Morris piano. Both intsruments are thoroughly regulated and adjusted and the prices and terms are made easy. The City Music Company make a specialty of the Evans Bros.. Haines Bros., and Marshall & Wendell pianos, and Kimball Organs.

Englishmen Twenty Times As Loyal, Claims A Citizen

Peterborough April 21st, 1909.
To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Seeing in your Examiner of yesterday a letter from a Canadian saying "-People of England are not as Loyal as Canadians." Now I am a Canadian and should like to say that I have travelled London and a good many of the provinces and what places of amusements I went to I always had occasioned to se them respect the National Anthem, and what's more the gentlemen folks raise their hats till it is finished. I was in Woolwick the time of the Boer war. I had the extreme pleasure of seeing our late Queen Victoria visiting the wounded soldiers at the hospital. Now, I, as a Canadian, did not know enough to raise my hat when the postillions was announcing her arrival, but just as her carriage drove past I was kindly asked to raise my hat. Well all I can say to C. H. C.'s letter is that if he had travelled more in England he would have found Englishmen twenty times more loyal than Canadians. Thanking you for this space, I am,

Yours truly
A PETERBOROUGH CITIZEN.

"A Peterborough Citizen" is contributing to a controversy that is founded upon misaprehension. Flag-wagging and patriotic genuflexions are not always signs of loyalty. A man is not always supposed to wear his heart on his sleeve, to perpetually make visible demonstration of his feelings of loyalty, honesty, charity, or what not. Many things become matters of habit. A lady in church may reverently kneel and apparently observe all the formalities of deep devotion. Yet she can tell you when she gets home, of every kink and crimp, of every detail of colour of the "horrid hat" of the lady who sat in front of her. Charles Lamb in his Essays of Elia, tells of a man who, while saying grace—as a matter of habit—would keep his eyes glued on the succulent roast for which the real longing of his soul existed. A man may practise most punctiliously all the outward forms of politeness and be at heart the veriest cad, and lacking in all the elements that constitute the real gentleman. A man at the end of a boring entertainment, opera or play, may be slipping himself into his overcoat while the orchestra is perfunctorily loafing through a few bars of the National Anthem, and be a better citizen, a more loyal subject, capable of more real patriotic devotion and service than the man who stands all attentive and listens or affects to listen with rapt reverence to the patriotic music. Our neighbours are perpetually waving "the flag," yet we often see "Old Glory" cast its shadow over the new glory of a lynching. The best loyalty, the best politeness, is the genuine article. Yet outward forms of reverence and politeness are not to be disparaged, they are only of value, however, when the real thing is behind them.

COMPLAINANT IN COURT TO-DAY IS CHARGED WITH PERJURY

A charge of perjury was preferred against Frank Reynolds at the police court this morning at the conclusion of the cases in which Chief Howard and he figured. Reynolds swore the Fire Chief used insulting and abusive language towards him while two firemen who were present at the time denied that any such language was mentioned.

When court resumed this afternoon Mr. R. F. McWilliams, counsel for the defence, said that the charge was altogether uncalled for. There were numerous cases where the evidence of one man was contradicted by two or three others, and no charge of perjury was laid.

The magistrate said that the charge was laid by Crown Attorney Wood and would have to go on. Mr. McWilliams, on behalf of his client, did not elect nor plead.

MIDLAND FOOTBALL LEAGUE WILL MEET SATURDAY NEXT

There will be a meeting of the Midland Football League in the Y. M. C. A. parlours on Saturday afternoon next, April 24th, at 1.30 o'clock, for the purpose of drawing up the schedule for the season. All clubs intending to play in the League this season are asked to have representatives present, as it is desired to draw up a schedule that will be satisfactory to all the clubs in the district.

The Havelock Club is very anxious to see a junior district formed. They have a team and would like a district formed consisting of Norwood, Hastings and Campbellford, and this matter will be discussed at Saturdy's meeting. Any clubs that would like to enter teams in a junior series are invited to have representatives present on Saturday in order that the officers of the League may be in a position to judge of the advisability of forming a junior branch.

"MY LOVE FOR CHILDREN PROVED MY UNDOING," SAYS THE WOMAN WHO IS NOW FACING TRIAL ON CRUELTY CHARGE

Mrs. Sargent's Marriage Was Kept Secret—If the Brooklyn Boy is Found She May be Let Off With a Small Penalty.

INTERESTING CASE.

Examiner Special.

Paris, April 17.—Mrs. Josephine Savin Sargent will be tried in the Correctional Court April 20 on the charge of cruelty to children. Her lawyer, Donald Harper, still hopes to get trace of Danny Pierce, the French child she left at a baby farm in Livingston street, Brooklyn. If he succeeds there will be no charge more serious than those of cruelty and neglect.

Accompanied by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Savin, Jr., Mrs. Sargent, who is now out on 20,000 francs bail, called on the American correspondent. The former New York belle is now thirty-four years old. Although weeks of prison life have told on her, she is still handsome. She talked for two hours of her troubles and her hard treatment in jail, and wept most of the time.

"Why did you adopt all those children?" she was asked.

"I don't know. I think I must be crazy. But I've always loved children. All children—any child I see in the street—I want to have it and love it and care for it."

Kept Wedding Secret.

Four years ago she met an Englishman, Cecil Sargent. She married him and kept the marriage secret, for she feared it would offend her father, Frank Savin, the New York banker. Sargent had no money and he never did any work. For four years he has been drinking from fifteen to twenty absinthes a day. It was he who beat the wretched children. His wife, when she tried to protect them, fared no better? On her right arm there is a huge scar—the result of a burn. Her English husband threw her on the red-hot stove. Her neck is scarred where he cut her with a glass bottle. It was a common thing for him to throw glasses at her. Once he attacked her with a carving knife and only her brother's quick intervention saved her life. A dozen times Sargent smashed the dishes, smashed the furniture, wrecked the home.

"Will they send him to prison? Oh, do you think they will?" Mrs. Sargent said, tearfully. "Poor Cecil. I love him so. If I hadn't loved him I would have left him long ago, he was so cruel."

Sargent Beat Children.

She added that when Sargent began to beat the children it seemed as though he couldnt' stop. It was like mania with him. The physicians appointed by the court to examine him in prison—after he had got over his delirium tremens—report that he is entirely sane, but a "brute when in drink."

What happened the night before Mrs. Sargent's arrest was this: The Englishman began to beat little Marianne, a child of six, with a wooden hairbrush. He beat her hands until they were mere swollen pulp—they swelled up nearly three inches. Then he struck her in the face, blackening both her eyes. Having knocked his wife down he left the house. He was caught two days later upon his return from Belgium. All that night Mrs. Sargent sat up, putting cold bandages and lotions on the child's hands. The next day, upon complaint of the three servants in the house she was summoned to the police station.

Tried to Run Away.

"I lost my head," she explained, "and tried to run away."

The police arrested her in a hotel near the Gare du Nord. She had $6,000 hidden under her bodice. It had taken her six years to save it out of the allowance of $5,000 a year made by her father. All of it was seized by the police. It was thought that Mrs. Sargent will either be acquitted or will receive but a slight sentence. Frank Savin, Jr., has undergone a severe operation at the hospital of Nanterre, a suburb of Paris. In answer to a telephone query, it was said to-night that he probably would recover.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS
PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 60 cents.

Carpenter Says That His Wife Loves A Broker—Sues Latter For $10,000 For Alienating Her Affections

Examiner Special.

St. Louis, April 21.—A suit for $10,000 damages has been filed against Robert L. Forrester by Elbert E. Chapman, who charges Forrester with alienating the affections of his wife, Mrs. Florence Chapman. The plaintiff is a millwright and carpenter and the defendant is a wealthy grain dealer.

Chapman alleges that he was married Feb. 9, 1894, and that his wife left him in June, 1907.

Mrs. Chapman is a stately brunette. She lives with her twelve-year-old daughter, Norma, at No. 630 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis, and is employed as cashier in a restaurant. A Post-Dispatch reporter asked her what she had to say concerning the suit.

She became agitated at once and said she had left her husband in Herron, Ill., long before she ever had heard that such a man as Forrester lived.

"Mr. Forrester was introduced to me about three months ago by a lady friend," she said. "He has proven himself a very fine and a good friend to me since then. I have been ill and needed a friend. He has helped me, and I probably would have been in my grave by this time had it not been for his assistance.

"But I don't love him, nor do I love my husband. I don't love any man on earth. But I have less feeling for my husband than I have for any other man. I left him because I was tired supporting him, our little girl and myself.

"I have wanted to get a divorce for some time, but my husband said he would fight it if I filed suit. Some time ago he came to me and said if I would sign a deed to a little piece of real estate we owned in Herron, worth about $300, he would let me get a divorce. I signed the deed, but he still says I shan't get the divorce.

"Mr. Forrester has been to my house in East St. Louis, but not for a long time. I don't see him often, but once in a while meet him over in St. Louis.

Forrester, who is a grain broker and is married, gave the Post-Dispatch a statement regarding the suit.

"I admit that I know Mrs. Chapman," he said, "but my acquaintance with her has been very short—only a few months, I don't remember just how long. I have loaned her money to relieve temporary distress, and it is true, as she says, that I have seen her in St. Louis. But never by appointment. Our meetings were purely by chance, and beyond a few minutes' casual conversation I have had no dealings with her.

"The husband's charge that I induced her to leave him is absolutely untrue. I never saw Chapman that I know of, and know nothing of Mrs. Chapman's domestic affairs.

Woman Jilted At The Altar Now Has Action For $50,000

Examiner Special.

Freeport, Ill., April 21.—Jilted almost at the very altar, Miss Cora Healy, the pretty and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Healy, prominent residents of this city, has filed suit for breach of promise against Joseph T. Snell, Jr., of Amarillo, Texas, in that city, asking $50,000 damages, a slight amount she asserts to repay her for the hours of anguish Snell's conduct has caused her.

While Miss Healy was a school teacher in Waco, Texas, she was courted by Snell, who is the owner of one of the richest estates in that State, covering eighty-four square miles.

The wedding was set for last December at the home of the bride-to-be in this city. Miss Healy came home several months ago and elaborate preparations were made for the nuptial event, which was to be a big event in Freeport society.

Almost the very day of the wedding the young woman received a letter from her affianced with the statement that he had come to the conclusion that he did not love her enough to marry her.

With Snell's letters and other testimony safe in a deposit vault in this city Miss Healy expects to get the full amount of damages she asks.

NOTED SUFFRAGETTE FREED FROM PRISON

Mrs. Lawrence Cheered at Holloway Jail by Vast Throngs of Sympathizers.

Examiner Special.

London, April 17.—Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, the wife of a wealthy man of Devonshire, was released this morning from Holloway Jail after two months' imprisonment for taking part in a suffragist demonstration. She is the treasurer of the militant branch of the suffragists.

A huge crowd of suffragists, both men and women, welcomed Mrs. Lawrence outside of the prison gate. Brass bands played the suffragists' battle hymn, and then the great crowd in chorus started to sing the Marseillaise, and the inspiring air greatly aroused the singers.

The first news that the latest martyr to the "votes for women" cause received when she left the jail was that the fund of the militant suffragist society had been increased $40,000 while she was in prison.

Lady Constance Lytton, Mrs. Pankhurst and five hundred other suffragists belonging to this wing greeted Mrs Lawrence at breakfast after the demonstration at the prison. Mrs. Lawrence made a grimly humourous speech, saying that as a graduating university for suffragists Holloway Jail is the best place in the world.

"To you who have not stayed in Holloway Jail," she said, "I suggest that you go there and get your degree and then come back to us.

"Do these fools of politicians imagine that they are going to crush a great movement by giving us shameful and monstrous sentences?

"They are mistaken if they think that women haven't any more resistance and devotion to principles than that."

Mrs. Lawrence closed by threatening Premier Asquith with a visit from another militant deputation before the end of a fortnight.

London is beginning to fill up with the advance guard of 2,000 delegates from all over the world to the first quinquennial convention of the International Suffrage Societies.

Four sisters, the Misses Kangley, from Seattle, Washington, were among the first of the American delegates to arrive. They achieved fame by plantin a "Votes for Women" banner on the summit of Mount Ranier.

PUTS BAN ON BASKET HATS

Detroit, Mich., April 17.—Girls who have the new spring hats like inverted baskets, with wide drooping brims that come down over their faces, had better not go to communion in them—at least not to St. George's Episcopal church, where the Rev. Joseph Sheeran administers the rite. For the minister has found the latest headgear a great handicap in administering the sacrament.

When a row topped with the flower-decked baskets kneel at the chancel rail and leans forward slightly in the attitude of prayer, the minister, standing on the other side, cannot see the faces.

That in itself is a misfortune, but it is nothing to the discomfiture that results when the rector has to offer the chalice to a pair of lips he cannot see. As he explained to his parishioners, he has to guess where the girls' mouths are, and he does not know whether he is getting the cup within two or three inches of the right place. It is most annoying.

"My experience leads me to object most decidedly to the wearing of the new Easter bonnets at communion," he told his parishioners.

Hubby Exempt From Curfew

Modern Solomon Declares That Wife Cannot Call Him in Before 10.30 o'clock.

Richmond, Va., April 22.—Police Justice John Jeter Crutchfield added another statute to his unwritten code to the effect that no woman should make her husband go home before 10.30 at night.

The case was brought to the attention of the Court by Mrs. Katherine Shelpin, who objected to her husband's staying out after dark. Shelpin had been in the habit of visiting a neighbour and sitting on the porch and talking politics. She paid a little neighbourly visit herself, found her husband and administered a tongue lashing. It developed at the hearing that Shelpin had frequently stayed out as late as 9.30 at night, although his better half had positively forbidden such late hours.

"We married men," said the Judge in adjudicating the matter, "don't have much liberty; but you have no right to keep your husband in the house all the time. Your husband has almost as many rights as you have. I agree with you that he should not stay out all night, but you must let him smoke his cigar and talk politics if he wants to. I am the protector of the downtrodden men. Curfew shall not ring in Richmond to-night or any other night."

STRAWBERRIES AND CURRANTS

From Farm and Dairy.

1. I am thinking of setting out about 30 strawberry plants. Which is the best method for planting? What is the best kind of berry for a sandy loam? Shall I need two kinds of plants—perfect and imperfect? 2. I have seven three year old black currant bushes, and would like to get slips off of them. What is the best time and methods?—Mrs. A. H. C., Oxford Co., Ont.

1.—Strawberries should be planted in spring as soon as the old bud has produced new plants strong enough for transplanting or as soon as plants can be secured from the nurseryman. It is difficult to say which is the best variety of strawberries for any particular soil. There are many good varieties, but each of them are lacking in one or more particulars. The Clyde is a good yielder and large in size but being light in color and not as firm as others, it is not a good shipper. It makes an excellent berry for home use and for the home market. The Williams is the most popular commercial variety in the province. Persons who propose planting should ask their neighbors, that have been successful with strawberries, to tell them the varieties that have done best in that place. If either the Clyde or the Williams is grown, it will not be necessary to grow a variety to fertilize them as each of these varieties is perfect. Should some other variety be chosen find out whether it is perfect or imperfect. If imperfect, some perfect sort that blooms about the same time should be planted with it.

2.—It will soon be too late to take cuttings from currant bushes. Take them at once and store them in sand for a couple of weeks to cause the butts to callus. Store with the butts uppermost. When taking the cutting, select last year's growth and cut the butt end off squarely just below the joint and the top end between joints, leaving the cutting about six to eight inches long. If you purpose growing your bushes in tree form, remove all the buds on the cutting except the top one when planting and place the cutting in the ground to the full depth leaving only this one bud above the ground. If the bush form is desired, plant the cutting intact. Currant cuttings may be planted with more or less success as soon as taken from the old bush, but it is best first to induce them to callus.

DAY AFTER DAY.

From Farm and Dairy.

Some one has said, "It is the daily grind of small worries that kills women," and I guess it is so. The faithful housewife always finds so much work to do at home that she cannot visit much—the same task over and over again, day in and day out. But they must all be done for the good of the home. Well, never mind, dear sister, you only have to do one thing at a time, you know.

Don't pile up work in your mind, and fret over it, but take up the task that needs first attention, and do that, then take the next important one. "Make your head save your heels" as much as possible, and don't think of what is waiting to be done until its turn comes. You will be surprised to find how much more work can be accomplished in this way, and what a saving on your poor nerves! I have tried it and speak from experience.

Then, again, what if you cannot get done all that you have planned? There is another day coming, and haste often makes waste. I never "take a stint" I used to, but I do it no longer. Some women that I know give themselves tasks enough for two to perform and then fret because they fall short; others are a little easier in the giving out, but when what they planned is finished, they do as much more as they can, to get ahead of the next day's work, but they begin the next morning with a clean slate, and never give themselves credit for what extra they accomplish! Such women are generally "fretty" and nervous. This does not pay, in the long run, my dear sisters.

We owe our best to our home and we can not give it when every moment is one of hurry and worry.

POINTERS ON INCUBATION.

From Farm and Dairy.

Wilbur Bennett, Peterboro Co., Ont.

The incubator is at its best only a necessary evil. Where one requires a large number of chicks hatched early one must depend on the incubator.

An essential part of incubation is the breeding stock. They must be in the very pink of condition, lean and active. One can never secure good results from over-fat fowl, that have been pampered for egg production. If possible breed from two year old fowl, mated to vigorous cockerels. One is more likely to retain the vitality of the flock by so doing. In any case watch the vitality, as when one loses that, failure is sure to follow.

The following is the method of hatching, which I follow:

1st. Moisture—One can not have too much moisture in a machine. Fill up the pans with water at the start, and keep it there until the machine is closed up the 15th day.

2nd. Ventilation—Do not open at all for the first 10 days, after which the ventilators may be gradually opened up, till the date of closing the machine, when they must be closed to retain the moisture. There is nothing in the air cell notion to go by in controlling ventilation and moisture. Eggs of different ages vary in their air cells any way. The egg can not be dried out too little, it is nearly always dried out more in incubators than under broody hens.

3rd. Temperature—Run at a high temperature from the start; in winter 103-4 degrees on eggs. You do not need it quite as high in summer. One will find there is not as much difference then between top and bottom of eggs.

4th. Cooling—Do not cool at all in winter that is any more than they get while being turned. It will very likely prolong the hatch if one does. The hatch should be cleaned up before the end of the 21st day. They do not require much cooling in summer either; the large operators do not make a practice of cooling, especially of duck eggs.

5th. Turning—Eggs do not require to be turned over shuffling or moving about is all that is required. This should, up to the 18th day, be done at least twice daily.

6th. Testing—Eggs can be tested on the fifth day. If one will do it by sunlight a small hole in a dark cloth through which the rays of the sun can enter, makes an efficient tester. They should also be tested later to remove any dead germs.

It is a good plan to thoroughly wash the machine with a solution of zenoleum before setting. A 10 per cent solution kills the germs of mold, and disinfects it. Do not open up the machine until the hatch is all completed, the temperature may be allowed to run up then to 105 degrees while the chicks are hatching.

Care should be taken with lamps. They must be cleaned every day and the wick renewed occasionally. I consider a hatch satisfactory if I get 50 per cent. to 60 per cent. of the eggs set, in chickens,—that is on an average. Sometimes if one's fertility is high, one will go away above this, but more often not. Eggs should go 85 per cent. to 90 per cent. fertile on the first test.

SHOULD TAKE A HOLIDAY.

From Farm and Dairy.

Farmers with their wives should take a vacation, above all other people. There are several reasons why. First, because they can afford to do so. Also while they are away, the farm and stock, etc., is still growing into money. Not as rapidly as when watched carefully by the husband and wife, but nevertheless they are making fairly good progress.

The health of every man, woman and child should be studied most carefully. If health is gone, practically all is gone. A vacation of from two weeks to one month rests the body and soul from constant worry; gives the system time to rebuild what has been overtaxed during the hard work of months or perhaps years.

A change of scenery has a wonderful effect on mankind. It brings into activity, brain cells which have been lying down and out for many years. The power of mind over matter is of vastly more importance than we often think, and by keeping the mind bright and cheerful the natural body is greatly benefitted. Often people express a wish for more grace, etc., (when they are already leading a very consecrated life.) I think what they need most is either an improved condition of health or something in the way of a holiday.

When should this holiday be taken? Probably the best time to suit the greatest number of farmers would be June, just after the spring work is completed and before haying and harvest. Do not wait until you have a time with nothing to do at home, or you will wait until you are too old to enjoy holidays.—"The Doctor."

THE FARMER'S HOLIDAY

Should the farmer and his wife take a holiday and when? Of course, why not? Who is more worthy of a good holiday and who takes them less seldom than the farmer and especially his wife? But then the difficulty always presents itself when the farmer wants a holiday; who is to look after the stock, milk the cows, feed the hogs, etc., etc. The old adage, "Where there's a will there's a way," I have found to work out every time it is put into practice.

My good wife and I have done some travelling in our day and we don't regret it. True, it cost us some money and time, but it was time and money well spent. It gave us a broader vision, a better opportunity to turn our little means to good account and it gave us a greater scope of usefulness. If you want to live a narrow, lean life, just stay at home and work and slave and save,—and then die and leave your hard earnings to others to squander. ('Tis too often the case.)

I believe farmers and their wives ought to travel more than they do, in order that they may observe how other people do things. We are apt, if we remain perpetually in our small circle to become opinionated and possessed with the feeling that ours is the only neighborhood in which there are good farms and farming. But we have to disabuse our minds of this misconception if we go even 50 miles away from home into the next county. We sometimes get erroneous ideas of another locality, state or province by hearing invidious remarks concerning that part of the country. I will say more later on this subject.—"Father."

HELPING THE HUSBANDS

Where one wife would help her husband another would fail entirely. A woman's sphere is the home. The Bible says, "she looketh well to the ways of her household," and in doing this she is helping her husband. In going about her work cheerfully, meeting the little difficulties brightly, she is helping him more but, best of all can she help him in learning the smallest details of his business, discussing, planning and counselling together. This brings them closer together and she will be a helpmeet in the truest sense of the term, helping herself even more than she is helping her husband.

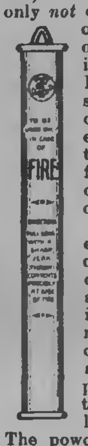
When we hear of a home where the husband and wife do not agree, our heart aches for them both; it is perhaps only some little thing that has caused the breach. Those little things which seem so big in the early married days, will, if not dwelt on, soon become mole hills and the future is almost assured. "The house that is divided cannot stand."

It is a mistaken idea for a wife to suppose she is helping her husband in doing his work. It is like successfully bringing up children—each must do his or her share. Should the husband become "pushed" for time, then she will gladly assist him over the busy spell, and he will learn that one good deed deserves another, or when the wife has extra work he will gladly put his shoulder to the wheel—then when evening sets in—the evening of a life well spent, "these two will be twain."—"Mother."

FARM FIRE PROTECTION.

From Farm and Dairy.

The one great fault to be found with water as a fire fighting agent, even though one is fortunate enough to have it always at hand for instant use, is the fact that water will not only not extinguish a blaze caused by oil, as oil will always float on the surface of water, but it will cause it to spread. For this reason we would strongly advocate the use of dry-powder fire-extinguishers as we are safe in stating that at least 70 per cent. of fires in rural districts are caused by exploding lamps or lanterns.



Another advantage claimed for dry-powder over liquid extinguishers is that in case of a fire in the chimney as so often happens, all that is necessary to do is to remove the stove-pipe from the chimney hole a few inches and throw in some of the powder, the draught carries the powder upwards, instantly extinguishing the blaze. The powder, in the best dry-powder machines, will not injure the most delicate fabric; never corrodes; will not deteriorate from age or climatic changes.

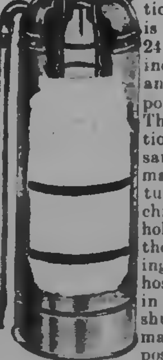
DRY POWDER EXTINGUISHERS.

The dry powder extinguisher as shown by illustration 1 is a metal tube some 18 inches in length by 2 in in diameter and weighs when loaded from one and three quarters to two and one quarter pounds. It is suspended by a ring on the cap, from strong hook or nail and to operate all that is necessary is to give the tube a sharp downward pull, thereby removing the cap; throw, not sprinkle the contents forcibly at the base of the blaze.

The number of concerns using this type of extinguisher can only be computed by the thousand and when the writer called on a number of Toronto firms he found each and every user a strong endorser. The writer has himself tested the efficiency of dry-powder and has, with about a handful of the mixture, extinguished a fire built of cotton waste, coal tar and gasoline. Need anything more be said? When a fire has been extinguished it can readily be seen how much powder remains and if only a small portion has been used the cap can be replaced and the powder used at some future date. Directions for refilling, etc., are sent out by the manufacturers of the machines.

LIQUID EXTINGUISHERS.

As the foregoing has been exclusively in reference to dry-powder extinguishers let us now turn our attention to the larger though more expensive liquid chemical fire-extinguisher as shown in illustration 2. This machine is made of copper, 24 inches high, seven inches in diameter and weighs about 17 pounds when loaded. This mode of operation is practically the same in all liquid machines; i.e., to turn on, turn machine upside down, holding machine with the left hand directing the stream by the hose which is held in the right hand, to shut-off reverse the machine to former position.



In all cases it is necessary to then take the machine out of doors and allow it to discharge itself as it is impossible to judge the quantity of chemical remaining in the machine. The cost of the average is very slight, being less than 25, and is as follows: One and one-half pounds of Bi-Carbonate of Soda dissolved in two and one-half gallons of water, placed in the body of the machine, four fluid ounces of Commercial Sulphuric Acid, placed in the glass bottle in the neck of the machine. In all cases the manufacturer sends full instructions. The advantage of a machine of this nature is readily realised when the fire is over-head or in fact any place where it is impossible to throw a powder, as the force generated by the chemicals when they come in contact with each other is sufficient to throw a stream some 40 or 50 ft., thus enabling the operator to extinguish a fire of greater magnitude than perhaps the dry powder could cope with.

INSURANCE RATES.

In the larger centres the insurance companies grant a reduced rate where fire-extinguishers are installed. However, as this only applies to machines which are approved by the "Board of Underwriters," and then only when a certain number of machines are installed (governable by the size of the building) this phase of the matter will hardly affect those in the outlying districts. It might be mentioned that the "Board of Underwriters" do not recognize the dry powder machine as it is impossible, as already stated, to effectually reach fires having their origin near the high ceilings of office buildings, etc., as fires often originate from defective wiring overhead. However, as the rural districts are not troubled with fires originating in this manner we feel safe in recommending the careful consideration of the dry powder machines as from four to six of them can be purchased for the price of one chemical extinguisher.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Did the insurance you received bring back that valuable mare you lost in the fire last year? The barn was insured but did the insurance company offer to pay you for the injuries you received while attempting to saving the fire-crazed horses? And so on down a long list of such questions and invariably the answer is in the negative and you begin to realize that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. It is so in every case.—W. G. R., York Co., Ont.

COBOURG HORSE SHOW.

From Farm and Dairy.

The Cobourg Summer Horse Show will now become an incorporated body, under the name of the Cobourg Horse Show Association. This was the decision reached recently at an important and well-attended meeting of officers, directors and interested citizens. Preliminary arrangements were made also for the show this year, which will be held on Aug. 17, 18, 19 and 20. A large barn to give accommodation to some 70 or 100 horses is to be erected in order to provide increased accommodation to larger exhibitors from a distance. No pains will be spared by the horse show committee to make the coming show in August, the biggest show of its kind in Canada, and they are undertaking the work with the hearty co-operation of Cobourg citizens. It will be held again in Donegan Park, where there is a fine track and seating accommodation for several thousands of people. Improvements made to the grounds last year involved an expense of between one and two thousand dollars, but the great increase in gate, grand stand and box receipts, entry fees, etc., justified the committee in their work.

The Cobourg Horse Show, since its inception in 1905, has had an appreciably good effect upon the breeding industry in the Midland district, and last year was the means of gathering together many of the most celebrated horses in Canada. Miss K. L. Wilks Galt; Dr. W. A. Young, Crow & Murray, H. C. Cox, Geo. Pepper, Toronto; Senator Beith, Bowmanville; T. H. Hassard, Millbrook, were among the well-known exhibitors.

The new organization will meet shortly to appoint officers and make further arrangements for this year's show. The 1908 officers were: Hon. president, D. F. Donegan; president, J. D. Hayden; vice-president, Chas. E. Speer, sr.; treasurer, E. W. Hargraft; secretary, John H. Davidson.

POTATOES MOSTLY MUD.

From Farm and Dairy.

Mr. R. H. Curry, Canadian Commercial Agent at Nassau, has forwarded the following letter regarding Canadian shipments to an importer in the Bahamas. It is not advanced that this complaint is characteristic of the exports to that colony, but it will serve to illustrate the manner in which the importer views such laxity in business.

"Being a Canadian and therefore interested in the development of trade between Canada and the Bahamas, I would like to call your attention to some shipments that have come here from that country, which are not only a disgrace to Canada, but will utterly ruin the trade. One, some time ago, was a lot of Nova Scotia potatoes, which were mixed, some so small as to be worthless, others far too large, badly shaped, full of lumps and to cap the climax covered with mud, so that by weight we paid at least one tenth for mud.

"More lately was a lot of apples, out of a barrel of which only 20 were not absolutely rotten, and those full of worm holes and bruised all over. Of another lot of potatoes, a few were of good table size but the greater part about the size of a large marble, which no one would buy. In each of these cases the importer said he would never buy more."

MRS. KINRADE AND MISS FLORENCE IGNORE SUBPOENAS TO ATTEND INQUEST WHICH WAS ADJOURNED

Will be Forced to Attend—Only Four Minor Witnesses Were Heard Last Night—Saleswoman Says Florence Was Out on Morning of Murder Despite Her Statement to Contrary.

JIMMY BAUM ARRIVES.

Hamilton, April 23.—The failure of Mrs. Kinrade and Miss Florence Kinrade to appear at the sitting was the feature of the inquest last night. Very little was secured from the witnesses called.

Mr. Blackstock asked that Mrs. Kinrade be called, and there was an expectant wait for a minute or two.

"Isabel Kinrade," called the court crier thrice, but there was no response.

Mr. Blackstock suggested that Florence Kinrade be called, and once again the crier's voice resounded through a hushed court room. Still there was no appearance.

"I am under the necessity of asking you to adjourn these proceedings until to-morrow night, or such time as is convenient," pursued Mr. Blackstock. "Mrs. Kinrade and Miss Florence Kinrade were notified to be here to-night, and it was our expectation that they would be here. We received no intimation from them to the contrary, and I shall have to ask you now to adjourn these proceedings until the crown can take such steps as may be necessary to enforce their attendance upon this inquest."

It was agreed that the inquest should resume to-night at 8 o'clock, and the inquest adjourned at 9.45, after a session of 60 minutes.

As a result of an order from the Attorney-General's Department all the passes issued were yesterday morning cancelled, it being stated that the disorder at times in the courtroom during previous sessions had worried Mr. Blackstock. There were, however, about 100 interested auditors present, outside of a small army of newspaper men, who were last night banished beyond the railing. The only individuals allowed within the sacred enclosure were Mr. Blackstock, Crown Attorney Washington, George Lynch-Staunton, K.C., counsel for the Kinrade family, and his junior counsel. On former occasions the public overflowed almost to the coroner's desk. Dr W. Bruce Smith and Dr. Clarke of Toronto Asylum were again present, and also a number of medical specialists interested in pathological research.

The witnesses last night were not apparently of great weight, but the later developments increased and emphasized the importance of some phases of it, and especially of the contradictions involved. Mrs. Ernest Kinrade, sister-in-law of the murdered girl, was examined at some length. She gave her evidence in a drawling nasal tone, and spoke in a low voice. She remembered scarcely anything of a striking character as to the points on which Mr. Blackstock asked his questions and adopted the conventional phrases previously used by other members of the family in describing their relations.

Next to the non-appearance of the Kinrade women, the greatest sensation was caused by the evidence of Miss Erskine, employed in the big Stanley Mills Co.'s store. She swore clearly and definitely that she saw Florence Kinrade in the blouse department of the store on the morning of the tragedy. She could not fix the time and was not aware if she bought anything. She knew Florence Kinrade, who was frequently in the store, very well by sight.

Florence Kinrade swore a month ago that she had not been out of the house the day of the murder, and did not get up till late in the morning.

Reticence even beyond ordinary is observed by the crown officials engaged in the case, but it is clear that far greater advances have been made than has been generally supposed. That a crucial point in the enquiry has been reached is obvious and it seems clear that the crown is not at fault.

After the inquest, Coroner Anderson, proceeded to the City Hall, where he made out new subpoenas, which were served on Mrs. Kinrade and Florence Kinrade this morning.

Jimmy Baum arrived at 6.30 last night in company of Detective Rogers. The intention of the crown is to have the testimony of Mrs. Kinrade and Florence once more before calling Baum.

Elder Evans Deposed.

Lamoni, Iowa, April 23.—Delegates to the fifty-sixth annual conference of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, in session here, are talking to-day over a revelation through Joseph Smith, involving several important changes in the personnel of the church, which was given to the delegates.

The revelation releases from the presidency Elder R. C. Evans of Toronto, Canada, and confirms the appointment of Albert A. Smith of Lamoni. The presidency of the church is composed of Joseph Smith, his son, Fred W. Smith, and his nephew, Albert A. Smith.

Passengers Spent Anxious Night.

Montreal, April 23.—Two train loads of passengers spent an anxious night on a storm-swept bridge near Rouse's Point Wednesday night. They were crossing the bridge, one either way, and the ends of the bridge showed signs of weakness, so that they were afraid to cross in the fierce storm of wind and rain which raged around them. They had to stay there all night.

Canadian Girls as Nurses.

New York, April 23.—Nearly one-half the graduating girls of the college for training nurses here hail from Canada.

New Sealing Arrangement.

Victoria, B.C., April 23.—The United States may abrogate the Paris award of 1894 governing pelagic sealing in the Behring Sea as a result of conditions which have arisen owing to the influx of Japanese sealers not bound by the regulations, as Japan is not a party to the award according to statements made by Joseph Boscowitz, a prominent local sealing schooner owner, who has returned from London, Washington and Ottawa, where he had interviews with officials regarding the sealing question.

The abrogation of sealing treaty under which the United States forbids her vessels to leave U.S. ports on a sealing cruise and spends nearly half a million yearly in patrolling the sea and guarding rookeries, will result in United States schooners again being permitted to go sealing after twenty years. Mr. Boscowitz said he was informed at Ottawa by Hon. L. P. Brodeur Minister of Marine, a few days ago, that the question was to be taken up and the whole matter thoroughly gone into.

Shoots Three and Himself.

Chicago, April 23.—Harry L. Summers, a nickel plater, yesterday shot and killed his wife Henrietta, shot and seriously wounded his ten-year-old daughter, Gladys, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Anna McKenzie, and then killed himself at Mrs. McKenzie's house, 522 Albany avenue.

Syrian Peddler Murdered.

Quebec, April 23.—The body of a Syrian peddler was discovered at Vermillion on the G.T.P., 30 miles west of Lutuque. The head had been pierced by a bullet fired at close range from behind, and the skull fractured. The man had been dead about six weeks.

Congratulates Fielding.

London, April 23.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Standard congratulates Mr. Fielding on his excellent financial statement. It says he chose wisely in deciding to balance the national accounts rather by a reduction in expenditure than by imposing new taxation. The renewal of the practice of attaching sinking funds to loans issued in London should have the effect of making them more popular and at the same time putting the country's finances on a sounder basis.

Jack Tars Welcome Teddy.

Mombasa, April 23.—Theodore Roosevelt left on a special train at 2.30 yesterday afternoon for Kapiti Plains station. Wednesday night Mr. Roosevelt paid a tribute to the British people, praising their energy and genius in civilizing the uncivilized places of the earth. He expressed his great pleasure at the welcome given him by the British cruiser Pandora, whose rails and masts were manned by cheering sailors when he came into the harbor.

To Explore Africa.

Ottawa, April 23.—John Thompson, Portage du Fort, Quebec, one of the best known bushrangers of the Ottawa district, has been engaged by an English syndicate to proceed at once to Central Africa for exploring and reporting on the natural resources.

Women Oppose Private Cars.

New York, April 23.—Revolt has broken out in the ranks of women in their crusade for separate cars on subway trains for their exclusive use. The Equality League of Self-Supporting Women, 22,000 strong, informed the public service commission yesterday that they do not care for separate cars and fear such an innovation would do men more harm than it would do good for women.

U. S. Adopts Two-Power Standard.

WANT TO LOWER TARIFF WALLS

Dr. Clark and Ralph Smith Speak on the Budget.

MR. FOSTER INCONSISTENT

New Member From Red Deer Shows Former Finance Minister's Ridiculous Position Advocating Economy and P. E. I. Tunnel In Same Breath — Protection Comes Out of Pockets of Many.

Ottawa, April 23.—Dr. Clark of Red Deer, Alberta, who resumed the debate on the budget yesterday afternoon, took the members on both sides back over almost forgotten ground as he dealt with the fundamental principles of the trades question, and with a well-marshaled array of economic facts and theories attacked the protectionist and balance of trade arguments of Mr. Foster. Dr. Clark, though one of the new members of the House, has already taken front rank as an effective, logical and ready debater. He challenged with compelling logic the protective arguments of the Opposition, in advocating a protective tariff for the benefit of the manufacturing few, as opposed to the interests of the consuming many. He ridiculed Mr. Foster's dual pose as an economist, and as the advocate of an expenditure of tens of millions on the Prince Edward Island tunnel and the construction of Dreadnoughts for the British navy. He got back at his interrupters with apt and effective retorts, and kept his appreciative fellow-Liberal members of the House, especially the western, low-tariff wing, continually pounding their desks with applause.

Ralph Smith evoked from Mr. Cowan of British Columbia a challenge to the Premier or himself to resign his seat and test the feeling in British Columbia with reference to the Government's treatment of that province.

Dr. Clark of Red Deer, resuming the budget debate, discussed protection v. free trade. Sixty years ago Great Britain began a policy of free trade and the United States a policy of protection. At that time the shipping tonnage of the United States was 2 1-2 millions, and of Great Britain 4 1-4 millions. To-day, after 60 years, United States tonnage has fallen to 1 3-4 millions, while that of Britain has increased to 11 3-4 millions.

Mr. Jamieson (Digby) declared that the Liberal party was not only committed to the continuance of the policy of protection, but it was doing more and paying bounties to favored industries.

Continuing, in the evening Mr. Smith made a plea for reciprocity in coal with the United States. He did not think it possible that the mines of Nova Scotia would ever be able to supply the Ontario market. In 1908 the importations of bituminous coal amounted to about six million tons, with a duty of about three million dollars, but he was sure that the enormous development in the west following reciprocity in coal would more than compensate for the loss of revenue. Giving the total consumption of the various railways as nearly five million tons a year, at a cost of nearly $15,000,000, Mr. Smith declared that the 53 cents a ton duty was taken out of the people.

Woman Swept Over the Falls.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., April 23.—Shortly after 12 o'clock yesterday Mrs. Whipple, a 65-year-old Buffalo woman, either jumped or slipped into the river at Luna Island, and was carried over the falls. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Leonard, who saw Mrs. Whipple slip under the railing on the island and disappear over the falls.

She was suffering from nervous trouble, and worried over the accidental death of her husband a year ago. She is known in society circles.

Miners Preparing for Strike.

Halifax, N.S., April 23.—Two members of the international board of United Mine Workers have arrived at Glace Bay direct from Indianapolis, and deposited $20,000 in the Union Bank as a strike fund in case negotiations with the Dominion Coal Co. fall through. The union ask that the company receive their committees in respect to grievances. Mr. Acland, Deputy Minister of Labor, may come here to try and help settle the differences, which the recent arbitration board failed to do.

Fall Four Stories in Escaping Fire.

New York, April 23.—When Mrs. Rachael Matthewson and her daughter Rose discovered that fire on the floor below their fourth-storey flat in an eastside tenement had cut off their escape by the stairs early yesterday, they rushed to the front window. Mrs. Matthewson climbed out on the sill and lowered herself until she hung by her fingers. Rose followed her out of the window and clung with her arms about her mother's neck. The weight caused the mother's finger tips to slip from the window sill and just as a hook and ladder truck arrived they dropped the four stories to the sidewalk. The elder woman will die.

Sentence Boys to Lash.

Kingston, April 23.—For some time boys have been robbing the street railway of copper wire from tracks where it is used in completing circuits. The loss of the wire caused a great deal of trouble, as it meant extra electric power must be furnished. Detectives unearthed 50 pounds of stolen wire in a pawn shop, and put four youngsters, all 12 years old, under arrest. Three were found guilty yesterday and were given the cat-o'-nine-tails by the police, and the other discharged.

To Wed on the Stage.

Huntington, L.I., April 23.—Miss West of Troy, New York, and Richard Campbell Tibb, a Canadian actor, are to wed on the stage here. Tibb is said to have come from Toronto and to have served in South Africa with the Mounted Rifles.

Hains was not insane at the present time and that the defence would rest with the proof that the defendant was insane at the time of the shooting. Hains' lawyers promptly denied this.

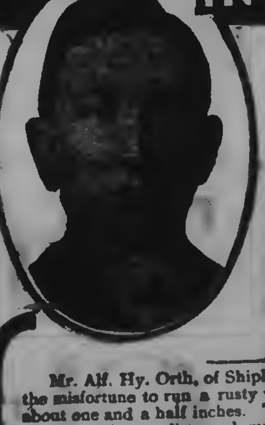
RAN A RUSTY NAIL INTO HIS FINGER



USING Zam-Buk on a cut or scratch is insuring yourself against the danger of blood-poisoning, festering, or inflammation. As soon as you sustain an injury—a scratch from barbed wire, a cut, a burn, a bruise—put on a little Zam-Buk, and then don't worry! Zam-Buk kills the disease germs, which, entering wounds, set up festering, etc. Not only so, but Zam-Buk stimulates the cells to rapid action, and in this way builds up healthy skin very quickly; also, it eases pain and smarting. You have ease, insurance against blood-poisoning, and rapid healing—only Zam-Buk combines the three! Try it!

Mr. Alf. Hy. Orth, of Shipley (Ont.), says :—"While at work recently I had the misfortune to run a rusty wire nail under my thumb nail, to the depth of about one and a half inches. The pain was terrible, and what I feared was that the nail, being so dirty and rusty, would set up festering and blood-poisoning. I knew, from previous experience, how good Zam-Buk was, so I cleaned the wound, melted a little of the balm, and ran it into the wound. The result was wonderful. It soothed the pain, and the thumb actually did not swell. Zam-Buk kept away all inflammation. I was able to go on with my work all the time, and in a few days the thumb was as good as ever."

Zam-Buk cures cuts, burns, bruises, sprains, piles, festering sores, ulcers, scalds, blood-poisoning, eczema, varicose ulcers, prairie itch, ringworm, scalp-sores, bad leg, diseased ankles, and all other skin diseases and injuries. Rubbed well into the parts affected, it cures neuralgia, rheumatism, and sciatica. All Druggists and Stores sell at 50c. box, three for $1.25, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

The Bank of Montreal at the end of its fiscal year, October 31st, 1908, added another $1,000,000 to its Reserve Fund, thus further emphasizing its great strength and stability.

With a Saving Department at every one of its many Branches, it offers the opportunity for all, who so desire, to avail themselves of its many advantages by opening a Savings Account.

A Savings Bank account is the best safeguard against misfortune, being always ready and available, and earning interest all the time.

Consideration for one's family demands that all heads of households should provide against the day of adverse conditions, and there is no simpler way than by laying systematically from time to time a portion of income or earnings in a Savings account.

ANTIQUES IN A HURRY

EXPERT TELLS HOW THEY ARE MADE TO ORDER.

Connoisseurs In Art Matters Who Go to Europe to Pick Up Paintings, Drawings, Autographs and Books Are Freely Counterfeited by Clever Swindlers and Sold For Big Prices to American Collectors.

Credulity and the desire to attain the unattainable account for the immense trade in spurious "antiques." Millionaires who are consumed with both these qualities are more to blame than forgers who minister to them, says Miss Helen Zimmern, who gives some interesting instances of deceived and saddened plutocrats in an article in The National Review, London.

The trade is not confined to America; this writer refers to recent volumes on the subject, such as Mr. Robert Munro's "fat volume" on "prehistoric fabrications," and a work by Mr. Paul Eudel, who "has collected instances of every species of fraud in his book, 'Le Truquage'." A musician hardly imagines "that he can run a railroad, a railroad magnate that he can direct an orchestra, a brewer that he can conduct a legal case, a lawyer that he can manage a vineyard," Miss Zimmern observes, "yet where art is concerned all are connoisseurs, every man is ready to pass a verdict."

"I would rather trust my own judgment about pictures than that of any expert," the author says she "heard a man say who, till he made his pile, had never lifted his head from his account-book and whose acquaintance with art was limited to oleographs and colored advertisements of his Western wilds." The author "feels almost inclined to say" that "such a person deserves to be taken in."

The trade is "as old as the Pyramids, literally, not metaphorically," declares Miss Zimmern, and goes on to prove it.

The writer, who lives in Italy, tells us of one of the "ablest makers of Renaissance pictures" in whom lived "a Renaissance soul." "By atavism his fingers turned out pictures a la Lippi, Botticelli, Mantegna," which he sold for trifling sums to interested amateurs, little dreaming to what uses they would be put. Many of his pictures now hang as genuine in public galleries, even in Italy; and America, we are told, is "full of such pictures." In turning to a later epoch it is probably not necessary to tell that "America is crowded with Corots, Courbets, Troyons, Rousseaus, Diaz, and others of the epoch," since the Barbizon school seems particularly to have lent itself to counterfeiting."

The writer casts a glance over some other fields: "Drawings, professedly by Dutch and Italian old masters, are so common that the nicest discrimination is required. In the late eighteenth century there existed in Bologna a school of counterfeiters that turned out masterpieces on these lines, prepared with a view to the English Lord Johns doing the Grand Tour, designs that to this day fill many a portfolio in English homes or have passed into foreign hands under the auctioneer's hammer. A superior knowledge of paper grains and watermarks makes detection easier nowadays; still the prices paid are at times high enough to encourage the counterfeiter to make papers like that used in the artist's day and further diligent search among old account-books and diaries often reveal blank pages of the date required. An extra dip of coffee, a burning of the edges to give a worn look, is all that is required, and a skilful operator then draws upon it, in the style required, silver-point or a red or black-chalk design, often one that might be a first sketch of some famous picture by the master whose dead soul he is thus wronging. The whole is then generally expensively and exquisitely mounted on cardboard in the manner beloved of collectors and goes forth on its errand of deception.

"Autograph-hunters should above all beware how they acquire signatures or letters. Of course every one does not fall in so easily as M. Michel Chasles, the celebrated geometer, whose case, brought into court, remains famous. He bought a collection of some 27,000 autographs, including letters from Jesus Christ, Cleopatra, Alexander the Great, Lazarus, Mary Magdalene, Pilate, Judas, Alcibiades, for which he paid a goodly sum. The court let the counterfeiters down gently with a small fine and two years' imprisonment, it being pleaded by his lawyer that upon M. Chasles' gullibility the greater burden of blame must rest.

"As for black-letter books, Elzevirs, Aldines, etc., they are faked by the ton. A facsimile paper is made, the text photographed upon blocks and stereotyped, and the large red-and-black letter inserted after. Some editions princeps of the classics are distinguished by certain head and tail pieces of great charm. Their presence or absence used to date and authenticate a book. But this was in pre-scientific days. The missing pieces are now slid on to more recent and less costly editions."

Restaurant Slang.

Two customers, a man and woman, who visited a cheap restaurant in New York were startled when they gave their orders and heard the waiter in turn shout them through a small window to the cook.

"Give me two eggs fried on one side and three slices of crisp broiled breakfast bacon," ordered the man.

"Two cackles slapped in the face and three squeals crisp," howled the waiter, while the woman looked aghast.

"And yours, madam?" said the waiter, innocent of creating any sensation.

"I'd like a steak well done covered with onions?" she replied.

"One steak cremated and suffocated," again yelled the waiter.

"What would you like to drink?" he asked.

The woman ordered a cup of coffee with cream, two lumps of sugar and, of course, a spoon. The man wanted a cup of coffee without cream.

Here is what the waiter ordered:

"Cup of mud, two chunks of ballast, milk the Jersey and throw in a piece of scrap iron; draw another in the dark."—Brooklyn Eagle.

15,000 CHRISTIANS VICTIMS OF FANATIC FURY OF THE TURKS

Threatening Situation Exists in Asiatic Turkey—Armenians are Resisting—Persecuted Christians are Putting up Strong Defence Against Moslem Assailants.

MARTIAL LAW IN FORCE.

Constantinople, April 23.—The situation in Asiatic Turkey, according to the latest intelligence received here, is distinctly threatening.

The wave of fanaticism which originated in Adana some ten days ago and found its expression in the killing of the Christians, apparently is spreading generally through the eastern provinces. Upward of 10,000 Armenians were massacred in Syrian towns and villages, principally in the Vilayet of Adana, during outbursts of fanatical zeal at the time of the spring festival in honor of Mohammed and upon the receipt of the news of the overturn of the 'heretical" Government at Constantinople. One embassy places the estimates of killed as high as 15,000.

The Government has sent urgent commands to the Vilayet of Adana that the mob must be put down and the leaders harshly dealt with. The attacks on the Armenians appear to have been instigated solely by the reactionaries.

A despatch from Mersina says the Armenian town of Madjin is beleagured by Moslem tribesmen, who are only waiting sufficient numerical strength to rush the improvised defences erected by the Armenians. The Armenians, however, are well armed, and will put up a vigorous defence.

Another despatch from Tarsus dated April 20, and sent by courier to Mersina, sets forth that the missions there were giving shelter to 3,000 refugees and were well protected. Martial law has been declared and the situation was showing some improvement. Five hundred houses had been burned in the Armenian quarter of the city, where fifty persons had been killed. Others had been killed in the surrounding villages.

The town of Kiriken, which is located a short distance from Reilan, and southeast of Alexandretta, has been sacked and burned.

At Ayas, on the west coast of the Gulf of Alexandretta, 418 murderers have been released from prison. They at once joined the mob and began depredations.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Ottawa sheet metal workers may strike for an extra two cents an hour.

The Sultan of Turkey is reported insane. The decree deposing him has been signed.

The United States Government will again press for a settlement of the Hecate Strait dispute.

Lightning struck the office of the Ontario Powder Co. at Tweed, but missed a car of dynamite nearby.

Harry Norrey of Detroit was shot and probably fatally wounded by Peter Shea, another Detroit man, at Windsor.

McElroy's general store at Carp, Ont., was burned Wednesday night; loss, $25,000. John Anderson was nearly smothered.

It is reported that Japan is sending large reinforcements into Manchuria and that the soldiers are spreading along the frontier.

Mrs. Maxwell of Peterboro has given $5,000 to Presbyterian Chinese missions, and the money will be used to found a school at Honan.

Earl Crewe in the House of Lords said the question of Indian immigration was for the individual consideration of the colonies affected.

Aime Houle, a deck hand on the steamer Bennington, was arrested at Milwaukee. He is suspected of connection with the Beauharnois murder.

The Ennis & Stoppani creditors were informed at New York yesterday that they may expect at least a return of twenty-five cents on the dollar.

It is reported that the Canadian Northern will divert traffic to Duluth for a time to make extensive repairs to the line from Fort Frances east to Port Arthur.

Election Cases Fall Through.

Parry Sound, April 23.—At the Assizes just closed there were some interesting election cases. A D.R.O. was accused of giving a ballot to an elector whose name was omitted from the list in error. Owing to the technical nature of the offence, the crown and court interceded and the case was not given to the jury, but is held over to be reported to the authorities. A recommendation was made by the grand jury to have the law amended to meet such cases, where errors are made without criminal intent.

The case of Frank Unger, charged with attempting to bribe an elector was shown to have been a mistake of intentions, and the accused was acquitted.

Ed. Thompson, accused of personating another person of the same name, was also a case where the elector acted in good faith, believing himself to be the person whose name was on the list, and he was acquitted.

Too Many Divorces.

Ottawa, April 23.—Chairman Ethier of the private bills committee protested yesterday morning when 21 divorce bills with Senate recommendation were presented. Said he:

"For six years I have presided over this committee, and for thirteen years been a member of it, and while we are accustomed to have half a dozen each session, the limit is reached this time. I think it amounts to an abuse. Those of us who are fathers of families should think of the great social evil that is involved, and not do in this country as they do in the States. The committee should assert its rights to see if the proof given in the Senate is proper. The Senate is granting divorces in cases where a court would not give separation. If you prove a man is a drunkard or a gambler, it is not sufficient to justify divorce."

HACKED TO DEATH.

Macedonian Is Murdered In Toronto —Compatriot Held.

Toronto, April 23.—Met in the semidarkness of the basement of his lodging-house at 16 Eastern avenue as he returned from his work, Evan Simoff, a Macedonian, ash cleaner, employed at the G.T.R. roundhouse, was battered to death with a hatchet sometime after seven o'clock yesterday morning.

With what appears to be fresh bloodstains on his coat, overalls and shirt, Palla Stefoff, an unemployed Macedonian, living in the same house, is held by the police on the tentative charge of being a "material witness."

Stefoff tells of finding the body and his story is not altogether satisfactory to the police.

Simoff, who was a married man with a wife and child in Europe, left his work at 7 o'clock. Three other Macedonians left with him. One of these rode to his home in Trinity street, while the others says that they walked with Simoff to the corner of Front and West Market street, when Simoff left them to go north to King street to buy honey.

Here Palla Stefoff takes up the tale. He says that he got up at 6 o'clock and set out in search of work. He went to the C.N.R. freight sheds and to Kemp's works. He did not go in, but asked some Macedonians whom he saw outside. He then went back to the house about 8.30, buying meat and groceries on the way.

He found the back door, by which he had gone out, locked. He entered by the front door and on his way to the basement where he rooms with his brother, when in the half light, he saw the legs of a man. He did not know, he says, whether the man was dead or drunk, but was afraid and rushed to the street and there met George Bailey, whom he told that a man had been killed.

Bailey got P. C. Forbes, in King street. They found Simoff's body with the head at the bottom of the stairs, battered almost beyond recognition. On the floor was a pool of blood and brains and blood was spattered on the wall to a height of four feet.

The body was removed to the morgue. The trousers were torn open as if the assassin had been in search of the money belt which many of the Macedonians wear. He left considerable money on the body, however. Sewn in the lining of the vest were found twenty-one French coins worth $4 each and three smaller ones of half that value. In a purse in a pocket $5 in Canadian money was found.

DYNAMITING ICE JAM.

U. S. Engineers Are Busy Trying to Release Niagara.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, April 23.—United States engineers have been busy all afternoon dynamiting the ice jam at the mouth of the river, off Fort Niagara. Their plan is to push planks out over the ice banks to the edge of the mass and plant 500-pound charges of dynamite, so that the explosion will tear off great chunks and rend the field. The effects of the explosions were spectacular, great ice cakes being lifted a height of one hundred feet or more and distributed over a wide area. They were effective in opening a small channel around the fort and thus affording an outlet to the currents which have been sapping the foundations of the most ancient stronghold west of Kingston. The work will be continued to-day and indefinitely until some adequate relief is afforded. It will be slow and costly work.

The Niagara Navigation Co.'s wharf is apparently to go the way the Turbinia's wharf has gone. The ice has worked its way underneath and the platform is slowly but surely buckling upward. The earth filling behind has caved in badly. Teams have been busy since early morning hauling brush and debris to throw in and stay the current. Twenty carloads of stone would not be sufficient to fill the chasm which now exists on the spot where the Queen's Royal Hotel bus usually waits for passengers in summer. The work of filling in will be a problem for the stone as dumped in would immediately slide under the wharf, and fifty carloads might go out of sight. The only way to achieve the end desired will be to sink next to the wharf some hundreds of fresh faggots, and stake them to the bottom and then fill in with stone. The big wharf itself should be of concrete.

TO TEAR DOWN WALL.

International Reciprocity Advocates Meet In Detroit.

Detroit, April 23.—"Trade with Canada" is the watchword in Detroit today. There was opened yesterday afternoon, and continues in session until to-night, a conference representing boards of commerce and other bodies, of more than a dozen states on or near the Canadian border, the object of which is "better trade relations with Canada," and the purpose of which is to secure reductions in the tariff bill now before Congress. The conference meets on the invitation of the Detroit Board of Commerce in the assembly hall of the new Y.M.C.A. Delegates are present from New York and Boston in the east and Chicago, Milwaukee and Duluth in the west, and from most of the cities and states between. Governors of states are present, either personally or by official delegates. Plainly, this conference means business. Without preliminaries, Governor Warner of Michigan welcomed the delegates, and gave a most emphatic endorsation to the purpose of the conference. He described Detroit as the second oldest trading post on the lakes, where for 200 years trade with Canada has been carried on. He pressed home on his fellow-countrymen the rapid development of Canada, its enormous resources, and the material advantage of wide and cordial trade relations.

Cupid's Pipes

By MARION DEXTER.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

Jan Vanderstreet was without doubt and by unanimous consent, especially his own, the leading citizen of the little painted village of Dykheld.

Therefore when he imparted to his fellow citizens the information that he had bought a large tract of land in America, where fortunes were to be made in an incredible hurry, half a hundred very substantial and phlegmatic Hollanders marshaled their families after grave deliberation and embarked with him, after selling their queer little painted houses and tulip gardens and cows with true Dutch thrift.

Jan Vanderstreet took with him his wonderful collection of pipes, famed throughout all Gelderland and even beyond that beautiful district. He also took with him what he valued almost as much as his pipes—his very buxom and still blooming wife, his blooming daughter, Ankie, and his blooming orphaned niece, Johanna de Koop.

The only member of the party of Holland adventurers who was not truly substantial, according to sound Dutch standards, was Dirk Van Pelt. Mynheer Vanderstreet had frowned on his admission as a member of the solemn exodus. But Dirk had cunningly used such un-Hollandlike haste in putting his entire patrimony of $1,000 into the speculation that he had an interest in it before the more deliberate mynheer knew it.

Jan Vanderstreet did not like this at all. The trouble was that Dirk was altogether too fond of Ankie. If the broad shouldered, sturdy, handsome youth had only exhibited enough sense to be fond of some one not in the Vanderstreet family the mynheer might have felt quite glad to have him in the party, for Dirk was not at all disagreeable to anybody, with his kind smile and his readiness to help every one who needed it.

Mynheer Vanderstreet determined to keep close watch during the voyage. But what could one do on shipboard? Could a worthy Dutchman of five and sixty be expected to go on guard over his daughter when all the men folks were smoking their pipes on deck, telling tales of the past and speculating about the future? Truly not.

The chaperonage of Ankie was therefore left to her mother. But even on shipboard that industrious Dutch housewife could not be idle, and when one has a huge stocking and a ball of yarn, also a set of knitting needles, in hand it is not always convenient to follow a will-o'-the-wisp of a girl.

Besides, Johanna was always with her cousin, and lovemaking when a third person is present is not so easy to carry on. At least so argued Mistress Vanderstreet, forgetting that there is a language of the eye which expresses as clearly as speech what is in one's heart and that a pressure of the hand may convey an assurance of love just as plainly as if one said aloud, "I love you."

Although Dirk had little opportunity of telling Ankie of his love by word of mouth, that he was her devoted slave and wished for no greater happiness than to call her his wife, Ankie knew what was in his heart, because she returned his love.

By the end of the voyage Dirk knew that her heart was in his keeping, and he determined to wrest from the soil of the prairie a living that would entitle him to old Vanderstreet's respect.

Busy days followed the arrival of the Hollanders in the little Iowa settlement. Ground was broken, teams purchased, grain sowed and houses erected.

The Vanderstreet residence was the most pretentious in the place, but the cottage built by Dirk Van Pelt was as pretty a little Dutch home as any romantic girl would wish.

Vines were planted and soon grew about the porch, a bed of tulips flaunted gayly colored blossoms in the front yard, and a kitchen garden flourished in the rear.

Things soon prospered with Dirk, and after six months of anxious waiting he ventured to call on Jan Vanderstreet to ask for the hand of his daughter. The mynheer, with unusual promptness, immediately gave Dirk to understand that he wished to hear no more of the matter and very politely intimated that the doors of the Vanderstreet residence would be closed thenceforth to him.

Disappointed, but not discouraged, Dirk went slowly home, vowing to himself with genuine Holland determination that he would never give up the girl he loved.

His resolution was strengthened by the sight of Ankie standing at the window holding out a letter, which she dropped and he picked up.

The letter told him that she would be his, with or without her father's blessing, and bade him have patience.

Dirk continued to work his little place industriously, hoping to hear from Ankie. But three weeks elapsed before he had an opportunity of talking with her. He left her presence, feeling much encouraged, and fell asleep that night more hopeful. He was awakened from sweet dreams of his love by the cry of fire.

Throwing on his clothes, he rushed from the house. The town was already aroused, and down the streets the people came running in all stages of dress, the clatter of their wooden shoes making as much noise as the modern fire engine.

"It is Jan Vanderstreet's!" some one screamed. "The place is doomed!"

On hearing these words Dirk ran faster than before and outstripped the crowd. When he reached the house he found the family coming out, laden with plunder, and heard Mistress Vanderstreet exclaim: "No more must we go back! It is not safe, and it is better to lose one's goods than one's life!"

"But my pipes! My precious pipes!" cried old Jan, all his phlegmatic restfulness gone. "I must get them!"

His wife seized him firmly by the arm.

"That you shall not do. Everything is afire. I will not let you risk your life for a set of worthless pipes."

"Worthless pipes!" thundered Jan. "How dare you speak so? They are a part of my life. I have been collecting them all my life long, until now more than a hundred hang in my rack. And must I lose them all because of your hard headedness? Let me go, I say; let me go!"

He struggled wildly in her grasp, but it was in vain. Mistress Vanderstreet was a very strong and a nobly determined woman and held him in so firm a grip he could do naught but writhe and groan.

Dirk Van Pelt had a great emotion and reached a great determination with an almost American swiftness. He knew that the rafters of the blazing house would fall in soon—might tumble in crimson ruin at any moment. But not in vain did he have in his veins the blood of the wonderful race that cut the dikes and drowned their beloved land rather than yield it to the invaders.

He went to a tank of water and wet his coat. Throwing it over his head, he plunged into the burning house, not heeding the shrill cry of distress which issued from the lips of the trembling Ankie.

Five minutes of dreadful suspense followed, during which the rafters fell in and sent the sparks flying upward in a mad shower. Surely no one could live in such a place. Ankie, moaning piteously, sank to the ground, heedless of the crowd of spectators, and burst out into wild weeping.

Suddenly a shout of joy arrested her attention, and, sitting up, she saw through a mist of tears the form of Dirk issuing from the burning house. He staggered like a drunken man under the weight of a huge rack which held the precious pipes, not one of which was missing.

Straight to the man who had refused him his daughter's hand stumbled Dirk Van Pelt. Then as old Jan took the burden from him the young man fell senseless at his feet.

When he opened his eyes, Jan Vanderstreet was standing by him, tears streaming down his cheeks. He took Dirk's hand, saying brokenly: "A house one can soon acquire, but such a treasure of pipes—ah, that takes a very lifetime to acquire. Such a deed as yours, Dirk, is worthy of any reward. What can I do to repay you?"

Raising himself on his elbow, Dirk summoned Ankie, who was hovering near. Then, with a determined glance, he signified to her father what reward he wished.

"So," said Jan slowly, "you still want Ankie? I have already told you she was not for you, but—take her, Dirk Van Pelt. She is yours. Ah, what a collection of pipes! What coloring! What noble bowls and what grand stems!"

"Ankie is worth all the pipes that ever were made or ever will be made," protested the happy lover, holding her hand tightly in his own and gazing adoringly into her tender blue eyes.

"Perhaps so, perhaps so," muttered Jan absently, "but such pipes as mine"— He turned and summoned a man to help him carry the rack of matchless pipes to a place of safety and left the lovers still looking happily into each other's eyes.

Arbitrated.

Conversation among travelers is frequently absurdly trivial. After several days together, as on shipboard, every one is idle and talks about the most unimportant matters with the deepest interest. R. H. Milligan in a book entitled "The Jungle Folk of Africa" recounts with what complacency the conclusion was reached that the thirteen colonies should never have rebelled and that the blame was all on the side of England.

One man, moreover, disclosed the fact that he always wore safety pins instead of garters and descanted upon his preference with such enthusiasm that he made at least one convert.

One night we put in practice the principle of arbitration, of which we were all adherents. An argument had arisen among us as to which was the more simple of the two currency systems, dollars and cents or pounds, shillings and pence. At last, the captain arriving, we decided to refer the matter to him and to surrender our judgment to his arbitration.

The captain, an Englishman of the very stolid sort, after a period of reflection replied very slowly and with all the gravity of a judge:

"Pounds, shillings and pence is the simpler system, for don't you know that when you are told the price of a thing in dollars and cents you always have to convert it into pounds, shillings and pence."

There was a little objection to this theory, but in general it was perfectly satisfactory so long as the voyage lasted.

In Practice.

"What kind of an auto are you going to buy?"

"A secondhand one."

"Good as new, I suppose."

"It ought to be. It has killed three men."

Trinidad, Col., April 23.—James A. Patten, the Chicago "wheat king," arrived here yesterday and left shortly afterwards for Tercio, Col., near the New Mexico line. From there Mr. Patten will drive 25 miles to the ranch of W. H. Bartlett through heavy snow drifts. Mr. Patten appeared tired and extremely nervous.

"None of your business," was his answer to a question as to the object of his trip. "I have been hounded to death by reporters for weeks."

BENEFITS OF DRAIN IN CAVAN SWAMP

Mr. Alex. Tully Had a Perilous Ride on Bolster of Waggon.

Examiner Special.

Mount Pleasant, April 20.—Business has been resumed for some time past at the foundry and machine shop here, where farmers can have their work done at once. Mr. Handley is still alive to the interests of those who have favoured him in days gone bye.

Mr. Alex. Tully had the experience of riding in a very unsafe position on the bolster of a waggon with one line in his hand to guide a runaway team of horses. We are glad that he still lives to tell the tale of his wonderful escape from the freaks of a frightened span of horses.

The village was favoured with a visit from Mr. T. W. McLean, of Omemee, at the parental home in Mount Pleasant. From his appearance we came to the conclusion that he still retains the grit necessary to teach the young how to shoot, so as to be good honest citizens and to show the training that would make them a race of warriors.

The Laymen's Movement and the proposed sum of $5,000,000 should put an end to war and civilize first this great Dominion, so that suicides, robbery, intemperance and evil of every kind shall nevermore be heard of in this highly favoured land that charity will begin at home.

Mr. Fay McLean, wife and daughter, returned to their home in the City of Toronto, after a vsit to his grandparents at Mount Pleasant.

The great Cavan swamp drain seems to be carrying away the surplus water off the swamp, the middle line ot Cavan has not had an overflow of water this spring. No complaints from travellers on that part of the highway, which for years past has caused so much trouble in an old wealthy township like Cavan. It is hoped the council will finish the roads through the swamp on which they have already made a commencement, sa that the distance to our great market, at Peterborough, will be shortened.

Mr. A. P. McLean, of the firm of Geo. Matthews Company, Limited, Peterborough, was here at the home of his parents, who have been ill during part of the winter; but they are now recovering. With him was Mr. Maurice Rosenberg, commercial traveller for the firm of the Matthews Company, Limited, of Peterborough.

James McLean is very likely the oldest living commissioner for the united counties of Northumberland and Durham. His commission was signed and sealed at the Court of Common Pleas, at the City of Toronto, February 6th, A.D., 1863, by Hon. Wm. Draper, C.B., chief justice; Hon. Wm. Buell Richards, and the Hon. Joseph Curran Morrison.

Considerable activity is being shown by the owners of boats in the way of repairing, painting, and varnishing, in preparation for the boating season. The river and lake cleared of ice on Sunday, and with the exception of a few booms across the river to be "jumped," navigation is open to the head of the lake.

Citizens of this place and vicinity are considerably elated over the news that appeared recently to the effect that th route of this section of the new C. P. Has To Keep A Gun Handy When He Is Mixing Cocktails

Examiner Special.

St. Louis, April 23. — Wade Porter is running a saloon under difficulties at Edwardsville Crossing. He finds it extremely difficult to mix drinks with a revolver in each hand. Here, for instance, is the way he puts up a Manhattan cocktail.

Lay right hand revolver on bar and take glass from shelf. Pick up right hand revolver and lay down left hand revolver and uncork bottle of whiskey, change revolvers and pour whiskey in glass.

Pick up both revolvers and listen. If all is well, lay down left hand revolver and pour a jigger of Vermouth with right hand. The other ingredients are omitted as being too troublesome. If customer wants a squeeze of lemon peel in cocktail, let him squeeze it himself, as this requires the use of both hands.

For twenty-four hours Porter has been running a saloon with a revolver in each hand. He has the front door barricaded and the back door securely locked.

He stands at the front door with his revolvers always ready for action. When a customer comes to get a drink, Porter looks up and down the street to see that the coast is clear. If it is, he leads the customer around to the rear.

"Take the padlock key out of my pocket and open the door," he says.

Once inside with the customer he draws a stout bolt and listens. If the enemy is not in hearing he serves the drink, being careful to keep a tight grip on one of the revolvers. Then he draws the back door bolt, lets the customer out and resumes his vigil at the front.

It is all because of a quarrel between Porter and his business partner, Thos. Watson.

A week ago Porter chased Watson away, after they had disagreed over the saloon dividends. For two days he held the fort and then there was a truce, but they quarrelled again. While Watson was at court giving bond to answer a charge of carrying concealed weapons, Porter again barricaded the saloon. He has been on guard with his artillery ever since.

SOME PETERBORO' COUNTY FARMERS INTERVIEWED

From Farm and Dairy.

In company with Dr. Hucho an agricultural attache of the Imperial German Consulate at Montreal an editorial representative of Farm and Dairy recently visited some of the leading farmers in the vicinity of Peterboro. Questions asked by the doctor of one of the farmers called on brought out the following information. The main crops grown on this particular farm are oats, barley and a few peas. Roots are grown for the cattle. He had no silo and grows no corn. He has been in the milk business over 20 years, selling the milk for the most part to dealers in the city who come to the farm for it. For the winter he realizes four cents a quart, and in summer three cents. Not unlike many farmers, he keeps no particular breed of cattle "Anything that will milk," said he, "fills our requirements." Such stock he assured us was selling at the present time from $40 to $50 a head. When aged these cows are sold to some one else that wants them, or are disposed of to the butcher.

At the next place called on, as at other places we found some fair specimens of grade cattle. The herd was headed by a Durham bull. We were informed that Holsteins are gaining favor in this stable and that soon the Durham sire will be replaced by a Holstein. The city trade also takes the milk from this farm. The stables are fitted up very conveniently and water basins were installed. As grain was scarce, the cattle are being fed on roots, mixed hay, and straw. There is no silo on the place. Asked if a silo would not pay, we were informed that probably it would, but that there is a lot of hard work about corn. A few hogs are kept on this farm. Sheep are not stocked, dogs and hounds from the nearby city being given as reason for not keeping them.

A farm outside the range of the city milkman was next called on. A cream separator had been installed, and the cream is being sent to the Peterboro creamery. The skim milk is utilized at home for feeding pigs and calves. The cream business, we were informed, had proved quite profitable during the past winter as they had received an average of 29 cents a pound for butter. Here again no silo was in evidence. Hay and chop formed the basis of the ration for the dairy cows. When asked as to the profitableness of winter dairying, the farmer replied that as the milk was richer in fat when the cows were stabled and fed fodder, he believed that dairying paid about the same in winter as in summer. He kept no records so could not be sure. One half acre was the extent of his land annually devoted to corn.

WHY SHEEP ARE NOT RAISED.

Dr. Hucho made a particular point of enquiring into why sheep were not raised. In every case the reply given to the question "Why do you not keep sheep?" was "it is hard to keep them. There are too many dogs straying around the country from the city." "In Germany," said the Doctor, "such an excuse would not be sufficient reason for not keeping sheep. Dogs are not allowed to run loose at will. Their owner would be fined or the dogs killed. All dogs are tied and when allowed to run, they must be muzzled, thus there is no danger from them." Asked by the farmer of what use would the dogs be, the doctor replied, "They are kept for watching and as pets as in other countries. At home all cattle are tethered. There are few fences. We have boys to watch the cows. There are far too many dogs in this country. Farmers should keep sheep instead of dogs."

Another farmer called on was an admirer of Percheron horses. Several good ones were in his stable. Asked as to why he preferred the Percheron, the farmer replied "they are more of a general purpose horse. The Clydes are all right in town or for heavy loads but you have got to let them walk. With the Percheron, they can be trotted. They can be used for any purpose." Questioned further as to the Percheron, the farmer said that he had always admired the Percherons and was told in reply that they were the best tempered, possessed the best legs and feet of all breeds of horses and thus could best stand the travel in cars. "It pays to raise good horses," continued the farmer. "We believe in raising good ones. We have got tired of the poor scrub stallions that still travel. We select the best and pay a fee of $15."

COW STABLES NEED LIGHT.

The cow stable on this farm like many others was dark and gloomy. In fact we could not discover the cows until a door had been opened to admit light. In remodelling the barn recently, the small windows that were thought to be sufficient in olden days had not been enlarged. Though no silo was on the farm, one is to be built this summer. Speaking of the silo, the farmer said, "Every farmer should have a silo, if he keeps cows. I shall put up a stave silo as I believe it to be about the best. It is the cheapest and about as good as any." Modern improvements in the way of stanchions, water basins, cement floors are a part of the stable. The cattle kept are a mixed lot of grades, showing strong dashes of Shorthorn and Jersey blood. "A few Jerseys," said the farmer, "should be in every herd. They tend to keep the test up to a good average." The milk on this farm is separated at the house and the cream sent to the creamery. The main crops grown are mostly barley and oats, and roots for the cows, although this coming summer considerable corn will be grown to fill the proposed new silo.

An Elgin Co., Ont., man that we called on, speaking of the agricultural conditions in the neighborhood of Peterboro said that our farmers do not grow enough corn. He likened the farm conditions of Peterboro Co. to those of Elgin Co. 20 years ago. The latter had cropped the land with grain until they could get no more and they had to turn to dairying.

"Our farmers," he stated, "should recognize that it would be to their great advantage to get right into dairying, grow corn and clover more abundantly and put up silos."

NON-APPEARANCE OF MISS KINRADE ONLY SENSATION

Surprise in Court When She Failed to Appear When Her Name Was Called---Jimmy Baum May Give Evidence To-night---The Reporters Were Not Excluded in Spite of Statements That They Would be Shut Out.

THE FEATURES OF LAST NIGHT'S INQUEST.

Examiner Special.

Special to The Examiner:

Hamilton, April 23.—The only thing in the nature of a sensation which developed at the adjourned session of the inquest into the death of Ethel Kinrade, opened in No. 3 police station last evening, was the non-appearance of Mrs. Kinrade, mother of the murdered girl, and Miss Florence Kinrade, the sister. They had been subpoenaed but did not answer when P. C. Lentz called their names in court shortly before ten o'clock.

The crowded room was deathly still as the officer called:

"Florence Kinrade."

"Florence Kinrade."

"Florence Kinrade."

"Then, Mr. Coroner," said Mr. Blackstock, "I am under the necessity of asking you to adjourn this proceeding until to-morrow night, or such time as we can obtain the appearance of these witnesses. Mrs. Kinrade and Miss Florence Kinrade were notified to be here to-night, and it was our expectation that they would be here. We received no notification to the contrary. We must therefore ask you to adjourn until the Crown can take such steps as will enforce their attendance."

The inquest was accordingly adjourned till to-night.

Only four witnesses were called during the session of an hour and a quarter. Three of these, Mrs. Taylor, 166 Markland street, Henry Dirtaz, a young German carpenter, and Miss Erskine, employed in Stanley Mills, were examined only briefly. Mrs. Ernest Kinrade, wife of the elder son of Mr. T. L. Kinrade, gave evidence at considerable length. Mr. Blackstock questioned her as to her knowledge of Miss Florence Kinrade's movements, as to the relations between members of the Kinrade family and as to what took place on the evening previous to the tragedy.

Earl Kinrade was in the police station during the evening.

"Jimmie" Baum, the young actor from Portsmouth, Virginia, arrived in Hamilton last evening from Toronto, accompanied by Detective Rogers, and is registered at the Royal Hotel. It is possible that he may be subpoenaed. He was interviewed by Detective Miller last evening after the inquest.

Mr. Blackstock, Mr. Lynch Staunton and Crown Attorney Washington, all stated after the adjournment that they were unaware that Mrs. Kinrade and Miss Florence Kinrade would not be present.

"It was as much a surprise to us as to you," said the Crown investigator to our correspondent.

"Will steps be taken to enforce their attendance?" he was asked.

"Yes, they will," was the reply.

Mrs. Kinrade in her evidence stated that she did not know of Florence going on her Southern tour until she had left Hamilton. She understood that she went with someone, a Miss Elliott, but witness had never seen the latter, and knew of no one who had seen her. While Florence was on her Ontario trip witness had received cards from her from Goderich and other places. As to the relations among members of the family, Mrs. Kinrade said they were affectionate. The witness had made an arrangement to go skating on the day of the shooting with Ethel, but it had turned mild. At the commencement of her evidence she said she and her husband lived in a house owned by Mr. Kinrade, Sr., for which they paid no rent.

Mrs. Taylor re-told the story of seeing a frightened looking man knocking at her door on the afternoon of the tragedy, about ten minutes to four. Dirtsz worked with Ernest Kinrade on a house till twenty minutes to four. He heard of the murder shortly after he had stopped. Miss Erskine asserted that she saw Miss Florence Kinrade in the Stanley Mills store on the morning of the tragedy.

While it was announced that the public would be excluded from the court room, it was filled to almost the same extent as on previous nights, and the forty-odd reporters had trouble in getting places. The task of getting past the officers at the dor was more difficult than before, however, two or three signatures being necessary to the passes.

Mrs. Hyslop's Lecture Last Night Was Most Interesting

Mrs. Hyslop, the Dominion organizer for the W. C. T. U., addressed a large gathering in St. Andrew's Guild Hall last night. Mrs. Hyslop is a native of Scotland, and is a very forceful and most interesting speaker. Mrs. Hyslop dealt particularly with the question as raised by Paul in his first epistle to the Corinthians, and the first chapter, showing how one person's freedom might be a stumbling block to another. She dealt fully with the large contribution Canada made annually to the liquor traffic. The victims included many of the brightest men from all the walks of life, and every fifth or sixth family in the country contributed at least one boy to the bar room. She quoted the words of Winnipeg's chief magistrate, who said that liquor was the cause directly or indirectly of a great many cases that came before him. She dealt with the great progress that has been made during the past century, describ[illegible] [illegible]strating the change [illegible] the individual as well as [illegible] corporate life. Alcohol stood condemned by medical science as well as the spiritual science. It was a narcotic instead of a stimulant. Any progressive country was uncompromisingly hostile to the traffic as it was a hindrance to progress and in speaking of the blind pig argument she said that one pig with its eyes open could do more than ten blind pigs.

Mrs. Hyslop also gave a glowing description of the origin of the W. C. T. U., and of the progress it had made.

A motion of appreciation was moved by Mr. A. B. Cunningham, and was carried.

Mr. Downie and Miss Bingham rendered appropriate solos.

Mrs. Hyslop leaves this evening for Lindsay.

Wife Deserted Her Home And Has Not Since Been Seen

Claiming that his wife had deserted his home, George Gauthier called at the police station this morning and wanted to have a warrant issued for her arrest. He stated that on Wednesday last when he returned from work at dinner time he found that his wife was not in the house. His little three-year-old daughter told him that her mother had gone out some time before, saying that she was going to the store for groceries. She has not been seen since and her whereabouts, to her husband, is a deep mystery, although he has a suspicion that she has not left the city, but is somewhere within the limits of Peterborough. Her husband cannot [illegible] any reason for her sudden disappearance.

THE ICE ENTIRELY DISAPPEARS FROM CLEAR LAKE IN A NIGHT

There is no longer any ice in Clear Lake and navigation in that part of the Kawartha Lakes may now be opened. Mr. R. G. Sturgeon, who has been at his summer cottage, on the west shore of Clear Lake, returned from there yesterday, and reports that the ice has gone from the lake in one night. On Wednesday, when he arrived at his cottage the ice still extended from shore to shore, and although he did not try the experiment it looked substantial enough to permit a person to walk in safety upon it. Yesterday morning, when he went out of his cottage, he was astonished to see that motionless sheet of ice, which had been there the night before, had given way to a body of rippling water and the top dressing sealed by Jack Frost, had disappeared. The only traces were at Big Island, at the head of the Lake, upon which some of the ice had been drifted. The remainder had made its way over the dam, at Young's Point during the night, and was, no doubt, at that time heading Peterboroughward.

MR. G. G. PUBLOW URGES CHEESE MAKERS TO IMPRESS FARMERS WITH IMPORTANCE OF DAIRY SANITATION

The annual convention of the Cheese and Butter Makers of Peterborough district was commenced this morning in the Council Chambers with a fairly large representation of the men who are in charge of the actual dairy work in this county. The President, Mr. D. A. Oakley, of Norwood, was in the chair and conducted the several sessions. Mr. A. L. Andress, of Indian River, secretary of the Cheese and Butter Makers' Association was also present.

Among the prominent dairymen present were: Messrs. G. G. Publow, Chief Instructor and Superintendent of the Kingston Dairy School; Alderman G. A. Gillespie, R. W. Ward and D. J. Cameron, instructors for this district, and Mr. H. B. Cowan, of the "Farm and Dairy." The programme for the day included dinner at the National Hotel.

The Business Done.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mr. Andress and adopted.

Mr. Ward, dairy instructor, said that the object of the meeting was to consider what was to be done this summer to improve on last season's work. Last year's record must be examined and the [illegible] work points examined into. [illegible] applies to patron and maker, and I, as instructor, will co-operate to bring about the best results." Mr. Ward emphasized the necessity of using a pure culture starter. Do not use a poor starter, but a pasteurized starter [illegible]. The improvement of the milk supply is being arrived at, but much more can still be done. Makers should be very attentive to the curing room and have a uniform temperature. The cheese should be well finished, boxing neatly done and the boxes neatly branded in order that the buyer's first impression may be a favourable one.

Mr. Cameron also gave an address as instructor. Mr. Cowan was heard in a general address, during which he advocated a provincial convention of cheesemakers, pointing out the benefits that could be derived in this manner.

Mr. Publow's Address.

The great need of instruction in the butter making is on the farm side, said Mr. Publow, and the instructors are thorougly capable of giving the necessary advice. It is hoped that the cheesemakers will do more in instructing the farmers in regard to having the best conditions on the farm in order that the quality of the milk may be the best. Striking examples were given by Mr. Publow of the difference in the quantity of cheese manufactured by the milk being in good condition on one day and on the following it being over ripe and defective. In one instance 500 pounds of milk were used, less than the preceding day, but the output was 50 pounds more of cheese.

The average cheese factory is a co-operative concern. If there is any loss it is borne by the whole list of patrons. If some persons were stealing $11 or $12 a day there would be a loud cry from the patrons, but when poor milk is sent to the factory the man that sends it has apparently no compunctions, yet the loss is just as great. It should, therefore, be seen by the patrons that only good milk should be sent out and the maker should bring this home to the farmers. A fermentation test should be in every factory and by this means the individual farmer could be shown any deficiency in his milk.

The instructors have the power this year to examine all the products of the factory and not the cheese solely as in the past. "Keep in close touch with your instructors" Mr. Publow advised. If you are having any trouble let them know and ask them to assist you in getting over the difficulty.

Don't give the instructor the 'cold shoulder.' If you want his generous assistance show that you appreciate his work and give him the glad hand.

In conclusion Mr. Publow urged the makers to impress upon the farmers the utmost importance of maintaining sanitary conditions on the farm in the handling of milk; also to urge them to feed their cows succulent food during the summer.

An adjournment was called at noon for luncheon at the National. This afternoon Mr. Publow again addressed the cheesemakers.

The election of officers resulted in last year's staff being given another term of office. They are as follows.

Pres.—Mr. A. A. Oakley, Norwood.

Vice-Pres.—E. Demorset, Lakefield. Hill.

Asst. Sec.-Treas.—H. Lackie, Indian River.

The afternoon attendance was very good and great interest was taken in the address.

THE TRENT VALLEY'S 160 MILES OF WATER HIGHWAYS OPENED THURSDAY BY FLEET OF BOATS UNDER STEAM

Lift Locks at Peterborough and Kirkfield Opened for the Season---Ice Went Out of Clear Lake Yesterday---Number of Boats Cast off Moorings for Their Initial Journey---No Damage Expected From Ice or Flood.

FROM HEELEY FALLS TO LAKE SIMCOE OPEN.

The Trent Valley Waterway is now open to navigation from Heeley Falls to Lake Simcoe. Yesterday the magic button was pressed. Government tugs and steamers threw off their moorings, bridges, ponderous, but well oiled for the initial work, swung open, lock gates resumed their work, lift locks performed their wonderful tasks and everything was found satisfactory, and ready for the summer's shipping. Superintendent McClellan was pleased with the success of the opening day.

The "Empire" which had been tied up at Lock No. 2, started on a trip through the locks to Lakefield.

The "Bessie Butter," after a quiet winter at Lakefield, started on a trip to Young's Point, where she gathered up a scow and returned south, coming over the lift lock to Peterborough. The "Bob Hall" hibernated at Lake Simcoe. Its boilers were put in action yesterday and with a scow the journey from the lake to Balsam Lake and over the Kirkfield Lock was made to Rosedale. The Monarch has been trafficking around Rice Lake and Peterborough this week and now the Trent water are almost free from the fetters of King Frost.

On this entire 160 miles of lake and river there is no likelihood of any damage from flood or ice. The superintendent states that great credit is due Mr. M. J. Butler, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals for his system of conserving the waters, thus preventing trouble by erecting dams on the Burnt, Gull and Mississauga Rivers. The water here is high but not as high as last year and report from Bobcaygeon states that it has already begun to recede.

Clear Lake Free

The ice in Clear Lake has been slowly breaking up until yesterday when the wind blowing towards the head of the lake carried the ice in that direction, breaking it on the shores of the northern part of the lake, on Big Island and on the adjacent shores.

The Lift-Locks

The lift-locks at Peterborough and Kirkfield are said to be in good working condition. The machinery in each has been thoroughly overhauled, the exterior will be painted and the Kirkfield lock will in a month or two be one of the prettiest spots on the Trent Canal. It was a desolate, barren place last year, but the transformation is reputed amazing and those travelling that way will be able to see for themselves the improvements that have been made.

THE FATHERHOOD OF CONFEDERATION.

Canada owes a great deal to Liberalism, responsible government and all it implies, representation by population and all that implies, and now Confederation owes its origin to a Liberal statesman. We have the authority of a Conservative senator, who has been prominent in public life from a period ante-dating Confederation. In a letter to the gathering of the Old Guard at Ottawa, the surviving members of the first Dominion Parliament on Wednesday, Sir John Carling gave the late Hon. Geo. Brown the credit of having begotten the idea of Confederation ,and thus establishing the claim of being the real father of Conefederation. Sir John Carling's reminiscences run thus, as reported in the Globe:

> Sir John Carling, in his letter, recalled an interesting incident of ante-confederation days. "It was," he said, "in the early sixties, and the situation in Canada was serious indeed. Elections had been held, but neither party was able to secure a working majority. Party feeling rose so high that the two leaders—Hon. John Macdonald and Hon. Geo. Brown—ceased to be on speaking terms. Statesmen and political writers seemed to have given up all hope, for matters were going from bad to worse. 'Whither are we drifting?' was a standing headline in the newspapers, and there was talk in some quarters of throwing in our lot with the neighbouring republic. I happened to be on my way to Quebec to attend my parliamentary duties one day, and when the train reached Toronto George Brown, the leader of the Reform party, came into the coach in which I was seated and sat down beside me. We soon got into conversation, the subject naturally being the political crisis. Finally, Mr. Brown brought his hand down on the arm of the seat with some force and vehemently exclaimed, 'Carling, John A. (who was then Premier) has the chance of his life if he will only avail himself of it.'
>
> "'What is that?' I asked.
>
> "'Let him go in for Confederation,' was the reply.
>
> "'Would you support such a movement?'
>
> "'Most decidedly I would, he returned.
>
> "Mr. Brown presented to the Cabinet at Quebec the attitude of the Reformers on the Confederation movement, and on reaching the ancient capital I lost no time in telling Hon. John A. Macdonald, the Prime Minister, and his colleagues that Brown would support confederation.'
>
> "The outcome was the opening of negotiations between the party leaders, which ultimately led to the consummation of confederation."

To the credit of the patriotism of the prominent politicians of the day, both sides cordially cooperated in bringing Hon. Geo. Brown's idea to reality and we are to-day sharing in the triumph which their successors have made of Confederation.

DOUBLE OPPORTUNITY

The Citizens' Committee of Montreal which has been charged with the responsibility of investigating complaints before a Royal Commission of the administration of Montreal's civic affairs, is making an appeal for $10,000 to cover legal expenses. The Provincial Government has decided that those making charges must bear the cost of the investigation. The Montreal committee has more courage and public spirit than the Conservative Opposition at Ottawa. The Conservatives make a handle of insinuations contained in bogus affidavits and partizan commission reports against a member of the Government but not one of them has the courage to assume the responsibility of making definite charges. If they have the slightest faith in the insinuations and assertions in the Mayes affidavit and the New Brunswick commission, they should do so; they would incur no expense but,in the event of proving their charges they would accummulate as much kudos as they now incur discredit by their partizan pusilanimity in shirking the responsibility of making definite charges instead of merely making faces at their political opponents. They have only to make definite charges to have them thoroughly investigated. Besides they have let the session so far pass without taking advantage of the inquisitorial facilities presented by the Public Accounts Committee,where they could, and can yet, have Mr. Pugsley, Mr. Mayes and Mr. McAvity summoned to give evidence. The Conservative Opposition certainly do not expect the slandered minister or the Government or Parliament to move in the matter of investigating the insinuations, bred of the partizan rancour, of every obscure instrument used or sought to be used by the Opposition—to make a star chamber matter of an election roorback. This would be to establish a precedent that would require inquisitorial cognizance of the multiplied slanders issued against members of the Government, by the Mail and Empire and its journalistic congenors. Besides Mr. Pugsley was not a member of the Dominion Government when the charges involved in the Mayes affidavit were supposed to have their justification. To have them have an effect in this connection was considered so important as to make it necessary to insert a false date, the date that would involve the Minister of Public Works instead of the date of the alleged relations with Mayes as attested in the affidavit. Yet it is expected or at least it is demanded that the Government impeach one of its members on the strength of the affidavit of a private and disgruntled individual, which in one respect was so false on its face, as to amply justify suspicion of the truth of its other allegations. If the Opposition want the matters arising out of the Mayes affidavit investigated they have only to summon the courage to found a formal charge upon it, to secure such investigation; or if they want to effectively test the truth of the insinuations, the Public Accounts Committee provides an available and sufficient vehicle of bringing out the truth. The Conservative Opposition have a double opportunity to get at the truth which they so vigorously affect a desire to elicit.

Letting 'I dare not' wait upon 'I would,' like the poor cat i'the adage. —Lady Macbeth.

MR. FOSTER'S PATRIOTISM.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster, the acting leader of the Conservative Opposition —the master of the Opposition bear garden—has a peculiar idea of patriotism, Canadian and Imperial. He demands the expenditure of millions to build a Canadian navy, and yet deprecates the expenditure upon the Tarnscontinental Railway. He submits the calculation that Canada will be obliged to go upon the money markets to borrow 100 million dollars—for the national railway and to renew matured loans. He takes this grandly patriotic means to pave the way to Canada borrowing on easy terms. In the budget debate on Tuesday, he said:

> The Government should abandon the idea that Canada is rich and capable of paying. This is the most false idea possible, one that tends to overwhelm the people with all sorts of taxes.

Behold how beautifully Mr. Foster prepares the way for Canada being favourably received in the British or European money markets, Canada has heretofore placed loans at three per cent. The figure of 3½ per cent. on last year's loan, was by some attributed to the uncertain state of the money market, but there is no evading the suggestion that the Conservative campaign of disparagent of Canada's capacity and resources, led by Mr. Foster, had a large influence. Capital is extremely sensitive, and those who have no personal knowledge of this country and the security it can offer, are not much to be blamed if, when a man who was for a dozen years the Finance Minister of Canada, and is the virtual leader of the Conservative party, gives with the support of a deliberate parliamentary utterance the credit of Canada "a black eye," they tighten their purse strings or impose interest charges in proportion to the extra risk of handling depreciated securities. Mr. Foster and those who think or, rather, act with him are both overtly unpatriotic and gratuitously pessimistic. Partizanship has cuckooed patriotism out of its nest in their hearts.

In 1896, after twelve years of Foster, the total trade of Canada was 181 millions or $41 per head of 4,500,000 population. In 1908, after twelve years of Fielding, the total trade of Canada was 600 millions, or $86 per head of a population of 7,000,000.

SNOW STAKING.

Mining Operators Declare It Is An Unmixed Evil.

When it is taken into consideration the fact that there have been more than 8,000 claims staked out and registered in the Gowganda and Montreal river districts in the last five months, one can gather some idea of the work that has been done in the region to date.

How many of those claims will stick?

That is a question that is discussed on every side, especially in this community where actual mining has taken the place of the real preparatory work that is going on up above.

Five years ago the situation here was the same as it is in the new districts to-day, and history shows that the evils of "snow staking" were manifold.

"If I had any power with the Ontario Government," declared a well-known mining operator to me recently. "I would have a law passed prohibiting 'snow-staking.' It is the biggest evil we have to contend with in any new camp. When the break up comes and the ground shows it will be found that at least 90 per cent. of the properties are under water. I am willing to bet now that when the Montreal river starts to run it will be clogged with discovery posts."

"Well, how does that affect things? The prospector himself will be the loser, won't he?"

"Not much," was the reply. "It is the gullible public that will suffer. After the initial discoveries were made known every prospector for miles and miles around rushed in and the staking commenced. A prospector has to make affidavit as to the minerals he has found upon his claim, and also another affidavit in regard to assessment work done. He does this at the registry office, and the Government is supposed to furnish an inspector to look things over and prove the value of the claim.

The prospector's affidavit is all that is necessary, and in consequence the papers are made out on this. What is the result? The prospector rushes off immediately to dispose of his claim. If he is fortunate enough to be within a couple of miles of a real silver discovery he can get almost his own price from the greenhorns that are rushing into the districts with a bunch of the long green, but mighty short on experience.

"Companies are formed right and left to develop property which the original purchaser has never seen and the unsuspecting public is dragged in. A man does not like to get hit this way more than once or twice to come to the opinion that the mining game is a rank swindle, and as a result when money is needed for actual development of good properties it is very hard to get. All these swindles can be prevented, providing "snow staking" were prohibited. If the Government were to inspect every registered claim, prove absolutely that the prospector really had a showing of mineral on the land that he had staked and not take his unsupported word for everything, few of these well-cooked swindles could be operated.

"Dealing in mining [illegible] that are undeveloped is very [illegible] a lottery, in which the possibilities of drawing a capital prize are meagre. A man will produce a map or blue print, on which his name is printed, of a forty-acre section. He will prove to you that it is in the immediate vicinity of a rich discovery. You pay him his price on the understanding that the assessment work to date has been done. He goes his way and you wander off to your newly-acquired claim with visions of mint in front of you. You find that your forty-acre tract is in a marsh, with the discovery post located in a creek. Just as likely as not there is not a piece of rock in sight, let alone silver-bearing quartz."—W. F. Mathews in The Montreal Standard.

A Heresy Charge.

Heresy-hunting was a much more common pleasure for some good folk fifty years ago than it is to-day. Some recent hunts in local theological circles moved Inspector James L. Hughes of the Toronto public schools to tell a friend the other day about an attack made on him and his father down in Durham County half a century ago.

Mr. Hughes' father was a schoolmaster, and he had a rather large library for those days. The library included the novels of Charles Dickens, and young James, being naturally studious, of course devoured them greedily. He was then thirteen years old, and a member of the Methodist Church. The report spread through the little community that Hughes, senior, had Dickens' novels in his library, and that Hughes jr., was reading them. Some zealous pillars of the church at once started to circulate a petition for the casting out of the offending father and son. The clergyman even called and asked to see the Hughes' library. Sure enough, the novels were there.

But no result came from the agitation to put the Dickens disciple under the ban of the church, and to-day the Chief Inspector of Toronto schools is one of the most ardent admirers of the great novelist, and a leading member of the Toronto branch of the Dickens Fellowship.

Hudson Bay Railway.

The greater portion of the surveys of the Hudson Bay Railway have been completed On Feb. 1 365 out of the total of 465 miles had been finished. Mr. John Armstrong, who has charge of the work, says that of the four parties in the field two have finished. Party No. 1, working out from The Pas, are through, and have been instructed to come in. Their section was 127 miles in length, and was completed on Feb 20. Party No. 3 finished on Jan. 20, but since that time have been engaged on some additional work on an optional route. Parties 2 and 4 may remain in the field all next summer gathering data which will be of value to the Department. Mr Armstrong states that the result of the surveys has been more than satisfactory. Optional routes have been suggested, and these details are all contained in the report which will be laid on the table at Ottawa.

No Too Old at 94.

Robert Lamb of Castel Hedingham, England, who is 94 years of age, has just harvested his half-acre crop of wheat with a sickle and has threshed it with a flail.

"Remember the Baker!"

In the courts of Venice when a prisoner is about to be condemned to death a tall and ghostly looking individual, dressed in a long black gown, walks majestically to the centre of the courtroom, bows solemnly to the judge and in a cavernous voice pronounces the words, "Remember the baker!" Then he bows again and stalks away. Three hundred years ago a baker was executed in Venice for a crime of which he was not guilty. When his innocence was established the judges who condemned him gave a sum of money to the city the interest on which was to be devoted to the setting up and perpetual burning of a lamp, known as the "lamp of expiation," in the palace of the doges.

Kitty Feels Guilty.

It was Kitty's first dinner party. As her dinner escort was presented to her she noticed that he was a member of the new family who had recently moved across the street from her. During the meal there chanced to be a discussion of various kinds of beautiful profiles. Wishing to say something complimentary to the shy debutante, Kitty's partner remarked: "If you will allow me to say so, your own profile is very charming. I should think you would be tempted to spend a great deal of time standing before your mirror with a hand glass admiring the pretty curves."

To which Kitty, blushing scarlet, asked, "Are you joking, or have you really seen me do that?"

The Fishing Banks.

Newfoundland would be nothing without that great submarine plateau known as the banks," on which all the fishing is done. At a small station within the edges of the great bank that the cod loves so well the sea is quite smooth. It is usual for vessels fishing on the bank to inquire from those that have arrived from the open sea as to what sort of weather it is "abroad."

The Scot and His Game.

If the Scot who has stayed at home cannot play the game of curling as well as his sons who have settled in Canada, what he lacks in skill is made up by love of the sport. Carling is of the Scot. It is ingrained in his nature, deeper than his religion or his financial interests. It has been known to make a Scotsman break the Sabbath and a dollar bill

Evan Jones a Printer.

The Rev. Evan Jones, to give him his full title, although he prefers to be known as "Evan Jones," who has been elected president of the National Free Church Council, began life as a printer's apprentice. He worked at the "case" and machines for over six years.

HOME hunters are active these days.

Some are running from street to street looking for the house they like.

Others are letting the Want Ads. in the Examiner search for them—either by simply reading them or by inserting Want Ads. themselves.

Want Ads. are effective, they are usually quick and always cheap.

Phone them to No. 57L, and they will be read by hosts of exclusive Examiner readers.

MY SUBURBAN HOMES

Are the best for working men of limited means because you can get a big garden for the price you would have to pay for a small lot up town; and with proper care that garden will save many dollars for you. Then you can buy on small payments of from $5 to $10 per month, your taxes will be from $3 to $5 instead of $20. Your visitors may be, in the same proportion, a big saving; your children safe from many dangers, away from cigarette schools and other vices on street corners and back alleys. My lots are within 15 minutes' walk of all the big factories in south end with brick factory and school at hand. Wise wage earners are buying for the most profitable kind of a safe investment, sure to increase in value as the city grows. Your opportunity. Call and secure two or more lots, or with a house finished or unfinished.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

RESUME OF THE GAMES PLAYED BY THE EDMONTON HOCKEY TEAM AND GENERAL REVIEW OF SEASON

The hockey season in Edmonton is finished for this year and the boys have put away their sticks and skates until another winter. The Edmonton hockey team are to be congratulated upon the excellent showing they made this year. They have proved beyond doubt that they are champions of the whole of Western Canada, and their work in Eastern Canada was of such a nature as to arouse there a very wholesome respect for the puckchasers from Alberta's Capital.

Next year it is possible that Edmonton will again send a team east to play for the Stanley Cup, this time against Ottawa, provided none of the teams which now have their challenges accepted, lift the silverware. It is believed that the same team that played for Edmonton this year, with the addition of a couple of good players such as Lester and Frank Patrick, would be able to lift the cup.

Won Nineteen Games

A glance over the record made by the Edmonton hockey team this season is the best indication of their playing ability. During the season the team played twenty games, winning every one but one. This is a record that perhaps not another team in Canada can show. And the Edmonton team did not confine its games to weaker teams in smaller towns in the West, but went up against some of the fastest teams in the E.C.H.L., except perhaps the Ottawas, and came through the game with honour to themselves and credit to their home city.

Here are some of the fast players they went up against during the season:—

Hern, Ross, Smaill, Glass, H. Smith, Johnson, Gardner, Hutton, Moore, Baird, Harrison, A. Smith, Roberts, Winchester, Forrester, Holden, Kean, Poulin, Hall, Jackson, Nesbitt, Parr, Ellis, Lendrum, Lynn, Bud Kent, Grahan, Allen Kent, McGoffin, Houlding, Rodgers, Richardson, Berry, Saunders, Ashley, Harry Bishop, Frank Patrick, Dunne, Archie Bishop, Lester Patrick, Thompson, Steele, Quinn, Chambers, Flett, Breen, Hewer, Kennedy, Field, Dunderdale, Kane, Dulmage, McDowell, Bissell, Park, Law, Stubbings and some others.

Against these Edmonton played at different times, the following men:—

Fred Whitcroft (captain), Harold Deeton, Jack Miller, Bert Boulton, Hugh Ross, Will Crowley, Jack Winchester, Steve Vair, Tom Phillips, Lester Patrick, Lindsay, Pitre, McNamara, Nicholson, Field, Butt, Hetu, Allen, Taylor.

Edmonton Doubles Aggregate Score

The following are the games played by Edmonton during the season and the results:

Dec. 8—Edmonton 6, Strathcona 4.
Dec. 11—Edmonton 21, Strathcona 0.
Dec. 28—Edmonton 3, Wanderers 7.
Dec. 30—Edmonton 7, Wanderers 6.
Jan. 2—Edmonton 4, Ottawa Senators, 2.
Jan. 7—Edmonton 9, St. Paul 3.
Jan. 11—Edmonton 13, Winnipeg Maple Leafs 5.
Jan. 13—Edmonton 3, Maple Leafs 2.
Jan. 17—Edmonton 8, Saskatoon 5.
Jan. 19—Edmonton 7, Saskatoon 5.
Jan. 26—Edmonton 9, Strathcona 5.
Feb. 1—Edmonton 12, Saskatoon 6.
Feb. 4—Edmonton 18, Saskatoon 3.
Feb. 15—Edmonton 6, Nelson 5.
Feb. 17—Edmonton 8, Nelson 4.
Feb. 19—Edmonton 8, Calgary 5.
March 1—Edmonton 6, Winnipeg Shamrocks 5.
March 3—Edmonton 9, Shamrocks 4.
March 9—Edmonton 10, Moose Jaw 8.
March 11—Edmonton 8, Moose Jaw 3.

During the season the Edmonton team scored a total of 175 goals and their opponents 81, giving the locals an aggregate lead of 94 goals.

The thanks of the city is also due the executive of the Edmonton Hockey Club, every member of which worked hard to make the season a success. Next year with an equally enthusiastic bunch of officials and an equally good team, Edmonton should be in a position to challenge any team in Canada. Here's hoping the club may have an even greater measure of success in the future than they have had in the past.—Bulletin.

The season of summer sports is almost at hand and lacrosse teams, football and baseball clubs, and other athletic organizations are making their plans for the season. It is just such news as that, that the Examiner wants for its sporting page. Anything in the line of local sport is of interest and the Examiner is only too glad to be able to assist the clubs in any way. Secretaries of the different organizations should make it a point to send in anything of interest concerning their clubs to the Examiner. Scores of the games, the election of officers, the plans for the season, and any gossip about the club's doings will be appreciated and they will find that it will help to boom their team as well as to stimulate the interest of the public. Remember nothing in the line of sporting news is considered unimportant by the Examiner, and news of junior players will be as gladly published as the information of senior clubs. Send it in, call, or telephone 234. Sporting Editor

FANS WE KNOW.

(By W. Livingston Larned, in that youngest of bright sporting monthlies, the Baseball Magazine.)

With a chuckle of glee that is splendid to see
  When the boys pitch a game of good ball,
This gentleman snorts: "They are jolly good sports,"
  And he livens the play with his call.
But, let his side lose; he will start to abuse,
  And the flow of his chatter is great;
He simply can't stand for the luck of his band
  When a player gets "Home" just too late.

("Shoot the duffer. Look at that, will you? Could have made it walking, with a glass of lemonade in one hand and a palm-leaf fan tied to his arm. Why didn't you slide, you pie-faced son of a turtle? Do you think we come out here to see you walk in your sleep?")

And then there's the chap, most willing to "rap."
  Who is jolly and every one's friend.
The play may be wrong but he takes it with song
  And he sticks out the game to the end.
No matter the trick, he is shy on the kick,
  And he smiles when the batter is "out?"
He is born with a cheer in his hide and you hear
  Not a growl, nor a grunt nor a pout.

"That's all right there, Bennie, you can't expect to hit 'em all the time. The pitcher had you worried with a few fair ones he didn't know he could throw himself. Get wise to that curve on the next through ticket and bat him clean over the state line."

The fan who is wise to each little surprise
  And is sure that his judgment is best,
You know passing well without fail he can tell
  What the umpire has never confessed
No decision is right; he is willing to fight
  For the justice of each little play
The diamond is blocked with the errors he's clocked
  While his tongue beats a bet any day

("Ah, cheese it! Get on to that decision! I could umpire a game better than that myself. Kill him! Kill him! He couldn't umpire a game of draw poker between a monk and a mud-puppy. Look at that! Wow! Oh! Why the man was there in time to eat a planked shad and tip the waiter.")

JIMMY KELLY OF BUFFALO WILL BE CORNEY BURNS' OPPONENT

The mystery that has surrounded Gene Hurtubise's unknown was dissolved this morning when it was announced that Corney Burns' opponent in a 10 round boxing bout at the Auditorium Roller Rink on Monday night will be Jimmy Kelly, the well-known Buffalo featherweight. Kelly is some fighter and has a record as long as Cy Young's list of pitching victories. He has a long line of wins over well-known pugilists and has fought many bouts in New York State, as well as on the Pacific Coast, and just now is in the best of shape, as he has had a couple of lively bouts at Niagara Falls, where the fight fans are badly bitten with the boxing germ just now.

He will certainly be the toughest argument that Burns has been called to go up against yet, and it should be a lively mill from the first gong.

Burns is in splendid condition and determined to show the fans here before he leaves the city that he can handle his fists some. Burns is a fast clever two-handed boxer, with a good punch and will give the shifty "pug" from across the line the time of his life on Monday night. It will be a mill such as the Peterborough enthusiasts have not seen in many moons and no doubt there will be a big attendance.

The preliminary bout will also be class. Geo. Lillie, the clever little English boxer will go six rounds against Jack Edwards, of Toronto, a speedy hard-hitting light-weight, who will make the Britisher extend himself. Lillie has never had an opportunity to show Peterborough people what he could do when he was up against a classy performer, but Monday night's go of six rounds will give him his chance. In addition there will likely be another preliminary bout.

The prices will be 25c and 50c; not 75c as stated on the bills.

LOCAL BASEBALL

The Karnots, of the Intermediate City Baseball League will hold a meeting in the Y.M.C.A. to-night at 8 o'clock, for purpose of organizing for the season. All members and all new players wishing to join are asked to be present as some important business will be taken up.

• • •

Harry Burridge, the local catcher, who leaves to-morrow for Toronto to report to Manager Dinnie McGuire of the Edmonton Western Canada League, had a work-out yesterday with a number of local players. He is in good shape already, and with the weeks' practice in Toronto next week will be ready to jump into the game as soon as he strikes the West.

• • •

The Edmonton team, upon which Burtidge, Burns, Murphy and Clements, of last year's Peterboroughs are playing will spend all next week in Toronto, where they will practise on the Eastern League Diamond at the Island.

• • •

Weather permitting, the T.A.S. Ball Club, of the Senior City League, will practise to-morrow afternoon at Boswell's Field. A full turnout of players is expected as the opening of the season is not far off.

• • •

The veteran Dan McCabe is available for one of the City League teams this season. He says that he is in as good shape as he was ten years ago, and certainly he looks the part.

• • •

The managers of the different City League Clubs are on the still hunt for players these days, and nearly all the available material is being snapped up. The magnates report great difficulty in securing batteries, especially for the Senior League. Both pitchers and catchers are scarce.

• • •

A Public School League — reference to the formation of which is made elsewhere on this page—would be a good thing for the young players, and would help to develop material for the City Leagues.

• • •

DOINGS IN BIG LEAGUES

Joe Kelley's Toronto team got away with a good start in the Eastern League yesterday by defeating Newark 2-0 in the opening game. Kid Rudolph opposed Iron Man McGinnity in the box, and the Toronto youngster won his game handily against the veteran. He allowed but five scattered hits, and did not give a base on balls. Toronto scored in the fourth on Houser's force, Mullen's hit by pitcher, and a lucky two bagger by Phyle which Jack Kelly could not reach owing to the muddy outfield. Their second run was in the ninth, when Mullen singled was sacrificed to second by Phyle and scored on Wledy's timely single. A sensational double play, unassisted by Mahling, was the fielding feature. Vandergrift caught for Torontos. McGinley or Moffitt will pitch to-day's game.

Twelve Innings No Runs

Baltimore and Rochester played twelve innings at Baltimore without a run for either side. Adkins for Baltimore and Beecher for Rochester pitched in magnificent style and were given masterly support.

Montreal on the Bit

Montreal bumped Providence with an awful bump, beating the Greys 10 to 3. Cronin was batted out of the box in the first innings, when the Beavers scored six runs, and Hardy who succeeded him was also hammered hard. Altogether the Caseyites hung on fourteen hits. Keefe pitched for Montreal and was never in danger.

Skeeters Beat the Bisons

Jersey City and Buffalo had a brilliant battle which the Skeeters won by 4-3. Kissinger and Malarkey pitched for the Bisons, and Merrit for Jersey City. Foster, the Skeeters' shortstop, tore off a home run. Brain's fielding was the feature of the Bison's play.

Eastern League Standing.

Jersey City	1	0	.1000
Newark	0	0	.000

Baltimore	0	0	.000

Thursday scores: Toronto 2, Newark 0. Jersey City 4, Buffalo 3. Montreal 10, Providence 3; Baltimore 0, Rochester 0 (12 innings).

Games to-day: Toronto at Newark, Montreal at Providence. Buffalo at Jersey City, Rochester at Baltimore.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE

In the National League Cincinnati replaced Boston at the head of the column by beating Pittsburg, while Philadelphia took Boston into camp. The Reds beat Pittsburg 7-4, getting sixteen hits off pitchers Brandon and Leifield. Ewing for Cincinnati was always master of the situation.

Cubs Won

The Cubs played errorless ball and hit well, with the result that they trimmed the cardinals 7-3. Chance's men, by slugging in the eighth, scored five runs. Overall and Browne worked for Chicago, and were effective, while Sallee, who pitched for St. Louis, was batted hard.

Too Much Covaleski

Covaleski, pitching for Philadelphia, was too much for Boston, holding the Bean Eaters down to three hits and shutting them out. The Phillies winning 4-0. Ferguson was the box artist for Boston.

Errors and Hits

New York trimmed the Superbas in the opening game at Brooklyn in a game marked by hard hitting and plenty of errors. The Giants won in the eighth when they scored four runs on a combination of errors and hits. The pitchers were Ames and Wiltz for New York and Wilhelm for Brooklyn. The Superbas had five misplays.

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York is now tied with Detroit in the American, Stalling's hirelings beating Washington, while the White Sox handed one to the Tigers.

Fourteen Innings

The feature game was the contest between Cleveland and St. Louis, which the Browns won by 6-4 after fourteen innings. Two bases on balls, an error by Lajoie and a sacrifice fly gave St. Louis the victory after five extra innings. Joss for the Naps and Graham for the Browns were both batted out of the box.

Coombs' Great Pitching

Philadelphia beat Boston 1-0 in a splendid game marked by a pitchers' duel between Coombs and Morgan. Coombs held the Bostons to one hit. McConnell's error in the eighth was responsible for the only run.

Smith Won His Game

Smith's pitching for Chicago was too much for Detroit, and the White Sox beat the Tigers 3-1. Smith won his own game by a single which brought in two runs. A great catch by Ty. Cobb was the fielding feature.

Engle's Hitting a Feature

The New York Americans had an easy victory over Washington, winning 8-1. The batting of Engle, formerly with Newark, was the feature. The ex-sailor had a single double and home run. Smith pitched for Washington and Quinn for the Highlanders.

KICKERS' COLUMN

The executive of the Midland Football League is making preparations to publish an annual this year giving the constitution of the league, the playing rules and a large amount of other interesting information. This will doubtless be appreciated by the teams of the league and will be found very useful.

• • •

The Brintons will practise to-morrow afternoon at the Driving Park, when an exhibition game will be played between two scratch teams.

• • •

The meeting of the Midland League to-morrow takes place at 1.30 o'clock sharp in the Y.M.C.A. Clubs should see that they are represented at this meeting.

• • •

Bowmanville are said to be very strong this season. Dr. Devitt's bunch always put up an awful argument, but play the game like good sports all the way.

• • •

Warsaw, champions of the Midland League last year, have lost a number of their good men, but will have a strong eleven nevertheless, and cannot be overlooked when the championship prospects are being discussed.

• • •

Fred Doherty's decision to play professional hockey last winter, has lost the Norwood club a good man. There is no more effective or brilliant soccer player in the district than the same Fred.

• • •

Football players in the district will regret to learn of the death of Lorne Brooks. He was a member of the Quakers in their palmy days, and was a consistent and reliable player.

THINGS IN GENERAL IN SPORTING WORLD

Rochester, April 22.—What is said to be a world's record was made at the Genesee roller rink last night in the Marathon roller race when Corey of Wyoming, Pa., covered 26 miles, 4 laps, the regulation Marathon distance, in 1 hour, 39 minutes.

There was a large field and the interest was intense. Nerve-racing sprints and spills afforded plenty of excitement to the spectators. Corey led his nearest opponent at the finish, Winnie, by four laps. The track was 21 laps to the mile. At the finish:

	Miles	Laps
Corey, Wyoming, Pa.	26	4
Winnie, Auburn	26	0
McKernan, Lockport	25	18
Kennedy, Jamestown	25	8
Dunbar, Rochester	24	11

Toronto, April 22.—A 51-year-old Marathoner is the latest in athletics. R. J. Hatton, who from 1879 to 1884 was recognized as the champion long-distance runner of Canada, to-day signed an entry blank for the Canadian Marathon Derby.

"I am 51 years old," he said, "but I am not afraid of the younger chaps. I have been training with 18 and 20-year-old long distance runners all spring, and there isn't one of them who can hold me for 15 miles. I know what this game means better than these striplings do. I know that stamina and staying power count. I may not have the speed, but I know I can stay the route. I'll get a piece of the prize money all right."

In 1882 Hatton started 31 times from 3 to 25 miles. He was first 29 times, second once, and third once. He and Alberti were old-time rivals, but though matched three times never came together.

Hatton has competed in a number of long distance heel and toe walking races during the past ten years, and always got a slice of the prize melon.

Hatton isn't very big, but he looks wiry and as hard as nails.

SPRING EXODUS OF FARMERS INTO CANADA'S WHEAT FIELDS MANY COMING OVER THE BORDER

Minneapolis, April 23.—Seventy carloads of farmers, with their wives, babies, chickens, pigs, cows and farming tools, assembled here en route to the Saskatchewan country.

As happy and prosperous a community on wheels as ever passed through the Midway, according to J. R. Hayden, chief clerk of the Minnesota Transfer Company, had arrived to take a brief rest before resuming the journey. Fifteen of the seventy are immigrant cars and the rest are freight cars, fitted up with as choice an assortment of cattle, plows, vegetables, seed and hay as the Western farmer can command.

In the immigrant cars the families of the farmers are gathered among satchels, shawls, fruit and furcoats, while the air is redolent with odour of steaming coffee. Rosy-cheeked babies roll and tumble on the cane seats of the cars, while the mothers scurry to and fro from the range to the place which is their temporary bedroom, kitchen and parlour. Young men and old men, people who have been married for years, and young folks who will be married soon are in evidence. Already some of the rustic youths have "screwed their courage to the sticking point," and invited their buxom acquaintances to accompany them while they water the stock in the car ahead.

Young Folks Get Spoony

The shadow of the transfer station has had to take the place of the old orchard at home, and it is whispered among the old folks that the young people have caught the spirit which makes emigration a success, and are beginning to "sit up" with each other and talk about houses and crops.

Among those who travel in the freight cars with the stock and household furniture, plows and dogs (for every party has at least one dog) is Mrs. Walter Anderson, of Audubon, Ia. Mrs. Anderson is travelling with her two boys, Willie and Arthur, aged three and five years. In spite of the rules which permit only one person to a car when the freight cars are used, the company made an exception in Mrs. Anderson's case, and allowed her to take her two boys in the car with her.

Mrs. Anderson is the pluckiest woman in the whole party. She decided to go to the Saskatchewan country when the boom was started. With only a woman's strength, but dauntless courage, she has undertaken the most difficult position that could fall to the lot of woman—that of pioneering in a new country where she says that she hopes to establish a lucrative farming business.

Whole Town Under One Roof Building In New York Will House About 1225 People

New York, April 23.—The largest apartment house in the world is being built on a site covering the entire block bounded by Eighty-sixth and Eighty-seventh strets, Broadway and Amsterdam avenue, Manhattan.

It will be twelve stories high, with a court in the centre, and will cost $3,000,000. It will be known as the Belnord.

It will house a community as large as that of many a town, as it will contain 175 apartments, with 2,080 rooms, and the number of occupants including servants will be 1,225, it is estimated. The outside dimensions of the building are 350 x 200 feet. Its twelve floors and a mezzanine floor contain 50,000 square feet apiece, one and one-eighth acre to a floor, and thirteen and one-half acres in all, after deducting the space occupied by the open court, which will be 25 x 100 feet.

The contractors' figures on material and supplies that enter into the construction of the building give additional ideas of its size and of the work involved:

Dirt to be excavated, 1,750,000 cubic feet.
Bricks, 7,000,000.
Steel, 6,000 tons.
Steel beams, 74 miles.
Plaster, 6,400 tons, covering 2,500,000 square feet.
Plumbing pipe, 20 miles.
Limestone facings, 30,000 cubic feet.
Moulding wiring 189 miles.
Electric light bulbs, 16,000.
Steam pipe, 86,000 feet.
Radiators, 1,600.
Coal used in a month, 1,080 tons.

A still further idea of the size of the building may be had from the following comparisons:

Each floor will have a greater area than Greeley square and Bowling Green combined. The total floor space nearly equals the combined area of Tompkins and Union squares. The 3,066 steel columns, end to end, would reach from the Battery to East Ninety-seventh street, and the 32,500 steel beams, end to end, from New York to Poughkeepsie. The bricks, laid end to end, would reach from New York to the centre of Georgia, and would pave Morningside Park.

THE LEGAL COMMITTEE HEARS MANY CLAIMS FOR DAMAGES

Had a Busy Session Last Night But Took no Action on Any of the Claims Considered—Do Not Think City Liable.

CITY SOLICITOR'S ADVICE

When the Legal Committee of the City Council met last night they found another long list of claims for damages awaiting their consideration. Some weeks ago they were called upon to go through a similar list, most of the cases being caused through sudden changes in the weather last winter, which resulted in slippery sidewalks and over-flowing drains. City Solicitor Hall reports that the city is not responsible for such conditions and therefore could not be held liable for damages.

The members of the committee present were: Alderman Turner, chairman, Aldermen McIntyre, Duffus and Metheral.

Mr. Kennedy's Claim

Mr. Alex. Kennedy's claim for damages for injuries received through a fall on Hunter street about a year ago was the first taken up. Mr. Kennedy was present and stated his case to the committee. He stated that while walking west on Hunter street, with his daughter, he slipped and fell on the crossing at Chambers street, near the Review Office, breaking his thigh. He was off duty for over six months and had to pay out in cash about $97.

Mr. F. H. Dobbin was called to give evidence and stated that he did not think the place was dangerous. A man walking east along Hunter street had slipped while passing the place and had bumped into a lady who fell against Mr. Kennedy causing him to fall.

Mr. Mathison, another witness stated that he was only a few yards away at the time of the accident and saw Mr. Kennedy fall. The crossing seemed to him to be in a dangerous condition.

Alderman Turner in going over the evidence, stated that he did not think that the city was in any way liable for the accident, although he was sure that the committee regretted the injury to Mr. Kennedy for whom there was a great deal of sympathy.

Alderman Metheral was of the opinion that Mr. Kennedy was entitled to some consideration and on motion of Alderman Duffus, seconded by Alderman Metheral, the matter was left over to be taken up again when all the committee are present.

Fell on Pavement

The committee then passed on to take up the claim of Mr. David Evans, who asked for damages for injuries received through falling on the pavement on the north side of London street. He had hurt his head and was otherwise injured.

The city engineer and street commissioner had examined the place and had reported that while there was ice on the pavement there, it was not enough to be dangerous to pedestrians.

The solicitor having reported that the city was not liable the committee decided to take no action in the matter, on motion of Aldermen Metheral and McIntyre.

Property Flooded

Dr. Jas. Gallivan wrote asking for remuneration because his property on Hunter street had been flooded by surface water.

The Street Commissioner stated that as soon as he noticed that the catch basin was not taking the water properly he had had it opened, but in the meantime Dr. Gallivan's property had been flooded. The City Solicitor reported that the city's liability rested upon the judge's interpretation of the law.

Alderman Metheral thought that Dr. Gallivan was entitled to damages.

Alderman McIntyre suggested referring the matter to the solicitor for a report on what action the council should take.

Mr. Hall was called up on the 'phone and said that he was prepared to contest the claim for $50.

In view of this the committee decided to take no action on the claim.

Damage to Auto.

Mr. Ed. Conroy claimed $6 damages for injuries to his automobile for which he stated the city was responsible.

City Engineer Hay reported that it was a trench dug by the street railway company that had caused the trouble and the solicitor held that the city was not liable. No action was taken.

Mrs. Sullivan's Claim

Mary Sullivan claimed $30 for damages caused to her property at 266 Murray street, owing to an ice jam forming in the creek.

The jam was caused by a sudden thaw. The Street Commissioner released the ice as soon as possible. The G.T.R. constructed the Bethune street bridge and the city is not liable for the jam there.

The city solicitor advised that the city was not liable.

Upon motion no action was taken upon the advice of the solicitor.

Drowning Accident

Mr. W. J. Roberts notified the council that his infant son, Maxwell, was drowned on Monday, February 20, by falling into the creek on Murray street. He also notified the council that an action for damages would be entered.

The city engineer reported on the accident showing that the drowning was due to the children playing on the ice and on the creek bank, and that it was not due to any want of repair on the part of the city.

The city solicitor reported that on the evidence the city was not liable.

The committee all personally regretted the sad accident, but as the children were playing on the ice the city could not be held liable for any damage.

On motion it was decided to take no action.

Peterboro' Camera Club's First Exhibition Next Week Should Be A Great Success

The Peterborough Camera Club's first annual exhibition which commences on Monday, promises to be a great success. No less than 300 photographs have been submitted, but it is not likely that more than 190 will be hung. Those who have seen the photographs state that they are in every way works of art and the best specimens of amateur work that they have ever seen.

To-morrow night there will be a private view of the photographs between 8 and 10 o'clock. This is only for members and exhibitors and there will be no admission save for those who have received invitations.

Monday the exhibition will be thrown open to the public at three o'clock and the hours each day afterwards will be from 3 to 5 and from 7:45 to 10 o'clock.

Everything will be informal on Monday, but on Tuesday night the formal opening will be held when Mayor Rush, honorary president of the club will give an address. There will be a splendid musical programme to which the Mandolin Club, and Messrs. W. McLaren, Jas. Browne and E. P. Roe will contribute.

Short addresses will be given by Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., and the president and secretary of the club.

On Wednesday and Thursday there will be music and a general view of the pictures, and on Friday night it is expected that the Men's Association of All Saints' Church will render a programme.

The Women's Guild of All Saints' Church will serve tea every afternoon and evening.

The proceeds of the exhibition will be devoted towards the All Saints' building fund.

The judges will be Mrs. Montizambert, Miss Hatton and Mr. F. L. Roy.

The committee in charge of the exhibition is composed of Messrs. N. A. Howard Moore, chairman; Dr. Morgan, R. S. Rose, R. Picard, A. McCarthy and Mrs. McCarthy, Miss Brightman and Mrs. Delisle.

Mayor Rush has donated a medal which will be known as the honorary president's medal, which is the third prize in the open class.

The exhibition will be held n the old All Saints' rectory, corner of Reid and King streets.

THE EDITH J. MILLER COMPANY'S CONCERT.

No unwarranted emphasis can be impressed upon the assertion that the concert presented at the Conservatory of Music Hall last night by Miss Edith J. Miller, the eminent Canadian contralto, and her company, was one of the greatest musical and artistic successes in the history of the city. Miss Miller has been heralded as a great vocalist, but after hearing her last night one can honestly say of her superb vocalism as the Queen of Sheba said of King Solomon's glory, "the half has not been told." She is classed as a contralto; she is all that and much more. It depends upon her song subject whether her voice is to be regarded as a richly pure contralto or a mezzo soprano. It is so finely trained, so flexible and sympathetic, that it is equal to the requiremnts of heroic oratorio, the homely beauty of a folk-song, or the pathetic tenderness of a cradle croon. Her voice is always musical whether its clarion quality or its chastened sweetness is called into play. However, in notes written high there is noticed a little effort in strikstriking correctly intonation; but this is a very small fly in a very large pot of ointment. Added to her consummate vocal artistry is a deeply dramatic temperament, finely developed in the opening part of the programme, an excerpt from Bizet's "Carmen." Her singing of the incidental songs, including the Gypsy chanson, and in the duet between Carmen and San Jose—Mr. Alfred Heather—was instinct with dramatic fidelity and spirit. One need not detail her numbers, but special mention might be made of her superb treatment of a group of old English songs, in which their national individuality—of character, received beautiful justice.

Mr. Alfred Heather, the tenor, has a splendid voice, ranging from the resonance and force of a tenor robusto to a falsetto of wonderful delicacy and sweetness. Besides, he is an artist in every phase of his work. Mr. Thorpe Bates, a magnificent young baritone, has a big voice of fine quality, used with artistic ease and finish. His Toreador song from "Carmen" was given with dramatic intensity and spirit, and altogether he was not the least satisfying artist of the evening. Miss Maud Bell, the 'cellist, displayed an ample technique, and a large, rich tone of limpid purity. Her performance of the bracketted soli, Popper's contrasting compositions, "Widmung" and his sprightly tarentelle, gave full scope to her artistic versatility—tone quality, faultless and—in the dance—tireless bowing, and clever stopping. Mr. Harold Craxton, as accompanist, rounded out a company with as satisfying vocal equipment and artistic capability as the most exacting amateurs of music could wish for; the hearty applause and insitent recalls of the audience last night was proof of this.

PRINCIPAL EVENTS AND DATES IN THE HAINS-ANNIS TRAGEDY

In the kaleidoscopic whirl of the Hains case the chief events stand out:

April 30, 1900—Capt. P. C. Hains jr., then a lieutenant in the Artillery Corps, stationed at Fort Banks, near Boston, married Claudia Libby, then seventeen years old.

May 29, 1908—Captain Hains, returning from the Philippines, was told that his wife had been the centre of many orgies at Fort Hamilton. William E. Annis, a magazine publisher, was said to have been her companion. Hains charged his wife with infidelity with Annis, and she signed a confession, later repudiated, in the presence of Gen. P. C. Hains, father to the captain; Major John P. Hains and Thornton Jenkins Hains, brothers.

May 30, 1908—Mrs. Hains left Fort Hamilton and went to her mother's home at Winthrop Highlands, Mass.

June 23, 1908—Captain Hains filed a suit in Boston for divorce, naming William E. Annis as co-respondent.

July 1, 1908—Overtures made for a compromise by which Hains should withdraw his suit and allow his wife to get a divorce in South Dakota, with custody of their three children. Overtures rejected.

Aug. 1. 1908—Reports begin circulating that Mrs. Hains will file charges in her husband's divorce suit that he compelled her to engage in unnatural practices.

Aug. 15, 1908—Captain Hains, accompanied by his brother, T. J. Hains, went to the Bayside Yacht Club, where Captain Hains killed Annis with a magazine pistol as he was crossing to the pier in his sloop yacht Pam.

Aug. 16, 1908—Captain Hains and Thornton Hains held at Long Island City Police Court for murder, without bail, and committed to the Queens County Jail.

Aug. 17, 1908—Story is revived that Thornton J. Hains had killed his chum, Edward A. Hannegan, in a small boat in Hampton Roads many years before and had been acquitted on the ground of self-defence.

Aug. 18, 1908—William E. Annis was buried.

Aug. 19, 1908—Charges began to be made that the army circles at Fort Hamilton held "Round Table" scandals that were worse than those of the German Army.

Dec. 14, 1908—Thornton Jenkins Hains placed on trial for murder at Flushing.

Jan. 15, 1909—Thornton Jenkins Hains acquitted.

Closing Exercises Of The "Gym" Classes Were A Credit To Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Collings, the Physical Director, Showed His Ability in the Work of the Leaders' Corps—A Good Attendance Marked the Event-

AN ENJOYABLE EVENING.

The annual closing of the Y. M. C. A. "gym." class was held last night proving a novel and enjoyable evening for the fairly large audience that was present. The exhibitions by the several classes were decidedly entertaining and demonstrated the value of physical exercise. The grace and ease with which the work is carried out is arrived at only after persistence in the exercises and by clean living. The juniors and the leaders were precise in their manoeuvres, which were characterized by a vim and spirit that was good to see. The leaders in particular gave some splendid exhibitions of advanced work on the parallel bars, on the horse, and in formations. Under Mr. Collings, the physical instructor, they have an able leader, who is well up in the requirements of his position, and who can easily set the leaders' corps a merry pace to follow him. The members of this corps individually gave evidence of fine development and under Mr. Collings they have made encouraging progress, and are a fine example of the class of young men the Y. M. C. A. is producing.

The business boys' class has a large membership and since its inception early in the season good results have been achieved. The school boys are also represented and their work in the lighter exercises was well done. Altogether the exhibition was very pleasing and entertaining and creditable to the physical department of the institution.

The programme was as follows:

Wand exercises—25 school boys.
Parallel bars—Leaders' corps.
Obstacle race—Collegiate vs. Business Boys. Won by the former.
German Horse exercises—Leaders' Corps.
Wrestling match—Fitzgerald Stevenson.
Dumb-bell exercises—Business Boys
Side Parallels—Leaders' Corps.
Club Swinging—Mr. Collings and Jack Lang.
Pyramids by different groups of the boys and leaders.

The obstacle race, as usual, created considerable interest among the spectators, as it was close throughout, the Collegiate boys winning by only a short distance. Lorne Fitzgerald and Walton Stephenson demonstrated a fair knowledge of the fine points of wrestling, particularly the former, who won the only fall in eight minutes.

Mr. Collings and Jack Lang gave a novel display of club swinging. The Indian clubs were wrapped on the ends with cloth dipped in an inflammable oil, which was lighted, and the display was given with the electric lights turned out.

During the evening Mr. Harold Brown presided at the piano, besides playing for drills and marches.

Frenchman Says Your Name Has An Influence On Character

Do you wish your son to be active, lively and eloquent? Then you must name him Paul. Would you have your daughter pretty, even at the cost of constancy? You must name her Helen.

You think, perhaps, that the gift of a particular name to your child cannot have any influence on its character? You are wrong.

As a result of years of anxious study M. de Rochetal, of France has brought out a new theory. He insists that Christian names have a definite influence on the personality of their bearers. He calls his new science onomatology, or the influence of names on character. Here is a list of names with their relative characters, as discovered by M. de Rochetal:

Men

Paul—Active, lively, eloquent, but impulsive.
Peter—Strong and constant.
George—Big, fine men, who are invariable conceited.
Henry—An ideal name. Deep, passionate heart, energetic, a trifle irritable.
John—Strong, passionate.
Louis—Exceedingly sensitive and irritable, intelligent.

Women

Mary—Weak, melancholy, and unlucky.
Helen—Pretty, but fickle.
Susan—Not much to be relied upon.
Juliet—Constant in love or hatred.
Louisa—Nice, but somewhat weak in character.
Elizabeth—Dreamy and quiet, often unhappy.
Martha—Good hearted.
Alice—Dangerously passionate, independent.

A well-known society woman who has been interested in the study of names for some years, comments thus on de Rochetal's theory:

"There is more in a name than most people think.

"All parents have the right to call their children what name they like, but unconsciously they are forming the character of that child by their decision.

"For instance, the parent who names his unfortunate child Algernon is unwittingly causing him much future suffering.

"Very few Algernons succeed in life, and this has been so for years. How it began no one knows, but probably in the remote past, some Algernon was a fool.

"Now what the world assumes a man to be, the man, unless he is a very strong man, usually becomes. And to name an infant Algernon handicaps him severely.

"On the other hand Alexander is a name which those who bore it in the past have made famous and successful. Witness Alexander the Great, and the feminine of it, the present gracious English Queen. Consequently a person bearing that name is assumed to be going to be great and, finding this, generally manages to live up to the expectations of his or her friends and relations. Augustus and Frederick are other instances of successful names.

"So it is with girls. Fancy a girl with the name of Peach Smith—Peach is becoming quite a common name, I am told. Do you think that a girl with a name like that will be anything but fickle when she grows up? On the other hand Juliets are constant in love or hatred.

"To M. de Rochetal's list I offer these additions.

"Sarah—Dignity, exclusive habits.
"Hilda—Rare charm, gay.
"Adelaide—Simple, quiet, retiring.
"Mabel—Somewhat quick tempered, revengeful.
"Bridget—Strength, plainness.
"Bobby—Bright, intelligent, affectionate.'
"Arthur—Noble, brave.
"Guy—Dashing, reckless, fast liver.

"Every name has a tremendous influence on the character."—Herald.

GOES TO HIGH COURT

Case of Turner vs. Mack Does Not Come Under Division Court Jurisdiction.

The case of J. J. Turner & Sons vs. Chas. Mack was on the Division Court slate this morning, but was not heard. It will come up at the next session of the High Court, held at the Court House in May. Chas. Mack and Company appeared at the Grand Opera House in "Come Back to Erin" early in March. The circumstances of the case are already known, having been published at the time.

It is learned that A. J. Small had asked the management of the theatre here to keep from the receipts enough money to pay a bill which Mr. Mack stated was not then due. When this was learned the play was abruptly closed at the end of the second act.

Mr. Turner brought an action against the company in Division Court to recover $55.

A counter claim was entered for $550 by Mr. Mack. This necessitates a High Court case.

O'Connell and Gordon represent Mr. Mack, and Dennistoun, Peck and Kerr are acting for Mr J. J. Turner & Sons.

DOG POISONER AT WORK

Mr. R. W. Grubbe's Favourite Canine One of His Victims.

Some one with a tendency to poisoning dogs has succeeded twice in giving a dose to Mr. R. W. Grubbe's faithful old dog and had not a veterinary surgeon been called within five minutes on each occasion, it would have succumbed. Mr. Grubbe lives on McDonnel street, a section of the city which has been comparatively free from the poisoner and it is the fact that the dog is an old pet that he is anxious to have it depart this life in the ordinary way and not by the poison route. The police have been asked to do anything they can to catch the person who is distributing the "stuff."

SIX MONTHS IN CENTRAL

Henry Watters, Without Home Or Any Means of Support.

Henry Watters wont work and has no means by which to support himself, so he was given six months in the Central Prison at the police court this morning. He had just been reseased from the gaol and wanted to return again for three months. His Worship gave him more than he desired. The county weren't going to "stall feed" able bodied men, he said, and Watters was quite able to work.

COPY ON NANTON NEWS

Former Peterborough Man in Nanton Sends One to Local Gentleman.

Ald. J. J. Turner, Jr., received a copy of the Nanton News, of Nanton, Alta., from Mr. Jas. A. Dawson, a former resident of Peterborough. The newspaper is a single, small sheet, printed on both sides. The entire paper is given to an account of a Southern Alberta Musical Festival, held in Nanton on Wednesday, March 24th. People from all around that district and those of them that could sing competed for prizes. Among the prize winners was Mr. Jas. Dawson, who possesses an excellent baritone voice and who during his residence here sang in St. Paul's choir. He is now the conductor of a large chorus in Nanton.

VISITING REGIMENTS HERE ON MAY 24

Two regiments will come to Peterborough for the big military demonstration on May 24th. Major E. B. Clegg of the 57th Regiment has received a letter from Lieut.-Col. Campbell, of the 19th Regiment of St. Catharines, stating that the regiment has decided to accept the invitation of the Peterborough Rangers to spend Victoria Day here, and that the officers and men of the regiment were unanimous in supporting the decision to come here and renew the relations formed two years ago when the Rangers visited St. Kitts. As the Dufferin Rifles of Brantford have already decided to come there will be two visiting corps here on the holiday.

Word has been received from Lieut.-Colonel Stewart of the 15th of Belleville, that that regiment, owing to having been invited to Picton, would not be able to accept the invitation of the local corps.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Furnished by J. N. Barber.—

Chicago, April 23—There was a wild opening in wheat to-day. May opened up 3½ cents higher, but lost all that gain in the next 15 minutes. July opened up a cent and then fell to below yesterday's low figures. There was a similar break in corn and oats. The market was excited and fluctuated furiously. Bull support was again lacking and the bears had things pretty much as they pleased.

Argentine shipments: wheat 2,956,000; last week 2,344,000; last year 2,584,000. Corn 1,877,000—472,000—723,000.

Northwest cars: wheat 123, 187, 131.
Winnipeg cars: wheat 87, 134, 46.
Hogs, 13,000; unchanged.
Liverpool—wheat ⅛d. higher to 1d. lower; corn, ⅛d. to ⅜d. lower.

New York, April 23.—Stocks opened fractionally higher with U. S. steel, Eries and Smelters most in demand. London sent a higher range all around, but the opening here did not come up to the figures there. Stocks seemed to be offered freely here and the market showed hesitancy and irregularity, which was most confusing. After the first hour prices sagged off to below last night's closing. Profit-taking and week-end selling was largely responsible for the market's failure to respond to the bull manipulation.

BEDOUIN HOSPITALITY.

Keen Sense of Honor Among the Nomads of the Arabian Desert.

The laws of politeness among the Bedouins forbid the mention of the name "woman." There are three things unmentionable—pig, dog and woman. If a man must speak of his wife he calls her "the thing," and begs your pardon for mentioning her at all in your presence. Among them the birth of a girl is no event of importance or rejoicing, and rather one of dire disappointment and often the cause of cruel treatment to the poor mother; whereas, that of a son is the means of raising her in the esteem of her husband and of all the tribe.

When a man is asked how many children he has he only gives the number of boys, never breathing the fact that he has any girls. Having only daughter is spoken of as "having no children."

The Bedouin, having no respect for his wife, does not hesitate to divorce her for any caprice of his own. In a moment of anger he may shout, "Go from me!" and from that hour the woman is driven from her home in disgrace.

But, though woman is man's slave and of no great cost to him when once his wife, yet she is an expensive luxury to obtain in the first place, for Bedouins buy their wives, and prospective husbands must either buy the maiden from her father or guardian at a large price, or substitute to the seller some marriageable fair relation of his own. This price varies according to station and beauty. It may be equal to one hundred dollars or four or five hundred.

The one fine trait in both men and women is their hospitality. But, notwithstanding their impulsive spirit and their genuine generosity, there lurks under it an undefined expectation of ample return for all their gifts, which makes acceptance of their kindness exceedingly expensive. They are wonderfully susceptible to the influence of gifts, and their friendship is easily bought in this way. But Bedouins are true to their word and true to their principles of hospitality. They would never think of harming a stranger who was at their mercy if they had once taken him under their shelter and protection. If their confidence is really trusted they never betray it. To the traveler this spirit of hospitality is a great boon.

Canada's Power Supply.

A conservative estimate places the water powers of the Dominion at 25,682,907 horsepower. Converted into coal on a basis of 5 pounds of coal per hour per horsepower, this means 551,137,590 tons of coal per annum. This statement was made before the forests, waterways, and waterpowers committee of the Commons a short time ago by R. E. Young, superintendent of Dominion railway lands.

Quebec has 17,075,939 horsepower; Ontario 3,129,168; British Columbia 2,000,000; Alberta 1,000,000; Northwest Territories 600,000; Saskatchewan 500,000; Manitoba 504,000; New Brunswick 150,000; Nova Scotia 54,300.

Apart from Ontario, however, the estimate is crude, but conservative.

Mr. Young made the statement that there was much less merchantable timber in this country than in the United States. They had found that the valuable timber was confined to the vicinity of rivers and lakes, and the great stretches of land between were treeless.

Two Printers Drunk.

The Explorer, Elk Lake's bright little newspaper, was published recently under difficulties.

"This issue speaks for itself and was gotten out by casual callers," is the explanation, "owing to the nonappearance of the printers, two of whom got drunk and two more were lured away in quest of silver."

The number of typographical errors and rather indifferent adjustment certainly indicate that The Explorer had been out late the night before.

However, some bright news is carried, including the township election returns.

A Helpful Allusion.

There were times when Rev. Mr. Pomfret felt that he failed to reach the hearts of his parishioners. Sometimes he even failed to reach their ears. Therefore he was much cheered by something he saw in the Elton pew one Sunday morning.

"I—I couldn't help wondering, Mr. Elton," he said diffidently when he met his parishioner the next afternoon, "what it was in my sermon that—er—particularly caught your attention yesterday morning. I happened to be looking your way, and I saw your face light up, and you slapped your hand against your knee as if something pleased you."

"It did," said Mr. Elton cordially. "I felt very grateful to you. When you spoke of Simeon it came over me in a flash that it was at Simeon Dalvis' I left my umbrella the last time I went to town. It's been lost for six weeks."

Dean Ramsay tells of an old lady of Edinburgh who ordered her maid to call upon the doctor every morning and report the latest particulars as to her mistress' health, always carefully adding her compliments. At last one day the girl arrived with "Miss S.'s compliments, and she deed last night at aicht o'clock."

Japan's Good Roads.

Japan is peculiarly well off in respect of good highways. The Tokaido, which runs from Kioto to Tokyo, is over 300 miles in length, and, as the writer can testify, is admirably constructed. There is also the Nakasendo, which is even longer and passes through some of the finest scenery in the world. The reason of Japan's excellence in the matter of roads is that in the old days and so very long ago—the daimios, or territorial nobles, had to journey to Tokyo once a year in order to pay their respects to the sovereign. They traveled by road, with great retinues, and if the highways were not in perfect condition feudal justice was meted out to the delinquents.—London Chronicle.

Quite In Character.

The late William Terriss, who for many years was invariably the hero in the dramas produced at the Adelphi theatre, London seems to have been in nice accord with the characters he played. One day, writes Ellen Terry in her book, "The Story of My Life," he came into the theatre soaked.

"Is it raining, Terriss?" asked some one, who noticed that he was wet.

"Looks like it, doesn't it?" said Terriss carelessly.

Later it came out that he had jumped off a penny steamboat into the Thames and saved a little girl's life.

The Methods And Principles Of Landscape Gardening

How to Produce a Velvety Turf on the Lawn—Practical Pointers on Seeding and Sodding—Repair the Bare Spots on Old Lawns.

(Written for The Examiner by A. B. Cutting, editor of "The Canadian Horticulturist.")

NO. VIII.

There are two methods of producing turf on a lawn; viz., sodding and seeding. For immediate results on small lawns, the former method may be employed. Sods are used also for making the borders of walks and drives and of flower beds. Their use is almost imperative for terracing and for covering steep banks. Where the latter are apt to be gullied by rains, they may be strengthened by a low stone fence at the bottom which will prevent slipping.

Sodding may be done at any time during the growing season, providing that the plot to be turfed is convenient to a constant water supply. Springtime is best where plenty of water is not available. Secure sods from an old pasture or from a road side where the growth is as free from weeds as possible. Use a spade and cut the sod in strips of about twelve or fifteen inches in width. With the spade or a sod knife shave off these strips to a depth of about two inches and roll them up. Transport them to the place to be sodded. The method of laying sods will be mentioned when we discuss the question of repairing lawns, another operation for which sods are useful.

Seeding Lawns

Where haste is not necessary on small lawns and where the area is large, seeding is the best method. By this means, one can have the kinds of grass that will do best in the particular circumstances. Grass seed may be sown either in fall or in spring. In mid-summer, there is not sufficient moisture for best results. In a previous article, it was stated that the ground for lawns is best graded in the fall to allow for settling. When this is done, probably, on account of the settling, it will be necessary to do some extra grading in the spring. When the grading is completed, level the surface and make as fine a seed bed as possible. Sow the seed in freshly-disturbed soil. To prevent scattering by the wind, sow early in the morning or on a still day. Sow liberally and evenly. For an even distribution, it is better to divide the quantity of seed and to sow both ways of the plot.

Different quantities and kinds of grass seeds are recommended and used. When blue grass or kindred seeds are used, it should be applied at the rate of about four bushels to the acre. Do not sow oats or other grain for the purpose of shading the grass. Oats rob the grass of plant food and moisture. After sowing cover the seed with a rake or by means of a piece of brush. The soil should then be rolled. It is important to firm the soil, particularly in a dry season or where the soil itself is naturally dry, so as to raise moisture from lower depth of the roots.

The kind of grass seed to use depends chiefly upon the character of the soil and upon the location of the plot. It is almost safe to say that the grasses that make the best pastures will make the best lawns. It may be observed that pastures are made up of many species that produce feed for stock throughout the season. one or more species in spring, others in summer when it is dry, and still others in fall.

Kentucky blue grass is the mainstay for lawns. It grows strongly, is hardy and will endure drought and shade on both sandy and clay soils. Red top and Rhode Island bent, strong growing, hardy and early germinating, are also good grass seeds for lawns. They spread by means of creeping root stalks. They are adapted for use on low ground but are seldom satisfactory when sown alone. In all lawn grass mixtures, there should be a little white Dutch clover seed. This grows close to the ground and fills the spaces between the other grasses. For lands that cannot well be drained, Canadian blue joint may be used. There are other species of grass seed that are valuable for certain places and purposes but the foregoing are usually sufficient.

Grass seeds for lawns should be sown in a mixture. The proportions of each will depend upon local conditions. If the locality and soil are dry, use proportionately more white clover than the others that may be chosen. A good general mixture for lawns is Kentucky blue grass, red top, and white clover in equal parts by weight. On small plots sow this at the rate of about one quart to the square rod.

Many seedsmen offer for sale lawn mixtures. Usually these may be depended upon to give good results and they save time and bother. It is best, however, to buy the separate species and mix them at home. Buy the seed from reliable seedsmen. As grass seed often is apt to contain weed seeds. the best quality should be purchased as it will be the cheapest even at a high price.

One of the most annoying features about lawns is the difficulty of getting the grasses to grow in shady places. Where the shade is dense about the only thing to do is to remove the shade and this is not always desirable. Where the shade is not too dense, it is possible to produce a turf but it cannot be done in a hurry. It will have to be built up gradually and it may take four or five years to establish satisfactorily. The place will have to be fed continuously by means of top-dressings, re-seeded every spring and seeded in all bare spots that occur at any time of the growing period. Probably the best grass mixture for a shaded place is composed of Kentucky blue grass, four parts; wood meadow grass, four parts; various leafed fescue, one part; and crested dog's tail, one part, by weight. The more shaded the place is the more necessary it is to have it underdrained.

Repairing Lawns

No matter how well cared for, dead patches and bare spots will appear in the lawn. They may be the result of accident, of tramping in beaten paths, of damage by footwear under hammocks and near settees, or they may be the result of lack of attention and care in the management of the turf. The time to repair such spots is in the spring. When worn completely bare and if the areas are not too large, the repairing is best done by the use of sods. Cut a square area about the injured patch and remove the old sod and surface soil from within this square to the depth of a sod. Roughen the surface of the soil with a rake. Lay the sod in strips closely together. Pound firmly with the back of a spade, water immediately and continue to water until the new sod has made a union with the earth beneath. When not necessary or desirable to use sod, clean and loosen the soil with the rake and sow seed. Use stakes and wire or cord to keep off trespassers. It is a good plan in the spring to rake the whole lawn clean to the roots of the grass with a strong iron rake to remove the film of decayed leaves and grass which is better removed.

The next and concluding article of this series will give pointers on other factors in lawn management. Mowing, weeding, watering and top-dressing lawns will be discussed.

CHATS ABOUT FAMOUS BOOKS AND THEIR AUTHORS

By F. M. D.

Men have kept diaries from very remote times. One old writer has quaintly observed that "the ancients used to take their stomach pills of self-examination every night." Some used tablets, tied at their girdles, on which they took notes of what they did in order to reckon them up in the evening. Titus kept a diary of all his actions, and when he discovered at nightfall, that he had done nothing memorable, was won't to remark "Friends, we have lost a day." Alfred the Great kept what he termed his "hand-book," containing memoranda of his different studies, and observations on things in general. Prince Henry, son of James I. did likewise, also Edward VI., and James II., Camden, inspired by a noble desire to transmit a perfectly trustworthy record of his times to posterity, jotted down in his diary all the important occurrences that came under his notice, during the reign of his Sovereign, James I.

But these are somewhat isolated cases. It is only when we come to the regime of the Stuarts that we recognize that the practice had become almost universal. It was the age of diaries. Practically every head of a family kept one. It was really a substitute with them for the modern newspaper and magazine. Prominent among the many well-known people of that time, whose journals have come down to us, were the Duchess of York, the Duchess of Newcastle, Lady Fanshaw, Mrs. Hutchinson, the Earl of Clarendon, Lord Anglesey, the Duke of Shrewsbury, Whitelocke, and Sir Symonds D'Ewes.

Value of Pepys' Diary.

But the diary of Samuel Pepys is in its way as far ahead in value of these or any other diary known, as Boswell's Life of Johnson is ahead of the ordinary biography. It is facile princeps of its kind. Its main worth consists in the fact that without its aid we would have no adequate conception of the Court of Charles II. But it is interesting also for the graphic description it gives of the outbreak of the Plague, and of the great Fire, as well as for the many lively items of gossip which are scattered through its pages. Pepys never had the remotest idea that the recital of his thoughts and actions would become public property. He wrote it in shorthand, and at his death the manuscript was bundled up with many other documents, and in course of time found a resting-place in the Bodleian Library at Oxford. There it was unearthed in the first quarter of the 19th century by a gentleman of inquisitive tendencies, the Rev. John Smith, who undertook to decipher it.

The pages teem with startling disclosures of wickedness in high places, and Pepys' own lapses from decorum. But they show us that Pepys was a man, who in spite of many short comings, was a zealous and faithful officer That, although he was a very talented drinker, a great gossip, a lover of all sorts of amusements, fonder than he should have been of the ladies, and vain to a degree, he had such an amount of good in him, as commended him to his superiors in office, and in social life to that most respectable and worthy man, John Evelyn.

Short Account of His Life.

Samuel Pepys was the fifth child of John and Margaret Pepys, and was born, either at Brampton in Huntingdonshire, or London, on Feb. 23. 1632 His father was a tailor. Pepys after obtaining tuition at St. Paul's School entered as a sizar at Trinity College, Cambridge, but went shortly afterwards to Magdalene College, Oxford. He had been there just two weeks, when he was haled before the fellows in college, by the registrar, for being, sad to say, "scandalously overserved with drink the night before." Poor Pepys, shows in the pages of his diary that this sin beset him through life. for on a certain Sunday, he tells us, he was too drunk to trust himself to read prayers to his household. On his appointment to the navy board, which he obtained through the kind offices of his cousin, Sir E. Montague, afterwards. Lord Sandwich, Pepys found himself on the high road to fortune. It is a somewhat striking commentary on the university education of that time, that his great care on his elevation to the post was to become acquainted with the multiplication table.

Prior to his appointment, however, Pepys had married in 1655, his cousin, Elizabeth St. Michel. She was of the mature age of 15, beautiful, and penniless, and it would have gone hard with the youthful pair, but for the kindness of Sir E. Montague in providing them with an asylum.

That their married life was not free of bickerings is pretty amply demonstrated throughout the diary, and certainly the fault was not invariably on the side of the lady. A pretty face had a fatal fascination for Pepys. In one place he talks of "playing the fool with the lass of the house." Again; he goes to Clerkenwell church "to see the two fair Botelers." He got into a pew whence he could see them well; and adds: "I am out of conceit with them now." "By coach to Greenwich Church, where a good sermon, a fine church and a great company of handsome women." On another occasion, on returning from a strange church., he notes in his diary "there was also my pretty black girl." Throughout her strange career he was a consistent admirer of Lady Castlemaine and the pages of his diary are full of gossip relating to that unfortunate woman. But Pepys had the great good fortune to possess one attribute stronger than all his evil ones, and that was fidelity to his duty. He allowed nothing to interfere with the proper prosecution of his work. This was especially noticeable during the progress of the Plague, when, in the face of almost certain death, he stuck manfully to his post.

His Pathway Not Strewn With Roses.

Pepys did not go through life without many ups and downs. His pathway to the Secretaryship of the Admiralty was not strewn entirely with roses

In 1673 he was denounced as a Catholic on the authority of Sir J. Banks, and the Earl of Shaftesbury, who accused him of having an altar and a crucifix in his home, which charge fell to the ground. Another charge was trumped up against him in 1679, by a certain Colonel Scott, of sending secret information regarding the English navy to France, and he was then again charged with being a Catholic. This time he was sent to the Tower. He was remanded three times and finally released on bail for £30,000. He was never brought to trial, because Scott refused to swear to his own depositions, and an old servant, who had testified against him, confessed, on his deathbed, that what he had said against him was false. He had always been a favourite of the Duke of York, and when that personage came to the throne as James II. Pepys was made one of the barons of the Cinque Ports, and sat as M. P. for Harwich. At the Revolution he lost his seat and retired from public life. On May 26, 1703, he died, and was buried by the side of his wife in St. Olave's, Crutched Friars. His library of 3,000 volumes he bequeathed to Magdalene College.

The diary contains the records of ten years, from 1659-1669 years, amongst the most interesting in English history. At the end of that time Pepys was obliged to discontinue the practice of keeping it on account of the bad state of his eyes. He had been fortunate at the outset of his career in being appointed Secretary to the two Generals of the Fleet, and thus being given the opportunity of detailing every occurrence that took place on board the Naseby from the time of Sir Edward Montague's sailing to bring home Charles II. to that monarch's arrival off Dover.

Next week extracts will be given from this account as well as from other parts of the diary.

THE MIGHTY POWER OF MI-O-NA

Mi-o-na, that extraordinary and perfect stomach tonic, will relieve dyspepsia in twenty-four hours.

It will cure and is guaranteed by Wm. Madill to the readers of the Examiner to cure the most pitiful cases of dyspepsia, if taken according to directions.

Mi-ona tablets not only cure dyspepsia, but all stomach disturbances, such as vomiting of pregnancy, sea or car sickness and the stomach sickness after excessive indulgence.

Mi-o-na cures by strengthening and invigorating the flabby stomach walls and after a course of Mi-o-na treatment, constipation, if there is any, will entirely disappear.

Mrs. S. Keast, of Clarksburg, Ont., says, "A bad stomach trouble that had bothered me for years, baffled and puzzled skilled physicians, was nicely relieved by my using Mi-o-na My trouble was on account of food not digesting but fermenting in my stomach, forming a gas that gave me untold suffering and pain and also made me weak, nervous, irritable and unable to rest. Since using Mi-ona, I can go to bed at night and sleep and wake up in the morning refreshed. I cannot speak too highly of Mi-o-na."

Mi-o-na is a most economical treatment, a large box of tablets only costs 50 cents at Wm. Madill's and the dyspeptic, nervous or otherwise, who does not give them a trial is losing an opportunity to regain health.

ANTHONY HOPE

Author of "The Prisoner of Zenda"

"They're both scoundrels," said Lepage, rising to go.

Markart shrugged his shoulders. "The fruit lies on the ground for the man who can pick it up. Why not? There's nobody who's got any right to it now."

He expressed exactly the view of the two great neighbors, though by no means in the language which their official communications adopted.

Stenovics knew their views very well. He had also received a pretty plain intimation from Stafnitz that the colonel considered the escorting of the guns to Slavna as a purely military task, appertaining not to the ministry of state, but to the officer commanding the garrison in the capital. Stafnitz was that officer, and he proposed himself to go to Kolskoi. Suleiman's tower, he added, would be left in the trustworthy hands of Captain Sterkoff. Again Stenovics fully understood. Indeed, the colonel was almost brutally candid. His letter was nothing less than plain word that power lay with the sword and that the sword was in his own hand. Stenovics had got rid of King Sergius only to fall under the rule of Dictator Stafnitz. Was that to be the end of it?

Stenovics preferred any other issue. The ideal thing was his own rule in the name of young Alexis, with such diplomatic honoring and humoring of Countess Ellenburg as might prove necessary. That was plainly impossible so long as Stafnitz was master of the army. It would become finally hopeless if Sterkoff held Suleiman's tower till Stafnitz brought the guns to Slavna. What, then, was Stenovics' alternative? For he was not yet brought to giving up the game as totally lost. His name stood high, though his real power tottered on a most insecure foundation. He could get good terms for his assistance. There was time to make friends with the mammon of unrighteousness.

Privately, as became invalids, without the knowledge of any one outside their confidential entourage, the representatives of the two great neighbors received General Stenovics. They are believed to have convinced him that in the event of any further disorders in Kravonia intervention could not be avoided. Troops were on either frontier, ready for such an emergency. A joint occupation would be forced on the allies. With a great deal of sorrow no doubt the general felt himself driven to accept this conclusion.

He at once requested Stafnitz to fetch the guns to Slavna. He left the colonel full discretion in the matter. His only desire was to insure the tranquillity of the capital and to show Volseni how hopeless it was to maintain the fanciful and absurd claims of Baroness Dobrava. The representatives, it must be supposed, approved this attitude and wished the general all success. At a later date his efforts to secure order and to avoid the inevitable but regrettable result of any new disturbance were handsomely acknowledged by both powers. General Stenovics had not Stafnitz's nerve and dash, but be was a man of considerable resource.

A man of good feeling, too, to judge from another step he took—whether with the cognizance of the representatives or entirely of his own motion has never become known. He waited till Colonel Stafnitz, who returned a civil and almost effusive reply to his communication, had set off to fetch the guns, which, as has been seen, had been unloaded from the railway and lay at Kolskoi, three days' journey up the Krath; then he entered into communication with Volseni. He sent Volseni a private and friendly warning. What was the use of Volseni holding out when the big guns were coming? It could mean only hopeless resistance, more disorder, more bloodshed. Let Volseni and the lady whose claims it supported consider that, be warned in time and acknowledge King Alexis.

This letter he addressed to Zerkovitch. There were insuperable diplomatic difficulties in the way of addressing it to Sophy directly. "Madam I may not call you, and mistress I am loath to call you," said Queen Elizabeth to the archbishop's wife. It was just a case of that sort of difficulty. He could not call her queen of Kravonia, and she would be offended if he called her Baroness Dobrava. So the letter went to Zerkovitch, and it went by the hand of one of Zerkovitch's friends, so anxious was the general to be as friendly and conciliatory as circumstances permitted.

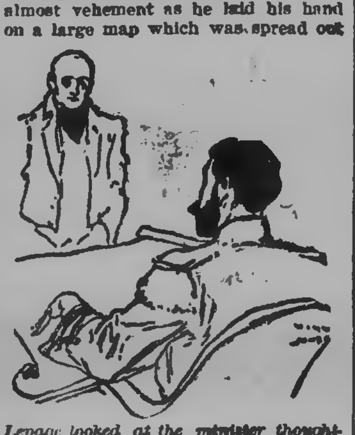
Much to his surprise, considerably to his alarm, Lepage was sent for to the general's private residence on the evening of the day on which Colonel Stafnitz sent out for Kolskoi to fetch the guns.

Stenovics greeted him cordially, smoothed away his apprehension, acquainted him with the nature of his mission and with the gist of the letter which he was to carry. Stenovics seemed more placid tonight than for some time back, possibly because he had got Stafnitz quietly out of Slavna.

"Beg M. Zerkovitch to give the letter to Baroness Dobrava (he called her that to Lepage) as soon as possible and to urge her to listen to it. Add that we shall be ready to treat her with every consideration—any title in reason and any provision in reason too. It's all in my letter, but repeat it on my behalf, Lepage."

"I shouldn't think she'd take either title or money, general," said Lepage bluntly.

"You think she's disinterested? No doubt, no doubt! She'll be the more ready to see the uselessness of prolonging her present attitude." He grew almost vehement as he laid his hand on a large map which was spread out on the table in front of him. "Look here, Lepage. This is Monday. By Wednesday evening Colonel Stafnitz will be at Kolskoi—here!" He put his finger by the spot. "On Thursday morning he'll start back. The barges travel well, and—yes—I think he'll have his guns here by Sunday, less than a week from now. Yes, on Thursday night he ought to reach Evena, on Friday Rapska, on Saturday the lock at Miklevni. Yes, on Saturday the lock at Miklevni! That would bring him here on Sunday. Yes, the lock at Miklevni on Saturday, I think." He looked up at Lepage almost imploringly. "If she hesitates, show her that. They're bound to be here in less than a week!"



Lepage looked at the minister thoughtfully.

Lepage cocked his head on one side and looked at the minister thoughtfully. It all sounded very convincing. Colonel Stafnitz would be at the lock at Miklevni on Saturday and on Sunday with the guns at Slavna. And of course, arduous though the transport would be, they could be before Volseni in two or three days more. It was really no use resisting.

Stenovics passed a purse over to Lepage. "For your necessary expenses," he said. Lepage took up the purse, which felt well filled, and pocketed it. "The baroness mayn't fully appreciate what I've been saying," added Stenovics. "But Lukovitch knows every inch of the river. He'll make it quite plain if she asks him about it. And present her with my sincere respects and sympathy—my sympathy with her as a private person, of course. You mustn't commit me in any way, Lepage."

"I think," said Lepage, "that you're capable of looking after that department yourself, general. But aren't you making the colonel go a little too fast?"

"No, no; the barges will do about that."

"But he has a large force to move, I suppose?"

"Oh, dear, no! A large force? No, no! Only a company, just about a hundred strong, Lepage." He rose. "Just about a hundred, I think."

"Ah, then he might keep time!" Lepage agreed, still very thoughtfully.

"You'll start at once?" the general asked.

"Within an hour."

"That's right. We must run no unnecessary risks. Delays might mean new troubles."

He held out his hand and shook Lepage's warmly. "You must believe that I respect and share your grief at the king's death."

"Which king, general?"

"Oh, oh! King Alexis, of course! We must listen to the voice of the nation. Our new king lives and reigns. The voice of the nation, Lepage!"

"Ah," said Lepage dryly, "I'd been suspecting some ventriloquists!"

General Stenovics honored the sally with a broad smile. He thought the representatives with colds would be amused if he repeated it. The pat on the shoulder which he gave Lepage was a congratulation. "The animal is so very inarticulate of itself," he said.

Chapter Thirty

THOUGH not remote in distance, yet Volseni was apart and isolated from all that was happening. Not only was nothing known of the two great neighbors—nothing reached men in Volseni of the state of affairs in Slavna itself. They did not know that the thieves were quarreling about the plunder nor that the diplomatists had taken cold. They knew only that young Alexis reigned in Slavna by reason of their king's murder and against the will of him who was dead; only that they had chosen Sophia for their queen because she had been the dead king's wife and his chosen successor.

All the men who could be spared from labor came into the city. They collected what few horses they could. They filled their little fortress with provisions. They could not go to Slavna, but they awaited with confidence the day when Slavna should dare to move against them into the hills. Slavna had never been able to beat them in their own hills yet. The bolder spirits even implored Lukovitch to lead them down in a raid on the plains.

Lukovitch would sanction no more than a scouting party to see whether any movement was in progress from the other side. Peter Vassip rode down with his men to within a few miles of Slavna. For result of the expedition he brought back the news of the guns. The great guns, rumor said, had reached Kravonia and were to be in Slavna in a week.

The rank and file hardly understood what that meant. Anger that their destined and darling guns should fall into hostile hands was the feeling uppermost. But the tidings struck their leaders home to the heart. Lukovitch knew what it meant. Dunstanbury, who had served three years in the army at home, knew very well. Covered by such a force as Stafnitz could bring up, the guns could pound Volseni to pieces, and Volseni could strike back not a single blow.

"And it's all through her that the guns are here at all," said Zerkovitch, with a sigh for the irony of it.

Dunstanbury laid his hand on Lukovitch's shoulder. "It's no use," he said. "We must tell her so, and we must make the men understand. She can't let them have their homes battered to pieces—the town with the women and children in it—and all for nothing!"

"We can't desert her," Lukovitch protested.

"No. We must get her safely away and then submit."

Since Dunstanbury had offered his services to Sophy he had assumed a leading part. His military training and his knowledge of the world gave him an influence over the rude, simple men. Lukovitch looked to him for guidance. He had much to say in the primitive preparations for defense. But now he declared defense to be impossible.

"Who'll tell her so?" asked Basil Williamson.

"We must get her across the frontier," said Dunstanbury. "There—by St. Peter's pass—the way we came, Basil. It's an easy journey, and I don't suppose they'll try to intercept us. You can send twenty or thirty well mounted men with us, can't you, Lukovitch? A small party well mounted is what we shall want."

Lukovitch waved his hands sadly. "With the guns against us it would be a mere massacre. If it must be, let it be as you say, my lord." His heart was very heavy. After generations of defiance Volseni must bow to Slavna and his dead lord's will go for nothing. All this was the doing of the great guns.

Dunstanbury's argument was sound, but he argued from his heart as well as his head. He was convinced that the best service he could render to Sophy was to get her safely out of the country. His heart urged that her safety was the one and only thing to consider. As she went to and fro among them now, pale and silent, yet always accessible, always ready to listen, to consider and to answer, she moved him with an infinite pity and a growing attraction. Her life was as though dead or frozen. It seemed to him as though all Kravonia must be to her the tomb of him whose grave in the little hillside church of Volseni she visited so often. An ardent and overpowering desire rose in him to rescue her, to drag her forth from these dim cold shades into the sunlight of life again. Then the spell of this frozen grief might be broken; then should her drooping glories revive and bloom again. Kravonia and who ruled there—aye, in his heart even the fate of the gallant little city which harbored them and whose interest he pleaded—were nothing to him beside Sophy. On her his thoughts were centered.

Sophy's own mind in these days can be gathered only from what others saw. She made no record of it. Fallen in an hour from heights of love and hope and exaltation, she lay stunned in the abyss. In intellect calm and collected, she seems to have been as one numbed in feeling, too maimed for pain, suffering as though from a mortification of the heart. The simple men and women of Volseni looked on her with awe and chattered fearfully of the red star; how that its wearer had been predestined to high enterprise, but foredoomed to mighty reverses of fortune. Amid all their pity for her they spoke of the evil eye. Some whispered that she had come to bring ruin on Volseni. Had not the man who loved her lost both crown and life?

And it was she through whom the guns had come. The meaning of the guns had spread now to every hearth. What had once been hailed as an achievement second only to her exploit in the Street of the Fountain served now to point more finely the sharpening fears of superstition. The men held by her still, but their wives were grumbling at them in their homes. Was she not after all a stranger? Must Volseni lie in the dust for her sake, for the sake of her who wore that ominous, inexplicable star?

Dunstanbury knew all this. Lukovitch hardly sought to deny it, though he was full of scorn for it, and Marie Zerkovitch had by heart the tales of many wise old beldams who had prophesied this and that from the first moment they saw the red star. Surely and not slowly the enthusiasm which had crowned Sophy was turning into a fear which made the people shrink from her even while they pitied, even while they did not cease to love. The head of Heaven was against her and against those who were near her, said the women. The men still feigned not to hear. Had they not taken Heaven to witness that they would serve her and avenge the king? Alas, their simple vow was too primitive for days like these—too primitive for the days of the great guns which lay on the bosom of the Krath.

Dunstanbury had an interview with Sophy early on Tuesday morning, the day after Stafnitz had started for Kolskoi. He put his case with the bluntness and honesty native to him. In his devotion to her safety he did not spare her the truth. She listened with the smile devoid of happiness which her face now wore so often.

"I know it all," she said. "They begin to look differently at me as I walk through the street—when I go to the church. If I stay here long enough, they'll all call me a witch. But didn't they swear? And I—haven't I sworn? Are we to do nothing for monseigneur's memory?"

"What can we do against the guns? The men can die and the walls be tumbled down. And there are the women and children!"

"Yes, I suppose we can do nothing. But it goes to my heart that they should leave monseigneur's guns."

"Your guns!" Dunstanbury reminded her, with a smile of whimsical sympathy.

"That's what they say in the city, too?" she asked.

"The old hags, who are clever at the weather and other mysteries. And of course Mme. Zerkovitch!"

Sophy's smile broadened a little. "Oh, of course poor little Marie Zerkovitch!" she exclaimed. "She's been sure I'm a witch ever since she's known me."

"I want you to come over the frontier with me and Basil Williamson. I've some influence, and I can insure your getting through all right."

"And then?"

"Whatever you like. I shall be utterly at your orders."

She leaned her head against the high chair in which she sat, a chair of old oak, black as her hair. She fixed her profound eyes on his.

"I wish I could stay here—in the little church—with monseigneur," she said.

"By heavens, no!" he cried, startled into sudden and untimely vehemence.

"All my life is there," she went on, paying no heed to his outburst.

"Give life another chance. You're very young."

"You can't count life by years any more than hours by minutes. You reckon the journey not by the clock, but by the stages you have passed. Once before I loved a man, and he was killed in battle. But that was different. I was very hurt, but I wasn't maimed. I'm maimed now by the death of monseigneur."

"You can bring ruin on these folk, and you can't give yourself up to Stenovics." He could not trust himself to speak more of her feelings nor of the future. He came back to the present needs of the case.

"It's true—and yet we swore!" She leaned forward to him. "And you—aren't you afraid of the red star?"

Have You Tried?

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? We can furnish positive proof that it has made many remarkable cures after all other means had failed.

Women who are suffering with some form of female illness should consider this.

As such evidence read these two unsolicited testimonial letters. We guarantee they are genuine and honest statements of facts.

Gardiner, Maine.—"I was a great sufferer from a female disease and weakness. The doctor said I would have to go to the hospital for an operation but I could not bear to think of it.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me in three months."—Mrs. S. A. Williams, R.F.D. No. 14, Box 39, Gardiner, Me.

So. West Harbor, Me.—"I suffered for years with painful periods, backache, headaches, nervousness, irregularities and inflammation. I consulted two physicians and one advised me to have an operation.

"I was completely discouraged when I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has made me a well woman. I advise all suffering women to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Lillian Robbins, South West Harbor, Me.

Evidence like the above is abundant showing that the derangements of the female organism which breed all kinds of miserable feelings and which ordinary practice does not cure, are the very disorders that give way to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who are afflicted with similar troubles, after reading two such letters as the above, should be encouraged to try this wonderfully helpful remedy.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

BROTHER TOLD BROTHER

One Suffered for Fifteen Years, the Other for Thirteen.

The convincing powers of a testimonial were never more clearly shown than in the case of Mr. Hugh Brown. A brother, Lemuel Brown, of Avondale, N.B., read in the paper about Hon. John Costigan being cured by "Fruit-a-tives." Knowing the Senator would only endorse a medicine which had cured him, Mr. Lemuel Brown tried "Fruit-a-tives." They cured him of Chronic Indigestion and Constipation, so he urged his brother to try them.

Hartland, N.B., Oct. 28th, 1907.

"Three doctors told me that I had Liver Disease and serious Stomach Trouble. My stomach was very weak. I took their medicines for thirteen years and grew worse. My brother (who was cured of terrible Indigestion by "Fruit-a-tives" after suffering for 15 years), recommended me to try these wonderful tablets. I bought half a dozen boxes and have just finished the sixth. I eat all kinds of hearty food without distress and am greatly improved in every way. "Fruit-a-tives" also cured the Chronic Constipation which was so distressing in my case."

OLD CANADIAN LIBRARY

KING'S COLLEGE, WINDSOR, N.S., IS MOST ANCIENT.

Quaint Little Institution In Maritime Provinces Contains Some Bibliographical Treasures to Gladden the Heart of the Bookworm — Nova Scotian Lawyer Left It as a Labor of Love—Oldest Book In Canada.

To the lover of old books there can be no library in the whole length and breadth of the Dominion so well worthy of an examination and visit as that of Canada's oldest and smallest university, the library of King's College, Windsor, N.S., in the land of Evangeline. Here are some priceless bibliographical treasures, in many respects unequalled in the rest of Canada; while many are unknown in their original copies to the rest of America. But how, you will ask, did they come there? The pick of these fine collections of Aldines, Elzevirs, and Stephens — these sumptuous works from the old hand presses of Jenson at Venice, Corberger at Nuremberg, Froben at Basel, Plantin at Antwerp, and many other printers whose names are writ in gold in the heavens of the bibliomaniac, — the pick of them were works collected together by an old Nova Scotian lawyer who spent his small savings in collecting them at a time when such works demanded only a few dollars where they demand now hundreds. A wise man was this Akins; and when he bequeathed to the little brown college on the hill bowered in its elms, no less than 402 volumes of this type, he was giving it a fortune, dowering it with a collection of fifteen and sixteenth century books which has, in all probability, no peer on this side of the Atlantic for uniqueness. He was fortunately able to eke out the mere pittances asked for them in the days before the antique passion had become a millionaire rage. Fortunately, too, he had the sense to love and value the old work of the early printers as things never to lose their perpetual charm, but with the passage of time to become the source of much curiosity and legend, besides historical value. Their present intrinsic value probably never occurred to him as he lovingly handled his rare first editions; and as the days went pleasantly by, with what delight must he have added treasure on treasure to his few but choicely select shelves. Later on, old Dr. McCawley, an early president of the college, gave it 50 additional volumes in 1872, containing no less than ten editions of classical authors printed before 1500. Soon after he added to his gift 167 volumes

The library is at present housed in a grey stone Gothic structure in the college grounds; erected on the side of a sloping knoll and built of porous stone that had been saturated with [illegible]; it was found that the incline was too much for the building, and consequently a tower had to be built on the south side, to act as a kind of buttress to hold the whole building from sinking. It resembles on a small scale the collegiate buildings one sees in Oxford. The books themselves are preserved in the separate libraries of their donors, such as the Akins, the Hodgson, the McCawley libraries; the more valuable works being shelved in glass cabinets.

There are several ancient manuscripts of very great beauty and elegance of execution preserved for inspection in table cases. These include among others a manuscript of 21 leaves on the Four Evangelists (circ. 1,300) on vellum bound in morocco with gilt edges, with representations of the evangelists in colors and gold; a beautifully rubricated Bibliae Concordantia, also of the 13th century; a 14th century missal from the Jesuits' College at Louvain, in France; a MS. of the Persian poet Hafiz, with several colored illustrations; and an old Acadian MS. There is also an original draft of the English poet Cowper's tale in verse, "The Needless Alarm," in four small quarto leaves. One poet, whose name will ever be associated with Canada as the author of her most beautiful boating song, the Irishman, Tom Moore, has left his mark here too in the College Library, which he visited while in Canada, presenting to it a copy of the Greek humorist, Lucian, containing his autograph, dated September 27, 1804, with the inscription, "non movet aestimatione, sed est mnemosunon."

But it is not here the riches of the college library lie; but over there where the Aldines are. These contain some lovely specimens from the famous press of the Mantuan or Aldine family noted for the elegance and the correctness of its productions. The firm opened about 1490, and in 1494 published its first work, known to be from its own type; and continued in operation until 1597. The pride of the college set is the rare editio princeps of the works of the Greek philosopher, Aristotle, which took the firm four years to publish (1495-98). It comprises four folios bound up in two volumes, and is on the whole in excellent preservation. When we think what a great influence this work, with the clear, hard thinking of its old pagan writer had on the dawn of the Renaissance in Europe we begin to realize not perhaps its great intrinsic value, but its historical interest. In all there are eighteen Aldines in the library—a number perpetually within four walls, equal to that only temporarily gathered together from all quarters for the Caxton Celebration at Montreal in 1877. Among them is the highly-prized volume of Petrarch's poems (1514); the rare editio princeps of Plato (1513); and a peculiar edition of the Iliad.

But older than them all, probably the oldest printed book in Canada, stands here a folio in simple monastic binding with clasps, but without signatures, catchwords, or pagination. It is the "Speculum Vitae Humanae," of the Bishop Rodericus—a mirror of human life in mediaeval times. It was printed on the 3rd of January, 1471, at Augsberg by Gunther Zainer; the beautiful broad Gothic type is as clear to-day and bright as when it left the press of the old printer.

A BUSY SESSION.

Past Ontario Legislature Sitting Has Broken Two Records.

The Legislative session just closed is the briefest and busiest on record. In eight weeks 262 measures have been dealt with, as against 240 last year in a sitting nearly twice as long.

The larger units in the completed program of law-making are:

A measure of law reform, the main feature of which is a limitation of appeals.

Progress of the power policy in validation of contracts and authority to raise money to build the provincial transmission line.

The creation of the new town of Gowganda in the Temagami forest reserve.

The establishment of a legal standard for the equipment and conduct of licensed hotels, and provision for standard temperance hotels under provincial license and supervision.

The changing of the financial year, and limiting of the powers of the Provincial Auditor.

Increased protection provided for men working in the mines, with severe penalties for non-observance.

General consolidation of the statutes.

Improved operation of the provincial insurance laws.

Extensive grants and re-grants of land and money to railway corporations to build or extend lines in Northern Ontario, the most important being the grant of 2,000,000 acres to the C.N.R. to complete its line west to Port Arthur.

He Missed One Detail.

In the daily grind of newspaper life reporters are often guilty of some freakish and many funny performances.

The limit was reached, however, a few days ago by a young scribe on a Toronto evening paper. He had been assigned to "cover" the funeral of the late Brother Odo Baldwin, Inspector of Separate Schools in Toronto, and as his time was limited he did it hurriedly. He turned in half a column of nicely-written "stuff" to his city editor. The latter came out a few minutes later to the reporters' room and remarked with a frigid smile:

"By the way, M——, you have missed one minor detail in this 'story.' You didn't mention the name of the man who has been buried."

Confusedly glancing over his copy the blushing reporter saw that not once in that half-column had he mentioned the name of the deceased dignitary, and he hastily supplied the important omission.

Australia Holds Back.

The Australian Commonwealth Government has now given the decision with reference to the all-red mail route proposals submitted to it by Mr. Coulter, Deputy Postmaster-General of Canada. The Commonwealth Government, while sympathizing with and recognizing the importance of the scheme for an all-red route, has decided that the present condition of its finances precludes Australia from concurring in the proposals made. The all-red route scheme is for a service of fast steamers between Great Britain and Canada, a fast train service across Canada to Vancouver, and a steamship service thence to New Zealand and Australia. The estimated subsidy required was £1,000,000. Canada was prepared to pay an annual subsidy of £325,000, provided that New Zealand paid £100,000, Australia £75,000, and Great Britain the balance of £500,000.

And All From Tips.

The man who has the coat and hat stand in one of New York's big restaurants pays $3,000 a year for the privilege. In addition he pays $10 a week to his boys who take the overcoats and hats, keeps them in uniforms, so many suits a year, and makes a great deal of money for himself. How much the public pays in tips can be imagined when this system prevails not only in this restaurant, but in many of the big cafes and hotels of the city. The tip at these places is rarely less than a quarter and sometimes is as much as a dollar.

All Done by Lightning.

Lightning struck the steeple of the little village church of Gassin, near Toulin, France, the other day. The electric fluid, it is stated, followed the iron cable which is used to ring the church bell and set the bell ringing. Then it tore the door off a cupboard containing a number of candlesticks and lit all the candles as though by enchantment. It completed its antics by ripping up the floor of the sacristy, but, so it is said, previously rolled up the carpet with perfect symmetry.

Too Cautious.

Mayme—You refused that handsome young lawyer? Why, I thought you liked him.

Maybelle—I did, but when he proposed to me he put it in the form of a hypothetical question 400 words long.—Chicago Tribune.

Brockville's Peat Deposits.

An expert is to be sent from the Department of Inland Revenue at Ottawa to examine the peat deposit just north of Brockville. The bogs reach for several miles east.

I'll Explain Why I Always Drive a GENDRON

"You see the breaking of the springs causes us baby drivers more trouble than any other weakness in carriage cars.

But there is no spring weakness in the GENDRON car. Note that double curve. It is exclusive with the GENDRON It so distributes the strain that the spring never breaks.

And then the wheels,—you see they are specially welded, and cannot warp or break.

Note also that little rubber cap over the nut of the axle. Sometimes when I have a restless passenger, I want to drive the car around the house without scratching the furniture—it is a little point, but a good one. The materials for all the GENDRON cars are the very best in the bodies, tops and every other part. There is style and service in every GENDRON model—Canadian made, so that any unexpected accident can be easily remedied."

Newbro's Herpicide
IS PRAISED BY PAULA A. EDWARDES

HERPICIDE CO

Paula A. Edwardes, the well-known theatrical star, writes as follows:

"I am charmed with Newbro's Herpicide. It is a refreshing hair remedy, producing a beautiful lustre and a luxuriance of growth; at the same time keeping the scalp free from dandruff"
Very truly yours.
(Signed) PAULA A. EDWARDES.
New York City

Good results from the use of Newbro's Herpicide mean as much to one person as to another, but on the other hand, the fact that leading theatrical stars prefer Newbro's Herpicide is an important point in its favor. Professional people have an inclination and an opportunity—not enjoyed by others—to discriminate in their choice of toilet remedies and their opinions should not go unheeded.

The extraordinary success of Newbro's Herpicide is due to the simple fact that it kills the dandruff germ. While other remedies treat the disease that results in hair loss, Newbro's Herpicide destroys the cause of the disease, after which nature grows the hair, if it is not too late.

Chronic baldness cannot be cured, but before the hair follicles are too badly diseased, one can, by careful treatment and intelligent sanitary care, keep down and ultimately destroy the tiny vegetable growth (dandruff germ) whose continued presence in the sebaceous glands of the scalp means hair destruction.

Ladies become enthusiastic over Newbro's Herpicide because it brightens up the hair and keeps it light and fluffy.
Stops itching of scalp almost instantly.
Delightfully refreshing.

Send 10 cents in stamps to THE HERPICIDE COMPANY Dept. L., Windsor Ont. for sample and booklet.

Digging For Money.

The honest workman was engaged in excavating operations—i. e., he was digging. The stray wayfarer of the inquisitive turn of mind stopped for a moment to look on.

"My man," said the S. W. at length, "what are you digging for?"

The H. W. looked up.

"Money," he replied.

"Money?" ejaculated the amazed S. W. "And when do you expect to strike it?"

"Saturday," replied the H. W. and resumed operations.

Wasted Effort.

Kind Old Lady (talking to a tramp)—Have you ever made an effort to get work?

Tramp—Yes, ma'am. Last month I got work for two members of my family, but neither of them would take it. —London Telegraph.

His Periodical.

"Do you take any periodicals?" asked the new clergyman on his first round of parish visits.

"Well, I don't," replied the woman, "but my husband takes 'em frequent. I do wish you'd try to get him to sign the pledge!"

A Big Floating Island.

A feature of the celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the discovery of Lake Champlain, to which the entire week of July is to be given up, will be an island, made to order, built on barges and having real trees, rocks, grass, a stockade and Indian wigwams, to be used by a party of nearly 200 Indians from Canada.

The Indians will take part in a sham battle, planned to represent with historical accuracy one of the conflicts between the forces of Champlain and the Iroquois. The Indians, in canoes, will come down the lake and land on broad "beaches" made of wooden wings hinged to the sides of the island. The pageant of Hiawatha, which the Indians will also present, is taken from their own legend, differing in some respects from that of Longfellow.

The island will be towed alongshore for celebrations at various points.

WOULD YOU CONVICT ON CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE?

The BELTED SKELETON

A TRUE STORY

(Copyright, 1909, by the New York Herald Co. All Rights Reserved.)

BARTOW S. WEEKS, formerly Assistant District Attorney of New York county, who defended Roland B. Molineaux in the celebrated murder trial, says:—

"It is absurd to state that innocent men are in no danger of conviction through circumstantial evidence. But the danger does not lie in the law. It lies in the fact that juries may be influenced by prejudice or public excitement to disregard the rules of evidence, which say that in a case of circumstantial evidence each separate fact must be consistent with guilt, and the whole hypothesis must be inconsistent with innocence.

"A case of circumstantial evidence is not to be compared so much to a chain, in which each link must be perfect, as to a rope, which is no stronger than its weakest strand, each part being essential throughout the whole.

"There is some chance for a wrong through direct evidence. Witnesses may commit perjury or be mistaken. But the ever present menace to the innocent man accused of a crime is the possibility that the jury may not see the rent in the net of circumstance that should, in justice, show his guilt to be impossible."

THEY bore on toward the reddened west, footsore and cheerless. It had been a wearying, toilsome journey since their start early that morning, with a disappointment to loosen the grip of resolution. Williams, unused to more exertion than the juggling of bolts of cloth and the measuring of fabrics, had been ready to drop these two hours. Mahorn, sturdier of frame and muscle as of purpose, held doggedly to the track and would hear of no pause before they reached the county seat, that lay six miles or so ahead. As for lumbering Johnson, the third of the companions, his courage lacked the pith of his limbs and he had announced that soldiering was not for him and that he would turn for home at the crossroads.

They halted in the dust on reaching that point. Far back of them lay the town to which they had journeyed, only to find that the enlistment station had been abandoned. Ahead was the county seat, for which, as they now knew, they should have struck at the first. To the right stretched a fair, easy way to the home hamlet they had quitted with high hearts fully ten hours before. An hour's walk would lead to it, along the short leg of the triangle. They had practically retraced their steps.

"I'm out of it," said Williams, sullenly, leaning on the hickory staff that had propped his steps since noon. "I can't make another yard to-day, and I won't."

Mahorn turned on him impatiently.

"Don't be a milk sop, Dan. I've started to enlist and I'll be on the roll to-night or not at all. It's all right for Johnson, here, if he wants to quit. Nobody knows him more than they do me. But how about your folks if you go trailing back after the send off they gave you? Fine picture you'll make. Gone to the wars in the morning and back by nightfall. Get a little grit and come on."

"But can't we camp here for the night?" whined Williams.

"No, we can't and we won't. I'm going on."

"You wouldn't leave me, would you, Henry? I'm ashamed to go back with Johnson. And you know I'm without a cent. If you get there ahead of me I'll never find you, and then what can I do? You promised you'd see me through."

Henry Mahorn glanced at faint heart with a sidelong sneer.

"Do you really think that makes any difference to me? I wasn't aware of any claim you held on my pocket."

The tired man regarded the other spitefully.

"You said you'd see me to the recruiting station. You induced me to go along on that basis. All you wanted was company on the road, wasn't it? And now we're nearly there you don't care whether I stand up or whether I die by the roadside. You're a pleasant man for a comrade. I hope we're not in the same company. If we are I could tell some things about you that would make you mighty unpopular."

Heat Jangles Nerves.

"See here," broke in Mahorn, with some heat. "That's enough. Your nerves are all of a jangle, and so are mine, with this confounded heat. We've started on a serious business and I won't be delayed for any one I don't care a wrap for. Is that plain? As for my standing over there, you left town because you weren't any too well beloved yourself, if it comes to that."

A dark flush swept the face of the slighter man. His lips, loose hung and nerveless, twitched as he raised a tight clenched hand. When he spoke his voice came in a shrill scream:—

"You—you—hound! I'm done with you. Go on! Go on! A curse go with you on the first battle field, if you're man enough to reach it. And if I can follow I'll make trouble for you yet."

He stood, mumbling and shaking with the wrath that filled and mastered him as the other, making no answer, turned and strode on his way. Johnson grinned, dropped a word of parting and took the homeward road.

The long, purple shadows that had lain in wait behind each tree and clump of underbrush spread swiftly upon the landscape. There was no house in sight. Mahorn's figure, as it swung along to the next turn, dusty, limping, and that of Johnson ascending a slight rise were the only living things that met the roving eye of Williams. In a minute he would be alone in the sombre plain, with nowhere to rest his head, with not a crust to stay his hunger. He was a man who had lived softly, if not too well, and the outlook struck a chill into him. There were guerillas in the country, people said, and more than one man had lost his life along the road, even penniless men. Presently it would be dark.

Mahorn was rounding the turn now—Mahorn, whom he hated, but who was at least a man. And Mahorn had money, which meant food, protection, shelter. He started from his leaning posture against the hickory staff and shouted:—

"Henry! Oh, Henry! Wait a second; I'm coming."

Mahorn halted while Williams, with painful but hasty steps, came on after him. Johnson, at the top of the rise, turned and watched the scene, then grinned and resumed his way.

* * * * * * *

The tide of war had rolled back. The tramping hundreds of thousands had marched in the last review and turned their hands once more to the works of peace. The little wayside hamlet in Illinois welcomed its heroes. Among the last of the living to be accounted for was Daniel Williams, a changed man, strong, wiry, upright, alert, bronzed, with a corporal's stripe on his uniform well won at Vicksburg. People were proud of Williams.

One of those who had not returned was Henry Mahorn. It was a time of unexplained gaps in communities. Obscure engagements, forgotten burial grounds, camp hospitals had their unwritten lists of dead. Families suffered untold agonies of suspense in waiting for the troops to come home. Mahorn had had no family. There were few to wonder what his fate had been and fewer to care. He had lived in the town only a year.

There came a day when a farmer coming to market brought in a story that caused a mild sensation. A laborer wandering through a patch of woods off the road to the county seat had come upon a skeleton perched in the lower branches of a tree.

The man who took charge of the investigation was John Thorpe, a deputy sheriff, one of those who had done manful work for the preservation of order at home while others gained more glory at the front. His duty had led him into as deadly warfare, however, for Southern Illinois had been infested with bandits, guerillas and sham combatants, the buzzards of the conflict, preying upon the unprotected of either side. Thorpe was tall, thin, quick handed, sharp eyed and capable. His courage was unquestioned, as was his claim by right of character and training to the pursuit of criminals.

Discovery of the Crime.

Thorpe found the farmer's report to be true. A farm hand—Tobin—employed some miles distant, had been exploring aimlessly in a wooded patch when he made the startling discovery. A wild plum tree grew with a curious formation, presenting a natural chair where its two main branches left the trunk three feet above the ground. In this, supported partly by the tree, partly by the mass of thrusting twigs and shoots that grew about, half hung, half leaned the skeleton of a man.

It was complete, nor had the stress of weather deprived it of some fragments of a suit of clothes that flapped in tatters upon the fleshless limbs. Its position in the tree had been secured further by means of a thin leather belt, of unusual length, that had been passed about its middle, holding down the arms, and fastened under the branch that served as the back of the reclining chair.

Its head was sunk upon its upper ribs and from a little distance in the shadowy wood there was a semblance of wearied life in its pose, as of some worker relaxed in sleep or an exhausted mariner lashed to a spar. To all appearance it had remained undisturbed for five years or so, possibly longer. The spot where the plum tree grew stood on a part of a large estate that had never known the axe and would draw few visitors.

Thorpe proceeded with his preliminary notes upon the circumstances surrounding the finding of the skeleton and its present condition. With native prevision he foresaw that some detail of trifling immediate moment might bear a weighty relation to the case, if the affair should so shape that any explanation of the mystery might be advanced.

In truth he had little hope of such an outcome. The country had grown used to the traces of sudden death. A thicket here and there upon the fringe of the war torn sections might easily hide a fearful secret to which the key had been lost. But with ready method and conscientious care he set his wits to work upon the matter.

One of the first things that a study of the skeleton's position conveyed to him was assurance that the man had never placed himself in the tree. The belt, besides holding the arms to the sides, was buckled on the under side of the trunk. The buckle itself was unusually small and the tongue had been slipped through it. Again, he shrewdly marked that a living, resisting prisoner could not have been fastened in such a manner, since the pressure of the belt, coming just above the forearm, would have failed to prevent the instant freeing of the arms by a twisting pull. It was evident that the victim had been either dead or senseless when placed upon the tree.

The belt was something of a puzzle. The tongue was a separate strip of leather, sewn to the body of the article and tapering. The buckle was held by another separate strip, sewn to the other end in the same way. Thorpe had never seen such a belt.

As he circled the plum tree his eye caught a scar upon the branch that faced the skeleton. Stepping closer he made out a rough carved emblem that added the last touch of the bizarre and grotesque to the strange picture. It was a cross, the bars widened at the end to suggest the conventional bones. To the serious minded Thorpe this discovery seemed unreal. It threw a hint of mockery, of stage effect, upon a grave matter. He almost resented it.

The space about the plum tree was grown with tangled vines and grasses. Thorpe tore his way among the matted obstruction for possible further clews. A lithe whip of a snake glided away from beneath his feet and flashed from sight. Thorpe instinctively plucked up a dead branch and struck at it. The stick landed upon a tuft below which was some object that gave back a sound from the blow. He uprooted the tuft. Beneath lay a thing that he could not distinguish at first from the soil about it. Lifting it carefully he found it to be a briar pipe, with a bone stem, incrusted with decayed vegetation, but well preserved. It was mounted with parallel bands of twisted silver, tarnished but whole.

Nothing further rewarding his search through the undergrowth, he turned his attention to the skeleton. The utmost care exercised by the deputy and his assistants did not suffice to dislodge the bones from their resting place in perfect condition. It was necessary to reconstruct the frame with the parts laid out upon a plank.

With all the bits of evidence it was then placed in a farmer's wagon and taken to the village. Here Thorpe set about obtaining the expert information which was indispensable to the next step in the investigation and which it lay beyond his province to pass upon. Two physicians were summoned and made an examination.

The skeleton was pronounced to be that of a man not more than thirty years old, about five feet nine inches in height and of powerful build. Death, it was determined, probably had been caused by a blow from some heavy weapon, a club or the butt of a rifle, just above the bridge of the nose. The skull between the eyes had been fractured. There were traces of other abrasions, but, in the opinion of the examiners, no other blow had been struck upon the head that could have caused death, although one of them might have induced insensibility. They did not think that the shattering of the forehead had been caused by a bullet, owing to the nature of the depression. There were no marks upon the ribs to indicate the glancing of a knife or other foreign body.

The skull was in good condition and offered a promising opportunity for identification. The teeth were particularly well preserved, and one feature here was of first importance to Thorpe's purpose, since in life it must have been apparent to all who knew or had held conversation with the man. The canine tooth on the left side of the lower jaw projected outward to a marked degree. Nor was this the result of a loosening in the socket. The bone of the jaw was slightly malformed, with a twist in its curve that held the tooth permanently at an angle.

Another fact that Thorpe found worth noting was that a molar on the same side of the jaw had been broken off above the roots. There were indications that the tooth had been decayed and the physicians concurred in the belief that it might have been snapped by forceps during an attempt to extract it.

The clothing, such as remained, was of a poor and cheap texture. There were some rags of a cotton shirt. The coat and trousers had been of blue shoddy. A mouldering fold of the coat retained part of what had been a pocket, and in this the deputy sheriff discovered another fragment of potential evidence. It was a small roll of cheap gold braid, rotted into a mass but still capable of being classified by any dealer in dry goods.

Thorpe caused the skeleton and the clothing to be laid out in the town hall for public inspection, relying upon recognition of the relics by some chance visitor. He won his point much sooner than he had expected. The first man who viewed the skeleton was the postmaster, who made an instant identification. He said:—

"That's Henry Mahorn. There never was but one man who carried a tooth in his head like that."

Teeth In Evidence.

Corroboration was full and satisfactory. All who had known Mahorn during his year of residence verified the pronouncement. The man's small but noticeable disfigurement was remembered by every person who remembered him at all. Identity was further established by the statement of Brooks, an itinerant dentist who visited the village once each year. He declared that he had attempted to extract the decayed molar for Mahorn, but that it had broken under the forceps. He also recalled the prominent tooth.

Thorpe's first care in reconstructing the movements of Mahorn attending his departure was to fix the date. This at first presented some difficulty, since there had been no one to bid him farewell. But the blacksmith recalled that Mahorn had marched off to the east for a town where the enlisting station was supposed to be located and that he had gone in company of Daniel Williams and Thomas Johnson. Williams was now employed as a cooper and Thorpe knew and liked him. He made his next application for information of the former counter jumper.

Williams readily recalled the day's journey with the other two men, the disappointment at finding that the enlistment station had been closed, Johnson's defection and the continued tramp with Mahorn. He said that after leaving the cross roads he and Mahorn had gone forward without loss of time, reaching the county seat in the early evening. He had parted from Mahorn, he said, as soon as they entered the town.

"Are you sure you have found Mahorn's body?" asked Williams. "I believe you're on the wrong track."

"What makes you say that? Have you seen the skeleton?"

"No," answered Williams, with some hesitation. "But I don't see how it could be Henry Mahorn."

He repeated his narration of the trip with Mahorn with a ready flow of words. To Thorpe the man's conversation seemed a trifle too smooth and detailed. Considering the lapse of time he could have understood a halting speech more easily. He left Williams in an irritated mood. He could not shake off the feeling that the cooper was hiding something from him. And why should Williams wish to hide anything from him? He was in the street when a thought came to him and he returned.

"Have you any idea what became of Mahorn?" he asked.

"Yes," said Williams. "He enlisted in the Tenth Missouri Volunteers. I suppose he was shot or died in a hospital.

"But you just said he left you when you reached the town."

The nimble tongue of Williams tripped for a second and ran on.

"Well, he told me that was the regiment he wanted so I suppose he joined."

It took a week to run down Johnson. The deputy sheriff found him working as a laborer on a farm in another part of the county. Johnson told his story in straightforward manner. One day had cured him of the war fever, he said, but Mahorn was a man to go through with his plans. He described his parting with the other two at the crossroads and spoke of the words between Mahorn and Williams, recalling with a grin how the weaker character had yielded and had followed the stronger down the road. Thorpe was inclined to be very suspicious concerning this suggestion of a quarrel and questioned Johnson keenly and at length. He found no ill nature in his man. The narrative, as the investigator determined to his own satisfaction, was colored by no dark, unconfessed motive.

Sure of the Pipe.

But he had not exhausted the possibilities of Johnson as a witness. He pulled from a pocket the pipe he had found by the plum tree and which he had meantime restored to its original condition. Holding this before Johnson he asked him sharply if he knew whose it was.

"Sure. That belongs to Williams," was the prompt answer.

"How do you know?"

"Couldn't miss it. Nobody else has a pipe with silver trimmings like that. I tried to buy it from him once, but he wouldn't part with it."

"Did Williams carry a pistol when you went off together to enlist?"

"Not that I knew of, and I'm pretty sure he couldn't have had one without my knowing it."

"Was he armed in any way?"

"Not what you might call armed. He carried a hickory staff he'd cut, if that's what you mean?"

"Was it heavy staff?"

"Middling heavy. A good stout stick."

One more matter was settled by Thorpe before his return to the village. He visited Missouri, obtained the records of the Tenth Missouri Volunteers and scanned them for Mahorn's name. He could not find it. Pending answers from inquiries at Washington he hurried back with the information he had obtained. His duty was plain. Williams had lied concerning Mahorn's movements. A pipe belonging to Williams, which was now identified by three other persons besides Johnson, had been found by the skeleton. There had been a quarrel between the men, who were last seen together on the road which passed the lonely wood. So far it was possibly not a strong enough case for conviction, but it called for the apprehension of Williams.

On the strength of the evidence held by Thorpe Williams was held for murder at the inquest.

The investigator continued with his task. He turned next to an examination of the room that had been occupied by the prisoner in the house of the master cooper, his employer. As he had hoped, he found the kit that Williams had carried through the war and a collection of mementos and relics. Sorting these articles, he appropriated each one that offered any chance of a clew and set it aside as a possible aid. He had nearly completed the search, which he undertook more with an idea of covering the available ground thoroughly than with any great hope of success, when, in turning over some odds and ends of garments in an old box, he came upon a thin leather belt. He was in the act of tossing it idly to one side when a flash of recollection came to him. The belt he held was the exact duplicate of the one that had bound the skeleton to the tree.

Following hard on the scent thus suddenly grown warm, the deputy sheriff set himself to strip this circumstance down to its naked significance. He hurried to the Town Hall with his find and laid it out on a table. Beside it he placed the belt that had clasped the skeleton. Allowing for the warping and usage of time upon both articles, the solution of the resemblance was at once apparent. He had before him the two halves of what had once been a wide, double belt. The small buckles, the sewn tongues, were identical on each. The original belt had been cut down the centre, rough hand, with a sharp knife. The irregularities along the inner edges fitted perfectly.

This circumstance was used as the cornerstone of the case against Daniel Williams, but Thorpe was able to lay his hand upon other important points before the trial. By dint of thorough and painstaking inquiry he found a man at the county seat who had known Williams and had recognized him on the night he arrived there tired and travel worn. This man had seen the prospective recruit at a small hotel and could swear with great positiveness that Williams was not accompanied by Mahorn, whom he also knew. The witness was also able to revive the memory of the proprietor of the hotel, who had not known Williams but could recall his visit through some trifling incident. Both agreed that Williams seemed to have money on the night in question. To set against this Thorpe advanced proof that Williams had been in great need of cash before leaving to enlist, the pressure of his debts having constituted part of his motive for seeking the front.

A few days before the trial word was received from Washington that no mention of a soldier named Henry Mahorn could be found.

Gold Braid the Missing Link.

One more accusatory piece of evidence was obtained by Thorpe. From the keeper of the little store where Williams had been employed before joining the army he learned that gold braid of the kind found in the pocket of the skeleton's coat had been carried in stock at the time of the war. Williams would have had access to this braid.

Why it should be found in Mahorn's pocket was not immediately clear, but the deputy sheriff finally settled that point to the satisfaction of the authorities. By the testimony of the blacksmith and Johnson he brought out that Mahorn had worn a suit of gray, according to their best belief, when he left the town, while Williams was dressed in dark blue. The skeleton's coat was blue. From this Thorpe advanced the theory that Williams had changed coats with Mahorn after murdering him, thus accounting for the presence of the braid.

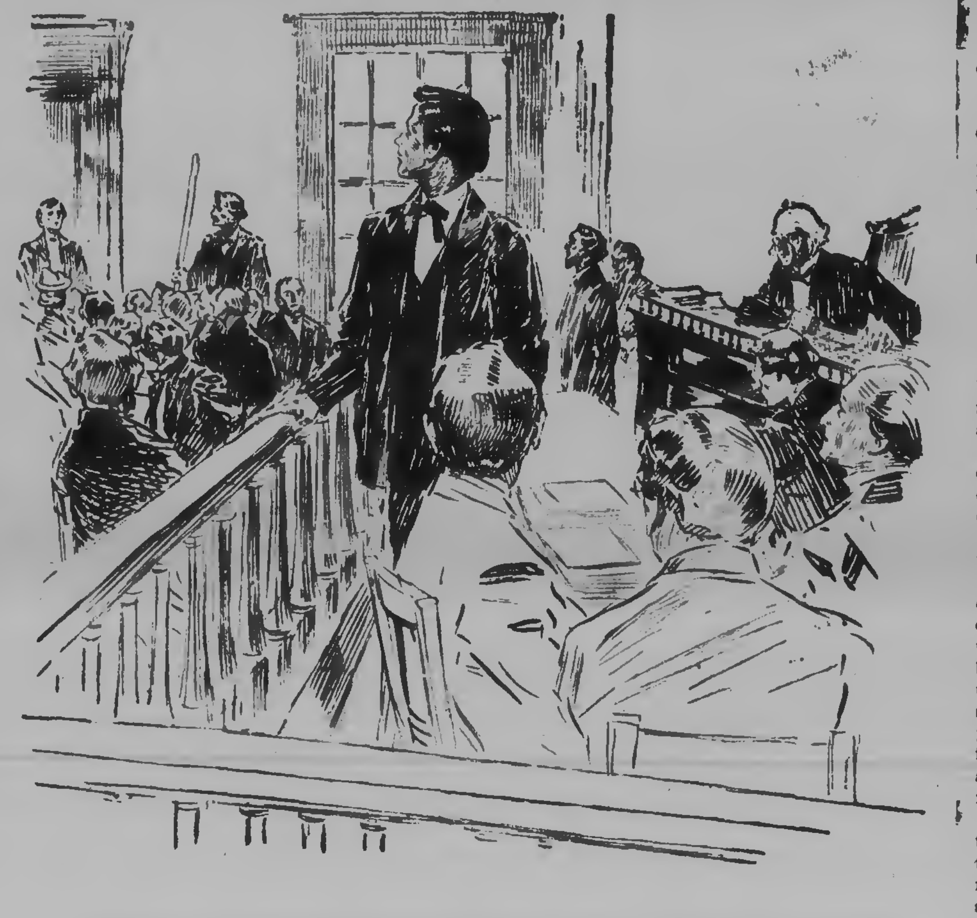
The case for the prosecution as collected by Thorpe began with a character sketch of each of the three companions and their adventures up to the crossroads. Williams was drawn as an irritable, petulant man, subject to fits of passion, during which he was capable of violence. This was supported by testimony. The mood that possessed him when he set out to overtake Mahorn was clearly pictured by the witness Johnson.

The view of the State was that Williams had formed the plan to murder Mahorn as he stood and watched the man march away, partly for the sake of his money, partly in revenge for his taunts and partly in resentment against the enforced travel. In the deepening twilight he had dropped back a step and struck the other a swinging blow with his staff. After robbing the body and changing coats with it he had dragged it into the woods. The remarkable position of the skeleton fastened by the belt in the tree was explained as a vagary of a morbid mind, possessed by some vague idea that possible pursuit could be thrown upon the blind trace of an imaginary secret band and the dark mysteries of a criminal brotherhood. Many similar cases were adduced to support this theory, into which the crossbone emblem on the trunk was fitted. It was shown clearly that the half belt and the silver mounted pipe were the property of the prisoner.

* * * * * * *

There was a stir in the court room. The jury entered, each man marked by a grave and preoccupied air. The question was put and the verdict of "guilty" was pronounced against Daniel Williams for the murder of Henry Mahorn. All eyes were turned upon the convicted man. He was looking toward the door. The insistence of his gaze made first one and then another glance in that direction. Soon judge, jury, counsel and spectators were staring at a figure that stood back of the last row of seats. It was Henry Mahorn in the flesh.

The only light that was ever thrown upon the presence of the skeleton in the woods was obtained from the story told by Mahorn. Making a round of the bars on the night of his arrival at the county seat, he had been set upon, beaten into insensibility and robbed of all his possessions. Before parting with Williams he had bought his companion's pipe and the half of the belt, his own having broken. These articles had been taken from him by the robbers. The sale explained how Williams came to have some money with him at the small hotel. On recovering consciousness next morning Mahorn had taken shame at his disgrace of the night before and had enlisted under an assumed name. He believed the skeleton to be that of one of the robbers, killed by the others during a quarrel in the woods. The gold braid and the resemblance the skeleton bore to his own peculiarities he could only explain as two of those strange coincidences that fill the annals of circumstantial evidence.



INSISTENCE OF HIS GAZE MADE FIRST ONE AND THEN ANOTHER GLANCE IN T HAT DIRECTION.

The Good the Ill Wind Blew

By VIRGINIA BLAIR.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

"Nothing could be more unfortunate," said Miss Cynthia.

Mazie agreed dejectedly. "If she had come at any other time."

"She will expect to be entertained," Miss Cynthia chimed in.

Mazie, tying on her veil before the mirror, decided: "We can have some good times with the girls. But there won't be any men, and Constantia can't exist without men."

"Nonsense," said Miss Cynthia. "She'll have to when she comes to Hilton."

Mazie talked the situation over later with Serena Sears.

"You see, I met Constantia at the seashore the summer I went with the Merrills, and I had lovely clothes, and we lived at the best hotels and did everything in the most approved way.

"I told Constantia that when I was at home with Aunt Cynthia I didn't have all the advantages and that my outing with the Merrills was just their farewell treat before they went abroad. But Constantia can't understand what life at Hilton is, and she will expect a gay time."

"Well, it's an ill wind that blows nobody any good," said Serena sententiously. "Perhaps she will liven us up a bit."

"Constantia could liven up a nunnery," Mazie told her, "but Hilton is hopeless."

Letters coming from Constantia told of her preparations.

"She is getting lots of pretty clothes," Mazie reported to Serena, "and where is she going to wear them?"

But Serena, true to her name, would not worry. "She will delight our eyes with them," she said. "I haven't seen an up to date gown for so long that I'd rather gaze on it than on a Rembrandt."

The day of Constantia's arrival Mazie put the big old fashioned house in order, while Aunt Cynthia baked delectable things.

Serena Sears came in the afternoon. "If Constantia hasn't the good taste to enjoy this lovely old room and Aunt Cynthia's tea and muffins and cocoanut cake she's a benighted individual," said she.

"But think of Constantia trailing pale blue broadcloth on this old rug!" wailed Mazie.

Mazie walked to the station, but she brought Constantia back in the only cab the town afforded. It was shabby and ramshackle, but the little horse was plump, and so was the driver.

"We feed people and animals well in Hilton," Mazie explained to Constantia. "Eating is our only diversion."

Constantia dimpled. "I think Hilton is dear," she emphasized.

But after they had driven a little way she said suddenly, "Mazie Langley, I don't believe I have seen a single man since we left the station."

"There aren't any," Mazie informed her. "I warned you. I told you in my letters that Hilton was deadly dull."

Constantia's laugh rippled. "Oh, you goosie," she said, "as if I cared! It will be a rest, if the girls are nice—a sort of bachelor girls' paradise."

Mazie nodded. "There is nothing for men to do in these Hampshire hills," she said, "and except a few merchants and the minister and the doctor there aren't any."

"Well, I wish Bobbie Dwyer could hear that," Constantia murmured.

"Who is Bobbie Dwyer?" Mazie demanded.

"Bobbie," Constantia explained, with elaborate and strangely earnest scornfulness, "is a lord of creation. I was engaged to him until one day he tried to dictate to me! Then, of course, I broke it off and told him there were some worse things than being an old maid, and he flung back at me that he should live single, for he could never trust a woman again, and then I told him that an old maid was happier than a bachelor, and he said if I tried it I'd find out, and, oh, I wish you had heard us!" And in spite of the tragedy of her recital Constantia laughed. "And I'm glad there aren't any men here—I hate them!"

Mazie's face glowed. "We will have a lovely time if you feel that way," she said.

Just then the ramshackle cab rounded a curve, and there was the old house, with Aunt Cynthia at the window and the light shining out behind her, and they went in and had tea and muffins and little cakes, and Mazie feasted her eyes on the picture Constantia made in her modish gown.

The next day Serena Sears came over.

"Mazie told me how pretty you were," she said quaintly, "and I told her I'd rather see you than a picture, but you are better than a whole art gallery."

And that afternoon a lot of girls came, pretty and fluttering creatures, who hung about Constantia admiringly.

"I love girls," she said when they had gone away.

That night more girls came, and in the afternoon there was a girls' tea, and at night a feminine galaxy came over and sat around the fire and popped corn and sang college songs.

When Constantia and Mazie went to bed that night the pretty guest remarked, "I love girls," but her voice lacked eager enthusiasm.

Several days later Serena Sears gave a dance.

"Of course there won't be any men," she said, "but we can all dress up and dance with each other, and the girls are crazy to see that white chiffon of yours, Constantia."

But when Constantia was arrayed in all her glory she surveyed herself thoughtfully in the mirror. "It seems a bit wasted," she murmured. "Bobbie always liked me in white."

The dance was not a great success. It lacked something, and that something Constantia said equivocally was men.

In the days that followed the girls still fluttered and admired, but Constantia looked at them with speculative eyes.

"It's a pity," she said over the teacups to Mazie, "that so many lovely girls should not marry."

"I thought old maidism was the happiest state," Mazie ventured.

"Of course for me," Constantia said hastily, "but for you and Serena and the others—oh, you ought to meet some nice men"—

And all that evening she was dreamy, and before she went to bed she wrote a letter.

Then she planned to give a cotillon before she left town.

"I will have the favors and refreshments sent out from the city," she said. "Everybody here has been so kind that I want to be hostess before I go."

Aunt Cynthia was induced to consent, and the girls of Hilton got out their best gowns.

When the caterer came with his host of assistants Aunt Cynthia sought Constantia in a great state of excitement. "You have ordered far too much," she said.

There was a faraway look in Constantia's eyes. "They will eat it up," she promised.

"But girls have such delicate appetites," Aunt Cynthia protested.

"Oh, girls!" Constantia murmured and dropped the subject.

But when she came downstairs to greet her guests she was so radiantly beautiful in pink and silver, with her eyes like stars, that Mazie caught her breath as she looked at her.

"Constantia!" she cried. "What has happened?"

Just then from without came the "honk-honk" of a motor horn, which was echoed by another and another, and as Mazie flung open the door, with the bevy of pretty girls behind her, there rolled up to the step a big red car in which were half a dozen radiant youths, and in the second car and in the third and the fourth, so that in all there were twenty-four men to match the twenty-four girls that Constantia had invited.

"I told Bobbie to bring them," Constantia said as she made the introductions, and when they had all danced away together she said to Bobbie Dwyer, who was hanging over her adoringly, "Men have their place—at a dance."

"How about husbands?" he demanded very promptly and authoritatively.

Constantia dropped her lashes over her happy eyes. "Oh, well," she capitulated, "I should hate to condemn you to bachelorhood, Bobbie, dear!"

But it was Serena who summed things up when three months later half a dozen engagements were announced in Hilton, among them Mazie's and her own.

"I told you the ill wind would blow some good," she said. "It blew Cupid into Hilton with Constantia."

Tale of a Car Ticket.

There was a goodly proportion of young men in the Sixteenth street car when she got in. It was a car with seats running longwise, so that the doubly blessed youths on the opposite side of the car could gaze to their hearts' content. And gaze they did, for never did car carry lovelier freight. Unaware that her advent in the car had changed the heart action of any of its passengers, her glorious brown eyes glanced serenely along the palpitating line of masculinity opposite as she tore a ticket from her strip and placed it between her rosebud lips while she replaced the strip in her tiny purse. Lucky ticket!

The enraptured young man nearest the door would have parted with a five spot to possess that equivalent of four and one-sixth cents. But here comes the strangest part. The conductor also noticed this most delectable resting place of milady's car ticket. And the conductor was young and not half bad looking, and the conductor was also smitten. A tiny hand reached up to the distracting mouth and, removing the ticket, handed it to the conductor. It is said that he blushed. Certain it is that he took the fare tenderly between two fingers and glanced at it pensively. Then—and the young man nearest the door is ready to swear to it—he deposited it carefully in an inside pocket, far removed from the storing place of all common tickets. And the question is, What did he do with it?—Pittsburg Press.

In a Perfume Factory.

Musk is perhaps the most valuable and delightful of all perfumes, yet the refiner as he opens the musk pods must wear thick cloths over mouth and nostrils, so repulsive is the odor that the pods emit. Indeed, this odor, inhaled for any length of time, causes nosebleed. Civet, karagulluc and ambergris have in small quantities a delicious perfume, but in large quantities they smell so abominable as to give the worker nausea. The hawthorn blossom is delicately sweet, and perfumers prize it highly, yet a roomful of hawthorn blossoms smells like a charnel house. This, too, is true of the tuberose.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Great Mystery.

There is one great mystery in God's universe—somewhere flows a fountain of life, where is one of God's secrets. How far its waters flow we cannot tell. No human feet have tracked its streams in their wanderings. The Father has decreed that we must drink of it to live, and yet he blinds our eyes with sleep before he lets us drink. When we awake the strength of the stream is in us, and so we make the journey of the day. And the strange waters have strange powers. Soul darkness and despair are melted in them; fear and trouble shrivel; hope and strength are held in sweet solution in their wakes. Worn and weary with the care and fret, closing her eyes as the tired lids fall in the gloom of night, the faint mother slips into the stream of sleep, and then in a little while the morning comes, and a new woman looks out upon the day with the secret of a new creation in her soul, new power and courage born of the waters of life.—Sturgis (Ky.) News-Democrat.

"Humble Pie."

Originally the term "humble pie" carried no opprobrious meaning. The pie was one made out of the "humbles" or "numbles," from the Norman French "nombrils"—i. e., the entrails of a deer. To this day it is highly esteemed in Scotland and in northern parts of England. So late as the time of Pepys "umble pie" was served as part of the menu of a gentleman's table on an extraordinary occasion. Some writers derive the contumelious use of the phrase "to eat humble pie" from an alleged custom of serving "umble pie" below the salt, or at the second table. But this is not supported by authority. It more probably came into use simply through the similarity of sound, there being no similarity of meaning whatever between the noun umbles or numbles and the adjective humble.

The Law of Gravitation.

In 1609—seventy-seven years before the publication of Newton's "Principia"—Shakespeare in the play of "Troilus and Cressida," act 4, scene 2, makes one of his characters say:

Do to this body what extremity you can,
But the strong base and building of my love
Is as the very center of the earth,
Drawing all things to it.

This would seem to look very like the announcement of the law of gravity, and yet nothing can possibly be truer than the fact that the great poet did not in any substantial sense anticipate the philosopher. Between Shakespeare's fancy and the scientific triumph of Newton there is an infinite difference.—New York American.

Moral Courage.

A schoolteacher once told her class that the courage which makes us do what we think right, regardless of the sneers of others, was moral courage, the best kind.

"Then if a boy has a box of candy, like me yesterday," said a lad, "and if he eats it all himself, without giving any to people that have no right to it, no matter how much they call him mean and stingy, that there's moral courage, ain't it, teacher?"

JOSEPH BRANT'S REMAINS.

Canadians Confident That the Great Chief's Bones Are Still Intact.

Joseph Brant, the Mohawk Chief, and known among his fellow redmen as Thayendanegea. possessed some of the elements of greatness. Some writers who have made a study of the aborigines, state that he was one of the greatest of all the North American Indians; others claim that of all the Indians who played a part in Canadian history. he was second only to Pontiac; but naturally Canadians give first place to Brant, for he made their cause his own, and fought shoulder to shoulder with the other defenders of the British flag while Pontiac's memorable feat was the formation of a conspiracy which had for its purpose the driving of the whites out of the West, and, in fact, the sweeping them off the continent. Perhaps Pontiac was the better organizer, but Brant had the broader outlook and a truer appreciation of the changed conditions of life in North America. Of course, Brant had the advantages of education and the world was to him a much bigger place than it was to the great war chief who beseiged Detroit.

It has always been supposed that the remains of Brant have been sleeping these many years in the churchyard of the Mohawk reservation a couple of miles outside the City of Brantford, where, at the close of the war of the American Revolution, a large number of the loyal Iroquois settled, and where their descendants to-day are progressive and prosperous farmers.

The Buffalo Historical Society are attempting to raise a doubt about all this. for they now have on exhibition part of a skeleton which some claim is that of Brant. The claim is based more on mystery than on ascertained fact. The bones have been deposited with the society by a friend who refuses to give his name, but who claims they came from Brantford, where for years they were in the possession of a well-known physician practicing there. Between this claim and establishing that they are the bones of Brant several important links in the chain of evidence are lacking; and until they are supplied Brant's fellow-countrymen on the reserve and Canadians generally will continue to believe that the remains of the Great Chief repose in their Canadian grave beside the banks of the Grand river.

The old Mohawk Church standing in the yard containing Brant's grave, possesses among other things of historical interest, a handsome communion service of beaten silver, each piece bearing an inscription stating that it was given to the Mohawks for the use of their chapel by Queen Anne. The armorial bearings of Queen Anne are also affixed to the walls of the church. The church bell was made in London in 1786, and was procured by Brant at the time of his visit to England.

Wills and Edmund Kean.

Irving used to tell with dramatic effect a story about W. G. Wills, the dramatist, who, among other services, wrote for him the play "Charles I." When Wills was a boy ten years old he was taken to see Edmund Kean play Macbeth. In the murder scene he was so affected by the realistic power of the actor that, seized with a severe attack of nausea, he hurried from the box. Ten years later he was lunching at a chop house in Fleet street when a man entered, sat down at a table near him and ordered a meal. He was a perfect stranger to Wills, who, after a few minutes' propinquity, was again seized with a fit of nausea, from which he had not suffered since as a boy he was at the theater on the occasion mentioned. He was obliged to leave the room. When some minutes later he paid his bill the waiter said to him: "Did you see that gentleman at the table near you? That's Edmund Kean."—H. W. Lucy in Cornhill Magazine.

KILL FOR THE SPORT OF IT.

Few Animals Who Do Not Slaughter For Simple Pleasure.

There are some species of our carnivorous animals which often kill for sport and there are few kinds of which some individuals at some time or other do not kill for the simple pleasure of killing, writes a nature student in Forest and Stream.

When I was a boy and there were wolves in Maine I have known four or five wolves to kill over 40 sheep in a single night in a town near here.

My father once saw 13 fully grown sheep which two wildcats had killed in one night on Mount Desert Island. I know of several cases where wildcats have entered barns and outbuildings and killed numbers of hens or ducks. Raccoons often kill hens which they cannot carry off. I know of many cases of foxes killing many hens or turkeys which they could not eat. I once saw the skin of a mink which a loup-cervier had killed. The person who had it said that there was a light snow, so he could see every motion. The loup-cervier had apparently met the mink by accident on the ice. He had bitten it through the back, dropped it and walked on.

I once saw a loup-cervier trapped which had killed several lambs. Red squirrels will kill more young birds than they can eat. I have known an otter to pile up a large lot of suckers which he must have caught just for sport. House cats often kill birds which they do not eat; they also often bring in moles, frogs and snakes which they kill for the fun of killing. I have no doubt that sable and fisher would kill poultry just as mink and raccoon do if they had the same opportunity.

Some birds also kill for sport. All ornithologists know of shrikes hanging up birds and mice which they do not need. I have several times seen sheldrakes kill scores of small fish just for fun. They bit them, dropped them and passed along. I have seen eight or ten sheldrakes doing this at a time. Goshawks kill for sport. I have known a goshawk in one morning to kill five ruffed grouse and leave them after tearing them in pieces.

It seems as if many animals and birds take as much pleasure in killing things for mere sport as many of our sportsmen and fishermen do.

Direct Answers.

The negroes of Africa are simple and direct in speech. It never occurs to them, writes Mr. R. H. Milligan in "The Jungle Folk In Africa," that the purpose of language is to conceal thought, and to commiserate the African for his color is a waste of sympathy. In illustration of this Mr. Milligan gives an amusing conversation with one of his pupils. One day when I was talking to Bojedi something in the course of the conversation prompted me to ask him whether he would like to be a white man. He replied respectfully but emphatically in the negative. I wished to know his reason. He hesitated to tell me, but I was insistent, and at last he replied:

"W[illegible] we think that we are better [illegible]

I gasped when I thought of the vastly ill looking faces I had seen in the jungles, and in apology for myself I said:

"But you have not seen us in our own country, where there is no malaria and where we are not yellow and green."

He quietly asked what color we were in our own country, to which I promptly replied, "Pink and white."

Looking at me steadily for a moment, he remarked:

"Mr. Milligan, if I should see you in your own country I don't believe I should know you."

Romance of a Canadian Journalist.

"He carried to Montreal nothing but a common school education and an alert brain, but to-day he is a millionaire newspaper owner and one of Canada's best citizens." That is how Sir Hugh Graham, the first Canadian journalist to be knighted, whose life story is a veritable romance, has been described. Sir Hugh commenced his career as an office boy on the Montreal Evening Telegraph, and in later years started The Daily Star. For some time the paper staggered under a huge load of debt. In fact, at one period Sir Hugh's credit was so low that he bought his coal by the bucketful, and paid for the paper day by day with the proceeds of the street sales of the evening before. And when a neighbor cut off the steam power, Graham triumphed over the difficulty by using horse power.

Invocation.

Eternal Father, God of our fair land,
A loyal nation lifts her heart to Thee;
Before the world we dare to take Thy hand,
Claiming Thy guidance to our destiny.

Our Message to the World.

Our word is peace, our rights are equal laws,
Our arms of love we spread from sea to sea.
Our life is progress toward the broader cause,
Our hope through justice to give liberty.

No tyrant owns us, and we own no slave,
But brothers see in all the good and true;
Home of the hopeful, refuge of the brave,
Here may despair her faith in man renew.

In amity we bind the rich and poor,
And break the shackles from the mind and soul,
By honest labor make contentment sure,
Still onward pressing to our destined goal.

Seeking by knowledge to let in the light,
To find the blessings Art and Science bring;
Till our vast lands with human smiles are bright,
And every league shall hear our children sing.

In our strong right we bid aggression halt,
And treason fear our British bugle call;
Our bond of Empire brooks no vile assault,
We rise with Britain or with Britain fall.

Our Destiny.

Thus shall we take our high and sovereign place,
And Canada for truth and honor stand;
A loyal people, a united race,
A happy nation in a glorious land.

SABLE ISLAND.

Tragedies of the Most Desolate of Canada's Island.

A couple of brief paragraphs in the report of the Department of Marine and Fisheries rescue from forgetfulness that melancholy bank of sand lying out in the Atlantic Ocean 110 miles east of the central part of Nova Scotia, and marked on the map as Sable Island. Fortunately, no wrecks have occurred there recently to remind the Canadian people of the island's existence, and this undesirable bit of Canadian territory has dropped to the level of a mere incident in the administration of the Marine Department.

Sable Island was at one time a dangerous place, especially when sailing vessels were more numerous, but it is now given a wide berth, and its record is less gloomy than it used to be. In the early days of the French regime a vessel having on board a number of ponies was wrecked there. Some of the ponies reached shore, and their descendants to-day roam the sand hills and subsist on the wild grass. One hundred years ago the island was 40 miles in length. To-day it is only half that, the waves of the Atlantic having undermined and washed away hundreds of acres of its scrub-covered sandy soil.

Its inhabitants number 43, consisting of the officers of the life-saving station, the lighthouse-keepers and their families. The animal life of the island consists of 70 head of horned cattle, 30 trained ponies, 8 imported horses, and 200 wild ponies. Last year there were shipped from the island to Nova Scotia 46 wild ponies, and besides these the only other export consisted of 45 barrels of cranberries. It seems remarkable and almost absurb to think of anyone speaking of agriculture in connection with the dreary sands of Sable Island, and yet this is what the report states in regard to the matter: "All the farming operations were carried on (last year) with a fair measure of success. The season being better than the average, a good supply of wild hay was secured for the horses."

What a dreary, strange life must be that of the men who made that hay and of their wives and children. From the outside world they see only the men on the Government steamers that carry supplies to the island. That little community of forty-two souls is thrown wholly upon itself. Those people are practically marooned. How does time wag with them, how does life appear? About these things the matter-of-fact report of the Department has nothing to say.

Revenge In Ceylon.

A system of Cingalese "black magic" peculiar to the island is still practiced in some parts of Ceylon. It is stated that there are 4,440 different methods of causing ill to others. Here is a translation of one of these methods of dealing with your enemy:

"On Sunday eleven peya"—one peya equals twenty-four English minutes—"after sunrise Yama Devi"—the god of death and judgment—"goes to the west. Start at this hour; take a meal of bluish rice; dress in red colored garments.

"Take a root of ginger at the time of the zodiac of Aries; write on it the name of your rival, charm it 108 times, wrap it in a golden colored cloth and place it in your waist.

"When you meet your rival, look straight into his face and break the root in your hand. Within nine peyas he will be killed by an elephant, and when seven months elapse six other persons of his family will meet their doom."—Ceylon National Review.

Conscientious Bill.

"Bill had charge of the animal tent," said the old circus man, "and among his pets was a leopard, the only one we had with the show, and quite enough too. This leopard gave Bill more trouble than all the rest of the menagerie put together. It was certainly an ugly brute.

"Well, one day when we were showing in the Midlands I had come up to London to arrange about some advance business. I was eating my dinner in the hotel when a telegram was handed to me. It was from Bill and read: 'The leopard has escaped. Prowling about town. What shall I do?'

"That was just like Bill. He had to have explicit directions, even in an emergency like this. He didn't want to make a mistake.

"I immediately wired back to Bill, 'Shoot him on the spot.' I didn't think any more about it until a couple of hours later, when I received another telegram from conscientious, careful Bill, asking, 'Which spot?'"

Relative Hardness of Precious Stones.

The relative hardness of various stones is easily determined by testing the power of one stone to make scratches on another. If a diamond is rubbed with one of the points of a topaz, the topaz point is blunted and the mark which will be seen on the face of the diamond is only the dust of the topaz, which can be brushed off with the finger. But if the topaz is rubbed against the diamond the latter is unaltered and the surface of the former is marked with a scratch which can be removed only by further polishing down. It is on the basis of this process of comparison that a scale of comparative hardness has been formed represented by ten substances, of which diamond is the highest and graphite the lowest in the scale. It is a curious fact that these two extremes of the scale, the brilliant and hard diamond and soft black graphite, are both chemically the same substance—pure carbon.—Jewelers' Circular.

DOCTORS ADVISE MEDICATED AIR

It Cures Catarrh, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Throat Troubles, Hoarseness.

For diseases of the lungs, throat and nasal passages mountain air has always been deemed salutary because of its pureness and freedom from disease germs. The air of pine forests, laden with minute particles of volatile germ-destroying principles, has enjoyed an almost unexampled reputation in these diseases also.

A MARVELLOUS DISCOVERY.

After years of exhaustive study a chemist devised a means of supplying right at home a healing balsamic remedy that is even more effective in catarrhal diseases than the air of the pine woods. Of course, this remedy was copyrighted in every civilized country and was at once offered to the public under the name of "Catarrhozone." Its success has been phenomenal.

Just think of it! A healing, soothing substance capable of destroying these noxious organisms which excite and maintain disease. Capable, also, of allaying congestion and of stimulating the healing processes of nature, which are combined in that invaluable compound so well and so favorably known to the medical world as "Catarrhozone."

CATARRHOZONE CURES.

Catarrhozone is simply the concentrated qualities of the air of pine woods. If you breathe it you will derive more benefit in one hour than you could possibly get from the woods in a year.

This great advantage arises from the fact that, in addition to those healing emanations from pine, other ingredients distilled from the vegetable kingdom are so united as to give results that could not possibly be derived in the simple form in which nature supplies medicated air.

20,000 PHYSICIANS ENDORSE IT.

For all diseases of the nose, ear, throat, bronchial tubes and air passages—for catarrh in every form—cure is certain with Catarrhozone, which is not a nostrum, but a high-class scientific treatment. Large size, sufficient for two months' use (guaranteed), price $1.00; smaller size, 50c, at all dealers or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

Long Winded Preachers.

Dean Lefroy, who expressed the opinion that ten minutes is long enough for a sermon, would have met with scant sympathy from some divines of past centuries, says the Westminster Gazette.

Thomas Hooker considered three hours a fair average allowance for a sermon, though, on one occasion, when he was ill, he let his congregation off more lightly. Pausing at the end of fifteen minutes, he rested awhile and then continued his homily for two hours longer. Cranmer's sermons were each a small book when set up in type, and Baxter, Knox, Bunyan and Calvin rarely reached "Lastly, my brethren," under two hours.

George Herbert once said: "The parson exceeds not an hour in preaching, because all ages have thought that a competency," but a certain rector of Bibury, Gloucestershire, was of another opinion, for he never sat down under two hours. The squire, we learn, usually withdrew after the text was announced, smoked his pipe outside and returned for the blessing.

A Gale by Another Name.

Doubtless there were many puzzled readers when a deep sea skipper rolled into this harbor a few days ago and reported that his ship had been belated by a gale which had piped up to force 10." "Force 10," it was explained, meant something like a hurricane. It is a term borrowed from the Beaufort scale, a scheme of wind measurements devised by the British admiral Beaufort before the days of ocean going steam. Force 1 was a calm, force 2 a light breeze, and so on up to the hurricane velocity. Perhaps, too, the Beaufort scale may give a clew to those who have been wondering for some time at the title of a popular German picture. It is just one expanse of frowning cloud and storm tossed billow, and the artist has named it "Windstarke 10, 11."—New York Sun.

Poor Old Uncle Ben.

By MILO BOLCROFT.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

"Hello, Uncle Ben!" Joe called as his buggy flashed by the loaded wagon. Uncle Ben replied to the salutation with a surly nod. He twisted about on his load and gazed at the receding vehicle. It was she herself, and out riding with that young scamp!

She was enjoying the fellow's company, too, so much that she had only a slight bow for him.

She had never ridden with him except once at a funeral, when she went to the cemetery in his buggy because there was not room for her elsewhere.

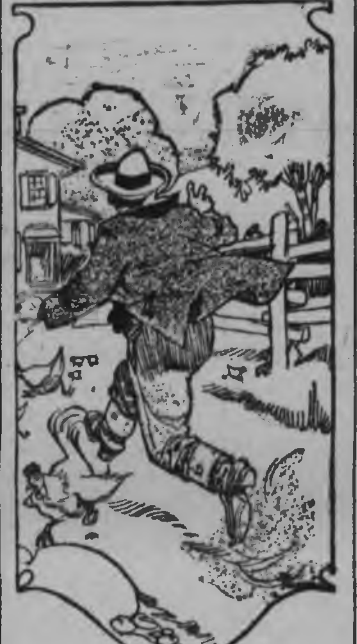
He had imagined many times since the things he would have said to her during that ride if he had known beforehand so as to be prepared, but he had not, and the ride had been a silent one.

She was bright and talkative with Joe, though. When he recognized, with a shock of surprise, who Joe's companion was they were chattering like blue jays.

He felt wronged somehow, though he had no claim to be. But he had always meant to marry her if she would consent when he found courage to put the question.

He knew Joe was in the habit of going to her brother's, where she lived, but until that minute he had not looked upon the fellow as his rival. Joe was young and good looking, and women thought so much of those things.

Uncle Ben wasn't an old uncle at all. But he had come to think himself very venerable and aged indeed. When a person becomes an uncle before his manhood and when fate so shapes it that one must become not only uncle, but father and mother, to one's nephews the responsibility reduces to a feeling of old age, even when the said nephews are not much younger than oneself.



AWAY DOWN THE ROAD HE COULD SEE JOE'S HAT ADVANCING RAPIDLY.

So Uncle Ben very naturally supposed there was no chance for him at all with the woman whom he loved so truly. He even decided that he would sell his farm and go away. He brooded over it all day and with heavy pain, forgetting to make his usual sharp bargain in business.

As he drove into the gate at home toward evening Joe's buggy again appeared, and he drew up for a chat. He was in fine spirits and boyishly handsome beside Uncle Ben's rough farm clothes and soiled boots.

"Guess I'll take that cow, Uncle Ben," he said, with a conscious smile. "I expect to need her."

Uncle Ben grunted and busied himself with the gate.

"You see, I'm—oh, I might as well say it right out—I'm going to be married pretty soon."

"Settled, is it?" His uncle glanced up sharply, his face rather pale.

"Well, not quite," Joe hesitated, "but she understands me well enough, and it's going to be settled tonight and the day fixed. I'm invited there to supper, and I'm sure she knows what to expect. In fact, it nearly came out this morning."

Uncle Ben said nothing, and after a moment Joe, who was accustomed to his reticent relative, started off, saying: "Milly will be glad you are our nearest neighbor. She thinks a lot of you."

Despite Uncle Ben's resignation, he felt his gay and handsome nephew's carelessly confident words as if they were so many sharp, savage thrusts from a dagger. There came a hot, suffocating sense of shame and rage into his heart that he should be thrust aside, unseen, unheard.

As he stumbled along by his team to the barnyard he was seized with a great impulse to see her and speak yet, although it was useless.

He looked about vaguely at first, then with keen calculation. Joe was still in sight. He had stopped to talk with some one, as was his social custom. He would not hurry, not dreaming of need for it.

His team was tired, and the other horses in the pasture. If he would forestall Joe he would have to go afoot across lots. And there was no time to shave and garb himself as he would have liked before going into her presence.

He hitched his horses and started. Joe was still talking when he had cleared his own farm and the next. It was two miles, but he could cut off a considerable distance by going across lots, and most of the way he could keep an eye on Joe's progress.

Over the hill a grove intervened. As he dashed into it he caught a glimpse of Joe skimming along in the distance, seeming to fly.

Then Uncle Ben flew, too, or nearer to it than he had ever imagined it possible for him to go.

Through the grove and Donner's pasture scudded "old Uncle Ben." By that time Joe had nearly reached the half mile corner.

Old man Donner yelled to know the meaning of the wild flight. Uncle Ben waved an impatient hand and sped on, crossing the road, where he had a view of Joe's rig whirling around the corner.

From the ridge, a quarter of a mile nearer his goal, he saw with satisfaction that Joe had stopped, the center of gossiping neighbors who always gathered at Donner's.

"All their questioning and scandalizing will hinder him and help me," he soliloquized breathlessly, dashing on with renewed vigor.

The excitement of the race obliterated all other thought. "I'd lose my farm sooner than be beat," he declared, feeling a new, keen thrill in life as his supple limbs took him over the rough ground.

Just to get there and say what he had to say before Joe arrived was all his thought now. As to how it should be said, he was past thinking of that.

When he leaped the last fence Joe had disappeared behind the hedge that fringed the home stretch. Old Uncle Ben put on a last spurt.

From the sheep pasture Milly's father hailed him. Uncle Ben did not even wave in reply. The hired men stared as he rushed past the barn where they were choring.

He had no time to go around to the front. There was no time for knocking at doors or for formalities of any sort. Away down the road he could see Joe's hat advancing rapidly.

He leaped the steps to the back porch and hurled himself into the kitchen. The fates favored him. She was at the table mixing biscuit.

"Milly—will—you—marry—me?" he panted, staggering against the wall. "Quick! Answer me! I've always—meant to—have you! I love—you—more 'n I've—got time—to tell you. Now—quick—will you marry me?" He flung his hat down and mopped his streaming face.

She gazed at him in staring surprise, but at his hurried, panting, insistent demand she stammered with crimson bewilderment, "Why, yes, Benjamin, I don't know but I will."

"Yes? Je-rusalem! Is it yes?" he shouted, seizing her floury hands. "Say it again! Quick!"

"It's yes unless you're crazy, and I'm afraid you are."

"No use, Joe, you're too late! She's mine!" he exulted as Joe and the family streamed in with surprised inquiry.

Then Joe comprehended and burst into shouts of laughter. "Oh, Uncle Ben, Uncle Ben, what a blunder! But you've popped at last anyhow! Here's the Milly I'm going to marry," drawing to him the blushing young girl. "Isn't that so, sweetheart?"

Little Milly nodded, then ran and hid her face on Aunt Milly's bosom.

"But I thought—you've been going with him and"— Uncle Ben began.

"Don't tell me you thought I'd take up with that fellow!" Aunt Milly said indignantly.

"Well, thank fortune it's done and you've promised me! Laugh away. I'm happy!" said old Uncle Ben, casting off all his imaginary years from that moment.

AMBEROL RECORDS for The EDISON PHONOGRAPH

The Trombone

Mr. Edison did not wave a wand to produce all this entertainment. He worked hard for years studying the theory of sound reproduction until he invented and perfected the Edison Phonograph.

Not satisfied with the amount of music that could be contained on a regular Edison Record, he again went to work and produced a Record of the same size which plays twice as long and can be played on the present Edison Phonograph by means of an attachment. Through this invention you can have in your own home constantly a long list of entertainers singing various songs in various keys and in all languages, playing all instruments either singly or together, telling funny stories and giving comic dialogues, all for an exceedingly low cost.

You owe it to yourself, to your family and to your children to hear an Edison Phonograph play at the next opportunity.

A Well, Not an Ill, Wind.

They had been talking of tornadoes, hurricanes, cyclones and high winds generally. Each succeeding story had been more remarkable than its predecessors, but Amos James, acknowledged head of the town story tellers, had remained silent and attentive. With one accord all heads were at last turned in his direction.

"Speaking of winds," he said deliberately at last, rising as if to go and half yawning as he spoke—"speaking of winds, there was a mighty powerful one along in the middle of the night last summer when my wife and I were visiting at Henry's.

"It waked us out of a sound sleep, and we heard things rushing by in the air, but we lay there, not daring to get up and see what was happening for fear of being blowed right out through the window.

"Finally the wind passed on with a great swoop, and we fell off to sleep.

"When we woke up the next morning and looked out of the window, what d'you think we saw amongst other things? Henry's well had blowed right over the board fence and landed in the next yard, and the folks there was drawing water out of it, calm as you please."—Youth's Companion.

A Study in Anatomy.

The brain is the headquarters of the nervous system and contains the central offices of the Anatomical Telephone company.

When the suburban nerve center says, "Hello, central," the brain either replies "What number?" or "Busy" or "Out of order," as the case may be.

Sometimes the wires are crossed and the company fails to declare any dividends, thus placing the entire brain in the hands of a receiver.

From the brain issues the spine, which is sometimes useful in matrimony, although rarely strong enough in man for practical purposes and constantly growing weaker the longer he is married.

On top of the head the hair grows, or is supposed to. In some cases, however, it fails to grow despite the most painstaking efforts.

In ladies there are two kinds of hair—viz, the imported and domestic. In gentlemen also two kinds—namely, permanent and transient. The permanent is seen in wild men, the transient in civilized men when young.

At one time all the hairs were carefully numbered, but the practice has been discontinued owing to great pressure of other matters.—Lippincott's.

The Father Pipefish.

"The best of fathers is the pipefish," said an angler. "He hatches the little pipefish, and after they are hatched he carries them about with him till they can take care of themselves.

"This fish has under his tail a sac. In it he bears the pipefish spawn. Thus the spawn hatch in perfect safety. They are not decimated, like the other fish spawn lying unprotected on the bottom of the sea, by every hungry passerby. No; they all hatch, every one of them.

"As soon as they hatch the father fish splits, or nature splits for him, the sac, and all the little fish drop out into the sea, but they cling to papa. Wherever he goes, like a gray cloud those thousands of tiny sons and daughters surround him, and on the approach of danger they pop back again into the sac just as baby kangaroos pop into the sac, or marsupial pouch, of their mamma.

"The male pipefish is, in fact, the female kangaroo of the sea."

Why the Menu Was Changed.

The culinary department of an East Indian household, if the story of an American traveler who has recently returned from Calcutta is to be believed, is managed far differently from an American kitchen. "Here we employ an Ethiopian expert at so much a week," says the Philadelphia Record. "There a cook would disdain to place a weekly valuation on his services. His conditions involve a flat rate of so many shillings weekly for the furnishing and preparation of provisions. This system of putting the culinary department out to contract causes a penuriousness on the part of the chef which frequently is not for the best health and welfare of the household. Shortly before last Christmas the above named American tourist had ordered his cook to have steak for dinner. Broiled chicken was served instead. Pressed for his reasons for disregarding the command of the head of the household, the cook explained that the chicken had taken sick and if it had not been killed and served that day he was afraid he would have lost it."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. T. Linscott, for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

April 25, 1909.

The Gospel in Antioch.—Acts xi: 19-30; xii: 25.

Golden Text — The disciples were called Christians first in Antioch. Acts xi: 26.

Verses 19-20 — Who were they that were "scattered abroad"?

Had these men any authority from the church to preach? (See Acts viii. 4.)

Is it the duty of every Christian to preach Christ, whether or not he has been appointed by the Church to do so?

Is it possible to enjoy the fullness of God's love and never say a word about it?

Are good people liable to be narrow in their views?

Are persecutions and all sorts of trouble always helpful to the children of God?

Some of these disciples seem to have been narrow, and preached to Jews only; others, being broader, preached to the Greeks also; what made the difference in these men?

Which is the greater power to broaden our views and make us love everybody; our environment, or sinking deeper and rising higher in the love of God?

Verse 21 — Whether a man is narrow or broad, if he only preaches Jesus, will God use him to extend His kingdom?

Are any efforts to extend the kingdom of God ever in vain?

Verse 22—Did the news that Antioch had received the word of God give the church at Jerusalem joy or sorrow?

What news is the most joyous either to an individual Christian or to a Church?

What was the purpose of sending Barnabas?

Verses 23-24 — What sort of a man was Barnabas?

Is it necessary, or not, to be filled with the Holy Ghost in order to make converts, or to comfort the children of God, and are these results always attained in the ministry of a man filled with the Holy Ghost? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the Club).

Do we exhort one another as much as we should, to "cleave unto the Lord?"

Are half-hearted people well pleasing to God?

Verses 25-26 — Why did Barnabas start off to Tarsus to seek Saul?

Does it frequently happen that two holy men can do much more together, than they could do working apart?

Where were the disciples of Jesus first called Christians?

What had Christ's followers been called previous to being called Christians?

Verses 27-28 — Is the gift of prophecy, that is telling future events, given to any person to-day?

Verses 29-30 — Should the church of Christ to-day be a practical brotherhood, caring for one another, and helping each other financially, and in every other way, as the need may be?

Should not the church be doing for its members the work now being done by fraternal societies?

Chapter xii: 25 — Barnabas and Saul took the contributions from Antioch up to Jerusalem to relieve the need there, and then returned; was it just as noble work as if they had been up there preaching?

Lesson for Sunday, May 2nd, 1909. Paul's First Missionary Journey — Cyprus. Acts xiii: 1-12.

Old Peter Clark, Aberfeldy's street porter and billposter, was found drowned in Borin Burn. He was found lying face down in about five or six inches of water. It is thought he must have wandered down the Dunkeld Road and lost his way in the dark.

James Gordon Carter, F.S.A., whose death occurred in Edinburgh, contributed largely, under the penname of "Theodore Mayne," to the literature of Galloway and the Borders. Mr. Carter was for years classical master at Dumfries Academy, where J. M. Barrie, the author, was one of his pupils.

The death has occurred at Aberdeen, at the advanced age of 91 years, of Miss Mary Burton. Miss Burton belonged on the maternal side to the family of Paton of Grandholme. She distinguished herself in educational and other forms of public work, and was well known in literary circles in the capital.

LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN.

The matter appearing in this space from time to time is furnished by the Temperance and Moral Reform League of this City, who have arranged for its Publication.

MORAL SUASION.

Some of the opponents of local option in Peterboro are advancing the argument that men should be taught the danger and disgrace of intemperance instead of having the law invoked to prevent them from drinking, by closing the saloons. It is claimed that men who stop drinking of their own free will will deserve credit, but that if they are prevented by law from drinking they cannot claim any virtue through their enforced abstinence. This argument may sound all right to some. It is misleading.

People who use it, claim, in effect, that we should not remove temptation from a man, we should simply warn him of his danger. When, however, they use that as a reason for voting against local option they do far more. They not only refuse to remove the temptation but they deliberately vote to place temptation in his way. People create the temptation when they vote to establish or continue saloons in their midst by licensing them. Is it fair, then, to place temptation in a man's way by voting to continue the saloons that are tempting him to drink and to ruin?

The hundreds of thousands of men and boys who have gone down to destruction through their love for strong drink—including hundreds in the city of Peterboro—have shown conclusively that the appetite for liquor is like the smooth, swift current of a mighty river rushing towards a great falls. A few men who fall into the river not far from the shore may realise their danger in time and succeed in wading or swimming to safety, especially if their friends see their danger and call out a warning to them. Others, however, may be swept so far out in the current that its mighty force is too great for them; powerless in its grasp, they are swept on to destruction. In such a case we would expect their friends, on shore, to throw them a rope in order that they might be pullled safely to land. If, however, instead of doing this, they simply shrugged their shoulders and refused to help them, claiming that the men should swim out themselves we would call them wretches and brutes.

This is exactly the case with men who have acquired the appetite for liquor. Some of them may succeed in overcoming their appetite but many others reach the stage where they are powerless to do so. Shall we not, therefore, throw them a rope? We can do so by voting for local option. By refusing to do so, we will be responsible in part, for their ruin.

Moderate Drinkers and Local Option

Peterboro temperance workers are very much encouraged over the fact that there are scores of moderate drinkers in Peterboro who are stating openly that they intend to vote for local option. Many of these men do not feel that they need local option for their own good. They have, however, seen so many evidences of the blighting effects of the liquor traffic they announce that they are willing to give up drinking themselves for the sake of helping other men who are unable to resist the temptation to drink in excess. Thus they intend to vote for local option. What better evidence of the need of local option is required?

Anglicans and Local Option

It is no wonder local option is sweeping over the continent and throughout Canada when we realize that every Christian organization has placed itself on record as being opposed to the liquor traffic. As we have already shown, the Catholic Church has done splendid work for temperance. The Anglican Church is equally pronounced on this matter. The Anglican Church as a body advocates the adoption of local option wherever it is possible.

The General Synod of Canada, of the Anglican Church, at its last conference in Ottawa placed itself on record in regard to the liquor traffic in pronounced terms. It adopted the following report presented by a committee: "In glancing over the several Provinces of the Dominion, it is "manifest that there is a great con"sensus of opinion concerning the bar "under our present licensing system, "namely, that it is a PUBLIC MEN"ACE, and your committee would "urge upon the Synod that it is the "duty of every man to endeavour to "further the effort to abolish the bar. "Until such time as the bar is abolish"ed, it recommends:

"1. That windows should be un"curtained, and all obstacles which "would prevent persons from seeing "into the bar from outside during all "hours of sale.

"2. That it be made illegal for "minors to enter a bar where intoxi"cants are sold.

"3. That full advantage should be "taken when practicable, of the adop"tion and putting into force of local "option under the present license "law.

"The committee, after wide gather"ing of evidence, from the different "provinces of the Dominion, report "that the Scott Act has worked out "successfully in the Maritime Prov"inces, as has Local Option in Onta"rio."

Strong Blows for Temperance

Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, the famous medical missionary of the Labrador coast, who addressed a meeting in the Opera House recently, gave the local option movement in Peterboro a splendid boost when he denounced in a vigorous manner the curse of the liquor traffic. Dr. Grenfell is an Anglican and said so. His outspoken statements showed him to be in accord with the stand the Anglican church has taken on this question. Speaking in Peterboro and at other points on this question, Dr. Grenfell said, "The reason I have no use for alcoholic beverages, on sea or on shore, are so numerous that it would be impossible to detail them all. My standpoint is simply that liquor is unnecessary and bad. It is a help only to thieves and robbers, and I have seen them use it over and over again as a means to lure the fisherman and sailor to his destruction. Saloons, and haunts of vice swarm around most seaports and it is easy for the liquor sellers to prey on the newly-landed sailor, with his pocket full of money, his generous and simple nature, and his lack of friends in a strange place, as it is for any other vultures to prey on carrion.

"How many times have I seen our poor fellows robbed of their money, of their self respect, and even of their lives by a liquor seller.

Drink's Doings Everywhere

"Alcohol is not allowed to be sold on any part of the coast on which we are working, but so surely as it comes and an illicit sale begins, one sees its evil results as quickly as if, instead of alcohol, it had been the germ of diphtheria or smallpox. Lying at my anchors in Labrador harbors, women have come off to the ship after dark, secretly, for fear of being seen, to ask me, for God's sake, to try and prevent its being sold near them, as their sons and husbands were being debauched, and even the girls were in danger.

"I have seen it come among the Eskimos. It kills our natives as arsenic kills flies, and it robs them of everything that would differentiate them as human beings from the beasts.

It Robs and Ruins

"I have seen men robbed in many ways, but they have been able by the help of God, to wipe out any lasting results, of such transient losses. But the robberies of alcohol are irremediable. I buried in a lonely grave on a projecting promontory, far down the coast of Labrodor, a young girl of 18. She was someone's daughter and someone's sister. I had taken her aboard our little hospital ship for the last week of her life. She should have been alive to-day, but she had no desire to live. All that could possibly make life worth living for her had been robbed from her through the means of alcohol, and she could not face the home-going again.

Against It Forever

"If ever I had the opportunity given me to say a word at any time or in any place which would help to inhibit the use of alcohol as a beverage, so long as I can stand on my feet, I shall be proud to get up and speak it."

A Change of Opinion

Twenty, even fifteen and ten years ago, there were many leading business and public men who were willing to go on the platform and speak against prohibitory legislation in regard to the liquor traffic. Not so to-day. During the interval their eyes have been opened. To-day you can hardly find a prominent man who is willing to be associated with the liquor traffic.

For several months past public meetings in the cause of temperance have been held every Sunday afternoon in the Crystal. Those meetings have been addressed by a number of Peterboro's well known business men as well as by clergymen. Why don't the opponents of local option hold similar meetings? We would like to see their speakers and hear their arguments.

Campaign Notes

The writer of this column spent a couple of evenings recently in the hotel in the village of Claremont which is under local option. A considerable number of young men were noticed in and around the hotel. Not a sign of the presence of liquor could be detected. In reply to questions the local barber stated that liquor could not be secured for love or money. The livery man told the same tale. When asked if local option had injured the village the latter replied that the only way in which it had affected him was that he did not have as many agents of liquor and tobacco firms to drive as formerly. And yet they say that local option does not prohibit.

The last of the Gospel Temperance meetings to be held this spring will take place to-morrow (Sunday) afternoon at 4.15 o'clock in the Crystal. It promises to be the best one of the series. The meeting will be in charge of the officers from the Young Peoples Societies of the various churches in the city. Representatives from the different societies will speak. The orchestra of the George street church will furnish music and there will be singing by the Orpheus Quartette. The ushers will be provided by the George street church. Mr. Hazard, of the Y.M.C.A. will preside. It will be a lively meeting and everybody is invited to attend. These meetings will be resumed early next fall.

LAKEFIELD YOUTH IS MISSING

Frank Grylls, Son of Charles Grylls, Went to the Public Library Last Night And Has Disappeared.

RELATIVES ARE VERY ANXIOUS

Failed to Come Home And Friends Have Been Searching for Him Without Avail In The Village.

Lakefield to-day is stirred up over the strange disappearance of one of its best known young men. Last evening, Frank Grylls, the twenty-two year old son of Mr. Chas. Grylls left his home to visit the Public Library. He called at the Library and left the building at 8.30 o'clock and has not been seen by his friends since. He failed to return to his home and his friends becoming uneasy started to search for him but no trace of the missing young man could be found. It is feared that something may have happened to him as he is a young man of most exemplary habits and there is no theory to account for his remaining away from home.

He was dressed in a dark grey suit with a blue peak cap, and wore a flannel shirt with collar attached. Inquiries are being made in Peterborough as it was thought that he might have gone to that city.

OPENING OF NEW CHURCH

Speaker Has Been Secured for Park St. Baptist Church Dedicatory Service.

Rev W. A. Cameron, of Bloor St. Baptist Church, Toronto, will be the speaker at the opening of the new Park St. Baptist Church. The new edifice will be formally opened and dedicated on Sunday, May 9th. Although but a comparatively young man, Rev. Mr. Cameron is a very able minister. On completing his university course he was offered a more lucrative position, but preferred the ministry, although the salary he received was considerably less. He was the leader of the McMaster University Evangelistic Band in which he obtained a wide experience and did excellent work.

The services for the day will be at 11 a.m., 3 p.m., and 7 p.m. At the afternoon the dedication ceremony will be performed. The church is now practically completed inside, the seats being almost entirely placed in position and a few outside finishing touches are still to be made before the building is entirely completed. It is expected that a large congregation will be present at all three services as the day will be one of the most important in the history of the Park St. Baptist Church.

On the following Monday evening a tea and concert will be held at which Mr. T. F. Matthews will be chairman. The ladies of the congregation will provide the tea and an appropriate concert is being arranged.

MR. W. R. AYLESWORTH DIED IN BELLEVILLE

Was Known in Peterborough as Commissioner of Drowned Lands.

Belleville, April 24.—W. R. Aylesworth, for 16 years clerk of Hastings county, died in this city at a late hour on Thursday night. He was 72 years old and was born of U. E. Loyalist stock, in Ernestown. Before coming here Mr. Aylesworth was reeve of Deseronto for 21 consecutive years and was twice Warden of Hastings county."

He was a Mason and a member of both Dominion and Provincial Associations of Land Surveyors. In 1878 he was elected to the Commons for East Hastings as a Liberal. He was a prominent Methodist and an upright man.

Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, Minister of Justice, is a nephew of the deceased. He leaves a widow and one son, Herchimer, residing near Deseronto.

Mr. Aylesworth was commissioner for drowned lands along the Trent Waterways and in that capacity had occasion to visit Peterborough at different times. He was rather widely known in this district by reason of his work here.

CONSTANTINOPLE HAS BEEN CAPTURED BY YOUNG TURKS

Sultan is a Prisoner in the Hands of the Assaulting Forces And His Fate Will be Decided To-day---Two Thousand Soldiers are Reported to Have Been Killed in the Bloody Fight Which Was Waged All Last Night---American Correspondent Injured.

J. N. Barber, (Special)

Constantinople, April 24.—Constantinople has fallen. The City was captured after a night of bloody fighting between the five thousand soldiers, forming the Sultan's Guard, and the Young Turks' forces, under command of Cheftek Pasha. The garrison of Yildiz Kiosk have surrendered to the Young Turks, who have thrown a heavy column of their soldiers around the palace. The Young Turks' leaders are in conference with the Sultan this morning, at which his fate will be decided.

It is reported that 2,000 soldiers were killed in the fight and thousands wounded.

The garrison fought with the greatest bravery and did not surrender until the barracks were demolished by a heavy artillery fire from the Young Turks, and the garrison itself practically exterminated. The foreign population is in no immediate danger although two foreigners are reported to have been killed.

Frederick Moore, correspondent of the New York Sun, was among the injured. He was shot while trying to take a picture of the start of the fight. The soldiers mistook the camera for a deadly weapon and fired upon him.

OLD DRILL SHED NOW BEING TORN DOWN SERVED FOR OVER 40 YEARS

Was Built in 1864 by the Late John Hughes—Many Soldiers Trained Within its Walls.

AN HISTORIC BUILDING..

In view of the ceremony connected with the dismantling of the old drill shed, the other evening by the Peterborough Rangers, some information about the old military quarters that are now passing out of existence, will be of interest. The tearing down of the old buildng this week, will not be regretted either by the militia or the citizens generally as it has been an eye-sore to everyone.

However it has one claim to distinction on the ground of long life. The shed was built in 1866 by the late Mr. James L. Hughes, and was one of a number of similar size and construction that was built in Ontario about that time. Whether the local building was constructed better than the others is not known, but it is certain that within a few years the most of them were wrecked by the roof crashing in beneath the weight of snow upon them. The home of the Peterborough militia, however remained and has defied the weather for over forty-three years.

In all that time there have been few changes in the building with the exception that it had been braced inside and wooden buttresses were constructed on the exterior on the east side of the structure. The old officers' apartments were built at the expense of the officers themselves.

At the time of the construction of the old armouries, if they may be so called, the militia in Peterborough consisted of two companies. No. 1 Infantry company under Capt. Poole, afterwards Col. Poole and No. 2 company, under Capt. Kennedy, afterwards Major Kennedy. By a general militia order, in 1867, the 57th regiment, Peterboro Rangers, was organized, and comprised companies in

MAJOR CAMERON,
Who will conduct Week-End Services at the Salvation Army Barracks and Lectures to-night on Zululand.

Peterborough, Hastings and Norwood. Afterwards the regiment was converted into a city one with six companies, and five years ago was enlarged to eight companies, its present strength.

Among the outside regiments that have been received in the historic old structure have been the Queen's Own Rifles of Toronto, the Governor-General's Foot Guards, of Ottawa, who have been here on two occasions, and the 15th Regiment of Belleville. The most distinguished and famous soldier that was probably under its roof was Lord Dundonald, the Veteran of Ladysmith, who was here on the occasion of the presentation of the Colours to the 57th Regiment some years ago. It has been the scene of recruiting for the South African War and the North-West Rebellion and has been associated with the military spirit of Peterborough for over forty years.

Lieut.-Col. Miller, now on the reserve list, became a member of the regiment in 1864, two years before the old shed was built.

A Peterborough Boy Who Has Made Good And Is Still Climbing

Under the heading "Another Newspaper Celebrity." The Canadian Courier has the following tribute to a former Peterborough boy, accompanied by an excellent photogravure portrait.

One of the brighest and most progressive newspapers in the West is the Lethbridge Herald. This paper is one of the real readables—as a western paper should be. It is breezy and optimistic and sane. The man that founded it and that still edits and publishes it is the son of a Methodist minister, and is by no means a black sheep, but a real constructive and brainy man who has a mission in life and has already acomplished a good part of it. Mr. Buchanan is a young man. He was born in Peterborough County in 1876 when his father was preaching down that way. He was educated in Trenton, Norwood and Brighton which is equivalent to saying that his father went the rounds of those towns while his son was growing up. In 1893 he went on the Peterborough Review which is a Conservative paper. He spent seven good years on that sheet till he got into the editorial department: from which he went to Toronto as news editor of a newspaper called the Toronto Telegram. Not long afterwards he migrated to St. Thomas to manage the Journal of that town for Mr. Brierley of the Montreal Herald. The Journal is a liberal paper. But when Mr. Brierley disposed of that paper Mr. Buchanan hit the trail for the West. That was in the fall of 1905 when the trails were busy with folks getting out to the unoccupied places where fortune and fame were to be made. He went to Lethbridge, which in that year had about 2,500 population, but now, thanks to Mr. Buchanan and the Lethbridge Herald, which he established in the interests of progress, the number of souls is not less than 8,000. Lethbridge became so big under his management that it had to have a member and Mr. Buchanan became that member.

Note.—Mr. Buchanan was really born in Millbrook, but he is not to blame for this. He was bred in Peterborough and hence his success.

REFUSED TO PAY MONEY ASSESSED

Mr. N. T. LaPlante Made a Test Case of Demand to Pay $25.00 for Sewer Connection.

JUDGMENT WAS RESERVED

Other People Have Paid the Money But Question Has Been Raised As To Its Being Compulsory.

A case of considerable public interest was that which was tried in the Division Court yesterday before Magistrate Edmison in the absence of Judge Weller.

Mr. N. T. La Plante contested a claim of the city for $25 for the use of the city's sewerage system for the disposal of sewage. A portion of the sewer near the outlet was paid for by a general tax. Mr. La Plante got permission from the council to connect his property with this portion of the sewer, but since that time the city council has decided that those connected with that part of the sewerage system must pay $25 for the privilege. Mr. La Plante objected to paying this sum and made a test case of the action against him by the city treasurer.

Magistrate Edmison reserved judgment. City Solicitor Hall looked after the city and Mr. Ozias La Plante appeared in his father's behalf.

Smith Farmer on "Indian List" was Drunk on Saturday Last.

A resident of Smith was charged with having been drunk after having been placed on the black list, before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning. He pleaded guilty, but His Worship reserved judgment, to be given when he was disposing of the cases against the hotelkeepers who were alleged to have sold liquor to the "Indian list" man.

HOTELKEEPERS IN COURT

Two are Charged With Selling Liquor to Man on the "Indian List."

At the police court this morning two local hotelkeepers were charged with selling liquor to a resident of Smith, they having been served with notices blacklisting him. Mr. F. D. Kerr asked for an adjournment until next week the reason for the request being that Mr. Jas. Haverson, counsel for the accused was unable to be present to-day.

Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., conducted the prosecution. He did not favour an adjournment and would not consent to it. His Worship stated that he would hear the evidence but would not give judgment until Mr. Haverson could be here.

The resident of Smith stated that he had got liquor at both the hotels on Saturday last, but witnesses were called contradicting the statement.

NATURAL GAS IN DOURO?

Mr. David Forsythe Makes a Strike and Is Offered $8000.

Mr David Forsythe, of Douro, has been offered $8,000 by a Montreal enterprise for the right of way on his farm for the purpose of making use of the natural gas there. Some time ago Mr Forsythe was drilling for a well when he discovered gas at a depth of 40 feet. The drilling was continued to a depth of 82 feet, and gas was found in large quantities. Mr Forsythe thinks there is a considerable quantity of gas in the section of Douro in which his farm is located.—Lakefield News.

STRUCK BY CAR BUT WAS THROWN CLEAR OF TRACKS

Mrs. Carroll Had a Narrow Escape From Serious Injury While Crossing Simcoe Street To-day---Fender Knocked Her Feet From Under Her and it Was Feared by Spectators That She Had Fallen Under the Wheels---She Was Not, However, Seriously Injured.

Struck by a street car as she was crossing George street this morning, Mrs. Carroll, Sherbroke street, and mother of Mr. P. Carroll, wine clerk at the Oriental Hotel, had a very narrow escape from serious injury. In fact spectators of the accident were certain that she would be killed and there was much excitement until it was seen that she was not badly injured.

It appears that Mrs. Carroll was crossing George street at the south side of Simcoe street and had reached the middle of the crossing as the car came along north bound and moving fairly fast. At the other side of the road a horse became frightened at the approaching car and reared up. Mrs. Carroll noticed this and started back, apparently confused by the sense of her danger, and the result was that she was standing in the centre of the car tracks, when the car reached the corner. There was no time for the motorman to slow up and the fender struck Mrs. Carroll at the ankles, and threw her to one side, clear of the tracks. Spectators stated to the Examiner that they were certain that she would be thrown under the wheels and mangled, but most fortunately she fell clear and was not touched by the car, although badly shaken up and stunned by the fall. She was picked up and carried into Payne's Drug Store, where Dr. A. W. MacPherson attended to her injuries. She was not seriously hurt.

MAYOR RUSH
Hon. President of the Peterborough Camera Club.

Annual Sermon.

—The annual sermon to the members of the Havelock lodge of the I. O. O. F. will be preached by the Rev. J. A. G. Sterling in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday, the 25th inst., at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Splendid Address by Rev. Mr. Riddiford at the Annual Banquet of the Boys' Department.

MANY PRESENT LAST EVENING

Ther were over one hundred boys present at the banquet given at the Y. M. C. A. last evening. It was a most interesting affair and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. It was a most fitting climax to the indoor work of the boys' department during the fall and winter months. Mr. George Evans, secretary of the boys' work is deserving of great credit for the interest he has aroused in the boys of the city and that his efforts have been crowned with success was amply evidenced last night.

Three long tables were set in the lecture room and at half-past six the boys sat down to a most sumptuous supper served by the Y. M. C. A. Ladies' Auxiliary. At the table, arranged on the platform were seated, Dr. Middleton, chairman of the Boys' Department, and who acted as chairman for the evening, Secretary George Evans, and Messrs. J. J. Howden, C. E. Sisson, James Connal and Rev. Mr. Riddiford, who delivered a stirring address on "The Missing Ling" deal-

One Of Pioneer Residents Of Smith Township Passes Away

After a life long residence of over four score years in Smith township, Mr. Christopher Quinn passed away yesterday afternoon at three o'clock. By his death the country loses another of its pioneers, by whose industry and fortitude the land was cleared and opened up and the foundation laid for a prosperous community.

The deceased gentleman was born in Ireland 84 years ago. When only 7 years of age he came to this country with his parents, who settled on the 10th concession of Smith. The family resided on the homestead for many years and the deceased retiring from active work fifteen years ago moved to Lakefield, where he resided until his death. Mr. Quinn in his high qualities of character and in his exercise of the duties of citizenship, was of the class of Canadians that may aptly be called the pillars of the state. To an estimable private life he added an active interest in promoting all movements for the betterment of both the moral and material of the welfare of the community. He was a Baptist in religion and a Liberal in politics, prominent and active in its interest; and in every relation of life was an estimable and valued citizen. The late Mr. Quinn married Miss Jennie Shearer, of Otonabee. The surviving members of the family are John, of Douro, William, of East City, George, of this city, Archie, of Lakefield, Agnes and Laura at home, Mrs. Robert Duff, Lakefield, Mrs. Hugh Davelson, Winnipeg, and Mrs. Gerlin, of Calgary. Mr. Geo. Cochrane is a brother-in-law of the deceased. Mr. Quinn was predeceased by his wife four years ago.

He was an Orangeman all his life, attending practically all the walks. He was a member of the Lakefield Baptist Church and throughout the county was widely known and respected.

The funeral will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the family residence in Lakefield to the Lakefield cemetery in Smith.

JUDGMENT RESERVED FOR A WEEK

Magistrate Edmison Heard a Rather Strange Case Yesterday About a Horse That George Downer Bought.

PLAINTIFF CLAIMS $26.50

Defendant's Story Differed From the Plaintiff in the Important Points Concerning the Deal.

Harry Mitchell brought a suit against Geo. Downer in the Division Court to secure $26.50, twenty-five dollars of which was for a horse, which Mr. Downer purchased from the plaintiff, giving a note payable in one month. The transaction occurred last Spring. Mr. Downer claimed that the animal was paralzed on one side and had a "greased" leg. It was not able to do any work. Mr. Mitchell stated that after it left his place it was not properly fed. At any rate Mr. Mitchell said he rented it for a week and returned it, but could not get it into Downer's yard. He therefore tied it in front of the house and some one afterwards let it loose. Mr. Downer denied that he rented it. Mrs. Downer stated that Mr. Mitchell said he had more use for the horse than Mr. Downer, and took it away. Mr. Downer stated that the plaintiff could return the horse if he was not suited with it. Mitchell said he could return it in a week.

The question as to whether Mr. Downer was liable or not will be considered by Judge Edmison and the decision will be given next Friday.

SHIPMENT FROM GERMANY

To the Canadian General Electric Works Here of Electric Light Bulbs.

The Canadian General Electric Company received a large shipment last evening by Dominion express from Germany. It consisted of over four thousand pounds of Electric light bulbs. They were expressed over on the Steamship "Montezuma" and brought from St. John's, N. B. to Peterborough. This was only a small part of a large shipment coming by freight. These were needed at once and so were sent by express.

ENTIRE ARMY ENTERED CONSTANTINOPLE LAST NIGHT

Examiner Special (2:45 p.m.)

San Stefano, April 24.—The entire constitutional army completed its entry into Constantinople last night, and is now in complete control of the city. Estimates of the killed vary from one to three thousand. Fighting still continues, though it is isolated, and the real danger now lies in an uprising by the people, who are threatening to attempt the rescue of the Sultan from the palace, where he is the prisoner of the young Turks.

THE LORAIN COMPANY

Are Coming Back to the Grand for An Indefinite Stay.

The Loraine Amusement Company are going back to the Grand Opera House on Monday night for an indefinite stay. This announcement will no doubt be received with delight by the theatre goers of Peterborough who enjoyed the performances given by the company on their previous appearance at the Grand. They are bringing with them new pictures, new songs and new vaudeville acts, and their popular priced performances will no doubt result in crowded houses during their visit.

THE KINRADE MATTER.

The inquest into the cause of the death of Ethel Kinrade, who was mysteriously shot at her home in Hamilton, has been resumed; but whether it is a Canadian inquest, soberly conducted or an inquisition is the most offensive sense of the word, permits little difference of opinion. Is this inquest being conducted to elicit the truth or is it being used as a virtual trial of the murdered girl's sister, who seems to be treated as if she were condemned, and undergoing punishment by torture. Not only the attitude of the authorities to this case, but of a section of the press and public is little less than scandalous. The entire Kinrade family is pilloried in public and their private life, comings and goings, subjected to vulgar curiosity and public exposure. Even a sober and respectable Toronto journal printed in execrably bad taste petty details of the private life of the family in Toronto. "Mrs. Kinrade and Miss Florence were out walking on Wednesday," and Miss Gertrude Kinrade the youngest daughter was guilty of the crime of walking "unaccompanied, down Sherbourne street yesterday morning." These things can possibly have nothing to do with the discovery of the murderer of Ethel Kinrade—they seem to be mere sensational pandering to the vulgar and morbid curiosity of the public. One would think that the Kinrade family had suffered enough from the tragedy that blighted their home, without having their domestic life bared to the public gaze, and made the subject of flippant and heartless comment and shameless innuendo.

The basic principle of British justice is to hold every man innocent till he has been proven guilty and to try no man without a charge being lawfully laid.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

In a country like Canada—in a province like Ontario, which especially aspires to realize the industrial pre eminence for which her relation to the rest of the Dominion indicates her especially fitness, the question of Technical Education takes a position of great prominence. And now that Judge Barron advocates the adoption by Canada of the building of warships as a national industry—the importance of technical education gains theoretically, a new importance. But the rulers of Ontario do not seem to take their responsibility towards technical education seriously. Their attitude suggests a desire to evade a problem, which may present many difficulties, but none which cannot be overcome, and should rather stimulate the ambition of constructive statesmanship than paralyze it. Sir James Whitney looks to Ottawa to undertake technical education, but in so doing he invites the equivalent of the six months' hoist as a means of shelving the problem. The Confederation act authoritatively assigns the matter of education exclusively to provincial jurisdiction and responsibility. Sir James is a tremendous stickler for provincial rights and resents Federal intereference in very big words. Yet, apparently, to shirk a duty that seems to be inconvenient, he shows a ready willingness to surrender provincial rights in the matter of technical education. The Dominion Government cannot, without creating constitutional complications, interfere in a matter which constitutionally concerns only the provinces. Dr. Pyne, in a follow-my-leader spirit, has trumped Premier Whitney's attitude, and we may have the spectacle of the Provincial Government which affects and, moreover, exhibits a great interest in education as far as the spending of the people's money is concerned, neglecting the development of a branch of education which is of untold practical importance to the industrial development of the most important province in the list.

Cobalt, only one item in the inventory of Ontario's industrial resources, has made a silver out-put in five years of 20 million dollars and in 1907 paid 2,000 men's wages, to the amount of $1,500,000.

BEAUTIFYING THE CITY.

In to-day's issue will be found the eighth article of Mr. A. B. Cutting, editor of the Candian Horticulturist, on the Methods and Principles of Landscape gardening. This week's article treats of the manner to adopt and the means to employ in creating a "velvety turf," and practical instructions in the matter of seeding, and sodding, and general instructions in the way of adding to the beauty of one of the chief beauties of one's premises. We hope that the public have read, and will profit from Mr. Cutting's able articles. There is abundant need. It is difficult to stimulate interest in such matters, and there is need of the importance of civic beauty being "talked up." The members of the Horticultural Society and, especially, the office bearers, might take a deeper interest in "talking up" the beauty of public beautification. We don't expect much in the way of help and co-operation and counsel from the city council, which is neutral, in theory, and antagonistic, in practice, to a general scheme of city improvement. The city authorities allow the streets to become untidy and do much in the course of street work to make them so. They outrage and mutilate boulevards and permit others to do so; they maintain perpetual mudholes and puddles to be created and to remain as ever-present eyesores and nuisances to the housewife and drivers of vehicles, and all this, when a trifle of horse sense, a little elbow grease and a trifling expenditure of public money, which is not wasted, would give us clean, dry, and comfortable streets, give attractive foregrounds to private premises and inspire a desire for improvement, instead of discouragement.

We elect aldermen to do our business; not to do us.

HOLD WHAT WE HAVE

Our American cousins are anxious to get Canadian pulp and pulp wood so as to avert the exhaustion of the United States' forests. If our statesmen are alive to their duty they will not permit Canada's forests to be depleted of their pulp wood for the sake of protecting American stands. We should not neglect the negative side of conservation of natural resources. If we do not provide for extension and betterment of our forest areas, we should exploit those we have so as to give this country the greatest advantage. We should not permit a single cord of our pulp wood to be exported at $6 or $7 representing the minimum benefit from labour employment; and the most wasteful form of exploitation for the same cord of wood worked into pulp or paper would give five or six times more profit, the difference largely representing the employment of Canadian labour. Every cord of our pulp wood, which should be cut under conditions involving the smallest degree of waste and the largest protection to future growth, should be manufactured into it ultimate form—paper—in Canada. Not a log or a chip should be exported in the crude condition. This is a policy which should not be confined to theory but reduced to inflexable practice. In pursuance of this policy, Judge Barron, whose address upon our nickel deposits is reprinted in summary in another column, is justified in advocating prevention of export of our nickel. Our store is the chief source of the world supply. Nickel being the indispensable essential in modern naval construction and Germany being the country at present most anxious to get it to assist in building a navy to be used in crushing us, shall we "wing the shaft that quivers in our hearts?" Our policy should be, "what we have we'll hold," not in any dog-in-the-manger spirit, however. Our resources should be developed, but in a way to give the people of Canada the greatest degree of benefit. There is nothing nationally selfish in doing this—it is simply the discharge of a duty we owe to ourselves—to our posterity, and to the country of our birth or adoption.

Canada's export of raw pulp increased from $4,037,852 in 1907-08 to $31,570,032 in 1908; an eight-fold increase in one year.

TOO MUCH EDUCATION.

This palpably contradictory term seems to be capable of justification according to an article published in the Agricultural Review. The subject dealt with is so seriously important as to deserve the attention of our educators and publi cmen in positions of responsibility and the article of which a summary by the Toronto World is presented below is worthy of careful perusal and study:

Architect F. W. Fitzpatrick of Washington, D.C., has stirred up a very lively discussion in foreign circles by a paper from his pen in the recent number of The International Review of Education, published in Paris, the leading educational journal of the world. His paper is entitled "Too Much Education," and deals almost exclusively with conditions in America. It is passing strange that the paper has not been translated and more widely commented upon by the American educational press. The London, Viennese, Russian and German educational periodicals have given that paper most serious attention, and seem to be about equally divided pro and con that writer's views.

He deplores the theory we seemed to have worked upon here for the last generation in insisting upon the maximum of instruction for everyone. Mr. Fitspatrick states that in the past he was one of the most enthusiastic in favour of obligatory instruction and the greatest amount of schooling possible for everyone, but the consequences of such wide-spread education have been so different from what was expected that he has changed his mind.

"The people, the proletariat," says he, "all are loaded down with education and scholastic training and today we find ourselves with nothing but embryo presidents, senators and captains of industry upon our hands, a race of managers, of directors, of superintendents. All must do brain work, and you insult the man if you ask him to work with his hands. All are above that, they are educated, why should they work as does the labourer and the tiller of the soil. Our farms are abandoned; the young people are crowding to the cities and every farmer's son must be a doctor or a lawyer, or, at least, a school teacher, or a stenographer!"

He gives exhaustive figures and statistics to show that in our solicitude for the education of the lower classes we have made huge additions to the criminal classes and contributed to the general unrest and woe of the urban classes. He suggests as a partial remedy that only the most elementary instruction of a bookish nature be made obligatory and that industrial and agricultural schools be established everywhere. That the lower grades of the common schools be less diversified in the information imparted and more thorough along the elementary lines. The present light touch upon so many subjects, but encourages frivolity in the young and lack of application and the sense of satisfaction in the possession of a mere glossary information upon many things, where a thorough grounding in one or two would be infinitely more beneficial.

He says that the state should exercise still more paternal care of the schools, and by the keenest physical and intelligent examinations, the children who have passed through the elementary stage be divided at the earliest possible moment and only those who show exceptional mental ability be carried on up through the higher grades into the high schools and thus prepared for the scholastic and educated lines of life's work while the others should be carried along in the trade or agricultural schools.

"Since the state supplies the education," says he, "it is certainly the state's privilege and duty to instruct the children along the lines for which they are best fitted and so that the state may have citizens capable of carrying on all the branches necessary to the complete and perfect economy of the whole. As it is now, it would seem that the state were bent upon developing clerks and professional men only. The agricultural and industrial schools are for the exceptions and few in number, while they should be in the majority."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is estimated that 200,000 immigrants will come to Canada this year—a number equal the people in eleven cities the size of Peterborough.

Watch us grow—fifty-one new post-offices wer opened in Canada in the month of March alone—at the rate og 600 a year.

The Roman Catholic Church's extense movement is moving rapidly—on wheels. Chapel and church railway conections are to be used to carry the services of the church to people out of reach of religious instruction on the lines of railway.

The thirty-ninth annual report of the Royal Bank of Canada is an edition de luxe of a book, rather than a dust-dry document. In addition to information on purely bank affairs, an illustration of its bank buildings, which extend from Cuba to British Columbia, are printed—compendious and complete statistics relating to the Dominion of Canada.

The London Standard, one of the most solid and influential British journals, does not look through Mr. Foster's green glasses. It strongly commends Mr. Fielding's "excellent financial management." It says he chose wisely in reducing expenditure rather than imposing more taxation. This is hardly in line with the economic theories of Mr. Foster and his school, who believe in making the country rich by taxing it. The Standard also thinks that by providing sinking funds for loans, Canada's already good credit will be increased.

Thousands of other mothers speak just as warmly of this medicine, which never fails to cure all stomach, bowel and teething troubles. Guaranteed by a government analyst to be perfectly safe. SULTAN KEEPS THRONE.

Turkish Ruler Makes Agreement With His Subjects.

Constantinople, April 24.—It looks as if the Sultan will stay. He holds the heir presumptive, his brother Reshad, a prisoner in Yildis Kiosk as a hostage. His 6,000 men there will fight for him, and the Macedonians are extremely averse to fighting in the streets of the capital, fearing foreign intervention. Then, too, the Macedonian leaders are not sure of the obedience of their soldiers if ordered to march against the Sultan. Finally, there are many reactionary Senators and deputies of the palace ring at San Stefano, so that the energetic men of action will probably be outvoted.

Agreement Reached.

London, April 24.—An arrangement was arrived at yesterday at Constantinople between Nahim Bey and Cheftek Pasha under which Abdul Hamid will be retained on the throne.

News to this effect was received from an authoritative source by a financial organization in London of the highest importance.

A Daily Mail special from William Maxwell at Constantinople says:—One thing is obvious in the tragic comedy now being played on the Bosphorus. The Sultan is still a factor to be reckoned with. At midnight I was told that Parliament in secret session had determined to insist on his abdication. This morning I am assured that no decision has been arrived at beyond a promise of personal security. Meanwhile Abdul Hamid sits calmly in the Yildiz Palace with his guar dof 6,000, while the Parliamentary army weaves its net about the palace and city.

Big Thing For Canada.

Toronto, April 24.—Twenty-three countries will be represented at the sessions of the great International Council of Women, which is to be held in this city in June next.

Just how many delegates will be here it is impossible to say. At the last international meeting, held five years ago in Berlin, Germany, there were six thousand delegates; in London, England, in 1899 there were more.

Just what this great meeting will mean for Toronto and for the whole of Canada can hardly be estimated. It will be the biggest thing from an advertising point of view for Canada as a nation, that has yet occurred.

Wages of Montreal Longshoremen.

Montreal, April 24.—The steamship companies gave out yesterday the wages for the longshoremen. They have agreed to extend the time for signing from April 26 to May 31. Those who work to the close of navigation will receive a bonus of 2 1-2c. per hour. The regular rate will be 27 1-2c. per hour for day work and 32 1-2c. by night, with 37 1-2c. and 42 1-2c. for coal shovellers and [illegible]men. All appear to be well satisfied with the arrangements.

Was a Hamilton Woman.

Hamilton, April 24.—Mrs. Catharine A. Whipple, the 65-year-old woman, who committed suicide at Niagara Falls yesterday, was the widow of Vernon B. Whipple, the well-known printer, whose shop was on North Macnab street. She had made her home in Buffalo for about a year, and it is believed that she was temporarfly insane, although it is not known for a certainty whether she slipped or jumped into the river. Her body went over the falls.

Militia Camps to Be Dry.

Ottawa, April 24.—The Militia Department has issued orders that this summer no liquor is to be sold at camps of instruction.

This is an important concession to the temperance people, and comes, it is said, as a result of the laxity of canteen managers in not confining the sale of beer strictly to the soldiers in camp.

Norrie May Recover.

Windsor, April 24.—Peter Shea, whose correct name is Chas. Conlon, was arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Leggatt on the charge of attempting to kill Harry Norrie, a Detroit moulder, last night, and was remanded for eight days without bail. The trouble arose, it is said, over Conlon's action in barring the latter from the Wayne Roller Rink, Detroit, Conlon being floor manager there. It is claimed Norrie assaulted Conlon some time ago. Norrie has a fair chance for recovery.

Rival Gas Companies In Windsor.

Windsor, April 24.—Two rival natural gas companies are endeavoring to obtain franchises from Windsor and competing in rates. Some time ago the Volcanic Oil and Gas Co. entered into negotiations with the city and a bylaw was prepared, but a dispute arose over rates before the bylaw received a second reading. The Rondeau Gas Co. is now willing to sell gas at the maximum price of 25 cents per thousand during the winter months.

Woman Scared to Death.

London, April 24.—Mrs. Jermain, the young wife of a farmer living just outside of the city limits, died yesterday as the direct result of fright. Several days ago Mrs. Jermain, who was in delicate health, was in her home alone when a tramp approached and asked roughly for food. Upon his departing Mrs. Jermain was completely prostrated, and from which she failed to rally

FARMERS' WIVES TELL WHAT THEY KNOW ABOUT PE-RU-NA.

Peruna is Used in the Farmer's Home for all Sorts of Catarrhal Ailments.

Mrs. Magdalena Winkler.
Mrs. Anna Linder.
Mrs. Henry Martin.
Mrs. Lenora Bodenhamer.
Mrs. Hettie Green.

Indigestion and Nervousness.

Mrs. Lenora Bodenhamer, R. F. D. 1, Box 99, Kernersville, North Carolina, writes the following letter to The Peruna Drug Manufacturing Company:

"I suffered with stomach trouble and indigestion for some time, and nothing that I ate agreed with me.

"I was very nervous and experienced a continual feeling of uneasiness and fear.

"I took medicine from the doctor, but it did me no good. I found in one of your Peruna books a description of my symptoms. I then wrote to Dr. Hartman for advice. He said I had catarrh of the stomach.

"I took Peruna and Manalin and followed his directions and can now say that I feel as well as I ever did.

"I hope that all who are afflicted with the same symptoms will take Peruna, as it has certainly cured me."

Now Perfectly Healthy.

Mrs. Magdalena Winkler, Route 5, Westminster, Md., writes:

"I thank you very much for your advice. I can safely say that Peruna and Manalin have saved my life.

"When I wrote to you the first time, asking your advice, my condition was so poor that I did not expect to live through the winter, but now I am perfectly healthy.

"I cannot praise your medicine enough, and I recommend it to others."

Catarrh of Stomach.

Mrs. Mary Allen, Route 6, Franklin, Tenn., writes:

"I am glad to be able to tell you that I am well of catarrh of the stomach, for which I am sincerely thankful to you for your advice. If it had not been for Peruna I would never have been well.

"I had three physicians. One of them told my husband that he could not cure me.

"I had been sick about nine months when a friend asked me to try Peruna to gratify her; so I commenced taking it.

"I can eat and walk and work. Everybody says I look as well as I ever did.

"Oh, you don't know how thankful I do feel to you.

"I have got several other people to take Peruna. I praise it to everybody."

For Children's Colds.

Mrs. Henry Martin, Le Motte, Ia., R. R. No. 1, writes:

"After suffering for some time with sore eyes I was advised by a friend to try Peruna, which I did at once.

"The first bottle relieved me, and after using four bottles I was entirely cured.

"I do recommend Peruna to all who are afflicted with catarrh. I have found it to be a great remedy also for coughs and colds of children; a dose at bedtime will relieve them from coughing all night. I always keep it on hand, and recommend it."

Catarrh for Seven Years.

Mrs. T. Frech, R. R. No. 1, Hickory Point, Tenn., writes: "I am happy to tell you that I am cured of catarrh. I have followed your good and kind advice faithfully. I bless the day when I wrote you of my condition, and I will always praise Peruna. I think it is one of the grandest medicines on earth.

"Having been afflicted with catarrh and stomach trouble for seven years, and after having tried four different doctors they only relieved me for a little while. I gave up all hope of being cured. I only weighed one hundred and thirty pounds, and was so weak I could hardly get around the room.

"I was induced to try Peruna, and to my great surprise I am now entirely well. My weight is now one hundred and eighty-eight pounds, my health never was better in my life, I shall always praise Dr. Hartman and his remedies."

The Farmer's Wife.

Who is in a better position to know than the farmer's wife herself what is required in the farmer's home? She must meet its troubles, solve its problems, ward off disease, nurse the sick, she must do all these things herself, and she learns by valuable experience what is best and what is not best.

In numberless farm homes Peruna is relied upon as the family medicine. Peruna books are consulted in health and disease. Peruna is used as a preventive as well as a corrective in disease.

The wives of the farmers of the United States constitute a solid phalanx in favor of Peruna. Against this testimony the slanders of a few critics will not prevail. One sensible mistress of a farm home who has used Peruna knows more about Peruna than all the magazine critics in the world.

Peruna in Her Home.

Mrs. Anna Linder, R. F. D. No. 5, Dassel, Meeker Co., Minn., writes: "For two years I suffered with that terrible disease, chronic catarrh.

"Fortunately I saw your advertisement in my paper and I spoke to my sister about your medicine. She wrote to you and I got your advice free of charge. I took Peruna and am well and a mother of two children.

"I owe it all to Peruna. I would not be without that great tonic for ten times its cost, for I am well and strong now, and cannot speak in too high terms of its value as a medicine."

In a letter dated June 12, 1906, Mrs. Linder writes: "I cannot express my thanks enough to you for all the good your medicine has done for me and my family. This spring I took cold and it settled in my kidneys. At first I thought it was kidney trouble.

"I took Peruna as directed on the bottle and in a few days I was all right, so I owe my health to Dr. Hartman and his remedy."

Miserable With Catarrh.

Mrs. Hettie Green, R. R. 6, Inks, Ill., writes: "Last November I had catarrh, and felt so miserable, I thought that I would go into consumption.

"I tried so many doctors and medicines, but nothing did me any good, only Peruna.

"After I began the use of Peruna I began to improve in every way.

"My head does not hurt so much, my stomach is all right, my bowels are regular, my appetite good, my complexion clear, my eyes are bright, and I am gaining in flesh and strength.

"I think Peruna has no equal as a catarrh remedy."

WHAT FOSTER SAYS ABOUT THE WEATHER AND EFFECT ON CROPS

Month of May Will be Cool Except in Eastern Canada—Says it Will be a Bad Crop Month in Most Parts of North America.

A BLACK BERRY WINTER

Examiner Special.

Washington, D.C., April 24.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbances to cross continent 21 to 25 and 26 to 30. These disturbances were not expected to be of much importance except that crop weather would be extensively improved by them and thereby all crops would be greatly improved.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about April 30, cross Pacific slope by close of May 1, great central valleys 2 to 4, Atlantic sections 5. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about April 30, great central valleys May 2, eastern part 3. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about May 3, great central valleys 5, eastern sections 7.

The feature of this disturbance will be cool weather, too cool for good crop weather and not much rain. Most rain will fall in Texas and about the great lakes. This cool weather does not look good for the crops. Missouri will have fair rains but in much of the country dry weather will threaten.

May does not look good for crops. Too cold and in many places the rainfall will be short. A streak of country about 200 miles long and stretching from eastern provinces of Canada to Mexico will have about average rainfall during May and all other sections except Florida will be too dry.

The month of May will be unusually cool except in eastern Canada and in the Atlantic states where temperatures will be about normal. It will be particularly cool and bad for crops from May 1 to 6 and from 13 to 23 Warm 8 to 12 and 24 to last of month. Altogether May will be a cold, bad crop month in most parts of North America.

Severe storms are probable May 8 to 12 and 18 to 22 and 28 to June 1 Particularly dry weather 19 to 29. A notable cold spell 13 to 20. This will be the blackberry winter. In most parts of the civilised world it is claimed by those who give attention to traditions that a cold spell about May 13 to 14 assures a good blackberry crop and that a warm spell about that time is bad for the blackberries. This crop spell is very marked on my monthly charts for May 1909 Let us watch for the cold spell and then watch the blackberries. The hot wave centring on May 8 will probably be as high as the cold wave centring on May 16 will be low.

The prices of grain sem to be unnatural and too high. They will probably not remain as high as now but I am of the opinion they should not go back to their level previous to the corner on wheat. Farmers now have the upper hand and should hold it by selling while the prices are high and if the prices should suddenly fall to near their former level not a bushel should be sold. I cannot promise any boom crops this year and all farmers products should bring a good price.

Every farmer should enter into an organization for the purpose of countter acting the speculator's rings. These speculative schemes, plotted against farmers products, are ruinous to legitimate business. The agricultural interests contain the last hope of our republic and all patriots should aid in protecting the markets of farm products.

ENTHUSIASM AND FAT

These two, like oil and water, mix poorly. This does not imply fat men and women never get enthusiastic. They do down deep inside. But what does it amount to? Their fat doesn't get excited. They can't transmute their enthusiasm into energetic action, so they might as well keep calm.

Thus it is that fat people generate much steam for life's work, only to find the load too much for the horsepower, and as a result thousands of both sexes get just so far and no further. "Much they care," says the uninitiated slim one. But they do care. They care keenly for financial, mental, social, business fat hunting., straight-front and comfort reasons, and that is why Marmola Prescription Tablets have been so heartily welcomed by the overweight classes. The reason is not far to seek. Marmola Prescription Tablets take off about a pound a day, in most cases, without interfering in any way with the taker's table tendencies or his love of ease. To some, possibly, their absolute economy appeals. Thus one large case costing seventy-five cents at any drug store or of the makers, The Marmola Company, Detroit, Mich., direct, is said in itself alone to contain enough tablets to make a decided change in any one.

But, these are merely surface reasons. Marmola checks the formation of fat by curing the fat forming tendency. The fat just slips away, as it were, without the sign of a wrinkle. Thus the work these tablets do is not injurious, it is natural. That is the real reason these tablets are so much appreciated. They are safe.

INDEED THEY ARE WONDERFUL

What Thos. McDonald Says of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

He Had Lame Back, Kidney Disease and Heart Flutterings, and One Box Cured Him.

Shubenacadie, Hants Co., N. S., April 23.—(Special).—"I suffered from Lame Back, Kdney Disease and Heart Flutterings, caused by cold and a strain, for three years. I was looking over some papers and saw Dodd's Kidney Pills advertised and I bought one box which completely cured me. Dodd's Kidney Pills are wonderful."

That is the simple, straightforward statement of Mr. Thomas McDonald, a well-known resident of this place. It shows how quickly Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Kidney Disease when taken in its earliest stages. Lame Back is one of the first symptoms of sick Kidneys. Heart Fluttering is another symptom. It is caused by blood, from which the sick Kidneys have failed to strain the impurities, increasing the work of the heart. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the sick Kidneys well, the lame back disappears, the blood is purified, the heart is relieved and the flutterings stop.

If the case is of long standing, it may take longer to cure it, but Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to do it.

Windsor, April 24.—Two rival natural gas companies are endeavoring to obtain franchises from Windsor and competing in rates. Some time ago the Volcanic Oil and Gas Co. entered into negotiations with the city and a bylaw was prepared, but a dispute arose over rates before the bylaw received a second reading. The Rondeau Gas Co. is now willing to sell gas at the maximum price of 25 cents per thousand during the winter months.

Woman Scared to Death.

London, April 24.—Mrs. Jermain, the young wife of a farmer living just outside of the city limits, died yesterday as the direct result of fright. Several days ago Mrs. Jermain, who was in delicate health, was in her home alone when a tramp approached and asked roughly for food. Upon his departing Mrs. Jermain was completely prostrated, and from which she failed to rally

FARMERS' WIVES TELL WHAT THEY KNOW ABOUT PE-RU-NA.

Peruna is Used in the Farmer's Home for all Sorts of Catarrhal Ailments.

Mrs. Magdalena Winkler
Mrs. Lenora Bodenhamer
Mrs. Henry Martin
Mrs. Anna Linder.
Mrs. Hettie Green.

Indigestion and Nervousness.

Mrs. Lenora Bodenhamer, R. F. D. 1, Box 99, Kernersville, North Carolina, writes the following letter to The Peruna Drug Manufacturing Company:

"I suffered with stomach trouble and indigestion for some time, and nothing that I ate agreed with me.

"I was very nervous and experienced a continual feeling of uneasiness and fear.

"I took medicine from the doctor, but it did me no good. I found in one of your Peruna books a description of my symptoms. I then wrote to Dr. Hartman for advice. He said I had catarrh of the stomach.

"I took Peruna and Manalin and followed his directions and can now say that I feel as well as I ever did.

"I hope that all who are afflicted with the same symptoms will take Peruna, as it has certainly cured me."

Now Perfectly Healthy.

Mrs. Magdalena Winkler, Route 5, Westminster, Md., writes:

"I thank you very much for your advice. I can safely say that Peruna and Manalin have saved my life.

"When I wrote to you the first time, asking your advice, my condition was so poor that I did not expect to live through the winter, but now I am perfectly healthy.

"I cannot praise your medicine enough, and I recommend it to others."

Catarrh of Stomach.

Mrs. Mary Allen, Route 6, Franklin, Tenn., writes:

"I am glad to be able to tell you that I am well of catarrh of the stomach, for which I am sincerely thankful to you for your advice. If it had not been for Peruna I would never have been well.

"I had three physicians. One of them told my husband that he could not cure me.

"I had been sick about nine months when a friend asked me to try Peruna to gratify her; so I commenced taking it.

"I can eat and walk and work. Everybody says I look as well as I ever did.

"Oh, you don't know how thankful I do feel to you.

"I have got several other people to take Peruna. I praise it to everybody."

For Children's Colds.

Mrs. Henry Martin, La Motte, Ia., R. R. No. 1, writes:

"After suffering for some time with sore eyes I was advised by a friend to try Peruna, which I did at once.

"The first bottle relieved me, and after using four bottles I was entirely cured.

"I do recommend Peruna to all who are afflicted with catarrh. I have found it to be a great remedy also for coughs and colds of children; a dose at bedtime will relieve them from coughing all night. I always keep it on hand, and recommend it."

Catarrh for Seven Years.

Mrs. T. Frech, R. R. No. 1, Hickory Point, Tenn., writes: "I am happy to tell you that I am cured of catarrh. I have followed your good and kind advice faithfully. I bless the day when I wrote you of my condition, and I will always praise Peruna. I think it is one of the grandest medicines on earth.

"Having been afflicted with catarrh and stomach trouble for seven years, and after having tried four different doctors they only relieved me for a little while. I gave up all hope of being cured. I only weighed one hundred and thirty pounds, and was so weak I could hardly get around the room.

"I was induced to try Peruna, and to my great surprise I am now entirely well. My weight is now one hundred and eighty-eight pounds, my health never was better in my life, I shall always praise Dr. Hartman and his remedies."

The Farmer's Wife.

Who is in a better position to know than the farmer's wife herself what is required in the farmer's home? She must meet its troubles, solve its problems, ward off disease, nurse the sick, she must do all these things herself, and she learns by valuable experience what is best and what is not best.

In numberless farm homes Peruna is relied upon as the family medicine. Peruna books are consulted in health and disease. Peruna is used as a preventive as well as a corrective in disease.

The wives of the farmers of the United States constitute a solid phalanx in favor of Peruna. Against this testimony the slanders of a few critics will not prevail. One sensible mistress of a farm home who has used Peruna knows more about Peruna than all the magazine critics in the world.

Peruna in Her Home.

Mrs. Anna Linder, R. F. D. No. 5, Dassel, Meeker Co., Minn., writes: "For two years I suffered with that terrible disease, chronic catarrh.

"Fortunately I saw your advertisement in my paper and I spoke to my sister about your medicine. She wrote to you and I got your advice free of charge. I took Peruna and am well and a mother of two children.

"I owe it all to Peruna. I would not be without that great tonic for ten times its cost, for I am well and strong now, and cannot speak in too high terms of its value as a medicine."

In a letter dated June 12, 1906, Mrs. Linder writes: "I cannot express my thanks enough to you for all the good your medicine has done for me and my family. This spring I took cold and it settled in my kidneys. At first I thought it was kidney trouble.

"I took Peruna as directed on the bottle and in a few days I was all right, so I owe my health to Dr. Hartman and his remedy."

Miserable With Catarrh.

Mrs. Hettie Green, R. R. 6, Inka, Ill., writes: "Last November I had catarrh, and felt so miserable, I thought that I would go into consumption.

"I tried so many doctors and medicines, but nothing did me any good, only Peruna.

"After I began the use of Peruna I began to improve in every way.

"My head does not hurt so much, my stomach is all right, my bowels are regular, my appetite good, my complexion clear, my eyes are bright, and I am gaining in flesh and strength.

"I think Peruna has no equal as a catarrh remedy."

WHAT FOSTER SAYS ABOUT THE WEATHER AND EFFECT ON CROPS

Month of May Will be Cool Except in Eastern Canada—Says it Will be a Bad Crop Month in Most Parts of North America.

A BLACK BERRY WINTER

Examiner Special.

Washington, D.C., April 24.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbances to cross continent 21 to 25 and 26 to 30. These disturbances were not expected to be of much importance except that crop weather would be extensively improved by them and thereby all crops would be greatly improved.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about April 30, cross Pacific slope by close of May 1, great central valleys 2 to 4, Atlantic sections 5. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about April 30, great central valleys May 2, eastern part 3. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about May 3, great central valleys 5, eastern sections 7.

The feature of this disturbance will be cool weather, too cool for good crop weather and not much rain. Most rain will fall in Texas and about the great lakes. This cool weather does not look good for the crops. Missouri will have fair rains but in much of the country dry weather will threaten.

May does not look good for crops. Too cold and in many places the rainfall will be short. A streak of country about 200 miles long and stretching from eastern provinces of Canada to Mexico will have about average rainfall during May and all other sections except Florida will be too dry.

The month of May will be unusually cool except in eastern Canada and in the Atlantic states where temperatures will be about normal. It will be particularly cool and bad for crops from May 1 to 6 and from 13 to 23. Warm 8 to 12 and 24 to last of month. Altogether May will be a cold, bad crop month in most parts of North America.

Severe storms are probable May 8 to 12 and 18 to 22 and 28 to June 1. Particularly dry weather 19 to 29. A notable cold spell 13 to 20. This will be the blackberry winter. In most parts of the civilized world it is claimed by those who give attention to traditions that a cold spell about May 13 to 14 assures a good blackberry crop and that a warm spell about that time is bad for the blackberries. This crop spell is very marked on my monthly charts for May 1909. Let us watch for the cold spell and then watch the blackberries. The hot wave centring on May 8 will probably be as high as the col wave centring on May 16 will be low.

The prices of grain sem to be unnatural and too high. They will probably not remain as high as now but I am of the opinion they should not go back to their level previous to the corner on wheat. Farmers now have the upper hand and should hold it by selling while the prices are high and if the prices should suddenly fall to near their former level not a bushel should be sold. I cannot promise any boom crops this year and all farmers products should bring a good price.

Every farmer should enter into an organization for the purpose of countter acting the speculator's rings. These speculative schemes, plotted against farmers products, are ruinous to legitimate business. The agricultural interests contain the last hope of our republic and all patriots should aid in protecting the markets of farm products.

ENTHUSIASM AND FAT

These two, like oil and water, mix poorly. This does not imply fat men and women never get enthusiastic. They do down deep inside. But what does it amount to? Their fat doesn't get excited. They can't transmute their enthusiasm into energetic action, so they might as well keep calm.

Thus it is that fat people generate much steam for life's work, only to find the load too much for the horse-power, and as a result thousands of both sexes get just so far and no further. "Much they care," says the uninitiated slim one. But they do care. They care keenly for financial, mental, social, business fait hunting, straight-front and comfort reasons, and that is why Marmola Prescription Tablets have been so heartly welcomed by the overweight classes. The reason is not far to seek. Marmola Prescription Tablets take off about a pound a day, in most cases, without interfering in any way with the taker's table tendencies or his love of ease. To some, possibly, their absolute economy appeals. Thus one large case costing seventy-five cents at any drug store or of the makers, The Marmola Company, Detroit, Mich., direct, is said in itself alone to contain enough tablets to make a decided change in any one.

But, there are merely surface reasons. Marmola checks the formation of fat by curing the fat forming tendency. The fat just slips away, as it were, without the sign of a wrinkle. Thus the work these tablets do is not injurious. It is natural. That is the real reason these tablets are so much appreciated. They are safe.

What Thos. McDonald Says of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

He Had Lame Back, Kidney Disease and Heart Flutterings, and One Box Cured Him.

Shubenacadie, Hants Co., N. S., April 23.—(Special).—"I suffered from Lame Back, Kdney Disease and Heart Flutterings, caused by cold and a strain, for three years. I was looking over some papers and saw Dodd's Kidney Pills advertised and I bought one box which completely cured me. Dodd's Kidney Pills are wonderful."

That is the simple, straightforward statement of Mr. Thomas McDonald, a well-known resident of this place. It shows how quickly Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Kidney Disease when taken in its earliest stages. Lame Back is one of the first symptoms of sick Kidneys. Heart Fluttering is another symptom. It is caused by blood, from which the sick Kidneys have failed to strain the impurities, increasing the work of the heart. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the sick Kidneys well, the lame back disappears, the blood is purified, the heart is relieved and the flutterings stop.

If the case is of long standing, it may take longer to cure it, but Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to do it.

A GRATEFUL WOMAN.

Tells of the Remarkable Cure Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Wrought in Her Case—Had Undergone Four Operations Without Help.

When women approach that critical period in their lives known as the turn of life, they do so with a feeling of apprehension and uncertainty for in the manner in which they pass that crisis determines the health of their after life. During this most important time in the life of a woman, her whole aim should be to build up and strengthen her system to meet the unusual demands upon it. Devotion to family should not lead to neglect of self. The hard work and worries of household cares should be avoided as far as possible. But whether she is able to do this or not, no woman should fail to take the tonic treatment offered by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which will build up her blood and fortify her whole system, enabling her to pass this critical period with safety. We give the following strong proof of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are constantly doing for suffering women.

Mrs. Margaret Wood, Southfield, N. B., says:—"Some years ago I became a victim of the troubles that afflict so many of my sex, in the very worst form. The doctor in charge neither through medicine nor local treatment gave me any help, and he decided that I must undergo an operation if I was to have any relief. During the next two years I underwent four successive operations. During this time I had the attention of some of the best physicians. From each operation I received some benefit, but only of short duration, and then I drifted back into the same wretched condition as before. During all this time I was taking medicine to build up my system, but with no avail. I was reduced to a mere skeleton; my nerves were utterly broken down. My blood was of a light yellowish colour, and I was so far gone that I took spells in which my lips, fingers and tongue would seem paralyzed. I cannot begin to express what I suffered and went through in those two years. I was completely discouraged and thought I could not live long. Then on the urgent advice of friends I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after some weeks perceived a change for the better. I continued to take the Pills for several months gradually growing stronger and suffering less, and in the end found myself once more a well woman and enjoying the blessing of such good health as I had not known for years. I now always keep these Pills in the house and after a hard day's work take them for a few days and they always seem to put new life and energy in my body. I sincerely hope my experience may be of benefit to some other suffering women."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicines or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE CAVE MAN.

When the cave man found that he needed grub to fill out the bill of fare, he went out doors with his trusty club, and slaughtered the nearest bear; and thus he avoided the butcher's fake of selling a pound of bone, and charging it up as the sirloin steak that you ordered by telephone. The cave man wore, as his Sunday best, the skin of a sheep or goat, and a peck of whiskers on his breast, in lieu of a vest or coat; so he nothing knew of the tailor's knack of sewing a vest all wrong, and making a coat with a crooked back, and the pants half a foot too long. The cave man swallowed his victuals raw, as he sat on his nice mud floor; and his only tool was his faithful jaw, and he wanted for nothing more. He took his drink at the babbling brook, and healthy and gay was he; and he never swore at the bungling cook for spoiling the pie or tea. Watt Mason.

JUDGE BARRON ADVISES CANADA TO BUILD NAVY OF HER OWN WITH HER MATERIAL AND MEN

Berlin, Ont., April 22.—Judge Barron, of Stratford, who has been making a series of addresses throughout the Province on naval defence, raised a novel problem when speaking before the Canadian Club he urged the prohibition of the export of nickel as a means of retaining British naval supremacy. Judge Barron in urging Canada to make a beginning in the building of a navy of its own, said in part: "I see in a Canadian navy the dawn of a new industry, or, rather, the restoration of an old one. In Nova Scotia the noise of the hammer will mingle with the wash of the wave, and why not? Canada has all that goes to make a battleship. She has the wood, the iron, the steel and the nickel. To begin with, she lacks the brains, but these she can buy or rent until she grows her own. Every ton of a battleship demands 700 hours of man's time, that is 700 hours of labour to the ton. The labour value of a Dreadnought is 10,000,000 men-hours at least. That means that 2,000 men find employment for 5,000 hours, or 5,000 men for 2,000 hours, or full employment for over two years for 2,000 men. In the building of a cruiser about 60 per cent. of the cost of the hull goes for labour or about $370,000 in wages or in the building of a Dreadnought 50 per cent. of the hull goes for labour or about $1,150,000 in wages. There is besides the labour value of the machinery. The building of the hull, the joining and fitting must take place on the ways; but the labour and skill of all else which goes to the creation of a big ship must necessarily be widely distributed throughout the Dominion. The necessity for a Canadian navy having arisen it is the highest wisdom to have our necessities create new industries and thus use the new material which God has given us so plentifully.

"You, gentlemen, are all aware that the addition of nickel to steel toughens steel. The application of this amalgam to ships of war has made a three-inch nickel-steel plate, less vulnerable than a coat of the old nine-inch armour. A projectile will crack and splinter iron and steel, while its effect on nickel steel is like throwing a marble into putty. Then its application has reduced the dead weight of the modern ship away below that of the old armour-clad, and in addition to it has enormously accelerated speed. This is what nickel has done, and, sir, the mines at Sudbury furnish most of the nickel in the armour plate of the world's warships of to-day. It would be an easy task for Canada to stop Germany's race for supremacy. Let Canada prohibit the export of nickel. Let the act of 1897 be proclaimed law. Let nickel-steel industries flourish in our own land rather than across the line, as they now do by means of our God-given wealth. Then prohibit the export to Germany, directly or indirectly. Then, with a preference to Great Britain, Canada would be doing more for the motherland than would be done by a gift of a dozen Dreadnoughts. Germany would lose the amalgam, unless the mines of New Caledonia came to her rescue, and this France would scarcely permit, smarting as she does under Germany's repeated indignities which she can never forget and never forgive. It is impossible to contemplate the far-reaching benefit this would be to the motherland, though I confess this method of defeating a foe does not appeal to the Anglo-Saxon who despises to fight on other than even terms. It is less to be condemned, however, than is a policy which permits our store of wealth to be exploited to benefit industries in a foreign land, and that by a large foreign corporation which has blanketed over acres between the Soo and Sudbury and is powerful enough to destroy the fruits of fresh discovery and to throttle any attempt at competition, and which has consolidated the mines and smelters in the United States, Canada, Great Britain and New Caledonia, including seven large and hitherto independent concerns."

COUNTY CONSTABLE'S FIRST CASE RECALLED BY FINDING REPORT

Mr. George Cochrane Commenced His Duties Thirty-one Years Ago on a Case That Required a Month's Attention and Many Miles of Travelling.

THE NATURE OF THE CASE

In going over some of the old files at the Court House the other day, the report and the statement of costs were found of the first case Mr. George Cochrane ever handled as High County Constable. It occurred a few months more than thirty-one years ago and was Mr. Cochrane's first work for the County of Peterborough as guardian of the peace and the "terror to evil doers and a praise to them that do well."

The first case was an important one and required the constable's careful attendance to duty for a month, at the end of which time he secured the men he was searching for. Wm. Hubbs and James Murphy were two lumbermen in Chandos working in the woods and living at the "shanty." A man named Jones whose home was only three miles distant, was also working with the "gang." The crime committed at Jones' home in his absence by Hubbs, Murphy and another man was one that is punishable by hanging.

Got Both Men

The last mentioned man was caught in the neighbourhood of the place. Murphy was apprehended after a week's searching near Trenton. Mr. Cochrane had a hard "nut to crack" in locating Murphy. After a time he heard that the man had found his way into Michigan. The County Constable went after him, and although he had never seen him before, Mr. Cochrane went into the forest 80 miles from Bay City where he arrested Murphy from among a number of the lumbermen. The offence was not extraditable, but Murphy was brought back. The two men appeared at the sessions of the High Court and were found guilty, but the jury recommended mercy. They were given a life sentence in the Penitentiary, but after five years they were pardoned.

Mr. Cochrane travelled hundreds of miles in this case before it was concluded, and as an initiation to his work it was rather a severe one but nevertheless successful. Among other long journeys he has made was across the continent to Vancouver after an offender, to St. John's, N.B., to Montreal and to many other places in the Dominion. All these arose during the long course of 31 years.

Mr. Cochrane used handcuffs not more than 20 or 30 times, and never struck a man with his baton. In his long service he had dealings with criminals of all kinds. In view of his long and faithful service in the course of law and order, and from the fact that his work was carried out with but little ill will being stirred, and from Mr. Cochrane's reputation throughout the county, it is felt that when favours are being passed around to the long service public servants he will not be overlooked.

Mr. A. H. Kennedy Explains His Case To The Public

To the Editor of The Examiner

Dear Sir,—I wish to offer some correction of the evidence given before the Legal Committee in connection with my claim for compensation for damages sustained by a fall on a dangerous city pavement, by which my thigh was broken, entailing six months absence from my business occupation. As reported, Mr. F. H. Dobbin stated that he did not consider the place dangerous, and said that a man walking east along Hunter street, had bumped into a lady who fell against Mr. Kennedy, causing him to fall. I have no hesitation in stating that this witness did not see the fall or if he did did not see it as it occurred, or did not correctly tell what he saw. His statement is entirely incorrect. There was no man or woman passing east on the walk at the time I fell; a fact I can prove by a man who saw me fall and will tell it as it occurred. The facts are these: I was going west at the foot of Chambers street, when I fell and broke my thigh. My own daughter was walking at my left side, and the statement that any one was going east on the crossing at the time of my fall is false, as I can prove.

I consider that the crossing was dangerous, in fact I know, by sad and costly experience that it was dangerous to me. Besides, the city aldermen knew it was dangerous, for no other man than the Editor of the Review, Mr. Burnham, said in my presence before the council committee, that he had notified the council three times of the dangerous state of the crossing. Therefore I can't understand how Mr. Dobbin, who, I am told, is publisher of the Review, can at the same time ignore the disinterested evidence of his editor in the matter of the danger of the crossing, in addition to incorrectly stating the nature and cause of my fall.

I consider I have a valid claim for compensation, and am willing to have its merits thoroughly investigated; but I decidedly object that the city authorities should act upon evidence not in accordance with the facts as they occurred.

Yours truly,
A. H. KENNEDY.

57th Regiment Band Held Annual Meeting This Week

The annual meeting of the 57th Regimental Band was held during the past week, when the officers for the ensuing years were elected and plans discussed. The band is in better shape just now than it has been for some years and will be able to demonstrate that fact to the citizens of Peterborough during the coming summer. The young players have come on wonderfully during the winter and the instrumentation of the band is the best that it has been for several seasons. A vast amount of new music has been studied and the opening of the concert season will find the band supplied with a varied repertoire that any musical organization of its kind might well be proud of.

The following officers were elected:

President—Ed. Cronk.
Vice-President—Fred C. Miller.
Secretary—J. Harper.
Treasurer—R. Sheldon.
Chairman; Charles Westbrooke, Ed. Wand, and Walter Hughes.

Great things are expected of the 57th musicians this season, and they will not disappoint the citizens.

Dame Fashion's Rulings In Regard To Men's Summer Wear

Plainness a Thing of the Past—Colour Harmony Carried Out Even Into Details—The Haberdasher's Review of What is Demanded of Dressy Men.

A SUMMARY OF POINTS.

The Clothier and Haberdasher gives the following tips on men's raiment.

The attire of the well-dressed man has undergone a revolution during the past year. Plainness in men's apparel is a thing of the past. Elaboration has come, and now we are to have fancy features in suits for men. No suit will be worn this spring that has not some distinguishing mark of the season's styling. The innovations are made for the sake of smartness, but the necessary touch of dignity will not be lacking.

Colour harmony will be the chief new feature in male dress. The vogue for solid colours has resulted in a tendency towards colour matching in various parts of the attire. Hose, scarf and handkerchief worn in the breast pocket will be uniform in colour for summer wear, and in many cases the uniformity will extend to the hat, shirt and belt.

The apparel modes of 1909 are distinctly novel. To be correctly informed as to what these style innovations mean is an absolute necessity for every man who takes any pride whatever in his personal appearance. Informal day dress worn for any informal day or evening purpose, such as business, travelling or for country use, does not toe the mark of strict formality. The strict dictates of usage are not adhered to during the months between April and September. Nevertheless, such apparel as this has its essential features, the general points of which we will summarize:

The Suit. Single or double-breasted coat with self or fancy waistcoat. Trousers of same material as coat. The approval coat style follows the two or three-button model with long nearly graduated lapels and deep centre vent. The skirt has a slight "flare" from the waist over the hips. It is in the sleeves and pockets that suits will show the novelty features. The cuffs will be worn in an endless variety of designs in which buttons, seams and straps will form the feature. Pockets will be cut both curved and diagonally, and designs similar to those used in cuffs will be applied to them. Vest will show a flap depending from the outer edge of the pocket, and will be collarless.

The Shirt. White or fancy shirts, plain or pleated, stiff or soft bosom will be the correct thing for informal wear. Cuffs will be attached on all informal garments. The coat style will be much worn. Stripes predominate in shirt patterns.

The Collar.—For informal wear the fold collar with the close front enjoys the most popularity. The wing collar with rounded tabs will also be accepted.

The Scarf.—The straght four-in-hand in the narrower widths has almost an exclusive call. The shades harmonize with the suit and range from taupe, the new smoke-shade to grey, green and brown. Solid colours without pattern will be the choice of the dignified dressers, while the pattern will consist of stripes only.

The Shoes. Either tan or black, laced or cut low. Dark red tan will also be a poular colour.

The Hat.—Soft shape in green grey and brown predominate. The hard shapes will have flat rims and be worn in more subdued colours.

The Underwear. Coat style shirts and knee length drawers of nainsook, pongee, silk or silk mixtures.

VICTORIA PARK IN ALL ITS BEAUTY.

At present there is a feeling of regret among the Citizens because of the improvements to the upper section depriving them of the pleasure of the weekly band Concerts during the Summer. Everyone recognizes the good w of the Horticultural Society and appreciates their efforts to beautify the Park, but at the same time the sacrifice made seems to be a heavy one to a public who look upon Victoria Park as their own. The work has already been commenced and will be carried ahead rapidly. The lower section is now begining to take on the beauty which is its heritage. The grass is resuming its verdure and under careful attention is now a delight to the eye. The beds of tulips should bloom soon and the whole park in a few short months will be as beautiful as is shown in the above cut.

A TRIBUTE TO DR. GRENFELL

Saturday Night pays this tribute to Dr. Grenfell:

Had Dr. Grenfell taken a text for his quiet little talk before the members of the Toronto Press Club the other night it would, in all probability, have been "The Philosophy of Work." However, it was not a sermon. This sailor-doctor who, if he desired, might live the life of an English gentleman, but who chooses rather to spend his days among the sailor folk of dreary Labrador, told in the simplest language of what he has been able to accomplish with the help of other men. All this was done without a suspicion of egotism, for Dr. Grenfell is an unspoiled man. A great man, but one untainted by popularity.

Dr. Grenfell is not an orator. There were no specially well turned sentences; no reaching after effect; no tales which bore evidence of having been lugged in by the heels. Newspaper men have a surfeit of what popularly passes as oratory. They hear it all their working days. They hear it in the House of Commons; on the hustings, in the Churches, in the courts; they hear it everywhere, but there is precious little of it worth retaining beyond the hurried scribbles in the note book. Newspaper men know instinctively when it is given them to hear the 18K variety. It is the result of long training. They have learned to tell the false from the true, the real from the unreal. This is the reason why fifty or more writers sat before Dr. Grenfell the other night without batting an eyelid, without shuffling a foot, and when the doctor had said the last word were no laggards in their applause.

That he believes in the philosophy of work and lives up to his ideals as well as man may, is shown in his clear eye, and by his graceful, well set figure. Grenfell is doctor, magistrate, missionary and sailor man on his Labrador coast. He works without pay, giving all there is in him, and there is much, for he is a skilled surgeon and physician, and a missionary who has no time for dogmas and higher criticism. As for his skill and capacity as a magistrate and sailor I'd take a chance. More than this, however, those associated with him work mostly without pay, and for fear the newly-appointed volunteer should fall down on the job he is asked to put up a deposit. Thus, under no circumstances can the newly arrived become a load upon the colony and its work.

"What are your qualifications?" he asked the raw recruit who was lean, lank, and wore an eye-glass.

"I have taken degrees in philosophy, and I'm a Presbyterian," said the man who came from Princeton.

"Won't do," said the doctor. "We have a little home made philosophy up here, and that's all we require. Can you do anything else?"

"I am something of an amateur plumber," said the man with some hesitation.

"And now," said the doctor, "he's wiping good Presbyterian joints for us."

Dr. Grenfell has under his care eight co-operative stores, and these stores are preaching, he says, right straight through the working day. Here is a Christianity with its coat off, and sleeves rolled to the elbows. Dr. Grenfell has sat at the feet of priest and parson. He loves to work, because he says that work brings happiness and rest and mental comfort, all of which can be obtained in no other way. For twenty-five years he has done this work and if he had those twenty-five years ahead instead of back of him he would do these self-assigned tasks all over again.

This surgeon-missionary is a big man in frame, but in mind and accomplishments. He has grasped great questions by the handle; he has got a fame, yet he talks modestly, and what he does, counts.

First Winter In Gowganda And Hardships Endured

Mr. Frank O'Connor, Home for a Short Time, Writes an Interesting Letter About the New Country and the Wealth of Mineral That Lies Between Crevices of the Rocks---Some of the Finds That Have Been Made.

Mr. Frank O'Connor, now of Gowganda, who is spending a short visit at his home in this city at the request of the Examiner has written the following interesting discription of the new silver field:

To the Editor of The Examiner:

As requested, I am giving you an account of my experience in Gowganda district during the past winter. With many others I went up there in December last, and came out about the middle of this month, and had my share of the excitement and the hardships of this new country. This district as a whole is very rocky—with high ridges or ranges of rounded hills—many lakes, rivers, and streams, and is covered with a thick growth of small timber mostly Jack pine, spruce and tamarack.

The Montreal river with its numerous expansions and tributaries—most of which are navigable—is the great highway for the summer months, while during the winter a sleigh road from Charlton, 65 miles east, and another from Sellwood, 75 miles south, are the only roadways into the country. Fire has swept over portions of this country leaving blackened and charred desolation behind it, but just about Gowganda the district has fortunately thus far escaped its ravages.

Gowganda or (Big Fish) Lake is about seven miles long and in its widest parts perhaps three miles in width. On its northeastern shore the Provincial Government has staked out the town site of the future city of Gowganda. Just fancy a town springing up in the wilderness—65 miles from the nearest railroad and farther still from a decent summer road—and picture, if you can, it being staked out and built on in the winter months with the thermometer below zero from 40 to 55 degrees—moving up and down, mostly down—and yet having 6,000 or 7,000 people crowding into the district to be fed and sheltered, many of them living in single-walled tents with a little collapsible stove, 12 by 18 inches, and you will have a slight idea of some of the hardships of the past winter. What did we eat? Our staples were beans, bacon, Quaker Oats and rice, not much variety but still substantial and enough of it. The quiet onlooker naturally would ask, "Why all this haste to get into this new country?" One word answers it —"Silver."

Silver is apparently everwhere on the surface. West of Gowganda Lake there is a huge Diabase ridge perhaps three times the height of Armour's hill and about one mile in width and perhaps nine miles in length. This ridge is very rich in native silver showings, and while there has been no attempt on any of the claims at complete prospecting, yet wonderful finds have been made in this ridge and there are in this district already over fifty claims that show rich ore and native silver. Veins have been stripped for three hundred feet which have shown silver sticking out all along the surface. The silver here seems to be oozing out of the veins and the wall rock on each side is heavily loaded with silver.

The Bartlett mine, which I visited shortly before I came out is thus far the best equipped and largest, and to all appearances the richest so far discovered in this district. Just across the arm of Hanging Stone Lake and almost south of the Bartlett mines, some Peterborough gentlemen have secured four or five excellent claims that will doubtless make them big money.

The wonder to me is that more of our Peterborough people are not getting in here as it is apparently bound to be a safe field for the investment of capital, and one that has already turned out several wealthy capitalists. The men who have made the big finds in Gowganda are not the trained and tried prospectors or engineers, but as this district shows its silver on the surface, the big things have so far been found in most instances by men who knew very little of mining or prospecting. Only in a few places has the surface soil from four to six inches deep been removed. I am firmly of the opinion that when the claims come to be cleared and stripped, a wonderful showing will be developed. Ten clerks and office boys down at Haileybury put in $10 each and sent up a man last fall into the Gogwanda. Their prospector found a long narrow strip known as the Armstrong fraction which brought them $10,000 each. This claim is in this famous ridge west of Gowganda Lake and is now owned, I believe, by Montreal people. I understand that the Provincial Government will spend $50,000 on a summer road from Charlton to Gowganda, and the T. and N. O. Railway have scattered their ties along the winter road preparatory to building in, this year. While a canoe route will be soon established into this country, it is expected that gasoline and steam launches will be in evidence on the Montreal river early this summer.

The country is well worth seeing and I hope many of our Peterborough people will come in to get a portion of it before our neighbourly American cousins get everything in sight.

ORANGE MEAT COMPARED WITH BREAD

BREAD and milk make a good food, but usually bread is not baked enough to get the best results. By chemical analysis there is found a great difference between the bread crumb and bread crust. Owing to the action of heat the bread crust contains about one-third less moisture than the crumb, six times more fat, 40 per cent. more proteid, twice the quantity of soluble matter, 60 per cent. more maltose and three times more dextrine, all due to heat action.

ORANGE MEAT (which contains the whole wheat) is so prepared that every ounce will be affected like the bread crust. No kitchen with ordinary apparatus can produce this effect.

Read carefully the private postcard in every package of Orange Meat, giving details of how to win one dollar a week every week of your life.

Has Remedy Been Discovered That Will Cure Consumption?

London Physician Has Invented a Treatment That is Cheap and is Said to Cure Within Six Months---A Test Case Proves Successful---Chloride Poultice Used.

New York, April 24.—The American publishes the following London cable from W. T. Stead:

I am in a position to give the American public the first information of what promises to be one of the most valuable discoveries in medical science amounting to nothing less than a cheap and speedy cure for tuberculosis. Similar claims have been made so often that I would have hesitated in making the announcement if I had not secured evidence sufficient to justify me in bringing forward the facts of this present cure.

The fortunate discover is William Doig, head of the firm of Wm. Doig & Co., the noted Bond street publishers.

He first discovered he could cure tuberculosis of the bone, and, only in recent years, he found a method of applying his discovery to the cure of consumption. His results have been so astonishing that they have been brought before the highest authorities and have been subjected to tests so crucial as to leave little doubt that the name of William Doig will go down to posterity as that of the man who rid civilization of the great white plague.

The treatment is extremely simple. A poultice containing acite and chloride (the exact prescription has not yet been published, but there is no intention on the part of Doig to keep it secret), is placed on the body of the patient as near as possible to the organ or membrane that has become prey to the tuberculosis bacilli. In about a week an ulcer is formed—connected by what is called a ray of inflammation with the diseased organ. This forms a kind of duct through which the muco pus is drawn out of the system.

The ulcer needs to be carefully dressed twice a day with a salve, which is also the discovery of Doig. If this is neglected, the ulcer spreads, become black, and the patient dies. But, if it is properly attended to, the ulcer steadily works off all diseased matter from the lung, until, in from four to six months, a complete cure is effected.

As a test case Doig was challenged to undertake the cure of a youth, seventeen years old, who was certified to be suffering from advanced tuberculosis in both lungs, and also from tuberculosis in the glands of the throat, which rendered it impossible for him to speak except in hoarse whispers. The youth weighed about 100 pounds, and, in the opinion of the physicians, his death within two years was a foregone conclusion. Nothing daunted, Doig undertook to cure this unpromising case. To the amazement of every one the lad is now quite cured. He has put on flesh, he sings merrily at his work, and all traces of tuberculosis has disappeared.

SOME NEW LAWS ARE INTRODUCED

Sir Wilfrid Announces Ministry of Labor Resolution.

BUDGET DEBATE GOES ON

Mr. Brodeur Introduces a Bill Amending Salvaging Laws and Mr. Graham Brings In Measure Regarding G.T.P. In Winnipeg — Debate on the Budget Will Be Finished Next Week.

Ottawa, April 24.—Hon. Mr. Brodeur yesterday introduced a bill to amend the Navigable Waters Protection Act. It prohibits the removal of cargoes before salvage operations and allows the Department in urgent cases to remove wrecks without an order-in-council.

He also introduced a bill to amend the Montreal Harbor Commissioners Act. It provides that so far as the rules of the road and pilotage are concerned the jurisdiction of the commissioners shall cease.

Hon. Mr. Graham introduced a bill to allow the Transcontinental Railway commission to make an arrangement with the City of Winnipeg to construct a joint railway and vehicle bridge over the Red river between Winnipeg and St. Boniface.

Sam Sharpe introduced a bill to amend the Bank Act. It provides after six years unclaimed deposits in the banks shall be transferred to the Government, to be held in trust.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has given notice of a resolution to provide for the salary [illegible] Minister of Labor.

The budget debate was continued by Mr. W. Nesbitt (North Oxford), who defended the borrowing operations of the Government. We had been able to borrow on as favorable rates as other countries and our credit had not been impaired, this being demonstrated by our ability to raise such large sums in a short time, he argued. Moreover, Canadian securities had not fluctuated as much in ten years as British consols.

David Henderson went through the list of household articles to show that the farmer has to pay more for the necessaries of life than when the Conservatives were in power. The Liberal Government had lowered the duties on a few seldom used farm implements as a sop to the farmers, while such articles as sausage skins and mustard seed were placed on the free list. In other respects the tariff was as left by the Conservative Government in 1896.

So many speakers wish to be heard in the budget debate that it was decided by the whips that it would not be finished last night, but go over till next week.

Glen Campbell of Dauphin discussed generally the matter of transportation in the west and particularly referred to Mr. Fielding's declaration that this Government had reserved the lands for the settler instead of doing as the Conservatives had done, given it to the railways, claiming that some of the best lands in the west had been given to Mackenzie and Mann.

Conditions in the west were such that a man had to pay taxes on his farm, and the neighboring farm, which happened to be C.P.R. land. This land was growing in value by reason of the hard toil of the settler, and it was unfair that it should not also contribute to the revenues of the country in taxes.

Shakespeare Anniversary.

Stratford-on-Avon, April 24.—The 245th anniversary of the birth of William Shakespeare was celebrated here yesterday on an unusually elaborate scale. The city was lavishly decorated and it was crowded with visitors. One of the principal features of the ceremonies was the unfurling of forty-one national flags, representing together the countries which especially admire Shakespeare. There was a floral procession to the church to which all the delegates took part, each carrying garlands and wreaths of flowers which were subsequently placed upon the tomb of the poet. This feature of the day made a most striking picture.

Lawyer Blackstock Demands A Warrant To Compel Florence Kinrade's Attending Inquest

Hamilton, April 24.—A bench warrant was issued by Coroner Anderson here last night for Florence Kinrade, as a material witness in the enquiry into the death of her sister, Ethel Kinrade. The warrant was placed in possession of Detective Miller, who left for Toronto this morning.

This followed on an exciting scene that occurred last night when, after three-quarters of an hour waiting, and the inquest resumed, the crown counsel, Geo. Tate Blackstock, K.C., put Detective Miller on the stand to swear that he had personally served a subpoena upon Florence Kinrade, and stated that she was not present. He then requested the issue of a warrant to compel her attendance to give evidence on Monday night. Detective Miller had previously telephoned to Toronto and assured himself that the Kinrades were still at their apartments.

G. Lynch-Staunton, K.C., acting for the family, jumped up with the air of a man who was going to force the fighting. The atmosphere grew intense after his first sentence, which directly controverted the attitude he has hitharto observed.

"I wish to say that Florence Kinrade is acting under advice of counsel," he began. "She was physically unfit to attend," he said. Moreover, he desired to contest the action suggested.

"You have exhausted your authority," he informed Coroner Anderson. "I will take it upon me to advise you not to issue the warrant, and ask you to adjourn for a reasonable length of time, and I say that Monday is not a reasonable time."

Mr. Blackstock rose at once to dissent. He spoke with more vigor than he has done since the proceedings began.

From the opening of the enquiry counsel for the family had placed them, he said, as witnesses at the disposal of the crown, which was a perfectly proper proceeding, and to be expected under the circumstances. He regretted the departure from the procedure.

This was the first intimation the crown had received that the persons subpoenaed were acting on advice in remaining absent. On the contrary, the crown had applied to the representative of the family the previous evening to know if the witnesses would be here, and had been informed that he did not know whether they would be here or not. It now appeared that, on counsel's advice, they had been acting entirely against the expectations of the crown. Much as he wished to meet the views of anyone in the matter, he must dissent from the application for a further postponement.

Mr. Lynch-Staunton followed at once. He spoke in studied, deliberate tones.

"I consider the insinuations made by counsel for the crown unbecoming, but of course he may make insinuations."

By this time the atmosphere was like August in a thunderstorm.

"If you choose to be hectored into issuing a warrant by insinuations—" he proceeded, every word hurtling like a vivid flash through the silence until the thunder rumbled.

"They are not insinuations, they are facts," interrupted Mr. Blackstock.

"They are not facts," was flashed back.

Then the coroner had his word. "I have not heard any insinuations from counsel for the crown and I do not think you have any right to say that I can be hectored into doing anything I do not approve," he declared.

"I did not say you could be hectored. I said if you choose to be hectored," was the way Mr. Lynch-Staunton defined his point.

The coroner did not appreciate the distinction and intimated that he would issue the warrant and adjourn till Monday.

"You have no authority to issue the warrant," Mr. Lynch-Staunton warned him.

"The law says so," was the final bolt of the storm.

Opinion is undivided here about the express intention of Mr. Lynch-Staunton to precipitate a crisis. There is considerable difference of opinion with respect to the tactical wisdom of the attitude adopted.

There is not supposed to be any evidence in the hands of the crown that could lead to any other than an open verdict from a coroner's jury. From this standpoint it is believed that it would be much wiser for the family to facilitate proceedings and endeavor to secure a verdict at the earliest opportunity.

Another section of public opinion, and quite a large section in Hamilton, take the view that the family know much more about the circumstances and occurrences of Feb. 25 than has transpired during the several sessions of the inquest. This section of the public consider the family's counsel, by his present attitude, is unnecessarily prejudicing the jury, and all others concerned.

Mr. Lynch-Staunton when seen after the adjournment, decline to give any reasons for the action he had taken, and refused to discuss any feature of the case.

Expect Trouble In Mines.

Sydney, N.S., April 24.—The council at its meeting yesterday decided to accede to the request of the Dominion Coal Co. to appoint 625 special constables in case of a strike by the United Mine Workers.

Councillor McDonald declared he would "rather see people killed by red coats than by each other."

Talk of strike is rife in the city to-day, and should the United Mine Workers order the men out, serious trouble is expected. The American organization controls about two-thirds of the men in the company's employ.

The coal company have one hundred thousand tons banked in case of emergency, and no matter what happens will be able to fill contracts for some time to come.

Cornwall, April 24.—Not daunted by the action of the Government in not granting protection asked, the Canadian Sheet Steel Corporation has announced that it would not interfere with their plans, as previously mapped out. Work is now proceeding on the addition of two new hot mills and two new galvanizing machines, which will be ready for operation within a week, and will greatly facilitate the filling of the company's numerous orders.

Burglars Shoot at Policeman.

London, April 24.—A couple of daring crooks were working in the vicinity of Pottersburg Thursday night, and did not hesitate to fire on Constable Thomas Mills when he discovered them trying to break into the store of Grocer Thomas Neeley.

The information comes from Earl Crewe, dated at the Court of St. James, Feb. 27 last.

It is provided that:

"Whereas, her late Majesty Queen Victoria was graciously pleased to warrant under her royal sign manual, bearing date the 26th day of May, in the 31st year of Her Majesty's reign, to assign certain armorial bearings to the Province of Ontario, in our Dominion of Canada, and whereas for the greater honor and distinction of the said province we are desirous that a crest and supporters should be assigned thereto: Know ye, therefore, that we, of our princely grace and special favor, have granted and assigned to do by these presents, grant and assign the following crest, that is to say, 'Upon a wreath of the colors of a bear passant sable, and the supporters on the dexter side a moose, and on the sinister side a Canadian deer, both proper,' together with this motto, 'Ut Incepit Fedelis Sic Permanent,' as the same are in the painting hereunto annexed, more plainly depicted to be borne for the said Province of Ontario on seals, shields, banners, flags or otherwise, according to the laws of arms."

Coach Over Embankment.

Middleton, N.S., April 24.—The Halifax and Southwestern Railway train from Bridgewater was rounding a curve about seven miles south of here when the passenger coach left the rails, breaking from the baggage-car and rolled over on its side down the bank. Had it not been for a heavy cedar telegraph pole the coach would have gone to the bottom of the steep embankment, and the damage would have been much more serious.

A dozen passengers were in the coach and all were shaken up, and several seriously injured.

Conductor Allen had a finger cut off by its being driven through a window pane. Passengers were placed in a baggage-car and brought to Middleton, where doctors rendered surgical aid.

Marine Officer's Death.

Bass' Barley Wine

A Malt Extract that Does Nourish.

For actual nutritive value there's no malt extract sold to-day that can begin to compare with Bass' Barley Wine.

There are two features alone that make this preparation unlike all others.

One of them is that it is brewed at Burton-on-Trent in England by Bass & Co. the greatest brewers in the world.

Ever since barley has been malted, this locality has produced the finest water for malting and brewing purposes yet discovered.

The other feature is that the barley used for malting is known as the Chevalier brand.

This barley is richer in nutritive principles than any other and when malted, contains more grape sugar and proteids.

These proteids in the malting are converted into peptones and parapeptones.

In other words when you use Bass' Barley Wine it means that you are using a partly digested preparation full of nutritive principles.

This is why barley malt is so easily assimilated by anyone in delicate health.

It is particularly suitable for nursing mothers, invalids, nervous patients, delicate and tubercular persons and others.

Unlike most of the malt extracts, Bass' Barley Wine has a body and flavor which makes it especially palatable to persons with delicate stomachs.

The fact that it's the best product of Bass & Co., is its strongest recommendation.

Insist upon getting Bass' Barley Wine — other Malt Extracts are "not as good".

Bass' Barley Wine costs 30c a bottle but contains more nourishment than any other three bottles of Malt Extracts sold to-day.

POPULAR CATCHER HONOURED ON HIS DEPARTURE FOR WEST

Mr. Harry Burridge Was Presented With a Gold Locket by His Friends at an Informal Banquet Held Last Night.

SORRY TO SEE HIM GO.

A very enjoyable affair was held at the Windsor Hotel last night, when some twenty-five friends of Mr. Harry Burridge, the well-known local baseball player, gathered around the festive board to say farewell to him on the occasion of his departure to Edmonton, for whom he will play this season. The evening was one of thorough enjoyment although overshadowed by the fact that the guest of the occasion was in a short time to sever his connection with the gathering for some months at least. He has been most popular with those who have come into contact with him since he came to Peterboro two years ago, and his many friends wish him every success in the West.

A very enjoyable repast was served and done ample justice to by the gathering, after which a short, but enjoyable toast list was run off, Mr. F. D. Craig, scorer of the Peterborough Baseball Club for the past two years, acting as chairman.

The toast to the King was heartily honoured, after which the chairman proposed the health of the guest of the evening, expressing the regret of Mr. Burridge's friends that he was leaving, and wishing him luck in his new home. At the same time he presented Mr. Burridge with a handsome gold locket as a mark of the esteem in which he is held by his friends.

Mr. Burridge, in reply, thanked his friends for their kind gift and referred to the many pleasant associations he had in Peterborough.

The toast to the ladies was proposed by "Steve, the Trainer," and fitting responses were made by Messrs. S. Hayes and T. Jenkins.

Speeches expressing regret at Mr. Burridge's departure were made by Messrs. S. Jameson, Frank Hughes, Geo. Brousseau, R. Long, D. McGregor, J. Maynard, T. Duncan, A. Bell, C. Halpin, B. Doupe, R. Maxwell, and others present.

During the evening Mr. Joe Maynard sang a number of songs in a manner that brought down the house and Mr. R. Maxwell gave several most enjoyable instrumental selections.

The last toast of the evening was to the Host and Hostess,' 'to which Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Johnston replied suitably, and an enjoyable evening was brought to a close with the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

Mr. Burridge leaves for Toronto this afternoon to report to Manager Dinny McGuire of the Edmonton team. He is one of the best ball players that has ever played the game here, and should make a name for himself in the Western League this season.

The season of summer sports is almost at hand and lacrosse teams, football and baseball clubs, and other athletic organizations are making their plans for the season. It is just such news as that. that the Examiner wants for its sporting page. Anything in the line of local sport is of interest and the Examiner is only too glad to be able to assist the clubs in any way. Secretaries of the different organizations should make it a point to send in anything of interest concerning their clubs to the Examiner. Scores of the games, the election of officers, the plans for the season, and any gossip about the club's doings will be appreciated and they will find that it will help to boom their team as well as to stimulate the interest of the public. Remember nothing in the line of sporting news is considered unimportant by the Examiner, and news of junior players will be as gladly published as the information of senior clubs. Send it in, call, or telephone 234. Sporting Editor

ARTHUR BURN IS TO RUN IN CALIFORNIA

Vancouver, April 23.—Art Burn, the Calgary runner, has gone to California to run in an amateur Marathon race there early in May. Burn will run in a series of Marathons in California before coming north to run at Seattle.

"If I win the Seattle Marathon race this summer I expect to turn professional and try the distance against Longboat, Dorando, Hayes, and the other fast professionals," said Burn, just before leaving.

"To have any standing in the professional game a man must have established himself as an amateur runner. I believe if I win against the men who will be sent to Seattle to run in the A. Y. P. race I will have accomplished enough as an amateur and will be ready for the professional game." Burn thinks he can run the Marathon distance close to 2.40.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Furnished by J. N. Barber.—

New York, April 24.—The market with fractional gains the rule and the railroad list was fairly firm. In the industrials there was some liquidation, mostly profit-taking. Outside of the Rock Island group, Wabash pf'd and a few others there was not any particular movement, although during the last hour there was good buying of Steel common. Many traders on the long side thought it best to secure profits if possible rother than carry stock over Sunday with a view of possibilities in Turkey as this situation might easily become very alarming. We look for support in the market, but it will probably of a scale-down character and we advise conservatism. B. R. T. made a new high record again to-day. Americans were rather irregular abroad but trade was dull. Foreign houses did not expect too much here. The closing was strong at near the best of the day.

Grain News

Chicago, April 24.—Sensationally lower cables from Liverpool caused another big smash in wheat to-day. May lost 4 cents, July over 3 and Sept. nearly 3. The market was absolutely demoralized at the opening and sellers almost had to give wheat away there was so little support. It looks as if Patten had deserted the wheat pit entirely and wheat seems to have lost its last friend. Corn and oats were much lower in sympathy with wheat, but were not so demoralized.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

RICHARD CARLE

The Vancouver World gives the following brief history of Richard Carle:

Although he has not appeared as a star in the far Northwest, Richard Carle in the East is known as one of America's foremost comedians, authors and composers. He writes not only book and lyrics for his various musical comedies, but he composes much of the music as well. That is the case with "Mary's Lamb," in which he will be seen for the first time in Vancouver, April 27 and 28.

Mr. Carle was born in Somerville, a suburb of Boston, Mass., 37 years ago. During his first two seasons on the stage he journeyed to the Pacific playing very small roles in the companies of James T. Powers and Peter F. Dailey. He then joined the New York Casino forces, rising to be leading man during the two seasons that famous company played the Casino reviews in London. Returning to America about ten years ago, he went to Chicago, where at the old Dearborn theatre he revamped plays like "The Explorers" and "The Storks" into successes. His first work of great note was "The Tenderfoot," his musical comedy which at once brought him fame. He followed this at two year intervals with "The Mayor of Tokio," "The Spring Chicken" and "Mary's Lamb," the latter his present vehicle.

In Chicago, on March 14, at the Whitney theatre, "The Boy and the Girl," another of his musical comedies, will be produced. Rehearsals are already in progress. Mr. Carle's long tour in "Mary's Lamb" will end May 15 in Duluth, Minn. Two weeks later he will begin a summer run at the Colonial Treatre, Chicago in "The Hurdy Gurdy Girl," still another of his musical plays. He will conduct rehearsals for this piece during his Pacific coast tour.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS HEAR ADDRESS ON REVERENCE

ing especially with the lack of reverence among a great many people.

After partaking of the choice menu, Dr. Middleton called the assembly to order and the toast to "the King" was honoured by the singing of the National Anthem.

The toast to "the Boys' Department" was proposed in a neat speech by Mr. Ray Scott, and responded to by Mr. George Evans, who reviewed the work of the past winter and outlined the programme for the spring and summer months.

Mr. Riddiford's Address

The chairman then introduced Rev. Mr. Riddiford, who was greeted with an ovation on rising to speak. He stated that he was glad to be present as he was a sympathizer with boys' work. He congratulated the boys' on having such a fine leader as Mr. Evans. His subject was "The Missing Link." There were many but he wanted to speak on that one termed reverence. Irreverence was noticeable in many places, on the street corner, in business and in the home.

Drinking, gambling, and cigarette smoking were irreverent. It was a man's irreverence for his body that caused him to drink or smoke and it was irreverence for his property that made him gamble. Rev. Mr. Riddiford also spoke on profanity. He said that if there was anything that was degrading the young manhood of the country, it was certainly the evil habit of swearing.

In conclusion he urged the boys to reverence God, their mothers, and to strive to live pure lives.

Recitations by Mr. D. O. Waring were well received by the audience, and he was repeatedly encored.

Mr. Douglas Carlyle rendered a vocal solo and was heartily applauded. A recitation was splendidly given by Frank Halpany.

The toast to the ladies was proposed by M. Pearson in a neat and capable manner, and was responded to by George Hogan.

Votes of thanks were tendered the ladies, Mr. Waring, and the Rev. Mr. Riddiford for the assistance given the boys, whereby the banquet resulted in being such a success.

The gathering dispersed after the singing of the National Anthem.

Flushing, L.I., April 24.—Only seven jurors have yet been chosen in the Hains' case, and all are married. Capt. Hains has maintained a stolid indifference throughout the week, and has spoken to no one in court, not even to his father, General Hains, nor his brother, Major Hains, both of whom have set near him each day. To a layman he appears to go and come when told like a child.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—Kindly decide a question as to the relative strength of the parties elected from Ontario at the last Dominion Elections. "A" claims that Ontario sent a majority of Government supporters to Ottawa; "B" claims that the majority was Conservative. Kindly decide.

Yours truly,
ENQUIRER.

Note:—It is to be stated with regret that "B" wins. Ontario showed such extremely dubious political judgment last October 26th, as to elect 48 Conservatives and 38 Liberals.

Suicides on Husband's Grave.

Detroit, Mich., April 24.—Lying on her husband's grave in the German Lutheran cemetery in Detroit, the body of Mrs. Amy Wilkie, 39 years old, was found early yesterday morning. Workmen made the discovery and identified her because of her frequent visits to the grave of her husband, Ernest Wilkes, since his burial last November. Near the corpse lay a bottle containing a small quantity of carbolic acid. There was also a glass from which the poison had been drained. The body was cold.

Mrs. Wilkes was dressed in mourning. In her leather handbag were papers containing her address. The body was taken to the county morgue. Since her husband's death Mrs. Wilkie, who was an unusually handsome woman, had developed an acute melancholia.

Want Tariff Reforms.

Detroit, April 24.—Resolutions embracing the entire discussion and declaring for a permanent tariff board, giving the executive authority to adjust a maximum and a minimum tariff rate for reciprocal purposes, and calling on Congress to take immediate steps looking to the establishment of a trade agreement with Canada, were presented for discussion and adopted in their entirety at the conference on better trade relations with Canada yesterday. Stronger condemnation of the present method of fixing tariff rates could not be uttered than were spoken by leading Republicans and unanimously approved by all the delegates. A proposal to demand free trade on coal, lumber and barley was strongly favored.

Winnipeg Woman Murdered.

Winnipeg, Man., April 24.—Investigation by police yesterday of the circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Louis James, wife of a Winnipeg contractor, in her home on the outskirts of the city Thursday afternoon, reveals the fact that Mrs. James was murdered by some person unknown.

She had been assaulted and then murdered. The murderer also stole her watch and a small sum of money, which was in the house.

The woman's skull had been fractured, apparently by a club, which was found outside of the house, and which is now in possession of the police

The Newsboy.

Do you see the newsboy?

You can hear the newsboy a long time before you can see him.

What does the newsboy say?

It doesn't matter what the newsboy says. You know he is the newsboy because he has the papers to prove it.

What has the newsboy concealed in his hand?

The newsboy has a cigarette butt in his hand. He saw it smoking in the gutter and was afraid it would set fire to the street, so he picked it up. Good little newsboy, you will be a fire chief some day!

Did ever you try a trick on the newsboy?

Give him a nickel some time for your paper and tell him to keep the change. Ten chances to one he will do it.

Does the newsboy never sleep?

Oh, yes, the newsboy sleeps, but never on his job.

P. S.—Lots of people can learn something from the newsboy.—Boston Herald.

Hungry Thespians.

They looked like actors, or, rather, they looked as if they would have been actors if some manager with more than the usual discernment would recognize their ability and give them a job, says the Stroller in the Portland (Me.) Express. Just now they were staring through the window of a popular priced restaurant in Congress street, absorbed in the unerring accuracy of the chef as the griddlecakes were flipped into the air by him, only to fall gracefully back into the grease mark they had just quitted. The tall man jingled some keys in his pocket, and the little one pulled his belt another notch.

"Lord!" said the big one. "I'm hungry enough to eat my own words."

"I'm in just as bad," complained the little one. "I feel as though I could bolt a front door."

Animals and Electricity.

Man has much greater power of electrical resistance or much less susceptibility than many other animals. A leech placed upon a copper plate which rests upon a larger plate of zinc is unable to crawl off on account of the feeble electric action excited by the contact of the metals. Horses are troubled by slight differences of potential. An ox treated for rheumatism with electricity succumbed to a current absolutely inoffensive to man.

Exactly.

Little Mrs. Hunter had heard so many jokes about the brides who couldn't market successfully that she made up her mind that the first request she made of the marketman would show her to be a sophisticated housewife. "Send me, please," she said, "two French chops and one hundred green peas."

EIGHT MILLION DOLLARS LEFT BY A FRENCH CANADIAN IN CALIFORNIA MAY HAVE NUMBER OF LOCAL HEIRS

An Interesting Story That Resulted From Gilbert Gagnon Dying Without a Will—Family of Late Joseph Gagnon, a Brother of Wealthy Man, Resides in Peterborough—Relative Will Now Attempt to Prove Validity of Their Claims.

FALSE HEIRS THWARTED.

Will a Peterborough family establish their claims as heirs to a fortune of eight million dollars Those who are acquainted with the circumstances believe that it is only a matter of time before the validity of their claims will be satisfactorily proven, and they will be adjudged heirs to a vast fortune. The family that may suddenly find themselves in this position is the wife and children of the late Joseph Gagnon, Smith street.

Forty-four years ago Francois and Gilbert Gagnon left their home in the little French Canadian village at Eboule ments to seek thir fortune in the West. Their family never heard of them again, but it was supposed they went to California. Now the courts and a number of lawyers in San Francisco are endeavouring to find the relatives of Gilbert Gagnon. Some time ago two men by the name of Gagnon tried to claim the money, but they have been shown not to be heirs and are no relations whatever.

An Examiner reporter interviewed Mrs. Jos. Gagnon and her daughter, Mrs. John Murphy, Smith St., this morning. The late Joseph Gagnon was a brother of the two men who went to California. Mr. Medos Gagnon, son of the late Jos. Gagnon, has just recently spent three week in Quebec in endeavouring to find traces of the man whose heirs are now wanted. He was successful in no small degree. Gilbert Gagnon was not born at Baie St. Paul, as was reported, but at Eboulement. On examination the archives in the old Catholic church records were found of Gilbert's father and grandfather, Phelisse Gagnon and Jean Gagnon, respectively. They were natives of that place. Record of Gilbert Gagnon's birth was also found.

It is stated that the mother was married twice, to a man named Gilbert and to another named Gagnon.

Only the children by the Gagnon marriage can claim any right to the money. There are two sisters and one brother at Chicoutimi on the Saguenay river, their families and the wife and family of Joseph Gagnon of this city. As stated before the validity of the claim is considered by friends of the family to be a strong one, and there is only a very slight obstacle to be overcome. The facts discovered by Medos on his recent trip are very encouraging, and steps are being taken to proceed with the filing of the claims of the relatives of the deceased millionaire.

HORSE INJURED IN A COLLISION

Young Man Charged With Reckless Driving—Case Enlarged Until To-morrow.

A young man was charged with reckless driving on the city streets on Saturday night before Magistrate Dumble at the Police Court this morning. He first pleaded guilty, but later changed his plea and the case was enlarged until to-morrow. It appears that the accused was under the influence of liquor at the time. He was thrown from his buggy, and his outfit collided with one of the T. F. Matthews Co. delivery horses, the shaft of the vehicle penetrating the animal's shoulder, necessitating a veterinary surgeon's attention.

MAN CHARGED WITH PERJURY WAS ALLOWED TO GO ON SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Frank Reynolds Was Found Guilty of Swearing Falsely in the Case Against Chief Howard for Assault.

IN POLICE COURT TO-DAY.

Frank Reynolds was allowed to go on suspended sentence on the charge of perjury, at the police court this morning. Crown Attorney R. E. Wood conducted the prosecution and Mr. R. F. McWilliams appeared for the accused and pleaded not guilty.

Mr. McWilliams thought the laying of the information against Reynolds was altogether uncalled for. He did not think that the fact that Reynolds' evidence was contradicted by three men was sufficient to charge him with perjury. Mr. McWilliams cited two cases, one in the police court and the other in Division Court, where one man's statement was denied by three others but no charge of perjury was laid.

His Worship believed that Reynolds was the worse of liquor at the time and could not tell clearly what did occur. He would not oppose the Crown attorney if he was willing the case be dropped. However, he said, the courts were being misled to too great an extent with false evidence.

But Crown Attorney Wood would not consent to the case being withdrawn. It would be a severe lesson to the accused.

Mr. McWilliams then pleaded not guilty and consented to allow the evidence of the previous cases to go in on the perjury charge.

On the evidence adduced His Worship found Reynolds guilty, but in view of the fact that he had only just recovered from a serious illness he would only impose a light punishment, allowing him to go on suspended sentence. It will be a lesson to the public, that swearing falsely will not be tolerated.

NO INQUEST PROCEEDINGS IN KINRADE CASE TO-NIGHT

Examiner Special (2:45 p.m.)

Hamilton, April 26.—Crown Attorney Washington announced that there will be no inquest proceedings to-night in the absence of Florence Kinrade. Luke Copple, Brown the grocer, and one or two others are to be called, it is understood, after Miss Kinrade, if she is ever examined again. Mr. Washington, commenting on the reference of the bench warrant to the divisional court on Wednesday, said the best thing had been done. Jimmie Baum and Detective Pender spent Sunday in Toronto.

Veteran Of 1866 Passed Away At His Home In East City Yesterday

One of the oldest residents of Peterborough passed away yesterday morning at five o'clock at his residence, Hunter street, East, in the person of Mr. John Craig. The late Mr. Craig, although he had been in failing health for some months, was ill only since Friday and his death was quite unexpected. He was out on Thursday when he caught cold which resulted in his demise.

The deceased was eight-four years of age. He was born in Three Rivers, Quebec, but when quite a young man came to Peterborough, settling in the village of Ashburnham. He had been a resident of East City for sixty-five years. He was a man widely known and highly esteemed by all with whom he was acquainted. Before Ashburnham amalgamated with Peterborough, he was for over thirty years, the village constable and roadmaster and in that connection served the municipality faithfully and well. He was also a veteran of 1866 and went to the front at the Fenian raid of that year.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, five sons and two daughters. The sons are Messrs. John T. Craig, Jas. B. and Bert Craig, of this city; Arch. Craig, of Hamilton; Samuel, of Hespeler. The daughters are Mrs. James Gillespie, East City, and Mrs. Burdett, of Hamilton.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon from the family residence to the Little Lake cemetery.

Interesting Additions To The Curios At Victoria Museum

The Historical Society has recently received several interesting and valuable additions to its collections in Victoria museum, Inverlea Park. From Mr. George Boucher, a lieutenant with the Hudson Bay Company, a shipment was received consisting of Eskimo domestic utensils. The largest of these is a rectangular stone box, which seems to have been chiselled out of a solid stone, and has been used for cooking food. This, as well as other articles, in the shipment, may be seen in the Geological room.

Miss Wallis, formerly of Peterborough, but now of Paris, France, sent a collection of mounted birds of brilliant plumage, a leather case of very ancient appearance, a beautifully-worked apron and an embroidered scarf, the work of peasants of the south of France.

From Mrs. Dennistoun, the Society has received the bound files of the Toronto Globe of 1873, 1874, 1878, 1879, and 1880, also, similarly preserved, the files of the Toronto Mail of 1874, 1877, 1878, 1879, 1880, and 1881, and of the Montreal Gazette for the years 1873, 1874 and 1880. These files show that before 1880 the pages of these newspapers were fully one-third larger than at present. On July 1st, 1880, the Globe adopted the smaller-sized sheet and on Aug. 2nd, 1880, the Mail also changed its size.

Mrs. Dennistoun, also presented to the Society the London Illustrated News of 1855, 1856, 1857, and 1858, in book form. These issues cover the period of the Crimean War and the Indian Mutiny and furnish very interesting reading.

Young Fellow Asks Two Ministers For Assistance

In connection with the disappearance of Frank Grylls from his home in Lakefield on Friday evening two Peterboro ministers were accosted on Saturday by a young fellow who answers the description of Grylls with the exception of his age. One preacher was asked for money, but the young fellow not being of his denomination was referred to another clergyman. The second was asked to see him to the Lakefield train which he did.

Both ministers state that the fellow was about 16 years of age, but Grylls 'age was given as twenty-two.

Supplied Liquor To "Indian List" Man And Was Heavily Fined

J. P. Francis pleaded guilty at the Police Court this morning to supplying a man on the black list with intoxicating liquor. He was fined $25 and costs amounting to $23.75. The fine was paid forthwith. The information leading to the conviction of Francis was given by the man on the "Indian list," who was confined to gaol for one week, and who, on his release, gave the name of the man who sold the liquor.

SOMETHING WRONG

The proceedings before the Legal Committee of the City Council on Friday night last, related principally to the discussion of claims for damages sustained by citizens from alleged dangerous conditions of the city streets. One case, a claim for damages to an automobile from an improperly filled trench was reported thus:

> The engineer reported that it was the Street Railway Company had caused the trench to be dug, and the company should be held liable.
>
> The solicitor said the city was not liable, and on motion no action was taken.

The dictum of the city engineer and the city solicitor may or may not be good law; it certainly is not justice to sufferers, nor fair play to the public. It seems to be a very airy way of shirking responsibility, and suggests two considerations. To argue that the street railway is to be held responsible to the public for the conditions, in which they place or leave the streets is to argue that they are masters of the streets, and that the City Council has abandoned its rights to control, in the interest of the citizens, the streets of Peterborough. If this be the case the city should have its eyes open when granting franchises. If the franchise granted to the Street Railway Company confers such powers upon the company, that they are invested with the responsibility that properly belongs to the city, in respect of the maintenance, conditions and management of our streets, and the safety of the life and limbs of citizens, not to speak of comfort of traffic, some effort should be made to provide, if possible, a remedy.

If the city permits any person to dig pitfalls in the streets, either in a private or corporate capacity, it is certainly not to be held that the City Council can evade responsibility in so easy a manner. From year to year the irresponsible City Council has permitted all sorts and conditions of men to rip up and burrow our streets, and leave them in rough-and-tumble, condition, filled with holes of greater or less depth in the streets at hundreds of points. In repairing these streets, in undoing the mischief private parties have created, the city has assumed the responsibility or they would have compelled the persons who did the damage—who made the pitfalls which smash vehicles of all kinds—to pay for repairing the injury they had created. In the aggregate, the city has spent—wasted—thousands of dollars of the people's money in repairs of streets destroyed by the operations of private persons or corporations. If these persons or corporations are responsible for the damages sustained by the public, they are also logically responsible for putting the stretes they have made dangerous into repair.

But they don't do this; the city does this work itself, so that the ratepayer is doubly oppressed. He breaks his bones or his buggy, and is told by the authority that is responsible, theoretically, for the condition of the streets, that, in addition to paying his share of the taxes to repair conditions that have caused his injury, he must suffer the loss from his accident, or invoke the courts, at his own expense against a powerful corporation, or against irresponsible private individuals. In either event, he stands to get the worst of it. The wealthy corporation has unlimited capacity of appeal, and wearing-down litigation, in case a suit is won, and in the same event, the financial irresponsibility of a private defendant in a suit for damages might throw the cost upon the claimant for damages.

In this matter we cannot see how the City Councillors can evade responsibility. They are the elected representatives of the people and the people have a right to hold them to the responsibility of such a relation. If the city fathers permit conditions to exist or occur, by which the people they represent suffer damage in person or pocket, it seems only reasonable that the people should look for redress to those whom they have elected to represent them? Is it not reasonable to require that the City Council should provide protection and redress to the people, and then look to the offending corporation or private individual for compensation and reimbursement? If the aldermen can lay aside their responsibility as chosen trustees, by a simple resolution, the people might as well be represented at the city hall by a dozen chairs and desks.

The Ontario Legislature at its last session very properly refused to pass an act relieving municipalities from responsibility for the results arising from dangerous highways.

DR. M'MAHON, EX-M.P.P.

A stalwart Liberal of the old type has passed away in the person of Dr. McMahon of Osgoode Hall, who represente the electoral district of North Wentworth for nearly twenty years in the Legislative Assembly of Ontario. He practised his profession in the town of Dundas, and was exceptionally and enduringly popular. As a physician he belonged to the generation of which the late Dr. John Rolph was in Upper Canada, the most eminent and influential personality, a generation that included many practitioners whose learning, in the modern sense of that term, was not commensurate with their professional skill and success. Like other types the one to which he belonged is passing, but its disappearance has not been an unmixed good for suffering humanity.—Globe.

MR. PUGSLEY "THROUGH A MONOCLE.

The Canadian Courier in its department "Through a Monocle," has the subjoined paragraphs relating to Hon. Wm Pugsley and the events of which he has of late been the centre:

Hon. Mr. Pugsley, the Minister who is just now drawing the fir eof the Opposition, is one of the cleverest men in public life. It was his misfortune to operate for years in a very cramped field. He was the late Andrew G. Blair's understudy in New Brunswick, and practically took over the management of that province when Mr. Blair went to Ottawa in 1896. Emmerson and Tweedie were pushed to the front in various capacities; but Pugsley was always the man. Long ago, David Russell wanted to get Pugsley at Ottawa. He gave him a great banquet at Caledonia Springs to which the banqueters were carried on a special train, and at which "Dave" Russell made his speech through the agency of a phonograph. It was all intended as a big boom for Dr. Pugsley; but the "boom" failed to carry him into the Ottawa Cabinet that time. No man can know the inner mind of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and it is just possible that the Premier thought he would be safer with Emmerson. So Pugsley went back to Fredericton and waited.

When Mr. Emmerson was accused of the one unpardonable sin in the eyes of the Anglo-Saxondom, Mr. Pugsley's opportunity came again. There were those who urged the claims of other men—men who had seats in the Dominion Parliament. But the Powerful Pugsley was not to be ignored a second time. He was called to Ottawa. Since then his figure has been the constant pivot of much strife. The Opposition realized that they had made a poor trade—in a party sense—when they exchanged Emmerson for Pugsley; and they have been trying to minimise the effect of this mistake ever since. In the elections, Mr. Pugsley undertook to rescue his Province from the grip of the Hazen Government, which had just routed his old party in the provincial field; and, in spite of the most strenuous opposition which the Federal contest saw at any point, he succeeded beyond the highest expectations of his friends elsewhere. He stood forth once more as "a compeller of victory."

It will be noticed that the attacks on Mr. Pugsley have come chiefly from the local New Brunswick Government. It was Premier Hazen who read the Mayes affidavit to a public meeting; and it is the report of a Provincial Government Commission which arraigns Mr. Pugsley in the Central Railway matter. This indicates for the knowing what the New Brunswick situation really is—it is a duel between two able men. Pugsley and Hazen have crossed swords, and it is not likely that both will survive the contest—. When Blair was local master of New Brunswick prior to 1896, he did not quarrel very seriously with the Federal Ministers. He ruled by virtue of a genuine coalition. Mr. Hazen is at the head of a coalition, too, but the quarrel between him and Mr. Pugsley is very likely to bring about something approaching a restoration of party lines. * * * * * * * It is a constant marvel to the student of Canadian political history how many exceptionally able men have come out of the Maritime Provinces. It was there that Sir John Macdonald found "Joe" Howe, Dr. Tupper, Leonard Tilley and Sir John Thompson, and in the same rich field Sir Wilfrid has discovered Davies, Fielding, Blair and Pugsley. The two leaders of the present Opposition—Mr. Borden and Mr. Foster—are both Maritime Province men; and another leader whose absence from the House is an incalculable loss to his party —Sir Hibbert Tupper—is also a Maritime Province man. No other section of the country can approach this record. In Quebec the young men take to politics as a duck does to water; and yet Quebec can hardly boast eleven first-class names since Confederation. Ontario is hopelessly behind. We begin with Macdonald, Brown and Mackenzie; and then we hesitate. If maritime union would breed a larger race of statesmen in the fair counties by the sea, we might as well give the government of Canada over altogether to these brainy fish-eaters—the "Scotchmen" of the Dominion.

MR. LAWSON'S LEFT HANDED LAUDATION OF MR. WHITNEY

Representative of London Financial Times Denies Statements Made in House and Elsewhere.

Mr. W. R. Lawson of London, England, forwards to the Globe a copy of a letter which he has sent to the Speaker of the House of Commons. It is as follows:

"In The Toronto Globe and The Toronto World of the 24th of March I find reports of an extraordinary speech delivered by Sir James Whitney of the previous day in the debate on the Hydro-electric Commission bill for validating contracts which the courts had held to be invalid. It professed to describe an interview which I had with Sir James in November last, and as it will presumably be included in the official records of the Assembly I am compelled to enter a strong protest against it on the following grounds. I respectfully beg you to bring the same under the notice of the Assembly:—

"(1) It was a breach of confidence thus to publish a conversation which from its very nature both parties should have regarded as private. The least that a gentleman would have done in the circumstances would have been to give me notice of his intentions. For my own part I never alluded to it in my letters to The Financial Times and would not have thought of publishing a word of it without Sir James' consent.

"(2) The account given of your conversation in the said speech is a sheer burlesque of what actually took place. I make no remark on the peculiar hilarity which seems to have enlivened it, as that concerns the Assembly more than it does me. If Ontario legislators like that style of dealing with important public questions it is not for an outsider, least of all a 'mere Englishman,' to object.

"(3) By his own admission Sir James Whitney received me as a hostile visitor, and from the outset showed that he had no intention to give me a fair hearing. Almost the first words he said were, 'I suppose you are one of those men who have been loaded up in London against me.' In vain I repudiated the insulting suggestion and protested that I did not represent anyone but the Financial Times and its readers, many of whom were holders of the Electrical Development Company's case, and in fairness to him I wished to hear his. I put no question to him which a Minister with a definite policy might not have answered readily. I made no attempt to 'cross-examine' him, as he called it, or to draw him into any promising admissions. Moreover, if he knew beforehand, as his reception of me implied, that I was in league with the other side, why did he receive me at all? It would have saved us both a good deal of trouble if he had simply informed me beforehand that he had nothing to say.

"(4) Both in his speech in the Assembly and in a previous one at the Riverdale Rink Sir James alluded to me in the most offensive terms as a 'paid agent' of the Electrical Development Company. These statements were made recklessly and without a shadow of foundation. Here I give them an absolute denial and beg to inform Sir James that if he had made them as a private person, instead of as Premier of Ontario, he might have had to answer for them outside the Asembly. But an Ontario jury could hardly be expected to convict their own Prime Minister of slander. The plain truth is that I have never had a business transaction of any kind with either a director or an official of the Electrical Development Company.

"My first remark at our interview that 'I was afraid he did not know what he was doing,' Sir James characterized as 'impertinence,' but I still think it was a pardonable comment on the strange things he had just been telling me, namely, that he did not know how the Government scheme was going to be financed; that the Government was not going to incur any responsibility for it; that it was not 'municipal ownership' or anything of that sort, and that when he promised 'complete satisfaction to all parties' he meant to let the power companies settle it between themselves. It was impossible to see where the Government stood, still less what was Sir James' own position.

"Having only done my duty as representative of the leading financial paper in England and through it of a body of Canadian security holders who were admitted by Sir James himself to have a grievance. I respectfully repeat my protest against language and conduct contrary to all the Parliamentary usage I have ever known."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Sir James Whitney has set aside one million acres in the Rainy River district as a forest and game reserve. In this he has done well. He also set aside two million acres of the people's land with rich agricultural belt, as a Mackenzie & Mannie reserve.

Those gay old boys, the Senators at Ottawa, are accused of granting too many divorces. Chairman Ethier, of the Private Bills committee of the Commons says that facility of divorce by way of the Canadian Senate is likely to be both a scandal and a grave moral danger. "To prove a man a drunkard or a gambler is not sufficient to justify divorce," he says.

A "SNOWBALL" LETTER OUT

Friends of Dr. Barnardo's Work Are Asked Not to Pay Any Attention To It.

To the Editor of The Examiner—

Sir,—The Council of Dr. Barnardo's Homes will be very much obliged if you can find space for this communication in your valuable columns, and thus assist them to stop a Snowball Letter which has been circulating all over the world for the past nine years or so, and which is doing harm to the national and beneficent work of these Homes.

The Snowball was started by Miss Robertson, of The Square, Kenilworth, in all kindness, but without consulting the Homes. Since Dr. Barnardo's death someone has altered the wording so that the letter now indicates that the work is being carried on by the Executors, and the doors are likely to be closed if funds are not speedily forthcoming. These statements are erroneous and misleading, for the Homes are incorporated and are managed by a Council, and far from the doors being closed they are as wide open as ever all over the Kingdom. 68,050 children have been rescued, trained and placed out in life in 42½ years. The family is now larger than ever, numbering 8,391 boys and girls—the largest family in the world. The admissions last year were 2,518; and many other helpless little ones, including those who are sick, crippled and incurable, are being received daily through the various ever-open doors. Two-thirds come from the Provinces and one-third from the Metropolis.

Will you readers please help to put the Snowball Letter out of circulation by mentioning the matter to their friends? We beg them not to continue the chain; but if they are interested in this national and imperial work for Destitute Children, and wish to do honour to the memory of the founder, their gifts of three or more stamps, as asked for by the Snowball letter, or larger amounts, will be heartily welcomed at headquarters.

Cheques and P. O's should be made payable to "Dr. Barnardo's Homes,"

Yours faithfully,
WM. BAKER,
Honorary Director.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Canifton, Ont.—"I had been a great sufferer for five years. One doctor told me it was ulcers of the uterus, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor. No one knows what I suffered. I would always be worse at certain periods, and never was regular, and the bearing-down pains were terrible. I was very ill in bed, and the doctor told me I would have to have an operation, and that I might die during the operation. I wrote to my sister about it and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Through personal experience I have found it the best medicine in the world for female troubles, for it has cured me, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me while passing through Change of Life."—Mrs. LETITIA BLAIR, Canifton, Ontario.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to suffering women.

Second Sermon On "The Old Faith And The New Philosophy"

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt continued his course of sermons last night on the "Old Faith and the New Philosophy."

Philosophy, which is the sum and substance of all the sciences, is the study of God as manifested in His works. Theology is the study of God as manifested in Christ.

If both manifestations be of the one God, there can be no hostility. What apparent contradictions there may be are due to our misconceptions. In both God veils Himself as well as reveals, and in both, owing to our limitations, we see "as through a glass, darkly." It is the Church's business to see that they do not contradict each other; to prove that they are compatible.

That the universe is the manifestation of God in His works, all theists of every description affirm.

That God has manifested himself in a special and unique manner in Christ is not so generally received. It is asserted by Christians, but challenged by the sceptics.

The question to be faced is: "Is the Old Faith compatible with the New Philosophy?"

An affirmative answer has been given by eminent scholars in the Anglican and Roman Catholic Churches, as well as by many brilliant men of other communions.

A negative answer will be given by many a devout Christian of the old school, who is afraid to have anything to do with the New Philosophy.

Dr. Langfeldt quoted from many books and works, pointing out the contradictions and inconsistent statements of those who wish to attack the old faith.

In his subsequent sermons he will endeavour to show that the great doctrines of the Christian faith are consonant with the evolution which pervades the works of God, or in the language of that grand master of metaphysical theology, Bishop Butler, "we shall endeavour to establish the analogy of revealed religion to the constitution and course of nature," as interpreted by the New Philosophy.

Finance Committee Makes Very Satisfactory Sale Of Debentures

A meeting of the Finance Committee of the Council was held on Saturday afternoon with Ald. Morrow in the chair.

Tenders were read for sewer and sidewalk debentures amounting to $25,105.18.

Moved by Ald. Phelan and Bradburn that the tender of Brouse, Mitchell & Co., be accepted at $25,408.25, and that the city treasurer be instructed to have the debentures printed and delivered.

Instructions were given to have a by-law drawn to increase grant to the Central Charity Board to $2,000 a year.

On motion of Ald. Bradburn and Phelan, a grant of $100 was made to the 57th Regt. to assist in entertaining the visiting regiments on May 24th.

The sale of debentures was considered most satisfactory and the members of the committee are greatly pleased with the figures.

IT HAPPENED JUST TWENTY YEARS AGO

Interesting Breach of Promise Case is Recalled.

The Port Hope Guide contains a reference to a breach of promise case which occurred twenty years ago and created quite an excitement for a time. The file for April 23rd 1889 is as follows:

An interesting breach of promise case was tried to-day, the plaintiff being Mrs. Reynolds, a widow residing in Cavan, and the defendant, Samuel Jamieson, the former claiming $30,000 damages. The engagement was made at the Fall Fair in Millbrook, and the widow told the Court, how the defendant had stretched out his arms with the remark, "Come here, my dear." She also told of the defendant kissing her and finally she sat on his knee. In March, however, the defendant told Mrs. Reynolds that he could not marry her and she ordered him to leave the house.

Mr. B. B. Osler, Q.C., of Toronto, and Mr. J. W. Curry, who appeared for the defendant submitted that there was no case, as at the quarrel in March the engagement was ended.

Justice McMahon said the evidence disclosed that in March, Mrs. Reynolds put an end to the engagement by ordering the defendant out of the house and he dismissed the case.

Mr. G. H. Watson, of Toronto, and Mr. E. B. Edwards, of Peterborough, appeared for the plaintiff.

EVENTS OF THE EVENING.

Grand Opera House.—Lorain Amusement Company in high-class vaudeville.

Auditorium Roller Rink. — Boxing bouts: Corney Burns of Peterborough vs. Jimmy Kelly of Buffalo; Geo. Lillie of Peterborough vs. Jack Edwards of Toronto.

Conservatory of Music Hall.—Concert in aid of the Children's Aid Society.

WHY SHOULD WOMEN SUFFER ?

Those that are almost daily afflicted with headache, backpains, depression, neuralgia, and "don't care" feeling, can be quickly cured by "Nerviline." Just a few drops of this wonderful remedy in sweetened water makes you feel better at once—gives you relief from unnatural aches and pains. Thousands use Nerviline every day—it does them good. Why not you?

Nerviline Cures.

"I wouldn't think of being in the house unless I had a bottle of Nerviline handy," writes Mrs. A. E. Banner, of Belleville. To stop headaches, cure pains, and drive away sickness, nothing compares with Nerviline.

Every dealer in the land sells Nerviline in large 25c bottles. Get it to-day.

ORGANIZER OF W.C.T.U. GAVE A LECTURE

Mrs. Hyslop, who lectured in St. Andrew's school room Thursday evening, gave a most helpful and inspiring address to the W.C.T.U., in Y.M.C.A. parlour Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Hyslop began by saying that she was proud to be associated with a union that put God first. The work that has been accomplished by this band of women has been successful because it has been undertaken at His command and carried on by His power. Some ask what has the W.C.T.U. done, and what is it doing. The simple wearing of the white ribbon exerts an influence for good—a lady who went through New York State lecturing in the interests of temperance, relates an instance that illustrates this. A number of young men students, going to play a ball game boarded the car upon which she was travelling. One among the number looked so steadily at her that she began to wonder if her hat was crooked. Then he walked down the aisle and looked in her face as he passed. She thought he was rude but just as he was turning a little bow of ribbon on his watch chain caught her eye. At once she touched her badge and went over to speak to the young man. He said "Mother is a white ribbon woman, and she tied this little bow on my chain when I left home for college. It is not very white now, but it had helped to keep my life clean." The W.C.T.U. stands for a white life too. It stands against all the evil influences that are at work to corrupt the young manhood of our nation. This is why it stands for womanhood suffrage.

Those engaged in the liquor traffic and in the white slave traffic say that if women get the vote, their business is gone.

It is through the influence of the W.C.T.U. that we have a world's temperance Sunday and a quarterly temperance lesson in our Sunday schools. It was through the W.C.T.U. that the Cradle Roll department came into the schools. A mother who had a husband, addicted to drink, dedicated her child to God and to temperance and asked that it be made a member of the W.C.T.U. Her wish was granted and from this the result was the Cradle Roll. It was through the influence of the W.C.T.U. that temperance and hygiene was introduced into our public schools and made compulsory in every state in the union. The W.C.T.U. has begun work. It will not stop, while there is a wrong to be righted, an evil to be destroyed, in our land, or some good to be won.

Everything She Ate SEEMED A BURDEN TO CARRY.

HAD STOMACH TROUBLE FOUR YEARS.

When your food has not been properly digested, your body has not received the benefit it should. The exertions of the gastric juice have been confined entirely to removing the unmasticated undigested portions of food which they cannot properly digest as speedily as possible from the body, thereby only giving the blood a small percentage of nourishment with which to feed the tissues. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the bowels, promotes perfect digestion, makes pure blood, tones the stomach, and thus restores perfect health and strength to the debilitated system.

Mrs. D. A. Francisco, Rossland, B.C., writes: "I was suffering from stomach trouble of the worst kind for about four years. Everything I ate seemed a burden to carry. I always arose in the morning with a sickening and feverish taste in my mouth and was also troubled with swellings in my hands and feet, which my physician said was due to the disordered state of my stomach. I tried everything that was purchasable, and also consulted two or three physicians, but could find no relief until one of my neighbors told me of a wonderful cure by Burdock Blood Bitters. I used altogether ten bottles and am now perfectly cured. I wish to recommend B.B.B. to anyone who may be so unfortunate as I was.

GOVERNMENT SALE OF MINING LANDS

The Provincial Government has decided to offer for sale by public tender one thousand acres of mining land at the northeastern corner of the Gillies limit. The timber has now been removed from that portion of the limit which will now become mining land.

The acreage for sale will be offered in twenty-acre blocks, and the sales will be made on a cash basis and ten per cent. royalty to the Province in perpetuity. A marked check for ten per cent. of the price offered must accompany the tender, the balance of the purchase money being paid within twenty days of the acceptance of the tender. Tenders will be received up to June 1.

In order to ensure development, the Government is stipulating that the successful tenderers must spend $400 in development every year for seven years.

The Provincial mine, is of course, not affected by this offer. The Gillies limit covers in all 64,000 acres.

CROWD GOT SCARED AT THE ROLLER RINK

Quite an excitement was caused at the Auditorium Roller rink on Saturday night during the performance of the El Rey Sisters. Some persons made a fire on the east side of the building and when the audience in the rink saw the blaze they became frightened and started for the door and the performers left the floor. But the fire was out almost as quickly as it began and the El Rey Sisters resumed their entertainment and the people took their seats.

THE OFFICERS OF THE 57TH BAND

In the report of the annual meeting of the 57th Band, given in Saturday's issue of the Examiner, a line was inadvertently left out, which resulted in two names being unfortunately omitted. The correct list of officers is as follows:

President—Ed. Cronk.
Vice-Pres.—Fred C. Miller.
Secretary—J. Harper.
Treasurer—R. Sheldon.
Executive Committee.—R. Mein, chairman; Geo. Chambers, Charles Westbrooke, Ed. Wand and Walter Hughes.

The opening concert of the band will be awaited with interest as the repertoire of the organization has been greatly augmented recently with both popular and standard music.

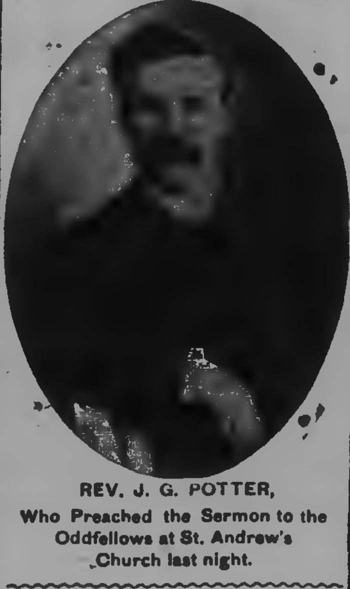
Rev. J. G. Potter Expounds The Meaning Of The Word Love As God Himself Referred To It

Stirring Sermon to the Members of the I. O. O. F, on the Occasion of Their Attending St. Andrew's Church—Nearly 200 Were in File.

THANKS EXPRESSED AFTER.



REV. J. G. POTTER,
Who Preached the Sermon to the Oddfellows at St. Andrew's Church last night.

A large representation of the Oddfellows of this city attended divine worship in a body last night at St. Andrew's Church. Peterborough Lodge No. 111, Otonabee Lodge No. 13 and Golden Link Rebecca Lodge No. 81, occupied a large portion of the front part of the church and listened to a splendid sermon by Rev. J. G. Potter. The two first mentioned lodges met at their hall and marched in imposing order, marshalled by Bro. J. W. Miller, to the church, where they were joined by the ladies.

Rev. Mr. Potter chose as his text, "A New Commandment I Give Unto you That Ye Love One Another as I Have Loved You, That Ye Also Love One Another." In beginning his sermon he first acknowledged the honour of speaking before such a large number of the members of the I.O.O.F., and congratulated them on the progress which they were making. In this connection he made brief reference in figures showing that the order has been prospering. The test of any society is seen in the influence it bears upon the lives of its individual members. Is the man better husband and father in his home? In relation to his church does he show those characteristics which makes him a valued member? Is his influence in the world at large made better by the principles upon which his order is founded? The man who stands out most prominently for what his society means and is doing is he who carries into the world those good qualities he shows in the lodge room. Rev. Mr. Potter quoted figures demonstrating the advancement made by Oddfellowship and the benefits received by the widows and orphans of deceased members.

The True Spirit of Love

The manner in which Mr. Potter expanded the meaning of the love which Christ speaks of in the text from the Gospel of St. John was impressive and inspiring. It was a new meaning of the word love and, it cost Christ His life to enunciate it. Previously it had been narrowed to such an extent that it had become a very ordinary term with but very little meaning. In like manner two persons, to-day, are selfish in their love confining it mutually to themselves to the exclusion of others. Later they begin to realize that they are cut off from friends and that they have broken away from the rest of the world. There is a fire in the love which Christ speaks of that distinguishes it from the commonplace. It is not exclusive, it is not ordinary charity nor is it confined to the giving of benevolences and gifts. The love Christ exemplified is that with which the Good Samaritan was imbued. All through the ages numerous examples of it have been experienced. Its importance was manifest and was felt recently by the large number who heard Dr. Grenfell's lecture. Christ's love is not narrow, secluded, nor confined to clique or party. Taking up this principle a man tries to influence the lives of his fellowmen, he strives to put their hearts right, and assists them every way he can.

This commandment was new too because God was going to make it real and practical. Its full measure was shown by His stating that it was "As I have loved you." "Ye are My friends" and also "Greater love hath no man that He that lays down his life for his friends." This was no mere sentiment. It was a desire to lift men up and it was never wanting in the lives of those who followed Him. Many of us want to do things but seldom achieve them. God never calls us to the highest ranks unless we have done much in the lower. In closing, Rev. Mr. Potter impressed upon the Oddfellows the importance of living up to their principles and never flinching from the duties they may find in their path.

During the service Mr. Fred Skitch sang "My God, My Father While I Stray," written by Marsten. On returning to the I.O.O.F. lodge rooms a vote of thanks was tendered the management and choir of St. Andrew's Church, and also Rev. Mr. Potter for his able sermon.

Agricultural Society Had Splendid Show Of Horseflesh

Saturday's Stallion Show Crowded the Market—A Fine Exhibition of Clydesdales—Whole Affair Was a Success.

FIRST SHOW IN PETERBORO

The officers o fthe Agricultural Society should be pleased with the stallion show on the market square on Saturday afternoon, the first ever held in this city. When, several months ago they decided to hold this show they scarcely foresaw the success which they really achieved. The market square was thronged with farmers, and citizens interested in good horseflesh. Those who know good horses were pleased with the exhibition.

It was generally known that there were a number of first-class sires owned in the district and several of them have been seen passing through the city, but very few had any idea that there was a number of handsome animals in the vicinity as were shown on Saturday.

The officers of the Agricultural Society are to be congratulated upon their efforts in bringing together the stallions used for breeding purposes. President R. H. Leary and Secretary F. J. A. Hall were untiring in their efforts and to them is due much of the success that was achieved, and no doubt much benefit will be derived from the exhibition.

There were about twenty-five well bred stallions competing for the honours. The majority of the entries were of the Clydesdale class and there were indeed some handsome animals among them. The big thoroughbred owned by Mr. Elmhirst of Keene, attracted much attention and was generally admired by the crowd. There were three hackney and coach horses entered and these were much admired.

The attendance at the show was large, including a big bunch of farmers who were attending the market in the morning, but as is the general case when anything of an educational or beneficial nature is provided for the farmers that portion of the community is conspicuous by its absence. The directors of the Agricultural Society, however, are not disappointed. On the contrary they are delighted with the success of the first show, and another will be held next spring.

The following report has been furnished the Examiner:

Representatives from the Young Peoples' Societies of a number of Peterborough's leading churches were the speakers yesterday, Sunday, afternoon at the Gospel Temperance meeting held in the Crystal. The meeting was one of the best attended that has been held this year.

Walter Garbutt, of the Murray Street Baptist Church, considered it a privilege to have a chance to speak in favour of Local Option. No matter how little people may swerve from the straight path of duty on the question of temperance, their action is sure to influence some person for good or evil.

In the absence of Miss Everson, Rev. Mr. Riddiford spoke for the Park Street Baptist Church. He claimed that the present Local Option campaign is the greatest fight the citizens of Peterborough have ever been called upon to face. If the Christian people of Peterborough will take hold with the young people, they will be able to drive the bar rooms from the city and thus do away with the curse that each year destroys in Canada over 6,000 people.

Mr. Ferguson from St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church claimed that until people recognize that intemperance is a sin, they will not have the influence in their efforts to abolish it that is required. We must realize that Christ died that we might live. If we do we will be willing to make sacrifices for the sake of others. We will be willing to put forth efforts to abolish the bar. Some people have said that they will not favour Local Option because when they come to the city, they may have to pay 50c for a meal instead of 25c. Such people do not realize that it is better to pay 50c and save the boys than to pay 25c and lose them.

It was claimed by Norman Allison, of George Street Church, that the history of strong drink has been the history of sin and misery for centuries. An extended reference to Mr. Allison's remarks will be published later.

The citizens of Peterborough were warned by Mr. R. J. Cox, from the Charlotte Street Methodist Church, that unless they drive the bar-room from Peterborough, the liquor traffic in time may become the same curse in this city that it is in the Old Land, where he had seen more drunkenness in one week than he had observed in Peterborough in two years. The members of the Young People's Society of the Charlotte Street Church, some 80 in number, are in favour of Local Option. Those who have votes will vote for it and those who have not, will endeavour to get others to vote.

It will be easier to drive the liquor traffic from Peterborough next January than it will be later on when it becomes more firmly entrenched in the city. Mr. Cox told of a man of his acquaintance in the Old Land, who through string drink lost a splendid business and was reduced to such extremities, that at times his wife had only 25c with which to feed herself and five children. People who are afraid to vote for Local Option because it may increase their taxes, should see the taxes that the people of the Old Land are forced to pay to support poor houses, prisons and paupers, caused by strong drink.

When a saloon keeper tells the business men of Peterborough that he will not deal with them if they work for Local Option, they should remember that if the saloon is driven from Peterborough, the families of men who drink, which now have to buy goods on credit, will then be able to pay cash, which should offset the loss of the saloon keeper's trade. Unless we secure Local Option in Peterborough, the city is bound in time to have slum districts of starving children and all the other woes that follow the liquor traffic.

The Orpheus Quartette, Messrs. Ruse, Thornton, Miller, and Cole, sang. The chairman was Mr. F. G. Hassard, of the Y.M.C.A. The meeting was the last that will be held this spring. The meetings will be resumed next September. The success of the series of meetings just concluded is due largely to the efforts of Mr. W. G. Shiner, Mrs. Gurney, Mrs. G. K. Martin, Mr. A. Brown, and Mr. A. B. Cunningham.

LOCAL STUDENTS WERE SUCCESSFUL

Mr. Doxsee and Miss Howson Get Their Degrees—Mr. Carmichael's Success

Peterborough students have done well in the examinations of Queen's University, the results of which have just been published.

Mr. W. W. Doxsee, East City, was successful in getting his degree of M.A.

Miss Alexandra Howson gained the degree of B.A.

Mr. D. A. Carmichael, of Unionville, Ont., nephew of Dr. Carmichael, city, specially distinguished himself. Besides getting his degrees of M.D. and C.M., he won the medal in surgery, and was next in order for the chancellor's scholarship for the highest percentage on four years' course.

THE MAY ROD AND GUN

Variety is the dominating feature of the May number of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor, Woodstock, Ont. In accord with the season there are some good fishing stories, while hunting receives such a full share of attention that moose, deer, bears, wolves and wild geese all have particular stories given up to them. Two fine exploration papers—an illustrated review of Mr. Tyrrell's book, "Through the sub-Arctics of Canada," and one by Mr. Dickson describing a personal trip through Northern Ontario—give us some little idea of how much remains to be done in exploration work in Canada. Mr. Clapham has another fine dog article, "The Beagle for Sport," which all dog-lovers will peruse with interest. The decision of the Ontario Government to have licensed guides is noted and the Order-in-Council dealing with the matter printed in full. Mr. Cy. Warman's paper on Wild Life appeals to every lover of the outdoors and cannot fail to have some effect in the direction the author wishes. This number completes the tenth volume and attention is drawn to the work of the Magazine in Forest, Fish and Game Protection and the manner in which the movement in its favour has spread throughout Canada. The position achieved by the magazine is dwelt upon with pride and credit given to all those who have assisted Canada's sporting magazine to reach its present high position. If future numbers are as good as this birthday issue—and we are assured that not only will the high standing be kept up but efforts made to improve upon it—there can be no doubt at all as to the future of Rod and Gun. The magazine has now secured for itself a position not easily to be shaken.

A Former Local Printer Has Passed Away In The West

The following from the Toronto Mail refers to a gentleman well known in Peterborough, in fact he was a native of the city, and learned his trade as printer in one of the local newspaper offices:

After a somewhat protracted illness of tuberculosis, Mr. John Jones died at Lethbridge, Alberta, yesterday, whither he had gone several months ago in the hope that the climate there would restore him to health. Mr. Jones, who was a member of the Typographical Union, was for a long number of years connected with The Mail and Empire staff. Deceased was acknowledged to be one of the fastest linotype operators in Canada. He was a man of good address and upright character and was highly esteemed among his wide circle of friends and acquaintances. He leaves a widow and several children.

Peterborough Camera Club's First Annual Exhibition

Splendid Collection of Amateur Photographs---Numerically Large and Artistically Excellent----Generous Public Patronage Only Needed Condition of Success.

The majority of the people who passed All Saints' Rectory, corner King and Reid streets, yesterday and to-day, had little idea of the reflected scenic beauty it contained, tastefully displayed in the drawing rooms of the aparently unoccupied residence. Here was shown the far-brought spoil of the Peterborough Camera Club, to which the wardens of All Saints' had kindly loaned the building for the purpose of the club's splendidly creditable first annual exhibition.

Thanks to the energy of the officers of the local club and to the generous and fraternal sympathy and cooperation of other clubs, especially those of Montreal and Toronto. The walls of the main apartments of the rectory are adorned with an elaborate and artistically excellent collection of photographs by the leading Canadian amateurs, the numbers in the catalogue totally nearly 200, of which 118 entries are to be credited to Toronto amateurs.

Exhibits Allocated

The exhibits are to be allocated as follows. The Toronto Camera Club sends these exhibits: J. H. Ames, 10 entries; A. D. Armour, 4; Fred Baird, 12; C. G. Begg, 5; A. S. Bowers, 8; A. R. Blackburn; D. A. Coulson, 6; H. J. Carter, 2; F. C. Crandale, 6; C. J. Grines, 6; M. O. Hammond, Editor Globe Magazine, 2; J. P. Hodgins, 2; Ernest Hoch, 13; W. Holbrook, 9; C. W. Lidbetter, 2; W. H. Moss, 8; Newton McTavish, 3; Alfred Robinson, 14; E. Y. Spurr, 4; P. L. Tait, (Edmonton)-, 2; E. Uttey, 6. All the Toronto exhibitors, except Mr. Grines and Mr. Hodgins of the Trader's Bank are members of the Camera Club of that city.

The Montreal Camera Club is represented among the exhibits, by Messrs. W. R. Allen, 5 entries; A. M. Bryson, 4; Alf. Brigdon, 5; Thos. Drummond, 1; C. F. G. Johnson, 1, and B. B. Pinkerton, 5. One of Mr. Bryson's, "By the Stream"; two of Mr. Brigdon's, "Winter" and "Spring"; one of Mr. Pinkerton's "Evening Landscape," and one of Mr. Coulson's, Toronto, "Cooling Waters," were reproduced in the Standard of Montreal, of the 17th.

The exhibitors from the Peterborough Camera Clubs, include: Dr. J. A. Morgan, 8 entries; Messrs, N. A. Howard Moore, 11; R. Picard, 1, and A. S. Rose, 2.

Unattached exhibitors are: Mrs. Ethel Baynes-Reed, Brockville, 9 entries; Mr. E. Mitchell, Brockville, 6; Mr. John Cushman, Johnston, (N.Y.) Camera Club, 3; Miss Ida M. Powell, Portsmouth, (near Kingston), 2, and Mr. C. W. Peeling, Campbellford, 8.

Credit to Local Club

The Peterborough Club is to be congratulated upon the conspicuous success of its first exhibition. Numerically the entries are greater by some eight or ten thon those shown at the last Montreal and Toronto exhibitions, for which the clubs of these places are to be very largely thanked.

The artistic work, in all its aspects is generally of a high standard in regard to selection of subject in which nice discrimination in artistic values is very largely reflected in the pictures. Effective and refined judgment has been exercised in regard to light effects. In these respects, in the matter of development, finish, mounting, framing and in genarally artistic treatment and effect, the exhibits, en ensemble, can dispute the laurels, with a great deal of professional work; in some cases asking little odds of some of the best. Professionals of high standing, who have seen the exhibits, frankly admit this.

High Character of Exhibits

The Examiner was favoured with a private view, and can speak in terms of earnest commendation of the splendid character of the collection of exhibits. At present it is impracticable if it were necessary, to go into details respecting individual exhibits. It would indeed be difficult for a layman, so to speak, to select, without being invidious, those worthy of particular mention, especially when the judges, who are assumed to be judges, will have their work smartly cut out for them in awarding the prizes.

Those interested in photography and those interested in art will be interested in the products presented of a specific branch of it, in which there is such ample, varied and progressively delightful oportunity for the development of innate artistic talent and artistic taste, for self satisfaction and the gratification and delight of others.

The judges, Mr. F. L. Roy, Mrs. Montizambert and Miss Hatton, entered on their work this morning, and this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock the exhibition was opened and attracted a large number of delighted visitors.

The rooms will be open from 3 to 5 o'clock every afternoon, and from 7 to 10 o'clock every evening during the week, except Saturday. There will be a nominal admission fee and tea will be served and music provided during exhibition hours.

The people of Peterborough, aside from considerations of promoting the interests of art, owe no little favour to the Peterborough Camera Club for the extensive advertising the city has received in the process of "working up" the exhibition. There has been extensive correspondence with prominent amateurs in all parts of Canada, references to the exhibits have appeared in many of our newspapers, and in all the photographic journals of this country, the United States and England.

What Beautiful Hair,

How often do we hear that exclamation of a certain woman's hair or a certain man's hair.

A prominent scientist and hair specialist emphatically states, and has proven, that any man or woman can have luxuriant, lustrous hair, by using a famous prescription called Parisian Sage.

Parisian Sage is now made and sold in Canada. Wm. Madill, the druggist, is the agent in Peterborough, and th readers of the Examiner can buy from him for only 50 cents a large bottle.

Wm. Madill knows that Parisian Sage will beautify the hair, cure dandruff and stop falling hair, and that reason he sells it under a guarantee to cure or money back.

If you cannot obtain Parisian Sage where you live, you can get a bottle for 50 cents from Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont., express charges prepaid.

ORGAN RECITAL LAST EVENING

Given by Mr. M. B. Kilpack at St. Luke's Church—An Excellent Programme.

A large number remained at the close of the evening service at St. Luke's Church last night to hear the organ recital given by Mr. M. B. Kilpack. The various numbers were splendidly rendered and in such a manner that showed that Mr. Kilpack is an adept at the pipe organ.

The programme was as follows:

1. Fugue in D. Minor, "The Giant"—Bach.
2. Ave Maria—Chas. Gounod.
3. March of Israelites — Michael Costa.
4. Allegretta in E flat—E. M. Read.

Mr. Kenneth Shook sang at evensong "Lead, Kindly Light" very acceptably.

CANADA'S FAMOUS MEN AND WOMEN

Gladly Testify to the Great Value of "Fruit-a-tives."

Hon. Senator Costigan (member of the Cabinets of five Premiers of Canada), says:—"Fruit-a-tives is the only medicine I ever took that did me any good for Constipation."

Mrs. J. R. Flock (widow of one of the most prominent physicians in London), writes:—"I was a constant martyr to Stomach Weakness all my life and no physician could cure me, but Fruit-a-tives gave me entire relief and I strongly recommend this medicine."

Mr. James Dingwall (Superintendent of St. Andrew's Sunday School in Williamstown, Ont., for nine years) states: "I am now over eighty years old, and I can strongly recommend Fruit-a-tives for Bladder and Kidney Trouble and Chronic Constipation."

Mr. H. Marcheassult (High Constable of Quebec), testifies:—"I suffered for ten years with Severe Pain in the Back. Nothing did me any good until I tried Fruit-a-tives."

Mr. W. J. McComb (the leading merchant of Trenton, Ont.), writes:—"I was a martyr to Headaches—consulted doctors — wore glasses — without the slightest relief. Then I took Fruit-a-tives and this remedy cured me."

This is the kind of evidence that convinces. Dealers everywhere have "Fruit-a-tives." 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. Sent postpaid on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

SULTAN ABDUL HAMID HAS SURRENDERED

Sultan's Forces Are Defeated in Fierce Battle in City.

A THOUSAND ARE KILLED

After Terrific Struggle Constitutional Forces Inflict Crushing Disaster on Loyal Soldiers and Ruler is Forced to Surrender—The Crowds Watch the Fighting Just Outside of the Firing Lines.

Constantinople, April 26.—Sultan Abdul Hamid is practically a prisoner in the hands of the constitutionalists, who took the capital city after hours of fierce fighting in the streets and at the various barracks Saturday.

Fully 1,000 men were killed in the battle and of the 5,000 loyal soldiers not one remains—all are either dead, wounded, prisoners or in flight.

It was a desperate combat for hours, but the superior discipline of the young Turks forces prevailed and by 1 o'clock in the afternoon the battle which began at daybreak was over and the constitutionalists were supreme.

Abdul Hamid yielded himself to the constitutionalists at 4 o'clock, but whether his surrender was with or without conditions was not announced.

Several foreigners were wounded. Among them is Frederick Moore of The New York Sun, who was shot in the neck. Another American correspondent, named Booth, was slightly wounded in the head.

Field guns, heavy artillery and machine guns were used by both sides and at some of the local barracks, notably Tasch Kischia, the Constantinople troops put up a resolute defence. No mercy was shown to the troops who led in the uprisings of April 14.

The men in the Tasch Kischia barracks surrendered at 1 o'clock, and with this event the entire capital passed into possession of the constitutionalists.

The artillerists in the Taxim barracks were guilty of gross treachery. They hoisted the white flag and thereby enticed the Saloniki infantrymen to close range. As the Saloniki men were approaching the barracks across an open piece of ground to receive the surrender the force within opened on them with a heavy shell fire and compelled them to retreat. The Saloniki artillery was then brought up and shelled the barracks, inflicting heavy damage. The barracks twenty minutes later were rushed by the invading troops, and there was hand-to-hand fighting in the barracks and the cemetery behind the structure.

Perhaps the most remarkable feature of the attack upon the city was the great number of people of all nationalities, including many European women, who thronged the streets immediately outside of the zone of fire.

Everybody showed that confidence had been inspired by the discipline, valor and friendly courtesy of the invading troops, particularly the gendarmes of Saloniki.

At noon the battle ceased, and precautionary measures were immediately taken by those upon whom victory had rested to insure the safety of the residents. General satisfaction seemed to be felt at the swift change from uncertainty to constitutional order.

The number of casualties probably never will be known, but it is estimated far into the thousands. Around the Taxim Barracks alone it is believed thousands fell. The private houses within the line of fire suffered greatly.

In the pockets of some of the dead were found large sums of money in gold, which, it is assumed, was part of the price of their loyalty.

Should the Sultan remain in office, it will merely be in a nominal way. His allowance will be greatly restricted, and he will have no means for further agitation should his mind turn again in this direction.

Mehemmed Reschad Installed.

London, April 26.—The Daily Telegraph's Vienna correspondent sends the report that the Sultan was taken out of the palace by force at a late hour last night, and that Mehemmed Reschad Effendi was installed in his place.

Canada Life Bill Again.

Ottawa, April 26.—Saturday was the last day upon which it was necessary to advertise the Canada Life Bill in The Canada Gazette, and to-day the bill will again be before the standing orders committee and if regular, will go to the House in the afternoon.

Will Reorganize Fire Department.

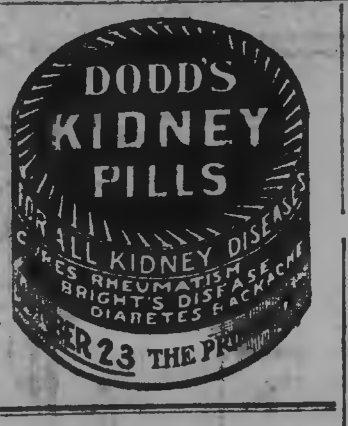
Kingston, April 26. For the reorganization of the fire department, the fire committee will ask that the council advertise for a new chief, at a salary of $1,200 a year, and that a new engine will be secured.

Costive Dyspeptic, Bilious

Strong purgatives have killed many a good man. Costiveness is bad—violent cathartics are worse. If bothered with stomach trouble or biliousness, try Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They are so mild you can scarcely feel their action, yet so effective that the entire system is cleansed of wastes.

JUST TRY
Dr. Hamilton's Pills

Dr. Hamilton's Pills move the bowels gently, they tone the kidneys, assist digestion, clear the skin. For those subject to colds, biliousness, languor, there is no better medicine. Try a 25c box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.



FRAUD ON NATION.

Lord Chas. Beresford Makes Charges Against Navy.

London, April 26.—Prime Minister Asquith's announcement of his intention to make a private investigation of the present conditions in the navy is of far greater significance than appears upon the surface. Admiral Lord Charles Beresford on leaving command of the fleet laid before the Premier a great mass of evidence upon existing conditions and the present policy of the naval forces which no patriotic Government could ignore.

It is just as well for the peace of mind of England that these facts should not be made public. It can scarcely be doubted that when the pending enquiry is completed there will be radical changes made in the policy of the Admiralty. The questions involved do not deal in any way with the proposed new construction. They concern only the condition of the navy to-day as a fighting force.

Beresford maintains silence so far as the public is concerned in regard to naval questions, but as was surmised here a fortnight ago he has submitted his views in writing to Premier Asquith, who after holding the matter under consideration for twelve days, appointed a sub-committee to enquire into the facts. This committee consists of Mr. Asquith as president, Foreign Secretary Sir Edward Grey, Secretary for War Haldane and Lord Crewe. No naval officer is a member, as it is desired to have an absolutely unbiased tribunal. The terms of reference are clearly defined and very wide and sweeping.

LISTS STILL GROWING.

Number of Massacred Armenians May Reach 25,000.

Beirut, April 26.—The situation in Asiatic Turkey is one of extreme gravity.

How many thousands have been massacred cannot even be estimated, because the disturbances have been so widespread that it is impossible to secure details of the happenings during the past ten days. The latest estimates of the number killed in the Villayet of Adana reaches approximately 25,000, and thousands have been done to death in the towns of other districts.

The state of siege which several of the places are undergoing has brought the inhabitants to the verge of starvation, and each day brings its tales of further atrocities.

Confirmation has been received of the burning of the Armenian Village of Kessab. All the men and many women and children have been slain. The American property at Kessab was destroyed. Miss Chambers, an American missionary, is safe.

A British warship has been ordered from Alexandretta to Suediah, where conditions have become worse. All the property of the Christians at Djebel Bereket has been destroyed. The total loss is unknown, but it will be enormous.

Left on the Road to Die.

Orangeville, April 26.—A row occurred here on Saturday night which might have been attended with fatal results.

George McDonald, a thresher, son of John McDonald of Mono Township, got into a fight with William MacNamara, also of Mono Township on Broadway, in which McDonald got the worst of it. About midnight McDonald started for home, a distance of nine miles, on foot, and shortly afterwards MacNamara started after him with a buggy.

He overtook him near the Dufferin agricultural grounds and brutally assaulted him, breaking his left leg below the knee, and then made off into the night, leaving his victim in an unconscious state on the roadside.

Shortly afterwards Geo. Nicholson, who was also walking home, discovered McDonald, and hunting up a wagon, took him up town to the Grand Central Hotel and summoned Dr. Carson.

A warrant was issued for MacNamara, but he has not been arrested yet.

Their Eyes Examined.

St. Thomas, April 26.—Assistant Superintendent Snow of the M.C.R., and Dr. Parker, the road's oculist, were in the city on Saturday, examining a class of 38 engineers. These engineers, from all branches of the service and from all parts of the Canada division, failed to pass with a clear record in the eye test, and were all ordered to lay off until they had gone through a test at the hands of the assistant superintendent and Dr. Parker.

"Father John" Resurrected.

St. Petersburg, April 26.—Hundreds of persons in this city, chiefly of the prosperous class, have been induced to believe that Father John of Cronstadt, who died last New Year's Day, was resurrected at Easter. The police have arrested more than fifty self-styled Johannites, whose order has been expelled from the city. Their aim is to establish a miraculous personality for their former master.

Convent Boiler Blows Up.

Montreal, April 26.—Starting a fire in a boiler in which there was but little water led to an explosion yesterday morning in the convent of the congregation of Notre Dame at Cote St. Paul, as a result of which the superioress, Sister Nom de Jesus, was probably fatally injured, and Sister Dubreuil and a little girl was hurt. All three were in the boiler room at the time.

Lawyer For Kinrades Says They Will Not Testify Again.

LEGAL BATTLE IS BEGUN

Acting Under Instructions From Hamilton T. C. Robinette of Toronto Commences Certiorari Proceedings to Prevent the Arrest of Mrs. Kinrade and Florence on the Coroner's Subpoena.

Hamilton, April 26.—Though it cannot be learned from George S. Lynch-Staunton how he hopes to prevent Miss Florence Kinrade from being subpoenaed to attend the inquest into the death of her sister, he makes the statement in all confidence that she will not appear at the inquest again.

He is keeping the secret of how he expects to prevent this to himself, and intimates that he will spring a big surprise at Toronto on Monday, when the argument on the certiorari proceedings is gone on with.

Legal Battle Begins.

Toronto, April 26.—T. C. Robinette, K.C., on behalf of counsel for the Kinrade family, on Saturday appealed to Justice Teetzel at Osgoode Hall for a writ of certiorari, to set aside the bench warrant issued for the appearance of Florence Kinrade, at the inquest to-night. Should the writ be denied, application will at once be made for a writ of habaes corpus, to the same effect.

Mr. Robinette will argue that under the Ontario "Act Respecting Coroners" a coroner has no power other than to fine, and that he can only commit for contempt a witness who is actually in court before him. The English law and authorities, declares Mr. Robinette, are the same.

On the conclusion of Mr. Robinette's hearing, the scene shifted to the Attorney-General's Department, where it was early whispered that a motion had been made. The Deputy Attorney-General and Detective Miller held a long conference behind closed doors. Mr. Blackstock joined the conference over the telephone.

When interviewed later the Deputy Attorney-General declined to discuss the matter beyond stating that the case was unusual and without precedent. Detective Miller was equally taciturn.

Sues For $50,000.

St. John's, Nfld., April 26.—Sir Edward Morris, the Premier, has brought suit for $50,000 against The St. John's Evening Telegram, the leading newspaper organ of Sir Robert Bond's party. The Premier alleges that The Telegram libelled Friday in commenting upon the case of Walter Baine Grieve, a prominent merchant, who was arrested a few days ago at the instance of Sir Edward, who charged Grieve wrote a letter accusing Morris of being in the pay of the Canadian Government for the purpose of furthering a plan to have Newfoundland annexed to Canada.

The campaign grows more bitter daily as election (May 8) approaches.

Girl May Be Stolen.

New York, April 26.—Adele Boas, the 15-year-old daughter of Arthur Boas, a millionaire thread manufacturer, is missing and detectives yesterday declare their belief that she has been kidnapped.

While out shopping with her mother Friday after school, the girl grew tired and was sent home. Though only eight blocks from her father's residence, she never reached there. She had only 10 cents in her purse.

Boas has a theory that she was run down and injured by an automobile and that persons in the car picked her up and took her to their home or to a private sanitarium.

Murderer's Victim Living.

Des Moines, Ia., April 26. Claiming to represent the British consul at St. Louis in behalf of "Lord" Barrington, in the penitentiary for life for the murder of John McCann of St. Louis, Miss Lillian Gates of St. Louis created a sensation by appearing in the U. S. marshal's office on Saturday and identifying J. C. Maybray, alleged fake horse race promoter, as being McCann, the victim of Barrington.

It developed later that Miss Gates was a friend of Barrington, and that she had made the same claim of other men.

MIDLAND FOOTBALL LEAGUE READY FOR SEASON'S OPENING THE SCHEDULE IS DRAWN UP

Enthusiastic Meeting Was Held on Saturday—New Clubs in the Race This Season and it Promises to be a Hard Fight.

THE LIST OF GAMES.

On Saturday afternoon a meeting of the Midland Football League was held at the Y.M.C.A., to draw up the schedule of games for the season of 1909.

Those present and the clubs they represented were:

Dr. Devitt, Bowmanville; C. Sisson, Y.M.C.A.; Wm. Bell and H. Darling, Warsaw; N. Moore, Lakefield; C. M. Downes and H. Dav's, Brintons (Peterborough); R. Pearce, Norwood and Keene; W. Hitchins Havelock; Thos. Moffat, Marmora; Dr. Morgan, Dr. McPherson and Percy Fitzgerald, Loyalists.

Dr. Devitt, the president of this league, was its representative at the annual meeting of the Ontario Football Association in Toronto on Easter Monday, and gave a splendid report of the proceedings of that meeting.

After this report was given and a few matters of routine business were disposed of, the task of arranging the schedule was proceeded with.

As the four districts were formed in accordance with the wishes of the delegates, and as the time and place of each game was considered by the representatives from the respective districts, there should be no necessity of making any changes in that part of the schedule already drawn up.

The four completed districts are:

ONE.

Oshawa I., Bowmanville, Oshawa II., Cobourg.

TWO.

Y. M. C. A. (Peterborough), Bethany, Brintons (Peterborough).

THREE.

Keene, Warsaw, Lakefield.

FOUR.

Havelock, Norwood, Marmora.

The officers of the league are somewhat superstitious, and do not feel comfortable while the Intermediate Series has just thirteen entries, so an attempt is being made to form another eastern district in the neighbourhood of Stirling, Hetheric's Corners, Hoard's Station and Burnbrae. An addition of three clubs in this series would make "sweet sixteen," which would be a charming send-off for 1909. The formation of another district would not affect the present schedule till the finals are reached.

There is also under consideration the arrangement of a Junior Series, as it is a good means of developing and encouraging the young players—the age limit being twenty years. Havelock and the Norwood High School are desirous of this series and in all probability a snug little district will be formed in that vicinity. As this series is entirely separate from the Intermediate, there is ample time to get the juniors into action, and have their games concluded before July 1st. Any communication on this subject will be promptly answered by the secretary Ernest Brumwell, Peterborough.

Plans are already under way for the publication of the Midland League Annual, which will contain a fund of useful information desired by every player within the limits of this league.

Those clubs which have not forwarded the admission fee, the list of players and the name of an official referee, are reminded that it is necessary that these be sent in to the secretary-Treasurer at the earliest convenience.

THE FIGHT FANS TAKING GREAT INTEREST IN TO-NIGHT'S BOUT

To-night's boxing bout between Corney Burns, of Peterborough, and Jimmy Kelly, of Buffalo, promises to be about the liveliest glove fight that has ever been pulled off here. Kelly arrived from Buffalo on Saturday night and looks like a fighter all the way, although he is a modest boy and refuses to say anything except that he is in shape and expects to win. Burns is of the same opinion and has not changed his mind any since he has learned the identity of the man he will be called upon to go up against. It will be Corney's last appearance in a sporting sense in Peterborough for some time as he leaves to-morrow to report to Manager McGuire of the Edmonton team. Burns has worked faithfully to get into shape for to-night's fight and just now he is in as good condition as he ever was and prepared to put up the scrap of his life. It will be a battle from start to finish, and no doubt a big crowd of fans will be on hand at the Auditorium Roller Rink to-night, when time is called.

The preliminary bout between Geo. Lillie, the lively little local boxer, and Jack Edwards, a hard-hitting, fast boy from Toronto, will commence sharp at 8.30 o'clock, and will go six rounds. It should be a fitting curtain raiser to the main bout.

MANCHESTER UNITED WINS CUP GREAT FIGHT IN SECOND DIVISION

London, April 24.—To-day was the day scheduled for the closing of the English soccer season. Newcastle United wins the First Division of the League, and Northampton is victor in the Southern League. The struggle in the Second Division of the League has been very keen, and not even on to-day's games can one pick the winner definitely. West Bromwich leads Bolton Wanderers by one point, and each has a game to play. These both have a chance to win out, or there may be a tie. The championship being decided on goal average. In this respect West Bromwich has a slight advantage.

In the final for the Football Association Cup, Manchester United won from Bristol City by 1 to 0.

PROSPECT OF FORMING A TENNIS CLUB IS LOOMING UP BRIGHTLY

At the meeting of the Executive of the Tennis Association on Saturday evening many items of interest were discussed and decided. The prospect of forming a district league seems to have met with the favour of the near-by towns, as already communications have been received, asking for admission. This gives every indication of a successful district competition.

In order to carry out the plans of the Association every club in the city is urged to thoroughly organize as earl yas possible and complete its membership. Every individual playing under the schedule of the Association must be a member of one of the clubs.

By May 15th every club intending to join the Association must have its application in the hands of the Secretary. Already five clubs have entered and this number may be increased to seven or eight if the prospective new clubs are formed.

The two main lines of competition which the Association will conduct will be:

(1) Inter-club matches of two teams each, playing home and home games, for the club championship of the city, and

(2) Games of singles for the city championship.

The plans for the games in singles will be so extensive that the novice in tennis will get his share of the pleasure of competition, just the same as the old experienced player. With the opening of the season the players will be grouped into three classes according to their experience and ability in the game and then the games arranged so that the contests will be fairly equal. After the first several rounds have been played the survivors will meet their future opponents by drawing lots. Undoubtedly this plan will make the game interesting to all concerned and the novice will have an opportunity of meeting players who will prove most instructing to him.

By these contests in the singles the better players will be brought to the fore and from these teams will be chosen by the various clubs to represent them in the doubles in the inter-club contests.

To defray the expenses of the Association the fee has been made a very nominal one, 25c for each person playing under the schedule.

SHRUBB UPHOLDS REPUTATION BY BEATING ST. YVES EASILY

New York, April 24.—Alfred Shrubb of England, once more proved himself the greatest middle distance runner in the business by defeating Henry St. Yves of France, at the American League grounds to-night. At no time was the result of the race in doubt. Shrubb at the outset assumed a pace that the Frenchman could not follow. When eight miles had been covered he had secured a lead of two laps, and this seemed to content him, for he ran the remainder of the race at St. Yves' side. During the last two miles of the race St. Yves made frantic efforts to catch his rival, but to no avail.

Shrubbs' time for the race, one hour 26 minutes and 12 seconds, was over four minutes behind the professional record, and nearly six minutes behind the professional record, and nearly six minutes behind the amateur mark. The night was cold and windy and this probably affected the runners, as well as the attendance.

St. Yves was the first to appear on the track, but he preceded Shrubb by only a moment. The crowd gave the runners a noisy welcome. Preliminaries were quick ly arranged, a pistol shot rang out and the men were off with a burst of speed at 9.02 p. m. Shrubb started with his usual graceful stride, while St. Yves went off with the short patter which served him so well in the Marathon Derby.

At one stage Shrubb had two laps on the Frenchman. When the latter attempted to regain the lost ground Shrubb stuck to him, and was never in trouble.

In the last mile the Frenchman reduced Shrubb's lead to one and a half laps. When the gun was fired for the last lap Shrubb showed that he had plenty in reserve by going on and regaining half of his loss. He finished the race in 1.26.12, and with a lead of 1½ laps. St. Yves' time for the fifteen miles was 1.27.58.

DOINGS IN BIG LEAGUES

Mainly owing to timely hitting by their former players Larry Schafly and Jake Gettman, Torontos lost the second game of the Newark series on Saturday by 3-1. Muller had the Torontos well in hand, allowing only four hits, a homer by Pitcher McGinley preventing a shut out. McGinley was bumped pretty hard. The Torontos fielded superbly. A double play by Houser, Starnagle and Mullen, with the bases full, being the feature.

Jersey City Leads.

Jersey City leads the League with three victories. The Skeeters shut Buffalo out 1-0 on Saturday. The herd could do nothing with Dr. Manser's twirling. The Skeeters pitcher held them down to two hits. The Jerseyites got four off Taylor, which was enough to win on. On Sunday the Skeeters had another shout out game, beating Montreal 4-0. The hard-hitting Royals were held to one hit by Goette, the Jerseys new twirler, while Smith stopped the Skeeters at four.

Winters Lost First.

On Saturday Winters, the new wirler secured by Montreal from Detroit, upheld his reputation as a hard luck pitcher, by losing to Providence 5-5. Cronin was batted for eleven safeties, while the Grays got ten off Winters.

Another Extra Innings Tie.

Rochester and Baltimore, who went twelve innings on opening day without a run being scored travelled eleven more on Saturday for a 5-5 tie. Desau and Maroney pitched for Baltimore, while the Bronchos used four twirlers.

Newark Won Again.

On Sunday, however, Rochester were beaten 4-2 by Newark, Krill holding them to six hits. It was a good article of [illegible] all the way.

Errors Lost for Grays.

Ragged errors on the part of the Grays made Providence an easy victim for Buffalo in Sunday's game. The Providence team had six misplays, and five of them were responsible for runs. Each side had ten hits. Knapp pitched for Buffalo and Harris for Providence.

St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society Welcomes The Rev. Dr. O'Brien After Recent Injury

Presented With an Address and Makes Feeling Reply Thanking Members for Their Kindness—A Spirit That Will Cement Friendships.

APPRECIATED THEIR VISITS

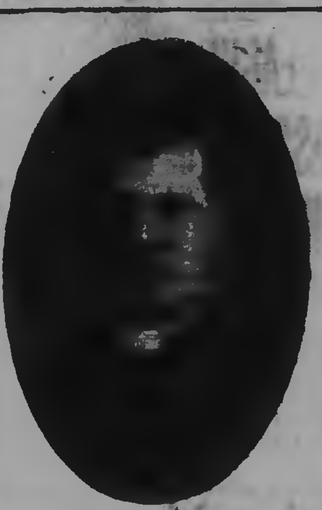
The members of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society had the pleasure yesterday of welcoming Rev. Dr. O'Brien back to the meeting after an enforced absence of two months due to an injury received by a fall while walking on Hunter street. Since meeting with the accident, Rev. Dr. O'Brien has been confined to St. Joseph's Hospital and it was with no small degree of pleasure that the members of the society assembled at their regular meeting yesterday afternoon, anticipating the company of their beloved spiritual adviser. The platform was tastefully decorated with flowers and draperies and on entering Dr. O'Brien was most cordially received. During the afternoon the following address was read by the President, Mr. N. Bibby:

Rev. Dr. O'Brien:

Dear Father,—We, your loving and admiring friends desire to take this formal—but not less cordial—manner of congratulating you most heartily upon your recovery from a protracted confinement due to accident; at the same time congratulating ourselves, the Church and Society, upon your return to the sphere of duty, whose faithful discharge in the past, has made you so important a factor in the promotion of the spiritual and moral well-being of the city.

While you were separated from us, we sympathized with you in your hours of pain—not merely physical suffering—but the pain a noble nature must feel in being deprived of the privilege of ministering in the domain of priestly functions to the faithful of the flock, and of guiding and helping the more secular, but hardly less important, moral interests, to which, in your case, so much prayer, work and devotion have been given.

There is something of the selfish in our rejoicing at your recovery, for we shall again enjoy the pleasure of associating with you in the personal, social and moral relations, from which we have, in the past, enjoyed so much pleasure and profit.



REV. DR. O'BRIEN,
Spiritual Adviser of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society, who has been confined to hospital during past two months.

Trusting, dear Father, that the Good God above will long spare you to us and the work, you have so nobly done and have yet to do. we beg leave to subscribe ourselves in name, as we are proud to be in fact,

The officers and members of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society.

Dr. O'Brien Replies

Rev. Dr. O'Brien made a very feeling reply. He thanked the society for their sympathetic expressions and assured them that he heartily appreciated what had been done. In reviewing his stay in the hospital he emphasized the importance of a little thoughtfulness on the part of our friends. The person confined to bed is grateful for every act his friends do for him, and thus by little things being done by kind hearts the bonds between the members of a society are vastly strengthened. Friendships are cemented and the society becomes a potent factor for good.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien complimented the members of the society on their splendid turn out at communion in the morning, also upon their steadfastness to the society during the past two months.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Furnished by J. N. Barber.—

New York, April 26.—Stocks opened a little higher all around with the largest advances in the industrial list. London sent higher prices generally with especial strength shown in the copper stocks, but lost most of the gain at the close which was under the New York parity. The market here showed hesitation and irregularity all morning with the trend slightly downward and the volume of business small. Reading fluctuated a good deal and showed a two point loss at one time. Steel and copper stocks were relatively firm. Traders were waiting fo: the expected commodity clause up to noon, but when the Supreme Court met it was announced there would be no decision handed down to-day . The market immediately rallied when this was known.

Chicago, April 26.—Wheat, helped by higher Liverpool cables, opened a cent up. There was considerable short covering and the market was not so big as of late. There was some wheat for sale on the bulge, however, and this kept the market in check. Corn was very firm at a cent advance, while oats were up fractionally in sympathy.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE LOCATION OF LARGE FACTORY IN PETERBOROUGH IS MADE AFTER LENGTHY DELIBERATION

Purity Ware, Limited, Have Made Deposit to Proceed With Work, Provided the People Support the By-law When It is Presented—A Statement of What the Company Proposes to Do.

LOCATED IN EAST WARD.

After negotiating for the past two months or more with a number of gentlemen who were desirous of establishing a factory in one of the Canadian cities, the City Council has finally closed terms with them and have prepared a by-law to be presented to the people on June 31st, by which the ratepayers will be given the opportunity of sanctioning the Council's work or of turning it down.

The factory is known as the Purity Ware Limited, of Peterboro. They will manufacture all kinds of enamel ware, galvanized iron ware and range galvanized boilers. They propose to erect a factory 200 feet by 500 feet with the front part two stories high. In the beginning they will employ 100 men and afterwards any number between that and 500. They are backed by one of the largest and wealthiest firms in the United States, who are manufacturing a line of goods of a similar nature.

Met the Council

Mr. W. C. McFarland and M. G. Noble, representing the Purity Ware Limited, met the Council last night to bring the arrangements to a conclusion and to give the by-law its necessary readings. A marked cheque for $250 was handed over to Mayor Rush to be forfeited if the work is not proceeded with, or to be returned if the electors are not in favour of the proposition. The real business between the Council and these representatives had been arranged previously at meetings which the reporters were asked to say not a word about. Members of the Council and particularly of the Manufacturers' committee desired no publicity until the factory was assured. After the by-law was given its readings it was decided that it be submitted to the ratepayers on June 1st next and an effort will be made to advertise it in such a manner that every man who has a vote will be acquainted with the facts.

The proposition is considered one of the biggest that has been placed before the ratepayers in some years. The business is one which has already a footing in Canada and the members of the Council are all pleased with the prospects of a splendid acquisition to Peterboro's industrial activity. To the Manufacturers' committee is due no small share of credit for the manner in which they have looked after the city's interests and at the same time have held out favourable inducements to the representatives of the Purity Ware Limited.

The Location

The new factory will be located in the Fifth ward just north of the Belleville line of the G.T.R. It is opposite the Little Lake cemetery. It is known as the old race track and is considered an admirable location.

The company's architects have already been busy and have surveyed the property and have made the preliminary plans for the building. These were submitted to the Council and were approved. An outline of the immense structure is given on this page.

The particulars of the by-law in brief are given below and are worthy the most careful thought. The industry is a most important one. A market has already been established in Canada and a large portion of the export trade will be looked after by the Peterborough factory, while the local market is rapidly increasing. The goods to be manufactured are all kinds of kitchen and other utensils made from enamel, galvanized iron as well as all kinds of galvanized iron wares. The employes will be skilled and will demand good wages. The New York factory was visited by members of the Council who were more enthusiastic than ever over securing the industry for Peterborough.

Last Night's Work

At last night's session of the Council all the members were present excepting Ald. Morrow, Bradburn and Hicks.

Ald. Morgan asked if another site more centrally located could be obtained, but that already chosen was satisfactory to all concerned.

It was early in March that the Manufacturers' committee first heard of the organization of the proposed new manufacturing company.

Ald. Gillespie lost no time in getting into communication with the promoters, Messrs. McFarland, Edwards and Noble, all of Toronto. Arrangements were made for a meeting of the promoters with the Manufacturers' committee. The gentlemen came here and were shown about the city. Several sites were visited and the visitors were favourably impressed.

They were asked to make a proposition to the city. This was done and a special committee consisting of Aldermen Gillespie, Hicks and Turner and City Clerk Armstrong, went up to Toronto where a second session was held. At this meeting the name of the New York firm which is behind the new company was learned and arrangements were made for a trip to New York City to interview the management of that company. Ald. Gillespie and City Clerk Armstrong for the city, and Ald. Bradburn for the Board of Trade went to New York, where they saw the maangement of the company, and were shown through part of the immense factory located there.

LEFT HOME TO GO TO SCHOOL YESTERDAY MORNING AND HE HAS NOT BEEN SEEN SINCE

Strange Disappearance of Walter Elliott, the Twelve Year Old Son of Mr. Robt. Elliott, 276 Wolfe Street—Parents Greatly Worried as to His Whereabouts.

A SEARCH INSTITUTED

Walter Elliott, the twelve-year-old son of Mr. Robt. Elliott, 276 Wolfe street, left his home yesterday morning shortly after nine o'clock to go to school and has not been seen since. His parents are very much worried over his strange disappearance and any knowledge of his whereabouts would be gladly received by them.

Their son was a little late for school yesterday morning and did not want to go but his parents insisted upon his going, and as they thought, he started out for the South Central, the one that he attended. Last evening, when he did not return, his father instituted a search for him but he was nowhere to be found. Enquiry was made at every place where he was thought most likely to be but without result. The police were also informed. It is thought that the boy must have left town.

KINRADE INQUEST IS ADJOURNED UNTIL THURSDAY

Examiner Special (2.45 p. m.)

Hamilton, Ont., April 27.—The court room of No. 3 police station last evening presented a striking contrast to its appearance on previous sessions of the Kinrade inquest. The statement had gone abroad that the proceedings would be adjourned, on the authority of Crown Attorney Washington, and as a result only a few lawyers and newspaper men were present besides the jury. The actual session lasted just four minutes.

After the formal opening of court and the roll-call of jurors, Crown Attorney Washington said:

"Mr. Coroner, as no doubt you have read in the papers, the counsel for Miss Florence Kinrade has obtained a writ of certiorari from Mr. Justice Teetzel to return the papers, the warrant issued by you and the other papers in the case. The matter has been referred to the Divisional Court to be argued on Wednesday morning, as to your right to issue a warrant. Under these circumstances I would ask you, if it is satisfactory to yourself and the jury, to adjourn the inquest until Thursday night. It is desirable that we should not allow this thing to drag on any longer than necessary and it is possible the court will give judgment on Thursday morning, and we will know whether this case is going on or not."

Dr. Anderson—"So that we will have to adjourn until Thursday night at eight o'clock."

Jurors gathered in little groups discussed the situation, some rather indignantly.

"If the law won't bear out a coroner in bringing a witness I don't know what good he is," one said. "Might as well abolish the whole thing."

THE LEMIEUX ACT.

The Lemieux Act, in operation, is achieving a beneficent success, and compiling large credit for a Liberal minister and a Liberal Government. The report of the first two years of its operation affords a good showin. There were forty-nine disputes referred under the act, and of these only two resulted in a strike or lock-out. In these forty-nine cases the interests of nearly 60,000 workmen were at risk. When one reflects upon the disastrous results of strikes, even "successful" ones, upon workmen and their families and upon the industrial interests affected, had the disputes that were prevented by the Act, been allowed to advance to the strike stage, some idea of the good wrought by the Act may be gained. The Lemieux Act has not only thus established a claim to home consideration, but its merits have been frankly recognized abroad. A prominent social journal in Germany has an article fully describing the Lemieux Act, and concludes by asserting that the Canadian Parliament has achieved something great in passing the Lemieux court of arbitration law, whose advantages are infinitely greater than its disadvantages and whose successes greatly preponderate over its failures. The Lemieux Act might well serve as a model for the legislatures of many European countries.

About [illegible] dollars are directly invested in Canadian manufactures.

BUILDING PROSPECTS.

Among other indications of the return of that alluring but indefinite condition, "good times," is the activity in building operations. "Construction," a journal published in Toronto and devoted to the promotion of structural interests, declares that there are indications that this year will pass all previous records in building operations. Of the fifteen cities reporting, twelve give comparative statements, and these place the gain for the month of March at 127.12 per cent over the corresponding period of last year, and in no place has a decrease been recorded. Coincident with this is the further fact that the prospective construction operations for the year indicate that money has found its way back into the normal channels of trade and that loans in respect of investments of fair promise, are much easier to arrange than for some time past. The largest increase for the month of March has been in Winnipeg—646 per cent. Building in the Western metropolis shows an expenditure of $1,059,000, as against $141,000 for the same months of last year. It is a pleasure to note that Peterborough shows the second largest gain—294 per cent. While the amount of building undertaken so far is not large, it shows that a great deal more building work has been undertaken than in the same month sof 1908. The other gains are in the Middle West Provinces and British Columbia. Throughout Ontario there is shown a strong, general, upward trend. Every city, submitting comparative figures, shows a substantial advance. A gain of 103 per cent. for Toronto, with its large area and population is somewhat remarkable. From the manner in which the capital of Ontario has begun the year it seems probable that the building year will witness an expenditure there of about 16 millions. Montreal, with a gain of 90.34 per cent, and Halifax, with a gain of 273 per cent., are well up to the front, especially considering that in older places the rate of building activity, is naturally slower. Altogether the building prospects for the coming season are brighter than for many years past.

The building permits issued in Peterborough for March, 1909, amount to $5,695, the total of permits issued in March, 1908, was only $1,445.

Two of the most modern conveniences—the telephone and the fountain pen—are Canadian inventions.

THE UNITED STATES INVASION

The Conservative critics of the Liberal Government are wont to complain that its policy makes Canada the dumping ground and the slaughter market of the industrial establishments of the United States. Even supposing that the Liberal fiscal policy has done this which it has not done to any greater extent than under the Conservative regime and policy, the Liberal Government plan has done something better than discourage the inroads of the products of United States manufacturers. It has encouraged the importation of United States factories themselves. When the latter found that the applied policy of the Liveral Government placed them at a disadvantage they brought their factories over here bodily. The operation of the Liberal tariff, conjoined with the attractiveness of the country as a field for industrial operations, created by the wonderful progress and prosperity the country has enjoyed under Liberal rule, has attracted American capital by the millions. United States manufacturers find that if they want to sell their goods in Canada they must make them in Canada. From a list compiled by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association it appears that in the past few years and up to July last, 112 United States manufacturing establishments had located branches in Canada. Nearly forty of these have found a place in Toronto, and one in Peterborough—one that is equivalent to many, for it is one of the most important of our city industries and one of the largest and most important of its kind in Canada; with present promise of another important addition. It was a Liberal policy that brought United States saw mills involving in plant and limits between 25 and 30 millions of dollars of capital, into Canada, and the Liberal policy or the results of its policy has brought United States flour mills into Canada, over $200,000 of American capital being invested in this way in the Canadian West. Not only have the United States introduced into Canada capital for industrial operations, but large amounts of capital have been invested in mining and fisheries. Besides we have the Liberal policy in regard to settlement of the Northwest responsible for the peaceful invasion of between 300 and 400 thousand United States farmers, who have brought in millions of capital in cash and effects and who are still flowing into the West in a steady, solid stream. Our American cousins themselves place the Fielding tariff as the foremost factor in their invasion of Canada. This tariff they say has been so arranged that American goods could not continue to successfully compete with Canadian. The demand for Canadian made and British goods even among new comers from the United States had its effect, and finally Canada's splendid transportation facilities by her waterways, gave shippers advantages and a certainty of knowledge in the matter of freight rates. In all these things the capable hand of efficient administration and the application of a rational tariff policy by the Liberal Government have quickened the pace of development and national expansion. With such from-over-the-border invasion, there is little dread of the need of standing armies or navies to repel anything more unwelcome or hostile.

Peace hath her victories, no less renowned than war.—Milton.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Since the Welland Waterworks has been placed under a commission the revenue has increased from $500 to $8,000 per year.

Ontario has enlarged her coat of arms, but, remarks the Globe, it cannot keep pace with Premier Whitney's enlargement of the expenditure.

Col. Sam Hughes, speaking before the St. George's Society in Guelph, predicted red war, in these words: "Before the snow melts from the peaks of the Rockies in the month of June, Great Britain may be embroiled in one of the most unfortunate and terrible wars that the history of the world has seen." The gallant Colonel leaves a little loophole of escape. In some of the peaks of the Rockies the snow doesn't condescend to melt at all. Let us hope these are the peaks the prophet of doom refers to.

Railway building is a great mining prospector; the building of the Canadian Pacific revealed the presence of the greatest nickel deposits in the world. The construction of the Temiskaming Railway unearthed one of the world's greatest hoards of rock-held silver, the Transcontinental turns up on its right of way a mighty deposit of copper, and now the Canadian Northern has opened up, via Mackenzie and Mann, one of the greatest subsidy mines of modern times.

The Toronto News hints that Liberal newspapers are animated by hostility to Canadian industries or by stupidity. This is simply rubbish. Most Liberal newspapers endorse the Liberal Government's attitude towards our national industries, which have thriven under it as they have never prospered before. The absence of any clamour for tariff changes indicates that the Liberal tariff fills the bill. There's no use calling names or fussing over titles. The policy—call it free trade, or protection, or a combination of both—which brings industrial and national prosperity, is the policy we want, the rational and truly national policy.

Germany's aggressive naval programme, wihle directed ostensibly against Great Britain, promises to be more inclusive. The United States sees in Germany's attitude a menace to the Monroe doctrine, whose adoption by the United States, Great Britain suggested. Germany will find her work cut out to approximately approach Britain's naval equipment, but when, in addition and combined, it has to count upon competition with the United States, which has greatly common interest with Great Britain the idications are that the two great English-speaking nations will readily find common ground of union in relation to Germany's ambitious projects.

Economic Value of Our Social Fisheries.

Reasons Why They Should be Systematically Fostered--Maine Makes $15,000,000 Out of Hers From Tourists Alone.

The Belleville Ontario has the following seasonable and interesting article upon a subject which has a special interest for Peterborough and district. The subject is the "Economical Value of Our Game Fish":

We are all apt to have our attention drawn away to what looms up conspicuously and big in one direction—such as the silver mines of Cobalt and Gowganda—and often thus lose sight of what is of more importance and greater value to the whole body of the people. Very few persons have any idea of the importance of conserving our game fish and of the source of wealth they would eventually become to this Province, if properly protected.

When protection for these fish is urged many think that it is only for the pleasure of a few in our own midst who want the sport of catching them. This is not at all the important aspect of the subject, nor one which ought to be considered by the general public, nor is it the value of these fish in themselves.

The economic value to us of our game fish and other game consists in the wealth to this country if properly attended to by having the laws enforced to protect the waters and forests from being depleted.

Wealthy Americans among the eighty millions to the south of us are just now beginning to find out that the Province of Ontario embraces the grandest summer resorts to be had on the continent and also the most accessible to the greater number of them, and that it offers great attractions which their own country lacks.

Not to mention the Bay of Quinte and adjacent waters, formerly abounding in game fish, we have innumerable lakes and streams of all sizes, lovely in their wild beauty, extending to the north and west, all teeming with game fish, and the woods abounding in other game, while the climate is the most salubrious to be found anywhere in the world.

With the exception of the small area of the Adirondacks in Northern New York the State of Maine is the only place east of the Mississippi which affords anything like the attractions which Ontario offers to those seeking health and recreation. Do we realize what this means for us? The people of Maine have come to realize what it means to them, and consequently they have taken wise precautions and effective measures to conserve what they have by protecting their lakes and streams which are the chief attraction, from being depleted, so that now large numbers of tourists are thereby brought within their borders each season and the influx of visitors is yearly increasing. It is estimated that in 1907 half a million persons—men, women and children—went into the State that one year, attracted chiefly by the fishing and boating and the invigorating air, and spent among hotels, boarding houses, and shops and for licenses, guides, boats and other outfits, upwards of fifteen million dollars, and this sum was reckoned on an average of only thirty dollars spent by each person.

What does this mean for the Province of Ontario if we are only alive to our own interests and see to it that our legislators protect these interests? The State of Maine has an area of 25,000 square miles while Ontario has an area of 150,000 square miles and is easier of access than Maine is to most of the people on the south of us, and moreover contains very many times the number of available pleasure resorts in its lakes, streams, and forests made attractive by the game especially by the game fish which retain visitors the longest time in the country.

As fifteen million dollars are thus spent every year in the State of Maine among its people, might we not reasonably expect that amount or eventually twice or even three times that sum to be left in this Province by tourists, while practically nothing of value would be taken away by them, nor any material loss incurred by depletion of our waters if the laws regulating them were strictly enforced as they ought to be by the proper authorities.

Then, instead of centring our attention on gold and silver mines, let us compare the respective values of these and what many of us are disposed to look upon as of trifling importance. The total value of the yield of silver at Cobalt for the year 1907 was a little over six million dollars, now all this, except what was paid for labour and for machinery to take out the ore, went out of the country or to a few wealthy individuals in Canada. In the same year, 1907, there was spent in money in the State of Maine by tourists, fifteen million dollars, all of which remained in the country, spread broadcast chiefly among the poorer people of that State. Is it not then worth while to protect our fish and game?

ANNOUNCEMENT OF LOCATION OF A LARGE FACTORY

This company receives the very highest rating from the banks and financial agencies, their capital and reserves being many millions.

The local representatives secured an agreement from the New York Company to supply the necessary machinery, which is to be valued by an independent valuator at $100,000 to $150,000, the company to take stock in the new business for that amount. In return for this the city of Peterborough was to make certain concessions, and these are embodied in the by-law. Neither the city nor the New York Company are bound to expend one dollar until the Canadian company has $100,000 subscribed and paid up working capital.

Since the New York trip the whole question has hinged on a satisfactory agreement being made between the city and the Canadian company. With this end in view several sessions have been held. The matter was submitted to the Committee of the whole Council and endorsed by them and the Manufacturers' Committee was authorized to go ahead and complete the contract. The Manufacturers' Committee and the Canadian company have reached an agreement which is apparently satisfactory to all parties concerned and it now only remains for the by-law to be submitted to the people and for the people to carry it.

The Contract

The by-law which the Council gave its first two readings last night provides in part as follows:

The Purity Ware Limited of Peterborough, is to erect a factory building 200 feet by 500 feet. Part of the building will be two stories, but the greater portion will be only one, but built so solidly that a second or third story can be put on. The cost to be at least $50,000. In this building will be installed machinery to the value of $100,000. A paid up working capital of $100,000 is to be raised. The company is to employ 100 hands the first year and 150 hands for the next nineteen years. On condition that the full number of hands are not employed, the company is to pay for the site in proportion to the number that are employed.

The city is to hold a mortgage of $50,000 upon the building, site and fixed machinery for twenty years, and are to have one member upon the board of directors during that time.

The company to have the option to pay off the entire loan at any time during the 20 years.

The City's Share

On condition that the Purity Ware Limited perform their part of the contract the city is to give a free site of ten acres of land; give exemption from taxes, except school and local improvement taxes, for ten years; to loan $50,000 for 20 years; at 4 per cent. per annum to be paid back in ten equal payments after the first ten years. The city to pay over one-half of the loan, or $25,000, when the factory is completed, and the second $25,000 when the machinery is installed and ready to run.

It is hoped that the expectations of the Council will be fully realized. They are apparently assured that the gentlemen who are at the back of this concern are reliable and worthy and Ald. Gillespie states that they have considered the proposition from every standpoint. The American Company has the highest possible rating in Dunn's. The matter will be be carefully presented to the people before polling day in order that the ratepayers may be satisfied that they are fully acquainted with the arrangements between the city and the Company.

The Anti-Cigarette League And The Work It Is Trying To Do

Eight years ago, in March, 1901, the International Anti-Cigarette League was formed in connection with the Sunday School Chronicle, the leading paper for Sunday school teachers in Great Britain. The editor, Rev. Frank Johnson, received so many letters from teachers asking that some help should be given them in dealing with juvenile smoking that he resolved to form a Boys' Anti-Cigarette League. The league came into existence for the purpose of discouraging and suppressing smoking among boys by moral suasion, special instruction, and particularly by legislation.

It singled out the cigarette for special attack because this form of smoking is the one most easily adopted by boys, and because it is through the cigarette that the habit has grown to the dimensions of a national peril.

The league deliberately abstained from any operation which would give it the appearance of an Anti-Narcotic Society. It limited its aims to the prevention of smoking among young people, upon whom the effects of tobacco are by general consent admitted to be disastrous. The limitation at once defined the league's attitude and enlisted the sympathy of adult smokers and non-smokers alike.

The basis of operations was the following pledge:

"I promise, with God's help, to abstain from purchasing, and from using tobacco in any form, at least until I reach the age of 21. Not only for my own sake, but for the good of my country."

The league was the first of its kind formed in Great Britain.

Its central aim was to secure the passing of an Act of Parliament, making the sale of tobacco to young people under the age of 16 illegal. In the leading article which we wrote on February, the 21st, 1901, in launching the league we said:

"The true goal is to secure the passing of a bill prohibiting the sale of tobacco in any form to young people who have not attained a certain age."

The money, offices and clerical services necessary for the league were supplied at the beginning by the business committee of the Sunday School Union, who vested the direction and control of the league in the following gentlemen: Advisory Board—

The Lord Bishop of Ripon.
The Ven. Archdeacon Sinclair, D.D.
Major-General R. S. S. Baden-Powell (chairman).
Winston L. S. Churchill, M.P.
Rob. F. Farquharson, M.D.
Dr. T. J. MacNamara, M.P.
Andrew Melrose.
Rev. J. B. Paton, D.D.
Dr. H. J. Spencer.
Professor G. Sims Woodhead, M.P. F. R. S. E.
Sir John Kirk.
Rev. Frank Johnson (Founder and Hon. Secretary).

The league as a result has formed branches of twelve members or more, in connection with all denominations, and public and private institutions. It has affiliated with headquarters, 1,140 branches, and has enrolled 99,560 members.

The income of the league was used to publish and circulate literature calculated to influence boys and their parents.

The Main Result of the Propaganda

On April 1st, the Children's Act became law, and by its juvenile smoking clauses, the sale of tobacco in any form to young people under the age of 16 has now become illegal.

Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor, I hope the citizens of Peterborough will take the lead in stamping out secret smoking among boys.

The local branch is holding a mass meting for boys next Friday, the 30th, when the following gentlemen will speak from what they know to be true: Magistrate Dumble, Dr. J. E. Middleton, Inspector Mowat and Mr. J. A. McKone, vice-principal Business College.

Yours truly.
A. C. DAVENPORT,
Secretary.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

New York, April 27.—Stocks opened quiet and mostly unchanged from last night. London sent higher prices and followed with a few buying orders, but the market here flattened out after these were executed. B. R. T. was an exception, gaining a point and there was some good buying in Atchison and the Rock Islands at slightly higher prices. There was a steady dibble of liquidation in the Harrimans, Reading and Steel and these issues refused to respond to the rallying tendency elsewhere and held the market in check. The volume of trading was the smallest for some days. Toward noon a drive was made at Reading which lost 2 and carried the whole list downward again.

AIR CARRIES HEALING MEDICINE

That Cures Colds, Catarrh and Diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Bronchial Tubes.

About the healing power of the air of the pine woods everybody knows, but to supply it in the form of medicine seemed almost beyond realization. After many years of careful study a scientific remedy, now known as Catarrhozone, has been produced, which enables the sufferer to breathe into his lungs all the healing properties of the balsamic pine woods air. This marvellous remedy has conquered catarrh. It unquestionably does cure it permanently.

CURE IS GUARANTEED.

You cannot fail to be cured by Catarrhozone, because it reaches and destroys the cause of the disease. You simply inhale the antiseptic vapor. It instantly spreads to every part of the breathing organs. The micro-organisms infecting the diseased tissues of your nose, throat, and lungs die instantly. There is nothing left to cause inflammation. Any spots that are raw and sore are quicly healed by Catarrhozone, and you soon are completely cured.

IT RELIEVES INSTANTLY!

It is impossible to breathe through a Catarrhozone inhaler without at once feeling better. Your head is cured of mucous discharge, your nostrils are cleansed of all putrid matter, the phlegm is removed from your throat. Every trace of catarrh is searched out of the system by Catarrhozone, which thoroughly disinfects and purifies every organ of the body.

Catarrhozone is the only natural remedy for catarrh. It cures by cleansing and purifying all diseased tissues, not by deadening the stomach with drugs.

MINISTERS AND DOCTORS USE "CATARRHOZONE."

It is a clean, simple, and satisfactory remedy that is endorsed by the clergy, and universally prescribed by the medical profession because it is scientific and absolutely certain to effect lasting cures.

Don't be misled into accepting a substitute for Catarrhozone, which alone can cure thoroughly. It is so powerfully healing that colds disappear in an hour, coughs in two hours, and even bronchitis, asthma, and chronic catarrh in a comparatively short time. Two months' treatment, $1.00. Small size, 50c; all dealers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ontario.

THE WORK OF DORCAS SOCIETY

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—The people of our city will doubtless be interested to know what was done amongst the poor and needy during the past winter by the Dorcas Society.

In the fall of last year several ladies were touched by unmistakable signs that want and distress would be amongst us again as the winter advanced, and determined to try and do something which would in some measure alleviate the same, other ladies were invited to join, and in a short time the Dorcas Society was organized. An appeal was made for left-off clothing, which was most generously responded to. The ladies then met at the home of the much-esteemed president, Mrs. W. G. Rankin, 596 Gilmour street, the clothing was made over or repaired as found necessary, and made ready for distribution. In the meantime a concert was in preparation to raise funds to enable the society to extend their work a little further; this was given in St. Andrew's school room, and proved a success financially, in addition to which Mr. Edwards, the kind-hearted proprietor of the Crystal very generously donated us the proceeds of two afternoon performances. The Society was now in a position to give practical help. The names of needy families were obtained, the ladies then investigated the same, clothing was sent, also provisions, which were considered most suitable to the need, and the number in each family; eighteen families received clothing; ten families clothing and provisions; and four provisions only. In all, some thirty-two families have been assisted, independent of creed or denomination, many of them regularly and systematically all the winter through; $43.91 was expended on provisions.

It has meant a sacrifice of time and ease to the workers, but they feel themselves a hundred-fold repaid, knowing, as they do, the comfort and help they dispensed to some of their less fortunate brothers and sisters. The Dorcas Society has fifteen members, and they have held seventeen meetings, the average attendance being ten.

There is a small balance in hand which will be held over to commence another season's work.

The Society wishes to thank all those who have aided them so much with gifts of clothing.

Thanking you for this space.
MRS. W. G. COMMON,
Secretary.

ALMOST SENSATIONAL

There is General Surprise at the Great Number of Persons in Peterboro' Who Praise Booth's Kidney Pills.

It's but a short time since the first box of Booth's Kidney Pills came to Peterborough.

What a work this stranger has accomplished. Dozens of residents benefitted and cured of lame, weak and aching backs, urinary and kidney troubles. It is remarkable: the reason for it is Booth's Kidney Pills are a new blend of vegetable ingredients having a peculiar action on the kidney tissue that brings quick help.

Mrs. M. J. Cook, No. 494 Aylmer street, Peterborough, Ont., says: "I always find quick relief in Booth's Kidney Pills. They strengthen and relieve my back of a dull, heavy pain, which settles in the small of it and extends into my shoulders. For years I had suffered with these symptoms of kidney trouble and could find no relief. I would have frequent spells of dizziness and headaches. I was restless and weak, and would often awake more tired than on going to bed. I had never found relief for these painful and weakening symptoms of kidney trouble until I used Booth's Kidney Pills, procured at McDermid & Jury's Pharmacy. I have had little trouble since as I use Booth's Kidney Pills occasionally and they keep me in the best of health."

Sold by dealers. Price 50 cents.

ANNUAL MEETING DID NOT MATERIALIZE

The annual meeting of the Canadian Club which was to have been held in the Council Chamber last evening did not materialize, the attendance being so small that it was deemed advisable to adjourn until some future date. There were so many other attractions and meetings last night that it was quite impossible for the members to attend.

Peterboro Gets Two New Factories If The Electors Endorse Purity Ware Limited

According to the statement of Mr. G. Noble of the Purity Ware, Limited, to the members of the Council last night the erection of this factory will be followed by another equally important, if not more so. If the ratepayers approve of the agreement the Council has drawn up with the Purity Ware, L't'd., and endorse it at the polls on June 1st, it will result in two industries coming to the city instead of one. A rolling mills for the manufacture of block tin and sheet steel is the second proposition. This part of the business would be gone on with, without any further appeal to the city, except for a fair assessment.

The building for the rolling mills would be at least double the size of the Purity Ware buildings. It is stated that the product of the mills would be something new in Canada. Although there is a large quantity of sheet steel and block tin used it is all imported. The building for this industry will be located on the south side of the G. T. R. line to Belleville and adjacent to the property on which the Purity Ware Limited will build.

Mr. Noble stated that the Company fully intended to commence operations on both factories this year, and once they get started they will be rushed to completion as they are desirous of getting their machinery in operation and their goods on the market. Whether they begin this year or not depends upon conditions expressed in the contract, which every ratepayer should carefully read.

Adjourned Vestry Meetings In Two Anglican Churches

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The adjourned vestry meeting of St. John's church was held in the schol house last night. The Rector, Rev. Canon Davidson, presided as chairman.

Reports were presented on behalf of the various auxiliary societies and organizations of the church: By Master Pigeon, for the Junior Chapter of St. Andrew's Brotherhood; Miss Menck, the Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. Peter Campbell, reading the Treasurer's report; Mrs. Palmer reported for the junior branch of the Women's Auxiliary, and Miss M. M. McKee for the Girls' Auxiliary; Miss Madelon Wilcox presented the report of the Chancel Guild; Miss Moore reported for the A. Y. P. A., Mr. George Chandler for the choir, and Miss Ruby Burnham for the King's Daughters.

It is to be noted that both the two latter reports especially indicated a thrivig condition and spoke of much effective work. The choir has a membership of 51, with an average attendance of 33, with 45 in attendance for the Easter Suday services. The King's Daughters has done and is doing a splendid work. Miss Margaret English read the treasurer's report in conection with this organization.

Mr. Robert Palmer, representing St. John's Church at the Laymen's Missionary Conference, Toronto, last February, read an able resume of the impressions received at this great gathering of earnest laymen. The various reports were received and adopted.

Mr. Fred and Roy, on behalf of the Sunday School, read a most encouraging report.

The Warden's financial statement, with the certificate of the auditors, was also adopted.

The Rector nominated as his warden, for the current church year, Mr. A. E. Coulthard, who assumed his place and entered upon his duties. In naming his warden, Rev. Canon Davidson had a warm tribute to Mr. C. H. J. Mitchell, retiring warden, for the faithful and effective services given by him during his three consecutive yearly terms.

The standing committees and other officials were appointed as follows:

Advisory Committee—Messrs. Chas. H. J. Mitchell, Dr. Boucher, Dr. Burnham, R. Fair, H. Rush, P. Campbell, H. C. Rogers, W. E. Conway, Dr. Halliday, H. Cluxton, H. Long, D. Hughes-Charles, H. W. Morphet, J. J. Howden, F. D. Kerr, F. J. Linton, F. R. Yokome, A. A. Montizambert, A. H. Stratton, Macfarlane Wilson, Jos. R. Bell.

Sidesmen—Messrs. C. H. J. Mitchell, H. Rush, R. Fair, Dr. George Burnham, P. Campbell, F. D. Kerr, W. H. Walkey, A. H. Stratton, Macfarlane Wilson, F. L. Roy, H. Long, W. R. Morris, W. E. Conway, H. D. Burnett, A. Stevenson, F. R. Yokome, T. D. Mulholland, D. Hughes-Charles, J. J. Howden, A. Montizambert.

Ushers—Messrs. F. J. Linton, Jos. S. Bell, James R. Bell, C. G. Graham, J. W. Caniff, Geo. Armstrong, W. Miles, Walter Hooper, M. Drysdale, E. A. Roe, C. Kingscote, John Comstock, Ronald McKee, C. Coleman, S. Jay, A. W. Turner, W. J. Johnston, Dr. Holloway, W. H. Roberts.

On motion of Mr. Yokome and Mr. Coulthard a very cordial vote of thanks was passed to the choir for the faithful work they had given in leading the services of the church.

Similar votes of thanks were also passed to other societies.

ST LUKE'S CHURCH

The congregation of St. Luke's received last night the final reports in connection with its yearly business. A large number were present. The Rector, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt was in the chair, and opened the meeting with prayer. After the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, which were confirmed, the business was proceeded with.

Mr. J. J. Turner, Jr., spoke on behalf of the Bible class, and asked for hearty co-operation on the part of the Congregation in his work as teacher of the Bible closs. He also offered to place a pulpit light in the church to be paid for by the Bible class. On the forthcoming visit of the Bishop on June 2nd, Mr. Turner suggested the presentation of an illuminated address of welcome and assurance of loyalty to the Bishop. The Rector assured Mr. Turner of the hearty appreciation which he and the congregation had of his faithful work and inspiring energy in church work.

Improvements to and repairs of the church property were decided upon.

The committee on vesting the choir reported favourable and the matter will be referred to the congregation to vote on it by ballot.

Messrs. Fred Sedgwick and Henry Mickenden wer added to the number of sidesmen chosen at the previous meeting.

The Rector, the Wardens, and Messrs. H. Nesbitt, E. N. Peck, J. J. Turner, Jr., Arthur Kingdon, F. J. Jamieson, D. Spence, Frank Adams and Wm. Gibbs were appointed the advisory board.

The officers of the various societies gave their reports, which showed excellent work done. To the Rector, organizations and the press, a hearty vote of thinks was tendered.

The meeting then adjourned, the Rector pronouncing the benediction.

Andrew Tully's Home Was Burned Over His Head Saturday Morning

An early morning fire destroyed the home of Andrew Tully, on the third line of Smith, on Saturday. According to the report received the building was virtually burned over his head and was far advanced before he became aware of the fact. It seems he was preparing breakfast and was engaged in frying meat. The first intimation of the fire was the falling of cinders and coals from the roof about his head. Instantly realizing the situation it is said he grasped the pan and his fiddle which was hanging on the wall and with which he has won considerable reputation and made his escape from the house.

Mr. Tully has been keeping "Bachelor's Hall" for the past thirty-five years and his many friends sympathize with him in his loss.

Prospects For Winter Seed Fair Are Already Promising

Mr. Robert Leary, of the Agricultural Society, is looking forward to a successful seed fair next winter and has already received assurance from a number of prominent farmers throughout the county that they will enter the competition. On Saturday last, Mr. Leary asked some of the farmers on the market if they would take part, it being necessary to secure a certain number of names of farmers before the Government would give a grant. Quite a number more than was necessary was obtained, the farmers all seeming to be pleased with the prospect of the show.

Deed Of Sale Of Land That Has A Peculiar Signature

While going through some papers at the Registry office the other day, Mr. G. N. Gordon came across a very old document that had a rather peculiar signature. It was a deed of sale of land, made on the twenty-seventh of June, in the year 1855, by which fifty acres of land in the north-west quarter of lot nineteen, the tenth concession in the township of Smith was transferred from William McCue, an Indian, to Joseph Trennum.

The peculiarity about the document is that instead of McCue's wife signing her name, releasing her dower, her signature beneath that of her husband's is "his squaw," and her mark alongside of it denotes the fact that she was unable to write.

HE GOT RELIEF RIGHT AWAY

Dodd's Kidney Pills Cure Kidney Disease of Eight Years Standing.

That's What They Did for William O Cain, and Now He Says: "Dodd's Kidney Pills are a Great Medicine."

Mapleton, Albert Co., N.B.,—April 26, (Special.—"When I began taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I got relief right away. I have found Dodd's Kidney Pills a great medicine." So says William O. Cain, well known and highly respected in this neighbourhood. And Mr. Cain has a very good reason for making so emphatic a statement. For eight years he was a sufferer from Kidney Disease, and did not seem to be able to get relief.

"Why, I was so bad," Mr. Cain goes on to state, "and my kidneys bothered me so that if I would go to pick anything off the ground I would fall." But Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him just as they have cured thousands of other sufferers all over Canada. They never fail to cure Kidney Disease of any kind. Not once, but scores of times, they have vanquished Bright's Disease, the most deadly of all kidney troubles, while every day brings stories of cures of Rheumatism, Lumbago, Dropsy and Heart Disease from various parts of the Dominion. Other kidney medicines may cure. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Gus C. Weinberg, who appeared with the original caste of "The Gingerbread Man," in the role of King Bunn, and was with the company that presented that favourite musical extravaganza at the Grand Opera House is now one of the leading funmakers in "The Alaskan" at the Great Northern theatre, Chicago. He will be particularly remembered in the song hit "Old Rameses" which won him many encores on his several tours.

"Mlle. Mischief" in New York

Lulu Glaser has returned to one of the Broadway houses in "Mlle. Mischief" which was seen here a few weeks ago.

Norman Jolliffe's Success

The many friends of Mr. R. Norman Jolliffe, the young Toronto baritone who has been in New York since last January continuing his vocal studies, will be pleased to learn of the splendid success with which he has been meeting during his short stay there. He has been appointed precentor at the Church of the Puritans on Fifth avenue, which position he accepted after several other offers were considered. He begins his duties there in May, but has been busy in special work in different churches for the past two months, and during Easter week was engaged to sing the baritone parts in Stainer's "Crucifixion" and "From Sepulchre to Throne" in New York city, and Maunder's "Olivet to Calvary" in Elizabeth, N. J. He was engaged for a return date in the latter city for "Gounod's Redemption."—Toronto Star.

Mr. Jolliffe's Peterborough friends will join in the congratulations he is receiving, having always been a favourite with audiences in this city.

Grand Concert Given For The Benefit Of The Children's Aid

Best Local Talent in Peterborough Gave Splendid Programme at Conservatory Hall Last Evening.

AN APPRECIATIVE AUDIENCE

The Conservatory Hall was fairly well filled last evening on the occasion of the grand concert given by the best musical talent in Peterborough, for the benefit of the Children's Aid Society. It was an appreciative audience that attended and a more pleasing programme of vocal and instrumental selections has not been given in this city for some time. Each number was enthusiastically encored and those taking part graciously and kindly responded.

The entertainers included such well known artists as Misses Helen Davies, L. Hallihan, and C. Reesor, and Messrs. W. McIllroy and Lee, vocalists, and Misses McCaw, of the Conservatory staff, pianiste and Miss Julia Choate, violiniste. Their work as musicians of an exceptionally high standard has frequently been commented on, and their contributions last evening were extremely well given and won the merited approval and applause of the audience. The presence of the Conservatory orchestra added much to the pleasure of the entertainment and their numbers were greatly enjoyed.

Mr. Montizambert, vice-president of the society acted as chairman and introduced the following programme:

Overture—Conservatory Orchestra.
Vocal Solo—Miss Helen Davies.
Vocal Solo—Mr. W. McIllroy.
Piano Solo—Miss McCaw.

Tribute To The Efficiency Of The Fire Department Is Appreciated By The Men

The following correspondence, which has been placed at the disposal of the Examiner, is self-explanatory.

Mr. R. J. Todd,
456 Aylmer street, city.

Dear Sir:—I am in receipt of a copy of a letter written by you to His Worship the Mayor and Council, in which you give a detailed report of the workings and doings of this Fire Department, as you found them from personal observation and frequent visits.

I wish to thank you very kindly for the deep interest you have taken in the welfare of this department of public work, and also for the kind expression of goodwill embodied in your letter.

It is a source of very great pleasure to me to learn that my work in connection with the re-organization of the Fire Department had given a degree of satisfaction to the better class of our citizens; and I sincerely hope that my labours in the future will be worthy of the confidence you and your fellow citizens have placed in me.

If the public spirited citizens knew of the good effect a little encouragement would have, I am quite sure it would be forthcoming from all quarters.

However, I am living in hopes that my work will have the desired effect, and when that time arrives those who have taken an early active interest in the welfare of this Brigade, will undoubtedly be repaid for the sympathetic interest they have taken in the Fire Department.

I called the members of the Fire Department together, and read them the copy of your letter. The firemen all feel grateful to you and have asked me to convey their thanks which are embodied in a resolution I attach hereto.

Believe me, Sir, I am, yours most respectfully,

W. A. HOWARD,
Chief, Fire Dept.

D. McNair Run to Earth in Stouffville And Will Answer in Local Court.

High County Constable Cochrane arrested D. McNair on a charge that has been pending for some time.

It seems that McNair sold the trustees of S. S. No. 11, Smith, a quantity of school furniture and gave him a note that was payable in three months. It is learned that the goods were not forthcoming, but the man immediately discounted the note and cleared out with the money. He has been in Stouffville until recently. Mr. Cochrane learned of his whereabouts and soon had him within the limits of the law. He was remanded until May 4th for a hearing before Magistrate Edmison.

DO NOT PLACE TRUST IN ABDUL

The Young Turks Closely Guard Yildiz Palace.

WILL BE RULER PRO TEM

Probability Is That Abdul Hamid Will Not Be Immediately Deposed, But Left In Possession of Throne If He Pays Out About $250,000,000—Part of Yildiz Palace Will Be Destroyed as Protection.

London, April 27.—A Times' special from Vienna says: The Constantinople correspondent of The Neue Freie Presse was informed at midday by Mahmoud Chevket Pasha that, for the present, the Sultan will not be deposed. He is likely to be retained as nominal ruler until further notice, and will, in the meantime, defray from his private means the cost of the advance of the Macedonian troops upon Constantinople, and make to the Ottoman nation a present of the greater part of his fortune, amounting to some $250,000,000. The walls and barracks of the Yildiz Palace will be demolished, and the garrison limited to one company, which will be supplied daily by different regiments.

The Daily Mail has received the following despatch from Constantinople. Parliament met in Stamboul yesterday for the first time since the mutiny on April 13. The session was secret, though it is understood the House considered what measures would be necessary to secure the Sultan's abdication. There was a strong opinion in favor of Yussof Izzedine, the nephew of the Sultan, as Abdul Hamid's successor, but the law of succession cannot be set aside without serious risks. Mehemmed Reshad, the heir-apparent, is an amiable nonentity. Abdul Hamid remains at the palace hopeful that the new trouble will pass and leave him untouched. Though his garrison has surrendered Parliament suspects that a guard a few thousand strong is still hidden in his walled citadel. The palace guns, therefore, remain trained on the Yildiz.

IS APPOINTED ARCHBISHOP

Archbishop of Rupert's Land Gets Anglican Appointment.

HAMILTON AN ARCHBISHOP

Bishop of Ottawa Is Chosen to Succeed Late Archbishop Sweatman as Metropolitan of Ecclesiastical Province of Canada — Ottawa Is Now Headquarters — Thirteen Bishops Were Present.

Toronto, April 27.—The Church of England in Canada is no longer without an official head, and the ecclesiastical province of Canada again has its archbishop.

At the meeting of the house of bishops of the general synod yesterday afternoon the Most Rev. Samuel Pritchard Matheson, Archbishop of Rupert's Land, was elected primate of all Canada, and representative on the general consultative body of the Lambeth conference. Rev. Canon Phair of St. John's College, Winnipeg, was appointed secretary of the house of bishops in the place of the Bishop of Toronto, resigned. Thirteen bishops were present at the election: Archbishop Hamilton of Ottawa, Archbishop Matheson of Rupert's Land, Bishop Pinkham of Calgary, Bishop DuMoulin of Niagara, Bishop Thorneloe of Algoma, Bishop Mills of Ontario, Bishop Williams of Huron, Bishop Stringer of Yukon, Bishop Holmes of Athabasca, Bishop Farthing of Montreal, Bishop Sweeny of Toronto. No action was taken in regard to the appointment of a Canadian bishop for China.

ARCHBISHOP MATHESON.

In the morning the house of bishops of the province of Canada met and elected Rt. Rev. Charles Hamilton, Bishop of Ottawa, as Archbishop of Ottawa and Metropolitan of the Province of Canada. Eight bishops were present, the Bishops of Montreal, Ontario, Algoma, Niagara, Toronto, Huron, Ottawa and Bishop Reeve. Rev. W. M. Loucks, rector of St. Matthew's, Ottawa, was elected secretary and registrar of the house of bishops in the stead of the Bishop of Toronto. The house adopted a resolution of sympathy with the family of the late Archbishop of Toronto. The Archbishop of Ottawa was appointed chairman of the board of examiners of divinity degrees.

Immediately preceding the election Holy Communion was celebrated in St. James' Cathedral, most of the bishops being present.

The new primate is a native of Manitoba. Born in 1853 and educated in his native province he has filled the posts of canon and dean of the cathedral at Winnipeg, coadjutor bishop to Archbishop Machray, and since 1905 Archbishop of Rupert's Land. He came of Highland ancestry.

Archbishop Hamilton of Ottawa has been successively rector of St. Peter's and later of St. Matthew's, Quebec, Bishop of Niagara, and first Bishop of Ottawa, since the setting apart of that diocese in 1896.

Abandoned In Mexico.

Mexico City, Mexico, April 27.—A committee representing a party of 60 stranded and destitute Scotchmen, who are in Vera Cruz and the mining camp of Taviche, in the State of Oaxaca, have issued a public appeal, through the press of Mexico, for assistance.

The Scotchmen say they were brought to Mexico by an American land company, which abandoned them after defrauding them out of $100 to $500 each in money advanced.

Clubbed on the Head.

Toronto, April 27.—From the post-mortem report of Chief Coroner Arthur Jukes Johnson at the inquest last night it would appear that Wm. Gordon was clubbed on the back of the head. The police version is that deceased was supposed to have been punched in the mouth by Gilbert Oliver, who is charged with manslaughter, his head striking the pavement.

Mine Operators Will Wait.

New York, April 27.—It was announced yesterday that the meeting of the anthracite coal operators, fixed for to-day in this city, had been postponed subject to call. No reason is given, but it is supposed that this action is due to the holding of a convention by the miners at Scranton today.

THE DELAY COULD NOT BE PREVENTED

French Treaty Cannot Be Hastened Says Mr. Fielding.

REGARDING HECATE STRAIT

Sir Wilfrid In House Tells Mr. Borden That He Is Not at Liberty to Announce Canada's Stand With Regard to American Poachers—Reports of Siberian Laborers on G.T.P. Are Not Official.

Ottawa, April 27.—In the House yesterday, replying to Claude Macdonnel as to the position in which the French treaty stands at present, the Finance Minister said.

"The treaty of 1907 was approved in due course by the Parliament of Canada, and also by the Chamber of Deputies of France, but when it reached the French Senate there was considerable delay owing to the strong opposition among the French Senators, who claimed that the treaty was too favorable to Canada. After considerable delay and negotiations a supplementary treaty was entered into which has been laid before this House. That, as well as the original treaty, has been approved by the French Senate, but it requires yet to be approved by the Chamber of Deputies.

"We have delayed bringing forward a resolution to confirm the supplementary treaty because we have decided to await the action of the French Chamber of Deputies. That body adjourned for several weeks, but I anticipate that at an early date the treaty will receive its approval, and, at the same time steps will be be taken to present to this Parliament a measure for the approval of the new treaty."

R. L. Borden brought to the attention of the Government a statement in the press that on several occasions the U. S. Government had applied, through the British consul at Washington, for a statement of Canada's contention in regard to jurisdiction over Hecate Strait, but without avail.

Sir Wilfrid said that there had been some correspondence on the subject, but he was not in a position to state Canada's position in the matter.

Hecate Strait, which separates Queen Charlotte Island from the mainland of British Columbia, was the scene of the recent seizure of an American vessel for fishing in territorial waters of Canada.

While private bills were under discussion R. L. Borden insisted that it was time Parliament should lay down some principle in regard to the renewal of lapsed patents.

Following this suggestion E. M. Macdonald argued that power should be vested in the Minister of Agriculture as commissioner of patents to deal with such cases after the manner of the new practice in England, which had given every satisfaction, namely, by enforcing the manufacturing clause in the case of all foreign patents.

A question by Major Curry elicited from the Minister of Militia a number of technical points regarding the respective dimensions of the Ross and Lee-Enfield rifles. In regard to the muzzle velocity of the two arms the Minister said it was about the same in each, approximately 2,000 feet per second with service ammunition.

In reply to Mr. Ames, the Finance Minister said that the total cost, paid by way of interest upon the temporary loans, amounting to $101,000,000, made during the last twelve and three-quarter years, had been $1,698,006. For the previous corresponding period the total amount paid for interest on the sum of $136,500,000 was $1,717,648.

Replying to Mr. Taylor (New Westminster) as to the report that laborers from Siberia are being imported to work on the G.T.P. Railway, Mr. Lemieux said: "The Labor Department has received no report in this matter. The only notice we have had of it is the mention that was made of it in the House."

Another question by Mr. Taylor elicited the information that on March 28, 1907, just previous to his escape from the New Westminster penitentiary, a postoffice order for $100 addressed to Bill Miner, the noted convict, had been received at the penitentiary. It had been sent by J. C. Budd of Princeton, B.C., and was received by Deputy Warden Bourke. It was deposited in the Bank of Montreal at New Westminster in the savings bank account. Previously there had been on deposit to Miner's credit $49.10, taken from him when he was received into the penitentiary. The Minister of Justice said that the possession of money was of no advantage to a life prisoner in the way of providing him with luxuries or otherwise.

I am perfectly cured of Kidney complaint after using Gin Pills. Six hours after taking the first Pill I obtained relief, and now after three months I feel as well as ever.
I suffered ten months and the Physician attending me advised me to go to the Victoria hospital at Halifax, as he could do nothing more for me. I may add that I used a great deal of medicine, and strictly followed my physician's directions regarding diet, etc., but without avail, until providentially I learned of your most excellent remedy. I am recommending Gin Pills.

PURITY FLOUR
And Its Keeping Qualities
SOME people find it necessary to buy a considerable quantity of flour at one time—sufficient to last for a long period. Naturally they are anxious to procure a flour of the kind best adapted to lengthy storage.
There are two important reasons why PURITY FLOUR possesses these qualities. One is that it is made entirely from Manitoba Hard Wheat. The other lies in the fact that the careful milling necessary to produce "Purity" absolutely excludes all low-grade particles of the wheat berry. It's the high grade Manitoba Hard Wheat Flour that keeps—stands longest storage. That's "Purity."
"Purity" flour may cost a little more, but is more than worth the difference. Try it. Watch results both for quality and yield.

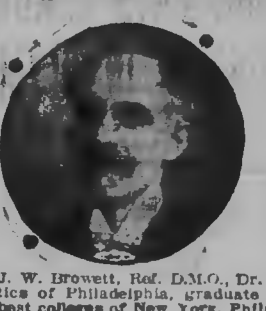
SAFE EYE-GLASS FITTING


Selling eye-glasses out of a stock like scissors or thimbles is a dangerous practice that is altogether too prevalent.
There should not be the faintest doubt in the mind of any person who finds the need of wearing glasses, that they are identically, scientifically fitted to the eyes.
We offer you safe spectacle fitting. And that is the only kind you should be satisfied to accept. There is nothing on this earth dearer than a cheap pair of spectacles that you have chosen yourself, simply because you can see with them.

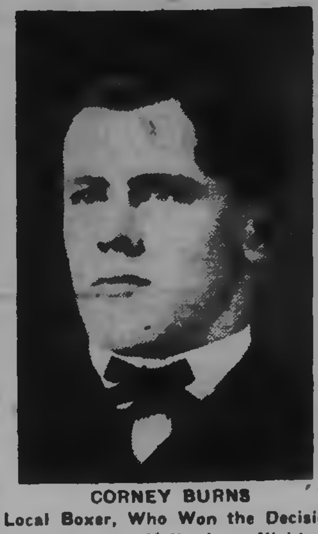
CORNEY BURNS WINS THE DECISION FROM JIMMY KELLY AFTER TEN ROUNDS OF GOOD HARD FIGHTING

One of the Best Bouts Ever Pulled Off in Peterborough Went to the Local Boy Who Won on His Aggressiveness—A Hot Preliminary.

JACK EDWARDS WON BOUT.



CORNEY BURNS
Local Boxer, Who Won the Decision Over Jimmy Kelly Last Night—Burns Left This Afternoon to Join the Edmonton Baseball Club.

Corney Burns, of Peterborough, won from Jimmy Kelly, of Buffalo; ten rounds.—Decision.

Jack Edwards, of Toronto, won from Geo. Lillie, Peterborough, six rounds.—Decision.

Such, in the briefest possible form, is the result of two of the finest boxing bouts that have ever been pulled off in Peterborough. The fairly large crowd of fight fans present at the Auditorium Roller Rink last night filed out of the building feeling that they had got their money's worth. If two bouts, in which the contestants went at each other with the determination to make it a fight from start to finish constitute a night's sport the crowd certainly got what was coming to them, and they know it, too, as there was nothing but good words for the programme.

The main bout of the evening between Corney Burns and Jimmy Kelly of Buffalo, was marked by some of the cleverest and most exciting ring work that has been seen here in many moons, and it is no wonder that the crowd was on its feet cheering frantically all the way. The boys went at it hard and it was fast from the first gong with no let up in the pace throughout. Both men had many supporters and they made themselves heard at all times, especially in the last few rounds.

The local boy was given the decision solely on the fact that he did most of the leading; Kelly was the cleverer of the two, but Burns forced the fighting and was given the decision for his aggressive work, but it was a fight all the way and the crowd saw a bout that they will long remember.

Both boys stripped well and there was little to choose between them in weight, height or reach. Kelly is about as clever a boxer as has ever donned the gloves here. An open fighter, apparently, with a deceptive attitude, he blocked easily and effectively, and showed himself a shifty, two-handed fighter with a lovely upper-cut that looked dangerous more than once. He had a peculiar pose that apparently left himself open, but he covered like a flash and was back with a jab that was lightning in speed. He was evidently trained to the minute and was fresh when the final gong sounded.

The local boy fought under a handicap all the way. In the first place he has had little or no training for the bout, and thirty minutes is a long time to go with such an experienced master of ring science as Kelly. Burns was palpably out of condition, and to make matters worse he broke a bone in his right hand at the end of the fifth round that forced him to fight half the bout with one hand. His right was useless after the accident, but he fought gamely for five rounds, doing all his leading and jabbing with his left. At that he put up a remarkable exhibition against his more experienced opponent. He forced the fight from the start and as long as both his hands were right he gave Kelly, in spite of his cleverness all he could do to look after himself. The local boy was working in an occasional left jab to the face that was worrying the Buffaloite, his right swings to the kidneys also were not any too pleasant. Kelly's blocking was pretty to see, but several times a jab worked through and forced his head back, while he was not hitting Corney often and doing no damage when he did. Even with Burns crippled in the last five rounds Kelly did not land on him very often and Burns fought gamely to the end.

Most of the audience seemed to expect a draw, but Burns' aggressive work got him the decision from Referee Harvey Staunton.

When the men stepped into the ring it was announced that W. A. Hoagland, the champion walker, who was expected to referee, had not arrived and that the fighters had agreed upon Harvey Staunton.

The conditions were ten three-minute rounds, with no hitting in the clinches.

Burns forced the fight from the start and went right after Kelly who danced around the ring and clinched when ever the local boy rushed with the result that the referee was kept busy separating the men. There was little damage done in the first round, although the boxing was fast with Burns on the aggressive. Just before the gong sounded Burns slipped a left to the jaw that sent Kelly's head back, but the Buffalo lad retaliated with a lightning-fast right chop to the back of the head, and the bell found them clinched.

Round two was pretty much a repetition of the first, Burns doing the aggressive work, while Kelly gave a grand exhibition of blocking and ducking. Burns kept jabbing with the left to the head, and swinging the right to the kidneys, but Kelly looked after the jabs at the jaw and the other blows did not seem to do any damage. Burns had a little the advantage in rounds three, four and five, continuing to do three-fourths of the leading. Towards the end of the fifth he rushed Kelly to the ropes, and swung heavily with the right, catching the elusive Buffaloite on the shoulder. The blow jarred Kelly, but it put the local boy out of business as far as his right hand was concerned.

That he was handicapped was easily seen in the next few rounds. Most of the time his right was swinging uselessly at his side, and he had to do his leading and most of his blocking with his left. At that he went after the Buffalo boy as gamely as ever, although not as effectively as earlier in the bout. Kelly began to open out a little and jabbed with both hands, once catching Burns in the face and splitting his lip. It was fast and furious to the end of the piece and Burns had to clinch frequently to keep away from Kelly. Corney fought back spiritedly, however, and the last round found them both strong. The crowd was on its feet all through the last chapter. Kelly's work in the ninth promising some excitement in the final chapter as Burns seemed to be tiring. The local boy, however, came back at him in the final round with a vim that astonished the crowd as well as his opponent, and he had, if anything, the better of the last three minutes in spite of his injured hand. Both were going well when the final gong sounded and shook hands at the bell. Referee Staunton gave the decision to Burns, whereupon Kelly walked over to his corner and congratulated him.

It was a grand bout all the way and both boys are to be congratulated upon their work.

The Preliminary.

And maybe that preliminary bout wasn't a busy little cup of tea. For pure fighting, hammer and tongs style, there has been nothing to beat it here for some time. Edwards, the Toronto boy is a rangy fighter, with a clever style and a good punch. He had it on Lillie in reach and in science, but not in gameness for the little Englishman went at him all the way, and the crowd saw some of the liveliest milling in the local history of the game. The six rounds were crammed full of excitement, and the crowd was delighted with the go.

Lillie's unusual methods had the Toronto boy all at sea in the early stages. The local boxer has a style that is all his own and his lively movements made it impossible for Edwards to land until he had sized up his methods. Lillie danced and jumped around the ring and was never there when Edwards swung, while at the same time the Englishman was landing frequently. He bumped the Toronto lad on the nose with two left jabs and followed it up with a right swing to the same place and the claret flowed freely. Throughout the first three rounds Lillie had the better of the argument, but Edwards found himself in the fourth and went at Lillie with a bang. The result was a hammer and tongs argument that brought the crowd to its feet and that lasted a whole round.

Edwards went in with right and left swings and Lillie fought him back and both men throwing any ideas of defence to the winds, pounded each other around the ring, while the crowd cheered.

Round five was even more exciting. It opened up rather tamely. Both men appeared winded, but when the round was half over Edwards opened up a new line of attack and went at Lillie. A couple of fierce jabs with the left, followed by a right uppercut to the neck, left Lillie groggy, and Edwards seeing his opening went at him harder than ever. Lillie, however ducked and ran around the ring, dodging Edwards successfully until he recovered, and when the bell sounded he was fighting back gamely.

ART BURN SAYS LONGBOAT WAS DRUGGED IN OLYMPIC RACE AND IS BEING HANDLED FOR MONEY

Arthur J. Burn, the Calgary long distance runner, who won the Marathon trial from Edmonton to Fort Saskatchewan on May 24th last has gone to the Pacific Coast. He will run in a Marathon race in San Francisco on May 1st, and will probably compete in another in Los Angeles a month later. After that he may enter the big Marathon to be run at the A-Y-P exposition. Speaking to the Vancouver World regarding the Olympic Marathon in England last year, Burn hands out the following line of dope:

Longboat Was Doped

"Longboat was a strong favourite for that race and should have won it. But he was 'doped' to keep him from winning. That's just as sure as my name is Art Burn. I happen to know that Longboat was in fine condition and it should not have bothered him any more to go the full Marathon distance than it did myself to go the first 15 miles with only a week's training after I landed in England. The Indian was going strong and running the race just the way he had planned to do and told me of his plans. I ran side by side with him for three miles from 11 to 14-mile marks, and then he went on ahead just as he had planned to do. At 15 miles he was in fourth place with Heffron, Lord and Dorando ahead of him in the order named. At 16 miles he had passed Dorando and Lord and was in second place, about two minutes behind Heffron, who was in the lead still. Then somewhere in the 17-mile they 'slipped it to him.' It was a heart stimulant of some kind and was given to him by his handlers or trainers. They did not give it to the Indian for the purpose of increasing his pace. Any trainer who knows his business understands how much dope can be used with safety under such circumstances. No, they purposely gave him an overdose and they pretty near fixed Mr. Longboat for good. The whole world knows the result now. It's an old story. Even the official report of the Canadian Olympic Committee states plainly that Longboat was doped, and tells how near he came getting a fatal dose.

Bet Against Longboat

"Who did it, and why? Well, it would be a rash thing for me to say who did it, but it was one of three men who were handling Longboat. As to why it was done that is an easy question. There was absolutely nothing in the way of a purse to gain by winning the race. It was worth far more to know as an absolute certainty that Longboat was going to lose the race and get the benefit of the odds that were being offered freely that he would win by those who were not "wise." It was an open secret among the members of the Canadian team that a certain member of the American team was given $2,500 three days before the big race with instructions to bet that Longboat would not win the race if the money could be placed at any kind of favourable odds.

"The Marathon Derby in New York recently looks pretty fishy to me too," concluded Mr. Burn. "If Longboat really wants to run he can beat this Frenchman or Dorando — or any of them in fact — at the Marathon distance every month in the year. It looks as if the wonderful Indian runner was being handled simply for commercial returns."—Edmonton Bulletin.

Y.M.C.A. BOYS' SUMMER PLANS AFTER EXAMINER RACE TIME

Many boys and parents imagine that as soon as the summer comes, the Y.M.C.A. closes down until the fall. A few years ago that used to be the case. Some Y.M.C.A.'s at the present day do so. But the Boys' Department, under the supervision of Mr. G. T. Evans, will be just as active as during the winter months, as will be seen by the programme that has been mapped out for May. But instead of carrying on an active work inside the building, the boys will go outside.

When the warmer weather comes, many tramps and hiking parties will be arranged and the parents need have no fear in letting their boys go, as they will be well looked after.

The programme for May is as follows:

May 1st.—Paper chase at 2:30.

May 8th.—Open.

May 15.—Tramp for wild flowers. Boys will leave the building at 2:00 o'clock, take a lunch and return home about 7:30. The flowers will be taken to the hospitals on Sunday.

May 20th.—One mile trial race for purpose of selcting a team of ten boys to run a relay race of one mile each from Lakefield to Peterborough on May 29th, against the time for the Examiner race. Trial will be held at 2:30. Business boys' trial at 7:30. The first ten to finish will represent the Y in the relay.

May 21st.—Kite flying contest. This is a new feature that will be introduced. Prizes will be given as follows:

To the boy who gets out 500 yards of string first.

To boy getting out most string.

To boy flying the largest kite.

Boys had better get busy and make their kites now.

May 22nd.—Three-mile walk at Nicholls Oval, at 2:30.

May 29th.—Relay race, Lakefield to Peterborough. Team of ten runners to run against time. Leaving Lakefield at 2:30.

SELLEN AND PETCH ENTERED IN THE BIG CANADIAN MARATHON

Toronto, April 26.—Who do you think have jumped to the professional ranks?

Percy C. Sellen, the tiny little I.C.A.C. crack middle distance runner, and Charlie Petch, who ran sixth to Longboat in the Boston Marathon in 1907!

Sellen, who was expected to clean up the middle distance races around the country this summer, and Petch, today signed entry blanks for the Canadian Marathon Derby to be run at Hanlan's Point Saturday.

Sellen's Great Trial

Sellen joined the ranks of the long distance pluggers at Varsity Saturday, and galloped ten miles with Harry Lawson, Jack Near and George Lister. He paced them three easy miles, and then went out and beat them two laps in the next seven, doing the ten miles in 54 minutes.

Lawson, Near and Lister went on to 15 miles. Lawson ran steadily and finished strong. Near showed grand form but Lister was in trouble with cramps several times.

Sellen's condition when he finished the ten miles surprised the talent. Sellen is in better form than ever this year, and should last the distance. He has barrels of speed, and should have a lap's lead before the 10-mile mark is reached. If he has, and the day is fine, they will have all sorts of trouble shaking him off. Petch is under the watchful eye of Walter Jeffreys, who trained for the 1907 Boston Marathon when he ran second to Longboat for 22 miles, and created all the fireworks.

W. F. Cumming, another Derby entry, stepped 9 1-2 miles.

Wood Is Here

Abbie Wood, the speedy Montreal harrier who is regarded as a dangerous factor in the race, arrived in town to-day with John Whelan, his trainer. He is staying at the Russell House. Wood chased Holmer and Tom Longboat to town in the Montreal Star race last fall. Longboat won by 70 yards, while Holmer, who was second, barely beat Wood out by a yard.

Wood proved that he could go the distance by doing 20 miles in 202.20 over muddy roads in Montreal. The little Montrealer is in fine fettle and will be out in front with the leaders for a long way.

Peter John, of the Six Nations Reserve, entered to-day. He is one of Harry Rosenthal's string of Marathon gallopers, and Harry seldom gets down on a dead one.

The entry list closes to-night with H. Elmore at the Mail and Empire office.

Fred Simpson, the established favourite for the Marathon, Tom Eck, his manager, and Alfred Shrubb will be in town to-morrow morning.

William McNeil, the veteran Scotchman who will start, made a 22-mile trial Saturday, and those who saw him say that he could have gone on the other four miles handily. He will take it easy till race day.

A GRAND FIELD OF STARTERS

Says Hoagland, Speaking of the Peterborough Walk to Commence May 24

The Sporting Editor of the Examiner has received a letter from W. A. Hoagland, the champion long distance walker, in which he expresses his pleasure that the dates have been decided upon for the big six day walk here which commences on May 24th. The date will enable all the walkers taking part in the Milwaukee race to enter here and Champion Hoagland says that without a doubt one of the best fields of walkers gotten together for a similar event will be seen here. The race will be for three hours each night, except on Saturday, when the walkers will go nine hours, and the conditions will insure fast work all the time.

The limit is 120 miles, which will make all the contestants step fast.

Hoagland says that he will arrive in Peterborough about May 4, and will finish his training here for the Milwaukee race, and will assist the local promoters in making arrangements fo the contest in Peterborough, which he firmly believes will be the best race of its kind ever pulled off as all the cracks of the United States will take part.

EDMONTON HAS GOOD LINE-UP

List of the Players Who Will be Found on the Roster of Western Team

Toronto, April 24.—The following are signed by Denny McGuire to play on the Edmonton baseball team in the Western Canada League this season.

Catchers—Nye, Toronto; Burridge, Youngstown; Downey, Fort Wayne.

Pitchers—B. McNeil, Rochester; (Eastern League); L. Potts, New York State League; Barnstead, Dorchester; T. Smith, Toronto; Clements, Peterborough.

First base—To come from Burlington.

Second base—Jack Gragone, Empire State League.

Shortstop—Denny McGuire, Toronto.

Third base—Brennan, New England State League.

Outfielders—Murphy, Peterborough; Burns, Peterborough.

McGuire has a couple more pitchers in view whom he expects to sign shortly. The players will report in Toronto on April 26th.

LOCAL BASEBALL

Things do not look any too bright for the senior City Baseball League unless something is done in a hurry to get the teams in line. The T. A. S. and Strathconas are willing to enter all right, but it is stated that the Cordage Works team is not a certainty, and that things are not encouraging for the Y. M. C. A. chances for a nine. There is plenty of material for a strong four team league, but there seems to be an Ethiopian in the fuel heap somewhere. It is to be hoped for the sake of ball in Peterboro that something can be done.

• • •

If the bottom falls out of the senior league a number of the best local players will find themselves out of baseball this season as the Intermediate League has put on a hard and fast rule that bars anyone that has ever played a Midland league game.

• • •

There will be no baseball at Riverside Park for a couple of weeks at least, as the outfield is flooded and it will be some time before the ground is dried up. The water is nearly into centre second base, as the result of last week's rise in the river.

• • •

The Midland League prospects are not bright according to the intelligence that comes from the headquarters of the league. Oshawa and Bowmanville do not seem anxious to come into the organization, and Port Hope and Cobourg would hardly make a league of themselves.

• • •

There is a feeling among a number of the ball tossers in the south end that with the available men organized into a good team, the pennant should make a sojourn in that part of the city. It is believed that the Intermediate League would be easier for the Lakeviews than last year, and they would go further up the ladder. It is up to those that intend to play and who have formed the old guard of that nine to reorganize at once and be prepared to give a good account of themselves when the season opens.

• • •

"All Saints Juniors of the Don Valley League, Toronto; would like to arrange a game of baseball for May 24th, with some fast junior team (average age 21). Please address all letters with full particulars to A. E. Gore, 98 Maitland st., Toronto.

• • •

Bill Metherall finds that he has to come back to the "Kindergarten League" as he has dubbed it, and reports that he will be present this evening. Well! Well!

WITH THE RUNNERS.

Here's to Alfie Shrubb! The great little Britisher justified the boasts of his many admirers and upheld his reputation as a speed marvel by trimming St. Yves in a fifteen mile race at New York on Saturday night, winning handily. His win should be most popular with every true lover of sport. The game little Alfie has hooked up with everybody that came along at every distance he was asked to travel, and in going out of his way he has been beaten twice at the Marathon distance. The way in which he took defeat on those occasions showed that he was a "sport" in the best sense of the word, and it is refreshing to hear of him triumphing at something near his own distance.

• • •

Sporting Editor of the Examiner:—
To decide a bet, kindly tell the winners of the three Senior Examiner Road Races with the times made by each.

Yours, MARATHON.

Answer:—
1906—Ray P. Best, Y.M.C.A. Harriers, 59.50.
1907—Ernie Wilson, Y.M.C.A. Harriers, 58.16.
1908—J. H. Adams, Y.M.C.A. Harriers, 58.55.

• • •

The Victoria Harriers will have a run out to-night, leaving their Club Rooms on Park street at 7.30 o'clock. All members are requested to turn out and any others wishing to join the club are cordially invited.

• • •

It is just possible that the Vics will be represented in the Marathon at Oshawa on May 24th. The valuable trophy offered for the event has been attracting considerable attention and there will be a big field of starters. If the Vics round into shape before the holiday they will likely send a representative. The distance is 15 miles.

• • •

The big event in sporting circles this week is the Canadian Derby on Saturday, and Peterborough followers of the game are asking themselves "Will Simpson right?" If the local Indian is right he should win on the bit, but there are some mighty dangerous men in the field. Hans Holmer is the man most to be feared. The Halifax lad chased Longboat hard in a 15-mile race at Montreal, and he showed great speed and stamina in the Hamilton Herald race when he led Simpson home. Sellen has decided to enter and he will be a contender for part of the way, but the distance looks too far for the gallant little Irish Canadian galloper, and he will probably blow up before the finish. Charlie Petch, who followed Longboat for twenty miles of the Boston Marathon and who finished sixth, has not done anything since and is not to be feared. The distance is too far for Fred Meadowes, although the Guelph boy will make things lively. Red Hawk the Midland Indian, is being touted as a good one, but John D. Marsh put him away recently, and Marsh is not a speed marvel by any means. Marsh is a plugger and may prove dangerous, but the race looks to be between Simpson and Holmer, with Sellen a contender part of the way and possibly Coley butting into the argument. At that there may be a St. Yves in the bunch that will trim the heads off the field.

DOINGS IN BIG LEAGUES

The Torontos jumped into second place in the Eastern League yesterday by beating the champion Baltimore team by 2 to 1 in an excellent game. The Kelleyites got but four singles, but it was enough to win for them. Moffitt pitched for Toronto and was touched up for nine safeties, but he kept them scattered and good fielding saved him. The Orioles did not score until the ninth.

Skeeters Keep On Winning

Jersey City still holds the lead, winning again yesterday from Montreal. The Royals got only four hits off Merritt, making only seven safeties in three days off the Skeeter's pitchers. Jersey City won out in the ninth yesterday by 4 to 3 in a red hot finish. Keefe pitched for the Royals and allowed eight hits.

Rochester Has a Hoodoo

Rochester's hoodoo seems to be still clinging to them. The Bronchos went twelve innings at a 7 to 7 ties with Newark yesterday, making three extra games out of four played for Rochester. Both teams played nice ball. The pitchers were McGinnity for Newark and Beecher and Holmes for Rochester.

Grays Beat Bisons.

Providence beat Buffalo 4 to 1, winning the game in the first innings, when they scored three runs and drove Kissenger off the slab, Allison finishing the game. Cronin pitched nice ball for the Grays.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE

The Chicago Cubs kept up their winning streak in the National by trimming Cincinnati 6 to 2, driving Campbell from the box in the second and sending Ragon off the field in the eighth. Overall pitched steady ball throughout.

Boston Won Slow Game

Boston beat New York in a slow game by 3 to 2. New York got men on bases frequently, but there was no one to hit in the pinches. Mattern pitched for Boston and Marquard and Wiltz for the Giants. The main feature was a collision between Seymour and Murray, the former having to drop out of the game.

Brooklyn's Misplays

Brooklyn made five errors against Philadelphia and the Phillies won 6 to 4, getting thirteen hits off Pitcher McIntyre. Brooklyn started a rally in the ninth but Covaleski went in with two on the bases and one out and kept them from scoring.

A Twelve Innings Fight

Pittsburg won a great twelve innings fight from St. Louis by 4 to 3. The Pirates led all the way until the ninth when Phillipe weakened and the Cardinals tied the score. The Pirates won out in the twelfth. St. Louis used Sallee, Moore and Lush, while Phillipe and Leifield worked for Pittsburg.

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE

Detroit regained the leadership of the American Yeague yesterday by trimming Cleveland and while Boston beat the Highlanders.

Bender held Washington to three hits and the Athletics beat the Senators 3 to 1. Burns was touched up pretty lively and was replaced by Groom. The fielding of Ganley and the hitting of Davis were the features.

Smith's Great Pitching

Frank Smith, pitching for Chicago, won his third victory in five days, the White Socks beating the Browns 1 to 0. It was a pitchers' battle between Smith and Powell, each of which allowed but two hits and did not give a base on balls. A single wild throw, a sacrifice and an infield out allowed Hohn to score the only run of the contest.

Red Socks Won 1 to 0

The Boston Red Socks beat the Highlanders by the same score 1 to 0, Chech holding the New York to two hits, while Boston got only three off Newton and Warhop.

Willett Outpitched Rhoades

Willett outpitched Rhoades and Detroit beat Cleveland 4 to 2. A muff by Hinchman in the ninth caused the Naps two runs and the game. Detroit had nine hits.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

LORAIN AMUSEMENT COMPANY.

A big audience saw the opening performance of the Lorain Amusement Company at the Grand Opera House last night. The bill put on was entirely new and pleased immensely. The wonder of local people is that the company can put on such a high-class show at such small prices. Little Vera Simmons sang "Won't You Be My Honey," and for an encore gave "Nothing's Too Good for the Irish," assited by Master Gordon Ball, in costume. The latter also sang "Harrigan," and brought down the house. Wygand and Wygand, in a new musical turn, made a big hit, xylophone and saxophone solos being features. A song by Mrs. Wygand, with cornet accompaniment by Mr. Wygand, was received with much applause. Four fine moving picture films were shown and several other specialties filled in nicely.

Performances will be given every night this week.

1909 STRAW HATS.

When the season for straw hats opens in the early part of the summer men will find quite a marked variation in the new styles as compared with what was in vogue in 1908. An Examiner reporter had a peek into the new stock of a George street hatter's classy stock for this year. The crowns are not as high and the brims are markedly wider. The tendency is toward the Merry Widow type, and it is felt that they will be very popular with young men who are particular about their appearance.

The split straw hat is very dainty in its new style and will be sought after by those who prefer this quality. The Senate straw is decidedly new and is worn extremely on Broadway. The members of the male chorus in 'The Soul Kiss' wore this hat and it was felt by those who recognized a novelty that it would meet the fancy of young Canadians.

The Panama hats have little or no variation and will enjoy the same distinction as in former years.

Annual Meeting Of Peterboro' Fuel and Cartage Company

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Company was held last night in the Bank of Montreal Chambers. There was a good attendance of the directors and shareholders who were well satisfied with the business during the past year. In spite of the fact that 1908 was a depressing year in the financial world it was one of the most successful in the history of the company. The company is in excellent condition, and prospects are very bright for the future.

A resolution of condolence was passed by the shareholders and directed to be sent to the wife and family of the late Alfred Parker, who was one of the company's directors.

The following officers and directors were elected:

President and Managing Director—Wm. Builer.

Vice-President—T. Hooper.

Secretary-Treasurer—E. K. Hopkins.

Directors—President, vice-president and Messrs. W. E. Talbot, Jas. Clancy, and R. C. Braund.

Young Man Was Heavily Fined For Reckless Driving Saturday

A young man was fined five dollars and costs amounting to $10:30 for reckless driving on Saturday evening last. He appeared before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning and pleaded not guilty. His Worship pointed out that it had been proven that the accused was unable to properly handle the horse and the result was that much injury was done to one of Mr. T. F. Matthews' horses.

P. Alexander swore that he saw the defendant on Saturday night on Brock street. He was driving in a two-wheeled cart. The horse was going from one side of the road to the other. It also ran on to the sidewalk. He couldn't say what was the condition of the young man driving.

A. T. Johnston saw the accused between 9 and 10 o'clock Saturday night. He semed to be sober. He was standing on the corner of Brock and Water streets.

P. C. Meharry saw him about 8:30 o'clock. He was drunk then. He was creating a disturbance and was placed under arrest.

Collegiate Institute Pupils To Produce Play Friday Night

The friends of the Collegiate Institute and the young students will have an opportunity of manifesting their interest in them and in their work on Friday evening, when a play will be produced entitled the "Scheming Lieutenant." The caste is composed entirely of students who have thoroughly rehearsed it. The cleverness of the pupils has been shown on more than one occasion, but this is practically a new departure and should be witnessed by a large assembly. The play is military in its setting and gives the cadets a chance to display the bearing that their drill instructor inisists upon.

The piece is said to be very interesting and those who have seen the pupils in debates and other work are hoping that they will maintain the distinction they have formerly won.

Council Is Willing To Allow Co. Another Year To Build

At the meeting of the Council last night a request from the Colonial Weaving Co. was dealt with. They have asked for another extension of time in the erection of their new building. This factory is to be built in the south end of the city on the lot on the corner of Rink and Rubidge streets. They have requested that the dates mentioned in the by-law be changed in order to give them an opportunity to defer building until next year.

City Solicitor Hall stated this could not be very well done, but the following resolution was passed:

Moved by Ald. Gillespie and Duncan that this Council express its willingness to apply for legislation to change the dates for the completion of the building, for having the factory in running order and in actual operation and for the commencement of the fixed assessment to 1910, instead of 1908, and the width of the building to be 50 feet and to change the number of hands to be employed to 50 for ten months in each year up to June 1st, 1910, and 60 hands after that date, provided the company deposits on or before June 1st, 1909, with the city $200, to be forfeited if they do not carry out the terms of the by-law as amended, or of the By-law as it now is, unless the Legislature authorizes the amendment.—Carried.

CHEMONG LAKE WATER IS HIGH

Old Resident of Bridgenorth States That Notch on Bridge Is Now Nearly Reached

A BOAT HOUSE AFLOAT.

Examiner Special.

Bridgenorth, April 27.—Down on the piers of the Chemong bridge several of the older residents of this village have recorded the highest levels of the water in the lake in those years, when it was exceptionally high. These old marks are the subject of much conjecture every spring as the water again begins to climb up the pier. The older men wonder if it will reach the highest notch or whether it will even seek a higher level. Last spring an exceptionally high level was reached. To-day the water is three inches lower than the highest mark, but unless it begins to recede in a day or so it is believed here that it will reach the record notch.

There is a great deal of driftwood in the lake. As the water slowly encroached on the land it gradually floated logs and loose wood which were carried into the lake. As the wind blows down the lake these logs are blown against the bridge and up on to it and some of the villagers make it a duty to keep it clear of this loose lumber. A number of boathouses along the shore are reported missing, having, like the Arabs, disappeared in the night.

NEW AMUSEMENT HOUSE CONTEMPLATED BY M. PAPPAS

A Ten Cent Vaudeville Next to the Royal Theatre

Mr. M. Pappas was asked to-day what progress he was making with his plans for enlarging the Royal Theatre. He informed the reporter that some important changes were being made from the first plans. He is now working on a new 10 cent vaudeville theatre in the premises next to the Royal, which is now occupied by Mr. Patterson's barber shop and pool room. The lease of these premises has over two months to run yet, but when it expires Mr. Pappas has the new amusement house in view. He believes that he can successfully run a good 10c vaudeville in connection with the 5c moving pictures. He says he expects to be able to seat 400 in the new theatre, with the addition of a gallery.

Mr. Pappas has moved all his pool tables from the Dolan property and stored them on the second floor over the Palace.

When asked if he thought there was room in Peterborough for another amusement house, he said he thought there was room for two or three more, judging by other cities of a similar size.

YOUNG SOCIETY GIRL RENOUNCED THE WORLD AND HER FRIENDS TO FOLLOW HER LOVER TO LEPER COLONY

The Pathetic Ending on the Dreary Rock of Molokai of an Extraordinary Romance of Renunciation Which Showed What a Woman Will Sacrifice for Love—Braved the Horrors of Leprosy and Finally Fell a Victim.

AN AWFUL PRICE FOR LOVE.

New York, April 27, 1909.

"Nellie is dead!"

These three words, received only the other day by cable from the lonely, dreary isle of Molokai, in the Pacific, where the lepers live, serve as the brief obituary of an American romance unparalleled perhaps in modern love stories. And a lonely grave somewhere among the Pacific Islands completely covers a really noble heart and marks finis to an act of supreme renunciation.

When in the late summer of 1906 Miss Nellie Mandara White, a niece of ex-Secretary of the Navy and ex-Governor of Massachusetts, John D. Long, and an heiress to millons, married Dr. Walter R. Brinkerhoff, of Honolulu, to say that society in the several cities was horrified is to put it mildly. Not at her marriage with the daring young pathologist mind you, but because, to live with and be always near the man she loved, she had decided to renounce all the comforts amid which she had been brought up, all her kindred, all her friends, all the mere joys of existence. He had determined in the enthusiasm of his calling to devote his life and his work to the cure if possible, if not to the care of the lepers of Molokai. Rather than be separated from him she had determined that her place was by his side. They saw that when her family bade her their farewells, it was like good-bye at a grave. Society declared grimly, "it is almost like falling in love with death itself." And so it was.

For two years and a half her life and his have been spent on that unspeakably wretched rock. It was a dismal spot for a honeymoon, Molokai, was it not? And she travelled 6,000 miles to meet her lover.

No details of her death have come yet to eke out the simple cable. One does not need these facts. It must have been a gloomy enough existence for this gently nurtured girl, yet she was never heard to complain, never to whimper at any of her everyday privations. Her husband's love covered her like a great coat. She sank her whole life into his ambition.

A Martyr for Love.

She died a simple martyr for the love of her husband and those dead-in-life creatures that haunt the island. They fairly worshipped her. And now they have lost their Angel of Light, as they called her.

All this time she had been perfectly contented in this forsaken abomination of desolation. Assisting her husband in his laboratories and his cultures, nursing, disinfecting, burying—one drab day like this passed just like the one before it.

During the spring before they were married Dr. Brinkerhoff had made a journey to the Hawaiian Islands on the most doleful, loathsome mission that the United States Government ever sent a man—to take charge of the leper colony of Molokai Island. It was here that Father Damien sacrificed his life after nineteen years in ministering to the lepers.

Yet young Dr. Brinkerhoff of Harvard, willingly, eagerly accepted the Government's call for a man who would dare to enter this plague spot and try to find a remedy for this unconquered malady, the dread of the whole human race.

When he reached Honolulu, before entering upon his appalling mission, he was invited to the home of Mr. James B. Castle, one of the wealthiest sugar planters on the islands. Kiamesha, his place was called. It was a lordly house, built upon the coral rocks overlooking the tropical sea. Here Mr. and Mrs. Castle held a sort of island court, entertaining in Oriental magnificence distinguished travellers from all parts of the world.

At the same time Mrs. Castle's sister, Miss Nellie Mandara White, of Winchendon, Mass., happened to be there on a visit too. Miss White met Dr. Brinkerhoff as one of her sister's guests. The nature of his mission at first awed her. It seemed like courting a thousand deaths.

Miss White had mingled much with the world. As a niece of ex-Secretary of the Navy, John D. Long, she had associated with the diplomatic set at Washington during the latter part of McKinley's administration and the early part of Roosevelt's. She had passed several seasons at Newport and had been a prominent figure in the American colony at Paris. But in all her travels she had never met a man like Dr. Brinkerhoff, who thought so little of himself, and was so absorbed in doing something for humanity. He was so different from the selfish, trifling type of men of the world who frequent courts and social centres. They repelled rather than attracted the soft-hearted New England girl.

As she listened to the young enthusiast tell in his glowing words of all his high hopes and aspirations, she hung on to his words like Desdemona on Othello's. Under the calm and the lazulite skies of the Pacific as he more and more unfolded his plans each day the young woman felt somehow touched as she had never been before. And so it was that the very mission dreary enough as it might seem to almost any mortal of a sudden took on an aspect something like perfect rapture, for she said she would go, too. His unselfish zeal and pure altruism had completely won her love and admiration.

In casting her lot with his she said that death would be but a small and insignificant sacrifice if by even that she would add one jot to the service of science, and to humanity.

From this time on the whole thought and plans of her life were dedicated to his noble dream, as she regarded it. To live her life among lepers with man she loved became her sole aspiration.

"Greater love hath no man than this," he said gravely.

Awfulness of Leprosy

The life that lay spread before the the high-hearted bride of Dr. Brinkerhoff would appal the staunchest soul. It was the bleakest, blackest aspect, without any high life except the love of each other that lay within their hearts.

Hear what Father Damien, who spent nineteen years among the Molokai lepers, and finally died a leper himself, had to say of leprosy.

"Discolored patches appear on the skin, especially on the cheeks and the parts affected lose their feeling. After a time this discoloration covers the whole body. Then ulcers begin to open, chiefly at the extremities. The flesh is eaten away and gives out a fetid odor. Even the breath of the leper becomes so foul that the air around is poisoned with it."

Mrs. Alice Hayes, the brave English woman physican who worked for years among the lepers of India, wrote of the disease:

"Not a single organ in the whole body is exempt from the attacks and inroads of this loathsome malady. It invades the brain, spinal nerves, the eyes, tongue and throat, the lungs, liver and other digestive organs. It maims and deforms the external parts of the body in a manner too revolting to describe.

"It produced such a taste in my mouth after breathing the air exhaled by the lepers that I had to smoke a pipe or a cigar."

Mrs. Hayes expressed the belief, after many years of work among the lepers and trying all kinds of medicines, that leprosy was absolutely incurable.

These were the hopeless conditions that Dr. Brinkerhoff and his bride set out to face on the island of Molokai. The young physician's almost daily round would be among the lepers taking cultures from the most horrible wounds, making injections into poor, diseased bodies that bear little resemblance to the human form—in the hope always of finding some means of prevention or cure of the awful scourge. Her daily life would be by his side.

She was considered one of the most attractive young women in Washington, and as such was called upon to christen the torpedo boat Blakely at its launching on November 22, 1902.

This was the young woman who put aside social ambition and joined hands with a poor young doctor to uplift and, if possible, save the most horribly afflicted of the human race.

When her engagement and her contemplated renunciation of the world was cabled to her old friends in Massachusetts they were simply stunned at first. To lose their "angel" was in itself a calamity. To think that she was going to link her life and fortune with a man who seemed doomed to a horrible and untimely death seemed unspeakably terrible.

"Yet it is just what I should think Nellie White would do if love and duty called her," said one of her old friends with tears in her eyes. "No sacrifice would be too great for her."

Cap and Bells

By CASPAR JOHNSON.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

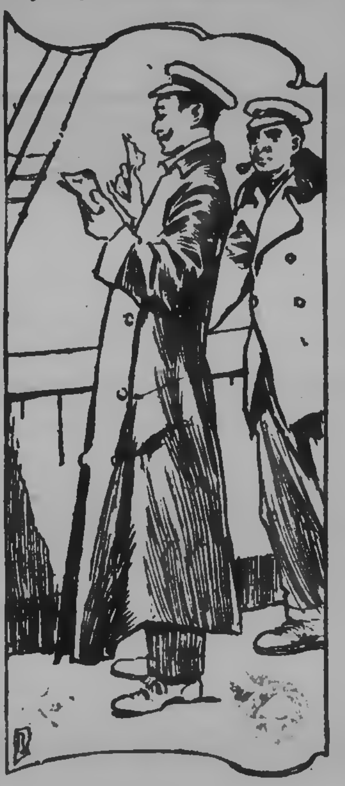
Ferrol's experience with women had been limited. Had it been otherwise he would never have been beating up the coast in the teeth of a rising gale with night coming on and his sailing master casting an anxious eye, now aloft at the straining rigging, now to the eastern horizon, where the dun gray cloud bank grew hourly more ominous.

The big white yacht made heavy weather of it under her four reefs. She stuck her nose into every sea and sent the water flying over her windward rail in a manner that drenched every man on her deck.

"Better put into Indian bay," the sailing master suggested.

Ferrol, standing by the after rail, grunted something that the sailing master took for acquiescence, for he gave a terse order to the man at the wheel. The yacht came about with a rattle and banging that shook her from stem to stern and went careening shoreward.

Ferrol watched the ragged blue black outline of the shore grow more pronounced as they neared it. Presently they were threading their way through the score of rocky little islands behind which lay the quieter water of Inland bay.



FERROL TORE IT OPEN AND READ.

Although the wind was screaming through the rigging and the great seas that rushed past them were flecked with an angry white foam, he was loath to run for shelter. This combination of wild water and wilder wind suited his mood admirably.

As far as he was concerned personally, he was willing to take his chances of riding it out or sinking, it mattered but little one way or the other to him.

Still, he had no right to sacrifice the sailing master and the men because a woman had made a fool of him. He drew out a fresh cigar and lighted it from the stump of the one he had just consumed.

She had made a fool of him. There was no doubt about that. She had led him on and on—him, John Barrows Ferrol, the conservative, the man who had always vaunted that he was immune from the wiles of woman, and then she had tossed him aside calmly like any toy that had lost its novelty.

He chewed his mustache nervously, and swore under his breath. What sort of spell had she cast over him? He ought to hate her, yet in his inmost heart he knew that even now he loved her with all the intensity of his nature.

The little islands slipped past one by one. The yacht ceased her wild plunging and entered the quiet water of the bay sedately. A few sharp orders from the sailing master and the sails came rattling down and the anchor was dropped with a clatter of cable.

Before them the shore was dotted with twinkling lights that shone cheerfully through the murky gloom of the gray twilight. The rain was beginning to fall in long, slanting lines. Ferrol still stood by the rail, smoking and absorbed in his own bitter thoughts.

He would send her a message. He would not let her know how deeply he was hurt, but he would let her know that he understood now the whole import of their little affair. He turned to the sailing master, who was preparing to go below.

"Order the gig lowered, Mr. McGraw," he said tersely. "I'm going ashore."

During that pull shoreward Ferrol was turning over in his mind the message he would send, and from somewhere in the archives of his memory came a quotation from Sir Launfal that fitted his needs to a nicety. It set him smiling angrily as he sat in the stern sheets of the gig, the tiller ropes in either hand.

He landed at the little pier and plashed through the mud and rain to the nearest hotel. At the telegraph desk he filled out a blank:

Miss Annette V. Morley, Hotel Jackson, Wanona Beach:
For a cap and bells our lives we pay.
Bubbles we buy with a whole soul's tasking.

Then he went back to the yacht, smoked awhile, pacing the wet, dreary deck, and finally went below. He tumbled on to a wide leather seat that ran the length of the cabin and went over it all again and again—their walks, their drives, their little quarrels, the happiness that had been his until that last bitter night—until at last, soothed by the monotonous drip-drip of the rain, he fell into a doze.

He was awakened by a hail from the darkness outside. The light was burning dimly. The brass chronometer above the chart locker showed that it was nearly midnight. He hurried to the deck and found a launch chafing alongside.

"This the Alfrida?" cried a voice in the launch.

"Yes. What is it?"

"Mr. Ferrol aboard?"

"I am Mr. Ferrol."

"Telegram for you, sir," said a man, scrambling aboard and handing him a yellow envelope, which was addressed, "Mr. J. B. Ferrol, Yacht Alfrida, Indian Bay."

Ferrol tore it open and read "Better read the next line."

That was all, save the heading, "Hotel Jackson, Wanona Beach."

He stood there for a moment frowning in puzzled fashion. Then, like a flash, the text of that next line came to him, "'Tis heaven alone that is given away."

"Any answer, sir?" asked the waiting man.

Ferrol seemed suddenly aware of his presence.

"Eh? No. Hold on a minute, though. Is there any train out of here before morning? I've got to get to Wanona Beach at once. One at 12.40, you say? Wait just a minute till I have a word with Mr. McGraw, and then set me ashore, will you?"

Ten minutes later the sailing master stood by the rail listening to the launch chugging shoreward through the darkness. As he started to go below again he saw the sheet of yellow telegraph paper lying on the deck. He picked it up and read it.

"That next line, whatever it is, must be a corker," he chuckled as he went down the companionway.

Skin Diseases.

A diseased or disfigured skin will always leave its stamp on the mind of the individual. Many people suffering from disfiguring skin diseases avoid society and lose all pride in their personal appearance. When the skin breaks out in eruptions and sores it is due entirely to an impure condition of the blood.

In all such cases Burdock Blood Bitters will quickly purify the blood and drive all the impurities out of the system.

ITCHING RASH CURED.

Mrs. J. J. Magee, Jr., Kinmount, Ont., writes: "In the spring of 1906 I was troubled with a Rash that broke out all over me. It was the worst on my face and head, had a dry, scaly top, and when I would get warm it would become very itchy. I tried the doctor's medicine but it did me no good, so I then got one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and before it was all used the Rash was entirely gone."

SORES ON FACE.

Mrs. Harvey Barkhouse, Gold River, N.S., writes: "I was greatly troubled with Sores on my face and finally became so bad I had to go to the doctor about it, but he could do nothing to help me.

"I thought about Burdock Blood Bitters and decided to try a bottle. I cannot recommend B.B.B. enough, as I had not taken all the bottle before my face was cured."

MILLION-ACRE FARM.

Prince Edward Island Is Often Called the Garden of the Gulf.

The Dominion of Canada is said to be the brightest gem in Britain's crown, and Prince Edward Island, its smallest province, situate in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, is known as the "Garden of the Gulf." This appellation, however, is appropriate only during the summer months, for in winter the "Million Acre Farm," as Senator Howlan immortalized it, when referring to his native province on a notable occasion in Parliament, with its 110,000 inhabitants, is a veritable "Lady of the Snows."

By the terms under which the Island Province entered into the Confederation compact with the Dominion in 1873 it was stipulated that the Dominion should provide "efficient and continuous steam communication between the island and the mainland winter and summer"; but although in a measure satisfied the attempts made have never yet been successful through a whole year.

To keep up communication across Northumberland Straits, and thus carry out the Confederation agreement the Dominion Government provided the Northern Light, Stanley and Minto at successive periods during the last quarter of a century. The Northern Light, the first winter steamer, was not specially built for this service.

In 1887 the Federal Government sent Captain McElhinney, nautical adviser of the Marine Department, to Europe to study the conditions of ice navigation, and from the information thus obtained the Stanley was evolved. She was completed the following year, and arrived in Charlottetown Dec. 14, 1888.

Protestations from the Boards of Trade and the Local Government, and also from public meetings calling for fulfilment of the Terms of Union, were an annual occurrence and thus, in the closing year of the last century, the Government of Canada was moved towards further improving the service, and had the Minto specially designed. She was built for the express purpose of keeping up communication between Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia during winter, and arrived in Charlottetown on the 14th September, 1899.

A Busy Holiday.

"Naw, I don't think Timmy 'll be stayin' long on this new job he's took up wid," said Mrs. Herlihy. "'Tis too harrd fer him. Sure, he gets no rist at all from Monda' mornin' till Sathurda' night, and 'tis not what the man's used to."

"He has his Sundays to rist in," hazarded the caller boldly.

"An' what o' that?" said Mrs. Herlihy. "On Sunda's he has to go to church an' take the children to their grandmama's an' visit wid his coosins an' all—'tis no rist at all."

"'Twas wan day out of ivery fortnit he had wid the ould job, wa'n't it?" queried the caller.

"It was," said Mrs. Herlihy, "an' 'twas a grand vacation he had. I'd save ivery bit o' the washin', and he'd wring it out fine an' hang it on the line for me; thin he'd saw an' shplit wood enough to last till the nixt vacation day, an' he'd bate ivery mat in the house an' shine up the faucets an' the b'iler an' wash the windys, an' there'd always be some little exthra help, drivin' nails or the like, he cud give me.

"An' whin he'd go to his bed at night he'd niver fail to say to me, 'Well, Celia, my vacation day is over, but I feel like it's made me ready to go back to wurrk tomorrer,' he'd say." —Youth's Companion.

The Timidity.

Her Mother—Mabel, dear, do you ever feel timid about asking your husband for money?

The Bride—No, indeed, mamma, but he seems to be rather timid about giving it to me.—Exchange.

Dickie—Yes, ma; there were seven other boys lookin' through the window at me.

ADJOURNED TILL THURSDAY.

Divisional Court Will Hear Application In Kinrade Case.

Toronto, April 27.—By consent of the crown, Justice Teetzel yesterday granted the application of George Lynch-Staunton, K.C., acting for the Kinrade family, for a writ of certiorari.

"I direct that a writ of certiorari should be issued," said Justice Teetzel, "reserving all the objections offered by the crown returnable to the Divisional Court, which is now sitting. This may mean an adjournment of the inquest at Hamilton, but it cannot be helped."

To-morrow is appointed for the hearing, the object of the writ being to quash the warrant issued by Coroner Anderson for the attendance of Florence Kinrade as a material witness at the inquest on the death of her sister. The inquest, which was to have been resumed last night, will not be proceeded with before Thursday evening.

Mr. Staunton took the bull by the horns in addressing Justice Teetzel in support of his application. He spoke with considerable heat, which increased as he proceeded.

"No language can describe the infamy of those proceedings. If there is any power in the law to protect the rights of the citizen, it is called for to-day. The coroner sits there at the inquest and does absolutely nothing. We might just as well have one of the policemen in charge of the case there.

"The girl faints twice in the stand. She has sworn on either examination that she has told all she knows and the exact truth. My lord, they asked her things that should make the men there hide their heads in shame.

"They asked her questions that would tend to destroy all the character of every member of the Kinrade family."

Burglars Around London.

London, Ont., April 27.—A gang of expert housebreakers who worked Strathroy on Friday night, made a rich haul in South London on Saturday night and Sunday morning, and the police have notified Hamilton and Toronto that the men headed that way.

In the house of James Fox the thieves worked all around the bedrooms where Mrs. Fox and her daughters lay sick, and finally awakened her. The woman screamed for help, and the husband chased the men with a gun.

The principal office of the company is not stated, and according to the certificate, the company is to begin business with $700.

Jap Fleet In Yankee Waters.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 27.—For the first time in ten years warships of Japan entered a Pacific coast port of the United States, when the cruisers Soy and Aso, comprising the Japanese training squadron, commanded by Rear-Admiral Ijichi, steamed into San Pedro Sunday. The Aso is the flagship of Admiral Ijichi, a veteran of the war with Russia. The squadron will visit Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle and Victoria, and possibly other ports.

Miner's Head Blown Off.

Cobalt, April 27.—George Watson was instantly killed on Saturday night while drilling in the McKinley-Darragh mine. He worked into a misfired hole and an explosion followed. When found practically the whole of the unfortunate man's head had been blown away.

Although Watson had only been with the McKinley-Darragh people since Friday, he had worked in the mines since he was 14.

Burglars' Long Sentences.

New York, April 27.—Following his imposition a week ago of a 49-year term in Sing Sing on Hyman Gritzhandler for attempted burglary, Justice Dike yesterday imposed a sentence of 34 years upon Meyer Krinick, Gritzhandler's partner. The two men, who were caught picking a lock of a policeman's apartments, are charged by the police with being perpetrators of more than one hundred burglaries.

10,000,000 Tons of Coal.

Wilkes-Barre, April 27.—It is reported that there are some ten million tons of coal in storage and unsold. This coal costs the companies about $2.50 a ton at the mines, eight cents a ton storage and the transportation charges, so they will naturally dispose of it before mining much more.

Did Castro Bury Gold?

Caracas, Venezuela, April 25, via Port of Spain, April 27.—It is persistently reported here that Cipriano Castro left a fortune in gold buried in Caracas. If this is so, it explains Castro's lack of funds and his anxiety to get back to Venezuela.

LUCKY MR. BROWN.

If it had not been for "Fruit-a-tives," Mr. Lemuel Brown, of Avondale, N.B., would still be living on stale bread and porridge, and suffering tortures with Indigestion.

His stomach was so weak that he had to give up all kinds of meats, potatoes and other vegetables, and even deny himself the comforts of a cup of tea. Fortunately, Mr. Brown read about "Fruit-a-tives," bought a box and was so much improved by taking the tablets, that he used four boxes altogether. "I have been a great sufferer from Indigestion for fifteen years. About two years ago, I read about Fruit-a-tives and concluded to give them a trial. I used nearly four boxes of "Fruit-a-tives" and they have made me feel like a new man. I can eat all kinds of hearty foods and enjoy tea and coffee." This is not a rare case, but the regular experience of everyone who uses "Fruit-a-tives" for Weak Stomach, Indigestion and Dyspepsia. Try them. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. Ottawa, April 27.—The daylight saving bill was passed yesterday morning by the special committee dealing with it, and reported favorably to the House. Whether it gets through this session, however, is doubtful.

The act, which does not apply to the Yukon Territory, now provides that from 2 o'clock a.m. in the first Sunday of November of next year, the time shall be one hour in advance of the ordinary standard time now in use, and shall be standard time. It is intended to come into force in 1910.

Nineteen Boards of Trade have concurred in the proposal, while seven municipalities protest against the innovation.

Murderous Women Caught.

St. Petersburg, April 27.—A band of female cut-throats who for many months past have been committing a series of murders, were discovered and arrested Sunday in the village of Kurchino, 30 miles from St. Petersburg.

The principal culprits are a mother and her two daughters, who kept a tavern. Assisted by other women in the village they murdered travelers who stopped at the inn for the night, disfiguring the bodies beyond recognition, and then threw them into a rapidly flowing stream that passed near the inn.

Many of these corpses were found, but the distance of the village was so great that suspicions never centered there.

Two Years For Bigamy.

St. Catharines, April 27.—Walter Blizzard, in custody for several weeks on a charge of bigamy, yesterday reverted his plea of not guilty and was sentenced by Judge Carman to two years in penitentiary.

Blizzard had been relying on the fact that witnesses, particularly Rev. Mr. Gates, who performed his third marriage, had refused to come to give evidence. It was only when the crown attorney had taken out a commission to have the evidence as to Blizzard's three marriages taken at Niagara Falls, and Lockport, that he gave up.

Bridge Falls; Two Drown.

Madoc, April 27.—Yesterday morning about 11 o'clock, as Jerry Clark and his wife were driving over the county bridge crossing Black Creek, about two miles south of Queensboro, the bridge was swept away by the rapids.

Both occupants and the horse were drowned.

The Clarks leave two children about 8 and 10 years of age.

It is reported that this bridge was condemned last fall, and timber to repair it was provided and on the ground.

To Prevent Desertions.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 27.—Captains of the fleet held here by the ice blockade have adopted a unique plan to prevent desertions by members of the crew or attempts of unionists to cause trouble. Instead of tying up at the piers, many of the boats have anchored in the middle of the river and no sailors are given shore leave. The boats tied up at the piers permit no visitors aboard. One captain has a big smallpox placard exposed to prevent intrusiveness.

Reduction of Rates.

Washington, April 27.—An important series of rates was yesterday filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission affecting westbound traffic to Pacific coast terminals. WE ALL USE PE-RU-NA IN OUR HOME

Who is best able to judge of the value of Pe-ru-na? The housewife who has used it in her home for years, or prejudiced, sensational writers who have never used Pe-ru-na in their lives? It will not take any fair-minded reader a minute to decide which is the best evidence. The mothers of the United States believe in Pe-ru-na. The half million women who praise Pe-ru-na receive no pay for doing so, and the half dozen editors who disparage Pe-ru-na get big pay for doing so. Which is the best evidence?

Sore Throat for Years.

Mrs. C. Dashel, 394 Irving Avenue, Chicago, Ill., Curator Natural History Society, writes:

"I am glad to be able to recommend Peruna for chronic sore throat. I had been troubled with sore throat for years, but could find nothing to help me. I had an awful gagging in the morning and was subject to dizzy spells. I could not draw a free breath and life had no pleasure for me. My throat was dry and parched.

"I supposed I was doomed to spend the rest of my days in this condition, when I heard what good Peruna had been to others, so I tried a bottle of it. After using it I was much better and six bottles of it cured me.

"I cannot say too much for Peruna, and I hope that some poor sufferer like myself will see this and give it a trial."

Now Eats and Sleeps Well.

Mrs. Annie Tesch, 337 23rd Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., writes: "When I wrote to you for advice, my health was a total wreck. I could not sleep and thought I would die, as there seemed to be no help for me. But I followed your advice and took Peruna and Manalin.

"I am now cured. I can eat and sleep well, and enjoy life.

"I never will be without Peruna, should any of us be sick."

Catarrh of Worst Form.

Mrs. Amanda Long, 7237 Sceley Avenue, Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I believe that I am cured of catarrh of the worst form and of long standing.

"I was almost a total wreck. I tried almost everything and doctored with a number of doctors, but they did me no good.

"I tried Peruna as a last resort, and by the time I had taken one bottle I could see that it was helping me, and so I continued taking it. I can say now that I have not felt the slightest symptoms for three months, and I think there is nothing like Peruna. I still keep it in the house, and think there is no medicine like it. I cannot praise it too highly, and bless the day that I learned of it."

Mrs. Judge J. F. Boyer, 1421 Sherman Avenue, Evanston, Ill., writes that several complications united in pulling her down, and she thanks Peruna for new life and strength.

Pain in the Stomach.

Mrs. Mois Parizeau, Ste. Julie de Vercheres, P. Q., Canada, writes that she suffered five years with pain in the stomach. The pains extended through her body, and she also had difficulty in breathing. Her husband heard of Peruna and bought five bottles. This treatment virtually cured her.

Acute Indigestion.

Mr. John C. Russell, 810 County Street, Portsmouth, Va., writes regarding his wife's case as follows:

"I thought it would be doing but justice to your great medicine to tell you what it has done for my wife.

"Two years ago the doctor called at our house, on an average, three times a week, in attendance upon my wife, who was suffering from acute indigestion. Her suffering was so great that nothing but morphine would give her relief.

"While on a visit to some friends in Norfolk she had an attack and I prepared to go for the doctor, when our friend proposed Peruna. I gave her a dose, repeating it in a half hour, and her pains passed away. Since that time my wife has gained thirty pounds.

Gained Thirty Pounds.

"We are never out of Peruna. When the children or I have a cold we take some of mamma's Peruna. I find it has cut my doctor bills down to almost nothing."

Pe-ru-na for Her Children.

Mrs. Alice Bogle, 803 Clinton St., Circleville, Ohio, writes:

"I want to inform you what Peruna has done for me.

"I have been afflicted with catarrh for several years. I have tried different medicines and none seemed to do me any good until I used Peruna. I have taken six bottles and can praise it very highly for the good it has done me.

"I also find it of great benefit to my children."

Bass' Barley Wine

Makes An Ideal Tonic

Bass' Barley Wine
THE KING OF TONICS
Bass & Co
BURTON

Anyone who has used most of the so-called malt extracts knows how insipid and tasteless they are.

A decoction of sugar, water and bitters has about the same flavor as some of these preparations,—and about the same value.

This is because they are made from the refuse of the malt and hops after the brewing has taken place.

The result is they are lacking in body, insipid to the taste, and almost devoid of nutritive principles.

Anyone who has used them will verify these statements.

Bass' Barley Wine is a genuine extract of malt.

It is made by Bass & Co. from pure barley malt and hops, not from by-products.

To prevent any possibility of fermentation taking place, Bass' Barley Wine is matured for three years in casks.

It is then bottled and when opened contains nothing but the purest extract of barley malt and hops.

While this wine is not generally known in Canada, it is recognized in England as being the highest class preparation that Bass & Co. manufacture.

As a tonic in cases of dyspepsia, recovery from illness, a run down condition of the system, nervousness, insomnia, etc., it has no equal.

It can be readily assimilated by the most delicate stomach as it is partly digested and its taste and flavor are most agreeable.

Bass' Barley Wine costs 30 cts. a bottle

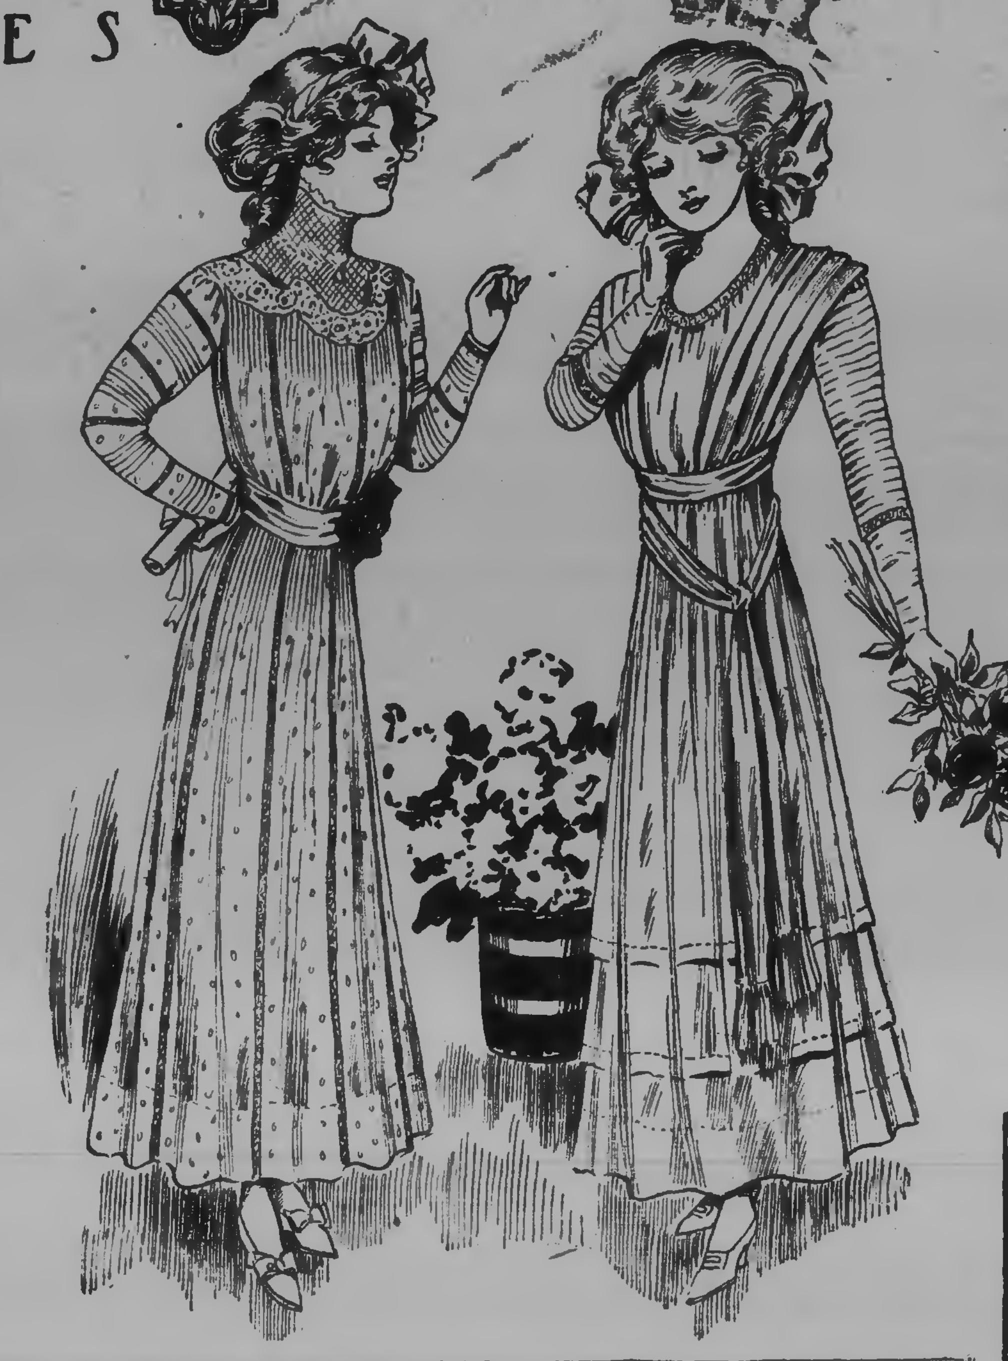
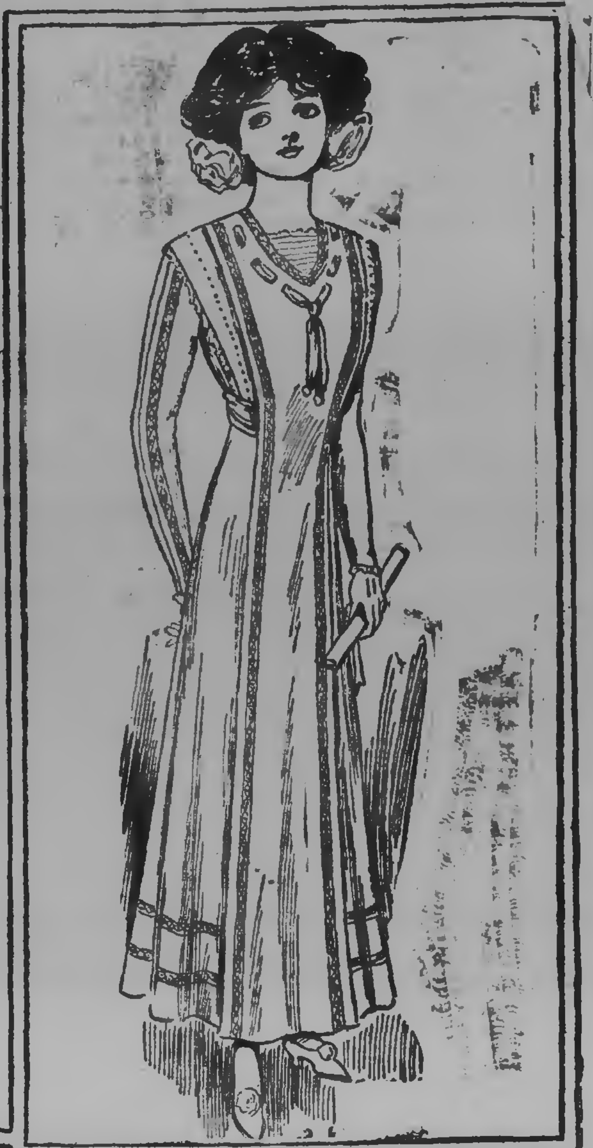
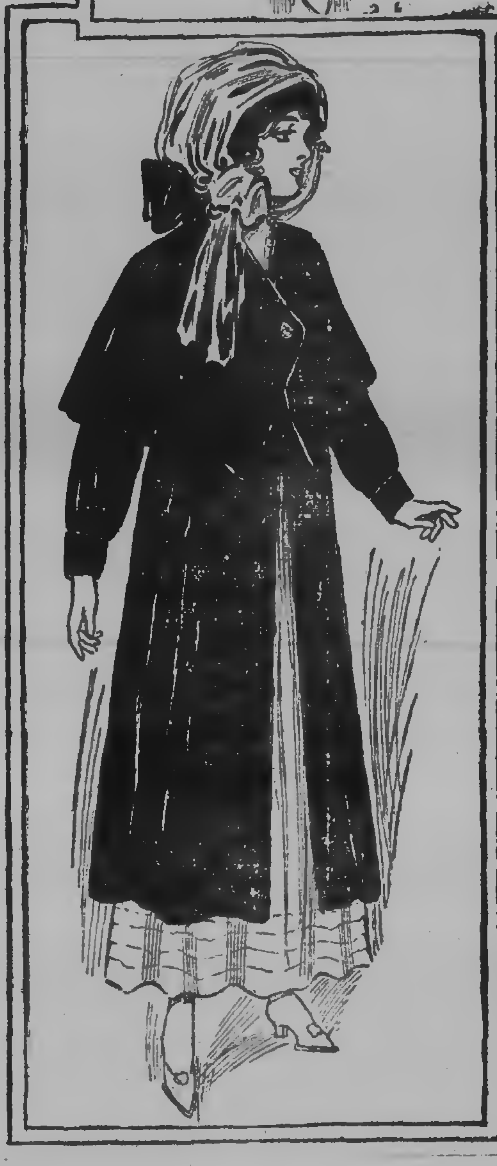
GRADUATION FROCKS IN DAINTY & ORIGINAL DESIGNS







TRADITION has kept the graduation dress, like the bridal gown, white, and surely custom has done well in this instance, for one would have to travel far to view a more lovely picture than is made by the senior class at any school or college commencement, the sweet girl graduates in their soft, cool white frocks making a sight good indeed to look upon.

But while custom has placed the wedding dress and the graduation gown in the same category—has demanded, in other words, that they should be of white as emblems of simplicity, purity and youth—it has given to each a distinction and individuality of its own. While the bridal gown shall be of satin and real lace of textures as priceless and as rare as are procurable, the gown for the girl graduate must in every way typify the charm of simplicity. It must be of sheer, delicate fabric, not heavy satin, and its adornment, while of lace and embroidery perhaps, must be of a kind that is not too rich or costly. While the bride represents all of joy and happiness in life, the girl graduate has yet to learn of pleasure outside the attainments in the schoolroom.

Commencement and graduation frocks were never more fascinatingly pretty than this year, and the graceful, clinging lines of the gowns of the present season are destined to lend to the final school and college exercises an unwonted charm. Long waisted "panier" costumes may be upon us in the autumn. Unquestionably this will be the style of gown that will be fashionable in a few months' time, but the summer gowns still show soft, clinging effects, which, moderated from the modes of the early winter, are singularly becoming to all of slender build. Another point which enhances the beauty of the newest frocks of organdie and silk mousseline is the increased length of the waist line—not yet quite normal, but sufficiently long to be universally becoming and to give a peculiarly good line about the hips, with the long train skirt to add considerably to the stature of the wearer.

It would be impossible for sheer summer materials to be made up with the narrow clinging lines of the cloth gowns of last winter—the effect would be most awkward—but bands of insertion and even of tucks and plaits are now so cleverly added that there will be just enough fulness and flare to be becoming without any suspicion of a full waist being given. Of the newest skirts many show gathering and shirring below the belt, but, strange to say, this trimming seems to increase the width of the skirt little, if any. The art of having the under petticoats most carefully fitted has been learned at last, and it is doubtful whether this will ever be forgotten, so that even when the "paniers" really come in once more there will be no effect of exaggerated width about the hips. The importance of having all under skirts perfectly fitted cannot be too strongly impressed, for even for the most slender figure an enormous difference in the fit and hang of the gown will be made by the under skirt fitting well or ill.

There is little or no blouse to the thin gowns this year, all fitting with unusual trimness. In fact, one thing that must be guarded against in the clothes for young girls is the tendency of the straight narrow lines to produce an overangular effect that is far from becoming. Never were there so few ruffles or flounces of any description upon the gowns as at present, and the long tight sleeves all make toward the same goal of excessive narrowness. There are, however, caps at the top of a few of the new sleeves; others show a cape effect of lace or embroidery that will often make a gown of sheer material more becoming.

The materials most popular for graduation gowns which have been proved the most attractive are all the sheerest so called wash materials—organdie, fine lawn, French mull, batiste, crystalline, &c. Chiffon and net both make exquisitely pretty gowns, but require a certain degree of elaboration that rather takes away from the desired effect. It is the so called lingerie gown, which term covers as wide a field as does that of shirt waist dress, which makes the most at*tractive and the most appropriate* commencement gown, for it may embody at once an exquisite daintiness and perfection of detail with an appearance of utmost simplicity.

Hand embroidery is still as much in favor as ever for all summer dresses, but there are many lingerie gowns trimmed only with lace and hand tucking that are quite as effective as those showing the more costly raised embroidery.

Handwork for sheer fabrics as organdie and batiste is almost essential, and a gown would be better absolutely untrimmed than adorned with countless rows of tucks or of lace insertions all of machine work. Cheap lace too is the greatest mistake, and the smallest piece of real lace or good imitation will make a handsomer gown than will yards of poor lace. This year, when all gowns are so extremely simple in effect, there is no excuse for quantities of machine tucking and cheap lace.

The average gown of sheer texture will be improved with a ribbon belt and long sash ends. The new Directoire belts that reach very nearly to the natural waist line, being straight all around, not sloped up in the back as formerly, are extremely pretty. These fasten in the back a little to one side in a soft loop, from which long, carelessly knotted ends hang down to within a few inches of the hem of the dress. On the lawn and mousseline gowns soft satin or taffeta ribbons are equally pretty. With several sashes of different colors the effect of the gown can be altered when desired, as it is worn throughout the summer.

It has been found most satisfactory on the whole to make gowns of sheer texture all in one piece, the joining at the waist being disguised by a band of embroidery or lace. Some few are made with waist and skirt separate, the bodice terminating in a tightly fitting one inch band, to which the skirt is hooked in several places. Unless it is desired to have two waists, a high and low cut bodice for the same skirt, it is infinitely better not to separate the two parts of the dress.

As a graduating class is viewed as a whole, each member being an individual to her friends and relatives only, it is a pity that many of the minor details of the girls' gowns should not be planned more in unison than is generally the case. Were this done an infinitely better effect would be the result. In regard to the length of the skirt, for example, there seems always to be the greatest divergence of opinion, yet this is a detail which does much to make or mar the whole picture of the class as it walks to the platform to take part in the commencement exercises.

In many instances a girl dons her first train on her graduation day, and this is a delightful time to select. Others still apparently prefer to wear gowns just clearing the ground until the winter when the formal début in the social world is to be made. The result is a most awkward picture of two girls walking together, one with an enormous length of train, while the other's skirt reaches barely below her ankles. It would really be well for the president of every graduating class in every school or college the country over to call a meeting and bring before the members this question. All might cast their votes as to the length of skirt they desire to wear and a compromise could then be effected. Matters of far less importance than this are brought before special meetings of the class, and the president who desires her class to appear more favorably than any preceding her year will not fail to bring up this matter.

Another point is in regard to the slippers and stockings. Black patent leathers or white look equally well, but all should certainly be the same, and here is a second question for class compromise.

Again the matter of sleeves has a far re important bearing on the effect of t class as a whole than would be th ght possible by any one who has ne r attended a class commencement. Tra tion has barred the wearing of glov on commencement day, and the gow with short sleeves look far from attra e beside those finished with long sheer ffs. Long sleeves are of course most hionable at present for all gowns e those finished with collarless yokes, a with the Dutch neck one sees about an ual number of short and long sleeves. collarless yoke is delightfully comfortab n warm weather and if at all becom is extremely pretty for a simple sum gown. It is not necessary, howev for a frock finished with a Dutch nec to have the elbow length sleeve, so tha nless the majority favor it long sleeve d best be decided upon for all. No n with a high collar must have sho sleeves, and there will undoubtedly b nany in the class to whom a collarle gown is unbecoming. Although the Du necks are so popular at the momen till whenever a collar is worn it m be unusually high, preferably straight nd be boned and fitted to perfection.

New Way to U Photographs.

A GIRL who is fixin a bedroom in a new home or rede ting an old one can get a most ori effect by having a row of photogr around the room, just as a row of t is sometimes put above a wainscoting This is a bit of decoration that can one by the owner herself and can b ranged entirely according to her own e.

If the room is furnished ue or any color with which the blue wi it is best to use blue prints. They be of a uniform size, the most conve t being the ordinary "four by five" o small cameras. If a girl takes photog s herself she will have no trouble etting all she wants, but if not she will ably have plenty of friends to supply with photographic records of their ner vacations. It will give an added est to arrange the pictures in groups by different friends.

The pictures should be tacked or pe to the wall all around the room, abou the level with the eye; then a blue g or narrow ribbon must be tacked straig around at both top and bottom of the r and pieces of the gimp up and down between the pictures. The whole effect wil be like tiles.

Another very attractive arrangement of photographs can be used where blue will not tint the color scheme of the room. In this case, fasten a band of linen of the desired color around the room at the proper height, with a row of gimp at the top and bottom. Have the photographs the usual gray or brown prints and fasten them on the linen with brass-headed tacks, leaving a little space between them and also having the linen band somewhat wider than the height of the pictures. The linen makes a specially pretty background for the photographs.

For the Afternoon Tea.

COLLEGE girls who make a practice of frequently giving luncheons and teas in their own apartments find their labors greatly mitigated by the use of small two burner alcohol stoves. These stoves are of japanned metal or nickel and have lamps of such large flame that they will rapidly cook anything that is put into chafing dishes or saucepans of an ordinary size. To keep the plates and various dishes hot while some other portion of the collation is being served there are extension warming stands, of copper, nickel or brass, provided with alcohol lamps of moderately sized flame.

Two quart capacity samovars of brass, decorated with beading or quaint carvings, are employed for coffee making, and alcohol instead of charcoal is used.

Afternoon tea outfits are of copper, in odd shapes, set upon plain or beaded trays. In polished brass are round trays, of antique finish, upon which are set a pear shaped cream pitcher and sugar bowl and a long nosed kettle with a wicker covered handle.

In copper, nickel and brass come afternoon tea stands, composed of three trays of graduated sizes set one above the other.

Flat, oblong shaped silver trays are used to accommodate the slices of lemon used in Russian tea, and there are short handled, two tined forks with which to serve them.

SOCIAL AMENITIES FOR THE SCHOOL GIRL

THERE is nothing which society more thoroughly condemns than artificiality, and the person whose manner portrays affectation is at once condemned as ill-bred. For affectation indicates self-consciousness, which is never admirable, though sometimes great allowance must be made for it, as in the case of those afflicted with supersensitiveness and embarrassment, both of which require great persistence to overcome.

We would all have far prettier and more charming manners if we would only take the principles of kindness and consideration strongly to heart; for these motives would always prompt us to do the right thing and when we are truly bent on doing the right thing instinct shows us the way, but knowledge of good manners teaches us the most gracious way of doing it.

Embarrassment is a most distressing thing, not only to one's self, but to those about, and every effort should be made to overcome it. It evinces itself in all sorts of unpleasant ways and makes a girl appear most awkward when she should be at ease. A common expression of it is in the inability of some girls to take their departure from a room in which several persons are assembled. Most girls can enter a room gracefully, and even those who are a little nervous manage as a rule to successfully conceal it. But entering a room in a friend's house where there are already persons gathered or a room in your own house in similar circumstances is a very simple matter, for there are well defined social rules for these occasions and you know precisely what to do.

If it is in your own house, for instance, you know that you shake hands with every one present, and then, whether they are your mother's friends or your own you exert yourself to make yourself agreeable to them, and otherwise perform the duties of hospitality toward those under your roof. If in another's house you are entering a room in which there are few or many persons, you know that etiquette requires you to recognize and greet first the hostess. When you have done that you shake hands with the others if you know them well, but merely bow if you know them formally, the bow sufficing, too, when you are presented to those you do not know, this being now the fashionable form of salutation in presentations.

To take one's departure from a room is, however, quite another matter, and often a terror to the inexperienced, for here initiative has to come into play, and self-reliance and the ability to gracefully propel yourself out, which some persons find so difficult that they never if they can help it take their departure alone, but always covertly watch for some one else to make a start and then make their adieus under the shadow of another's wing, or else wait to depart when there is a general break-up of the party.

An exit should not be difficult and never will be if you do not allow yourself to become self-conscious and imagine when you rise that the eyes of every one are turned on you. The others are probably not noticing you at all, and if they are you wish them to think well of your manners, so show your knowledge of good form by making a graceful departure. When you are ready to go, or it is time you should go, move directly to your hostess, give her your hand and make some pleasant but brief remark by way of farewell. Then, turning from her, say good morning or good afternoon, accompanied by a bow, which includes the others about, and pass out of the room. Once you have started never loiter. Do not stand in front of your hostess in a hesitating way as if, having said adieu, you did not know how to get away from her, but show your good breeding by moving on and out with self-possession and grace.

WATCH FOBS FOR EVERY DAY WEAR

THE art of living on time is one which cannot be acquired too early in life, for a sense of true proportion is one of the rarest and the most valuable attributes which a girl or any one at all, in fact, can possess.

Although some are born with a keener time sense than others, still this can be taught, but only in one way that of never allowing one's self to be without a watch or a clock close at hand. A good, reliable timekeeper—whether it be of gold or silver, cost less than a dollar or be finest Swiss mechanism is of no consequence is constantly being consulted, often only half consciously, perhaps, but once the habit is formed of always wearing a watch it will be noticed that engagements will be kept with far greater reliability, and unpunctuality will be a thing almost of the past. When not quite sure of the exact time, it is often attempted to squeeze *in another engage*ment between two already supposed to be close together, but if there is a watch at hand to consult, which states plainly that there is but little spare time, or perhaps none at all, after filling the former engagement, few can dare to attempt to insert another.

As habit is everything in this life, and as the habits formed early will remain firm twice as long as those made in later years, every school girl should be possessed of a reliable timepiece that she may acquire instinctively a sense of proportion in time as well as the habit of unfailing punctuality. The most attractive way of wearing a watch during school hours is on a leather or ribbon fob, the watch held snugly in the belt. The majority of principals in the schools object to the wearing of long jewel chains, as they do also, and quite naturally, to every kind of jewelry that is not absolutely necessary, and in this category come even the short gold chains worn about the neck, holding the watch suspended on the front of the bodice. Long ribbon chains with tiny jewel or gold slide and catch for the watch are pretty and attractive, but even these are apt to catch unexpectedly on the back of a chair or a door knob just when one is in an especial hurry to get from one class to another. A watch worn on a pin makes a pretty ornament, but no watch can be expected to run well unless it is held snugly in the belt or pocket.

The hunting gold and leather fobs fashioned like a horse's bit are popular for everyday wear, and the ribbon fobs of black or colored gros grain are always smart. In summer the catch and ornament of the fob may be changed each day to ribbon which corresponds with the color of the gown or the ribbons worn to relieve the white waist and skirt. This last carried out in gros grain or satin ribbon in the pale shade of pink, blue and green is most attractive.

Shirts for Boys or Girls.

THERE is going to be a craze this summer among girls for boys' shirts, and big brothers had better take warning. If they do not keep a watchful eye out their sisters may be borrowing or altogether appropriating their pet shirts as being particularly stunning, and much more becoming to themselves, the girls will be sure to say, than to their masculine owners. The vogue for small sleeves and simple lines is responsible for the feminine adoption of the masculine shirt, and those who do not wish to have them made will find that they can get them [illegible] admirably fitted in the "ready mades" by selecting the size designed for boys fifteen or sixteen years of age.

How to Make Dainty Buster Brown Collars.

SO comfortable in warm weather are the collarless waists that, when this style of dress is also becoming, there is the greatest temptation to adopt it for universal wear. There is a time and place for everything, however, and the collarless shirt waist may look most charming on a tennis court, but [illegible]ly incorrect for town wear. However, fashion has permitted this mode of finishing a shirt waist to become popular. Although the Buster Brown collar may be exhibited in every showcase where formerly high, stiff boned stocks were in view, still unless a girl has an exceptionally short and pretty throat she will [illegible] smartest with the old fashioned style of high collar on her school [illegible].

In the country, however, the low collar is more in keeping, and is now destined to be worn widely th[illegible] month. On some few of the new waists the collar is attached [illegible] and is of the same [illegible] itself plain linen or embroidered [illegible] It will be found, however, [illegible] to have the collar [illegible] the entire bodice will not [illegible] dered whenever a fresh [illegible] is desired.

Of the new low collars the most effective are, of course, those cut from [illegible] either round [illegible] or V shaped. These are, however, the most expensive, [illegible] the embroidered, lace trimmed handkerchief linen there are many extremely pretty designs from which to choose.

The girl to whom the low collar is unquestionably becoming and whose allowance is none too large had best commence now to get ready her stock of these summer collars. First she had best ransack the old piece boxes, for if she is at all clever she can do wonderful things with combinations of stray bits of lace. There are no two laces which cannot be put together with good effect, and many exceedingly pretty collars are made with alternate strips of two different kinds of insertion joined by shaped strips of finest linen. A collar, like a yoke on a gown, requires to fit smoothly, so that in making one of these low collars it is best to fit it first over a good paper pattern. Patterns of all shapes and sizes can be bought, of course, but it is an excellent plan to buy first one good collar which fits well and to cut the others from that.

Stamped collars in heavy linen or in finest batiste can now also be had, and these are easy to embroider and always effective when made up. It is, of course, less expensive to do one's own stamping, but there are many girls who find little difficulty with the embroidering, but have no [illegible] for the drawing and designing of a pattern, and for them the material ready stamped is a great saving of time and trouble.

Although the low collars are apt to be fastened only with a pretty brooch or often only a hook and eye or button and thread loop, it will be found a great improvement to have a good sized ribbon bowknot at the throat. With the summer uniform of white waist and skirt a bright colored belt and a large bowknot at the throat are always attractive and becoming.

New Hat Holder.

TAKING care of a hat when one is not wearing it is always some trouble, and putting it away in a box, from which it must be taken out every time one wants to use it, seems a great bother, especially when one is in a hurry.

Various hat holders have been contrived some useful and some not much of a success, but the best one yet seen and the most steady is a strong spiral coil of heavy wire, the bottom being larger round than the crown of a hat and the top much smaller.

A girl can buy these spiral wire holders and make them look very pretty and dainty herself. The wire must be covered with ribbon to match the closet fittings. The covering is done by fastening the end of the ribbon securely to the bottom end of the wire, then winding the ribbon closely around the wire all the way to the top. Each end should be finished with a bow. The closets should be furnished with as many of these holders as its owner has hats in use.

END OF SESSION NOW IN SIGHT

Signs Are For an Early Rising of the Commons.

BUDGET DEBATE FINISHED

E. M. Macdonald of Pictou Favors Duty on Coal—Mr. Fisher Introduces Measure to Create a Permanent Conservation Commission of 32 Members—Conservatives Want to See the End.

Ottawa, April 28.—That the end of the session is in sight, is indicated by a notice of a resolution by Sir Wilfrid Laurier that after this week the House will sit in the mornings from 11 to 1 o'clock and on Wednesday evenings.

Also, in the railway committee it was announced that the last meeting would be held on Thursday, while the Conservative caucus yesterday morning favored a winding up of the session by May 20.

Hon. Mr. Fisher introduced a bill yesterday to create a permanent commission on the conservation of the natural resources of Canada. There are to be thirty-two members. Twelve ex-officio, consisting of three from the Federal Cabinet and one Provincial Minister from each province who is charged with the administration of lands, forests and mines, including the chairman and twenty to be chosen by order in council. The commissioners are not to be paid any remuneration except for traveling expenses. One meeting at least each year will be held.

Mr. Verville moved to discharge from the order paper his bill respecting the hours of labor on public works. He proposes to bring the question up in another way and it would be impossible to do it with the bill before the House. There is no chance of the bill being advanced this session.

The budget debate was continued by E. M. Macdonald (Pictou) who argued against a reduction of duty on coal, claimed that the Liberal party had never been the party of free trade fads and expressed the hope that the British preference would be limited to goods entering Canada by Canadian ports.

G. H. Bradbury charged that 25,000 acres of Dominion lands in Manitoba had fallen into the hands of Liberal speculators at low prices.

Mr. Stewart of Hamilton concluded the debate. His main argument was for increased protection on stoves. He made a good impression.

G.T.P. Resolutions.

Ottawa, April 28.—At the Conservative caucus yesterday morning it is understood that the chief item of business was the G.T.R. loan bill, which will be before the House today.

Two or three resolutions will be submitted by the Opposition. One of them will call upon the Government to insist on more tangible security from the railway for the loan of ten millions of dollars instead of the fourth mortgage, which the Government appears willing to accept.

Another suggestion is that if the railway is not able to finance the undertaking to its completion, the Government should take over the road and operate it for the public.

Bridge Is Damaged.

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 28.—The recent ice jam damaged the retaining walls of the upper steel arch bridge on both sides of the river, the greatest damage having been done on the Canadian side, where the wall is cracked. On the American side the damage is thought to extend below the water line. The walls were constructed to withstand an immense pressure. There is every evidence that the ice pack attacked the arch itself on the American side.

From the mouth of the river upward for several miles the river is practically clear of ice.

Suffragettes In Commons.

London, April 28.—Four women suffragists succeeded in getting in the outer lobby of the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, and fastened themselves by chains to statues in the lobby.

The police, profiting by their previous experiences, were provided with metal cutting implements, and quickly severed the chains and expelled the four women from the building.

WHY AM I ILL?

HOW TO TELL.

Does every cold affect your back, and cause a feeling of chilliness, followed by disturbance of the kidney action.

Does the use of spirits, tea or beer excite the kidneys? Are you easily worried and annoyed over trifles? Are the feet and hands cold? Circulation bad? Do the feet and legs swell? Is there puffiness under the eyes? Do you have rheumatism, poor eyesight, headaches and backaches? Is there gravel or any unnatural action of the kidneys?

If you have any of the above symptoms your kidneys are either weak or diseased, and these symptoms are warnings of more serious troubles to follow; Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Dropsy.

Whatever you do, whatever you think your disease is, look well to your kidneys at the first sign of anything wrong. Give them just the aid they require in Doan's Kidney Pills, the Great Quaker Kidney Medicine, and see how well and fit you feel after even a few doses.

Mrs. O. Warren, Radisson, Sask., writes: "I was troubled with very severe pains in my back for years. I tried everything I could think of but they did me no good. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and after taking two boxes, I have not been troubled since."

END OF ABDUL HAMID AT LAST

His Brother Mehemmed Reschad Is New Sultan.

CONSTANTINOPLE IS HAPPY

Salutes Are Fired and City Is Lighted Up to Celebrate Accession of New Ruler—Abdul Is Officially Deposed and Will Go to Live at the Place Where He Was Born—New Sultan Seems Happy.

Constantinople, April 28.—The reign of Abdul Hamid II. ended yesterday with his deposition and the accession of his brother, Mehemmed Reschad Effendi, as Mehemmed V., a variation of "Mahomet." It is considered inappropriate to assume the precise name of the prophet. Mehemmed V. is the 35th sovereign of Turkey, in male descent, of the House of Osman, the founder of empire, and the 29th Sultan, since the conquest of Constantinople.

Martial law was relaxed last night and the people gave themselves over to celebrating. Many buildings were illumunated and thousands of rounds were fired by the soldiers for joy.

The sheik-ul-islam, supported by all the principal personages of the higher church administration, issued the Fetva, as the decree of deposition is called. It informed Mehemmed Reschad Effendi that he was chosen Sultan by the will of the church, the will of the Parliament, the will of the army and the will of the people. It admonished him to serve God and keep the sacred law, as communicated by the prophet. This Reschad humbly promised to do.

The Fetva was prepared Monday night, both Abdul Hamid and his brother, Prince Reschad, being informed at an early hour yesterday morning. The sheik-ul-islam, it is said, personally visited the Sultan and read him the decree. He informed His Majesty that the question having been put in canonical form before the sheik and his associates, as to whether Abdul Hamid had not forfeited the right to rule over the faithful, they decided yes.

Abdul bowed his head, saying: "It is the will of Allah."

At a secret session of the national assembly in the morning, the decree was read. It declared that Abdul Hamid II. must abdicate or be dethroned. The assembly unhesitatingly shouted: "Dethrone him."

A deputation, consisting of two Senators and two deputies, thereupon visited the palace at Yildiz and communicated to the Sultan the assembly's resolution.

Abdul Hamid replied: "I expected this, it is fate. My only wish is that the lives of myself and family be safeguarded and that I may reside at the palace of Cheraghan, as I wish to die where I was born."

A similar deputation proceeded to the Dolmabagtsche palace in Galata, and informed Mehemmed Reschad Effendi of the nation's wish. The newly-proclaimed Sultan replied that he bowed to the will of the people.

The Sultan-elect came by boat across the Bosphorus to Stamboul. He landed near the sublime porte and thence proceeded to the Sraskrat in a closed carriage, drawn by black horses. A large detachment of cavalry acted as an escort, and carriages containing his sons and his suite followed.

Troops lined the entire route, comprising regulars and volunteers of all nationalities of the empire, and enthusiastic crowds watched the procession and acclaimed the new ruler. Ahmed Riza, the former president of the Chamber of Deputies, and Gen. Schefket and his officers received Mehemmed Reschad at the portals of the War Office. All kissed the prince's hand.

He was plainly dressed, wearing a black frock coat and appeared happy and radiant.

He was ushered into the great hall by the entire Cabinet, where had assembled the representatives of the nation and state dignitaries, civil, military and ecclesiastical. The prince expressed the wish to perform ablutions and say prayers.

Shortly before 4 o'clock the prince solemnly subscribed to the oath, which was administered by the Sheik-ul-Islam. A mollah offered prayers for the welfare of the new Sultan and the prosperity of the nation, and the assemblage responded "Amen." The batteries boomed an announcement to the city that a new ruler had been sworn into office, while all present congratulated Mehemmed V., who immediately proceeded to the Top-Kapou Palace to venerate the relics.

Subsequently, in receiving a deputation from the National Assembly, Mehemmed said:

"I am pleased to become the first constitutional sovereign. Doubtless my successor will improve upon me, but you may rely upon my doing my best. I also have suffered oppression and can therefore enter into the feelings of my fellow-sufferers. Let us endeavor to work together for the welfare of the country."

Protection of Forests.

Ottawa, April 28.—The National Transcontinental Railway Commission does not admit legal liability to indemnify the Province of Ontario for protecting forests along the N.T.R. right of way. The province put on its own fire rangers and sent in a bill to the commission.

This was the information given to the Conservation of Resources Committee by Secretary Ryan yesterday.

In New Brunswick forests are protected entirely by commission, but in Quebec liability is divided between the provincial fire rangers and private owners of timber.

Brickmakers Strike.

Matteawan, N.Y., April 28.—Disorders rapidly followed the declaration yesterday of a strike by employes of many brickyards in this section. About 15 brickyards, employing nearly 2,000 men when running full, are affected, and more than 1,500 are out.

Lawlessness at Harrisburg.

Brantford, April 28.—As a result of lawless depredations by a gang of young men, a reign of terror is said to exist in the village of Harrisburg.

An aged couple named Knight are complaining against some young men, who it is alleged dragged the old fellow from his bed, and with rope ready, threatened to hang him, discharging revolver shots at the same time.

County Constable Kerr at Harrisburg yesterday found respectable residents afraid to give information for fear of molestation and having their property destroyed. The lawless element practically rule the village.

The first prosecutions will be made here Thursday.

Bank Clerk Sentenced.

Saskatoon, Sask., April 28.—Fred Lee, the absconding Northern Crown Bank clerk, was before Judge McLorg yesterday morning. Counsel pleaded for leniency on account of his age and his parents, claiming that his holding two positions in the bank was the cause of the theft, enabling him to carry on operations for seven months without detection.

He was sentenced to two years on the first, second and fifth counts, one year on third and fourth, and on the sixth, seventh and eighth he was given four years, all to run concurrently. He left for Edmonton Penitentiary yesterday afternoon.

Explosion on Jap Schooner.

Vancouver, April 28.—A Japanese halibut schooner was loading a supply of gasoline on Monday night, when she caught fire, and immediately there was a deafening explosion. Half a dozen men were blown into the air, while others took to the water to escape the flames, and several nearby steamers steamed away into the harbor.

The damage amonnts to about two thousand dollars. One Jap's jaw was torn away.

Black Hand at London.

London, April 28.—A letter in which unknown parties demanded that Mark Janes pay $1,000 to them on pain of having his wife murdered, has been placed in the hands of the police. Janes is a cigarmaker and recently sold his house. Next day two men called and asked regarding the sale. On the following day a note was received.

Hotelman Fined.

Kincardine, April 28.—John J. Kelly, hotelman, appeared yesterday before Magistrates Barker and Mackenzie on a charge of permitting disorderly conduct in his hotel. Two men had been swearing and acting badly. A fine of $25 and costs was imposed. Inspector Avearst of Toronto prosecuted and Mr. McPherson of this town defended.

Gas for Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, April 28.—W. A. Baehr, here representing a Chicago capitalist, will ask the city for a franchise to enable them to deliver gas to consumers from a proposed plant.

Family Dynamited.

Montreal, April 28.—Yesterday afternoon at Ville Ray, near Montreal, a quarryman named Belanger was thawing out dynamite and, an explosion taking place, the man's wife and young child were injured so badly that they will probably die, while there are chances of the husband's recovery.

An Open Verdict.

Montreal, April 28.—An open verdict was reached late yesterday in the case against William and Aime Houle, held for the murder of Farmer Pelletier of Beauharnois. The brothers, however, will be brought before the magistrate at Valleyfield.

AN EDUCATION FOR MARINERS

Resolution Favoring Instruction Introduced by Senator Ross.

TO PROTECT COMMERCE

Hon. Geo. W. Ross In Senate Favors Government Spending Some Money In the Development of the Dominion's Seafaring Population Along Technical Lines—Will Be Expensive, Says Another.

Ottawa, April 28.—In the Senate yesterday, Hon. G. W. Ross moved a resolution that "In the opinion of the Senate, liberal provision should be made at once for the instruction of Canadian mariners in seamanship and navigation, with a view to the development of the shipping interests of Canada, and, if need be, the protection of Canadian commerce in coastal waters and on the high seas."

Senator Ross said he wished to call attention to the inadequate education now provided in Canada for seamen. Canada was spending about seven millions a year on military training. We should halt and consider what can usefully be done for the education of Canadian sea forces. As far as he could ascertain not a thousand dollars a year was being spent on naval matters. The number of ships of Canadian register had declined in the last 30 years, which was natural if men were not trained to man the ships. The number of ships of Canadian register was now 7,528, having a value of about 20 million dollars, which value was greatly increased when cargoes were added. They carried many valuable lives in passengers and crews.

With the exception of Great Britain, Canada had the greatest number of fishermen of any country in the world, enrolling last year 71,254, or half the number of men required to man the British navy, and three times as many as were on the American fleets during the Spanish-American war.

Sir Richard Cartwright pointed out that the carrying out of the resolution would envolve a large expenditure of public money and should have serious consideration. The question was now under the consideration of the Canadian Government, which proposed to consult with the Imperial authorities as to the best manner in which Canada could give naval aid.

Senator G. W. Ross accepted the suggestion of Sir Richard Cartwright and withdrew the resolution.
